Herald Swimming Clinics Set Up To Halt Rising Toll

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON

Herald Staff Writer

A "Swim for Your Life" campaign, designed to prevent the appalling number of drowning deaths in Dade County, is being launched by The Miami Herald.

The effort to teach every Dade County youngster how to swim was given immediate backing by the Dade County School Board, the Dade chapter of the American Red Cross, and the county health department. Cooperation of interested organizations will be encouraged.

Community clinics at which parents will be instructed in how to teach their children to swim will be an important part of the campaign, George Beebe, Herald managing editor, announced.

These will be put on through the Red Cross. Dates and places will be announced later.

Meetings will be sponsored in various sections of the county. The Red Cross will show a motion picture on proper methods for teaching children how to swim. There will be experts to give more personal advice.

This will include techniques which can be used at home, before the children are exposed to a pool, lake or any deep water. And it will tell how to go on from there.

In addition, Beebe said, it is planned to work out a program with the Red Cross and other organizations by which swimming instructions can be stepped up for children of school ages.

This will be in cooperation with — and in addition to — the comprehensive swimming programs already conducted by the school and city recreation systems the Red Cross and the YMCA.

The campaign will fit into the "Swim for Your Life" program which the Metro Parks and Recreation Department hopes to conduct soon.

However, the county's stepped-up swimming instruction program can't be started until after Sept. 30, end of the current fiscal year.

"We feel that it is essential to start a wide-scale program now, before the summer vacation period," Beebe explained. "If we can save only one life in the next few months, it will be worthwhile."

"We are thoroughly in favor of this program," said Joe Hall, county superintendent of public instruction.

He said that the school would be glad to make school facilities available if they are needed to carry on the project.

"Knowing how to swim is a matter of survival in South Florida," commented Dr. Theodore R. Struhl, chairman of the safety services committee of the Dade County chapter of the Red Cross.

"We will be happy to cooperate in a program which will help prevent drownings. Without any question, learning to swim should be a part of every youngster's education. It is vital that they know how to swim."

In pledging cooperation of the Red Cross safety group, Dr. Struhl emphasized that "it is the responsibility of parents to take the initiative in seeing that children learn to swim.

Learning to Swim— Top Life Insurance

Within the short span of six hours, on Saturday, March 21, three Dade County boys were killed by drowning.

In just three months this year, eight people have died because they went under water and the water filled their lungs.

Your child may drown tomorrow. He may drown in a canal or a rockpit, he may drown in a backyard swimming pool or in the ocean.

He will die because he can't swim.

Some Dade drownings have occurred in shallow water, for a child can drown in shallow water if he covers his face and is afraid.

The child who knows how to swim is not afraid of the water. He can drown, of course, but he is not apt to lose his life to water. If he can swim, he can learn to live near water and to enjoy being in water.

Learning to swim is the best life insurance he can have in a place like South Florida and Greater Miami, where there is an ocean, a bay, countless rockpits, canals and swimming pools to both attract and kill him.

Each of the three boys killed on March 21 drowned in a canal.

DAVID POTTS, nine, of 4515 SW 112th Ct., was only two blocks from his home, playing on a canal bank, throwing pieces of bread to the fish. A rat crawled from a hole in the canal bank and started for a piece of bread. David leaned forward to watch, swung a pole at the rat and fell in the canal.

JOHN STEVEN REINMAN, SIX, saw a raft near the canal bank at NE 207th St. and NE

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Mrs. Kelley

Announcement of the award by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

As Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Kansas City Demos Lead

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— A coalition of Democratic factions Tuesday overthrew the 19-year rule of the Nonpartisan Citizens Association at City Hall.

With returns in from 370 of the 401 precincts, the Democrats were leading in all five of the contested races for the City Council. Only one Citizens Party candidate appeared to have a chance of election—Mrs. Harry E. Hagan, who trailed her Democratic opponent, Joseph M. Welsh, by only 213 votes in the southeast section's Fourth District.

The Citizens Association had been formed by independents and representatives of both major political parties to oust the political machine headed by the late Tom Pendergast in 1940. Repeated efforts by James Pendergast, nephew of Tom, and other factional Democratic leaders had failed at the polls until Tuesday.

The coalition forces campaigned on a platform of no new or increased taxes and better services to the people.

Cuban Courts Speed Up

'War Crimes' Backlog Grows

HAVANA — (UPI) — Revolutionary "war crimes" courts will go on a 24-hour work-day basis effective today to clean up the backlog of pending cases, it was announced Tuesday.

A total of 493 "war criminals" have been executed by firing squads since the courts began trying followers of ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista early in January. The total is expected to exceed 500 in the course of the present week.

Announcement of the court speedup was made by Capt. Duque de Estrada, legal officer at Havana's La Cabana Fortress prison. It came on the heels of an editorial plea in Revolucion, the revolutionary government's organ, last week for a quick end of trials because of the adverse effect on world public opinion.

Although "war crimes" trials started just after the revolutionary victory on Jan. 1, several thousand cases are still pending.

No new executions had been reported since the end of a Holy Week recess, but four men were sentenced to death in Pinar del Rio Province and 13 others got prison terms ranging from one to 15 years. One defendant was acquitted.

Cubans Release Four Americans

HAVANA —(AP)— Four Americans held in jail 19 days in an investigation of currency import violations were released Tuesday. They are still expected to face court hearings since their release was only provisional.

Those freed are two New York women, Xenia Thornadakis, and Elaine Mitchell, a retired Army lieutenant colonel, Edward Solomon, 13095 Emerald Drive, North Miami, and a Miami man, Jesus Antonio Prieto, 1322 N. Miami Ave.

Police said Solomon was carrying 150,000 Cuban pesos when he was taken into custody at the airport upon his arrival from Miami March 12. The others were detained the same day. Police said Prieto had 37,500 pesos, and the two women 57,000 pesos between them.

The revolutionary government has issued regulations against a traveler bringing in more than 50 pesos. It is trying to prevent exiled followers of former Dictator Fulgencio Batista from making use of large funds they are alleged to have taken away.

Two other Americans, Frank Rodriguez and Sam Harris, both of Miami, are still being held for investigation of currency violations charges.

Another American, Austin Frank Young of Miami, was disclosed to have been arrested March 25 on charges of dealing illegally in pesos and also for investigation of charges of flying Batista followers out of Cuba.

Alcorn To Resign Today?

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Meade Alcorn was reported authoritatively Tuesday night as preparing to resign as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The resignation will be announced today, according to administration sources. Alcorn is said to desire to return to law practice in Hartford, Conn., which he left shortly after the 1956 election to take over the party chairmanship.

The Hartford (Conn.) Courant said the 51-year-old Republican leader is expected to announce that he is submitting his resignation at a meeting of the party's national committee next week in Washington.

The paper hinted Alcorn may become "available" for his party's gubernatorial nomination in 1962.

Tornadoes Slam Towns

By Herald Wire Services

Tornadoes struck in north central Texas and northeastern Oklahoma Tuesday night, destroying several buildings and injuring at least 15 persons.

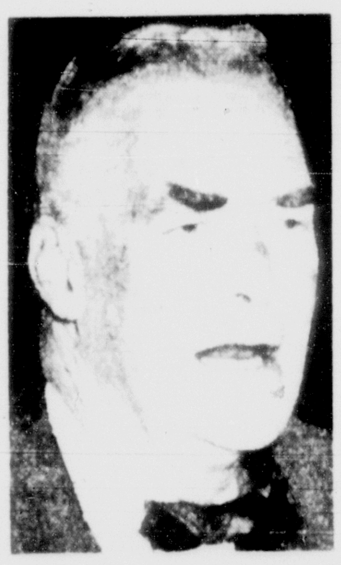
A tornado slammed through two small communities near Gainesville, Tex., demolishing farm buildings, a natural gas plant and sending perhaps a dozen persons to hospitals with injuries.

The tornado that roared through Silver City, Okla., destroyed at least six homes.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Western foreign ministers Tuesday resolved some of their differences over proposals they will offer Russia on Germany and Berlin.



Christian Herter

. . . joins in talks

At the same time, the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the U.S. reemphasized that they want progress at a foreign ministers' conference on Germany before they agree to a summit meeting this summer.

This insistence on advance diplomatic spadework may be spelled out anew in another note to Russia.

Shortly before the foreign policy chiefs held their first session, the U.S. cautioned Russia against interfering with Allied plane flights into West Berlin.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter joined with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in discussing the note Russia sent Monday agreeing to a foreign ministers' parley starting May 11.

The three Allied foreign policy chiefs met in a second session later with West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

A spokesman for Herter told newsmen afterward "a couple of differences were resolved and a couple require more discussion." The spokesman did not identify the differences. But in advance of the meeting a British-U.S. split was evident on what concessions, if any, to

Today's Forecast: Sunny, Warm

Farewell, March, You Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all right Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.88 inches of rain for the month Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — mostly sunny skies and warm temperatures were predicted with only a chance of more scattered showers.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind rainwise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25-inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949 or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 39 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

A wet March may mean a wet April, based on past performance, Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

India Main Target of Broadcast

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

These reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however, appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

Dulles Goes For Swim

Herald Service

JUPITER ISLAND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported enjoying Florida's sunshine Tuesday at the Hobe Sound estate of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state.

Dulles spent considerable time outdoors and took a swim in the estate's big pool, according to Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Green said Dulles has not talked by telephone with the President since his arrival. But Green said he had relayed to Washington information after talking with Dulles himself.

Fighting against cancer, Dulles is expected to decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Russian Fighters Buzz U.S. Plane in Germany

Reds Seek 'Ceiling' Blockade

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corridors to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Force's biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of the isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

Lodge, Dag Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had an 80-minute talk Tuesday with Dag Hammarskjold on the U.N. secretary general's recent world tour. Hammarskjold returned here Sunday after talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Mrs. Florence Dornack was startled when she stepped outside her home in Rochester, Minn., and saw this sign. Her husband, Chuck, put it up as a gag. Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to 80 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General Development is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus racetrack signboards.

'Use Psychology'

No Hot War Soon, General Thinks

By ADON TAFT
Herald Staff Writer

The possibility of a hot war over Berlin in the next three years was discounted here Tuesday by Brig. Gen. William H. Wilbur, a retired, much-decorated war hero and an experienced diplomat.

Speaking before 200 community leaders at the Miami Shores Presbyterian Church, he said strong, effective psychological warfare could prevent a World War III altogether.

There are many military, economic and psychological reasons why actual fighting will not break out over Berlin, Gen. Wilbur said, not the least of which is the fact that the Russians are getting all that they want without war.

To wage the psychological warfare, Gen. Wilbur called for an American program to concentrate on such key spots as Hungary by setting up governments in exile, establishing communications by radio and other means with resistance groups inside the satellite countries, sending propaganda leaflets by balloon along with instructions on how to organize strikes and work stoppages.

He said Congress for several years has appropriated $100,000 annually for such a program, but that the state department has not used a cent of the money.

Gen. Wilbur, a Presbyterian elder from Chicago, outlined what he called the many defeats and few victories scored by the United States in the cold war.

Among the victories he listed the Berlin airlift, the landing of troops in Lebanon and the holding of Quemoy.

On the other side of the ledger he placed our failure to encourage the East German uprising of June 17, 1953, the agreement in Korea to send UN troops back to the country of their origin, the failure to recognize the Hungarian revolutionary government, our encouragement to the current Polish regime, and the Geneva summit talks.

Berle, Burns Form New TV Company

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (AP) — Milton Berle and George Burns Tuesday announced formation of a new TV production company, B and B productions.

Its first project will be 39 half-hour filmed shows, "Milton Berle Comedy Theater."

Berle, after 11 years on live television, will make his debut on the filmed medium as host of all 39 shows and star of 13. Burns will be executive producer.

Situation, farce and musical comedy and variety shows are planned. Top entertainers will star on those in which Berle does not act as a performer, the comedians said.

The company, with headquarters at General Service Studios, will start preparations immediately. Shooting is expected to begin in mid-summer. Other shows are planned later.

25th Ave., slipped as he started for it, and fell into the water.

EZELL WESTON, 15, was playing in the canal near SW 112th Ave. and 103rd St. when he suffered cramps and sank.

The next day, Braden Boucek, five, slipped from the wet deck of his father's cabin cruiser in the Miami River.

Four deaths in two days. Four children drowned.

A week later, on March 29, a similar tragedy was averted only because a policeman happened to see a little girl fall into a rockpit at NW 27th Ave. and 133rd St.

But although Lynn Garrett was lucky, not all children have a man like Convan Neuberger, Opa-locka officer, close by to rescue them.

Last year there were 14 deaths by drowning in Dade County. At the present rate, this year's total would jump to 32.

In 1957 there were only six such deaths. We're two ahead of that already, with most of the year ahead.

In 1956, the toll was 10. Three children can die within six hours, and that total will be passed.

In 1955 there were 12 deaths; in 1954, there were 16; and in 1953 there were 17.

Children die fast when they fall in the water. Three children were drowned in six hours, four in two days.

Your child can die in the water if he doesn't know how to swim. If he learns how to swim, he is apt to live much longer.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial. Colombo is survived by his wife, Jane, of Indiatlantic and Detroit.

The other two bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Milhizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

D.C. Demos Dunning Collins

Gov. LeRoy Collins' name was posted at the National Capital Democratic Club in Washington Tuesday for not paying $24 in annual dues.

In Tallahassee, however, Collins said it doesn't mean he's delinquent in any debts. He said it's customary to post the names of present members who haven't paid dues for the coming year.

And the governor, bogged down in preparations for the coming state Legislature, said he hasn't had a chance to make up his mind whether to remain a member of the club for another year.

Hundreds of prominent Democrats from all parts of the country belong to the club. Collins said he joined a couple of years ago when he was in Washington at the suggestion of friends.

He said he hasn't been very active in the club and hasn't seriously considered staying on the membership roll.

Tracks Blocked in Broward

7 Cars of FEC 'Miamian' Derail

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — A northbound Florida East Coast passenger-Pullman train was derailed and forced to stand idle several hours Tuesday night at the railroad's intersection with NE 17th Ct.

Trainmen reported no injuries when seven Pullman cars of The Miamian slipped the rails and blocked the railroad's main line to New York.

Next run on the line, the 9:55 p.m. Havana Special, was canceled temporarily.

Railroad Agent Ralph Hooten said cause of the derailing was not known. He said there is a possibility the train brake shoe came loose, falling into a derail switch.

Hooten said the first eight cars of the 20-car train resumed the trip immediately, but that the seven middle derailed cars had to be taken away by wrecker and replaced.

The five rear cars, he said, were taken back to Port Everglades and switched over to the Seaboard Air Line Railroad.

Hooten said a train wrecker was called in from Buena Vista for a four to six-hour job of clearing the tracks.

The first few cars of the train had reached the bridge over the South Fork Middle River when the derailing occurred, but none of these was derailed.

Hooten said the train, carrying about 300 persons, was traveling about 10 miles per hour when the cars slipped the rails.

offer the Soviets in new diplomatic talks.

The four top Allied diplomats scheduled two meetings for today to continue their attempt to forge a united front on all proposals involving Germany and Berlin's future. Results are to be reported to a full meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council which opens here Thursday.

A report on Tuesday's talks was given reporters by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state.

In discussing a possible new Allied note to Moscow, Berding said "we may have to send another note to straighten out a couple of points." He said these points were:

1—That a summit conference "should be predicated on some progress at a foreign ministers level." Berding said the Allies "speak as one" on this despite differences in wording in their last notes to Moscow.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was quoted Tuesday as saying that he believed a summit meeting should be held, preferably in San Francisco, even if a meeting of foreign ministers flops.

Newsweek magazine said Macmillan expressed this view during conversations at the Washington home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"There must be a summit or there may be war tomorrow," he was quoted as saying. "I cannot go to the queen and ask for . . . the evacuation of millions, many of them children, to far places of the commonwealth, until I have exhausted every other possibility."

2—That West German as well as East German Communist representatives could be invited to a foreign ministers meeting as advisers, but not as full participants, in all phases of the meeting. The Soviet note agreed only that the Germans should be represented at a conference of foreign ministers.

A British spokesman who also briefed reporters sought to minimize U.S.-British differences on how to handle the German problem. He emphasized all four nations are agreed on principles they will follow in seeking to maintain the objectives of German unity and the Allied right to remain in Berlin.

The two foreign ministers conferences Tuesday lasted nearly 3½ hours.

Two Injured In Collision

Two men were hurt, one critically, in a two-car crash at NW 36th Ave. and 44th St. Tuesday evening.

Domingo Boaz, 56, of 352 NW 31st St., was in critical condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital, where he was being treated for a fractured leg, brain concussion, and internal injuries.

Boaz was a passenger in a car driven by Luiz Lopez, 31, of 144 NE 11th Ter., who was admitted to Jackson for treatment of internal injuries. His condition was reported fair.

Their car was headed east when it collided with one driven by Fred Somerstin, 53, of 114 Third Ter., DiLido Isle. Somerstin was not injured.

He told Metro accident investigator John Nelson that he didn't see the other car. Nelson charged Somerstin with careless driving.

National Summary

A disturbance centered in Kansas during the middle of the day was associated with scattered showers and thundershowers in the Central Plains and occasional snow mixed with rain in the Central Rockies. Showers and thunderstorms will be scattered from Texas over the Mississippi Valley into portions of the Ohio Valley tonight and extend over the eastern portion of the country from the Mississippi River to the East Coast tomorrow with the exception of the extreme northeast and the Florida Peninsula.

A few light showers occurring in Ohio and Pennsylvania during the middle of the day will spread into Western New York tonight. Considerable cloudiness prevailed over the northern half of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast while sunshine and cloudiness vied for dominance in the Southern half where warm temperatures were reported. Readings in the 70's extended from the Gulf States into Kentucky and Missouri where Springfield observed a 0 while Tampa had a 78. The 50's stretched from Nebraska into New York where Buffalo reported a 53 and Omaha recorded a 56.

Generally fair weather from California into New Mexico will continue through Thursday. Sunshine raised temperatures to the 70's before noon in southern California.

Accident, Says Defense

Love Killing Told Jury

INDIANAPOLIS —(UPI)— Mrs. Connie Nicholas was about to kill herself but in a struggle for the revolver her married lover was shot to death, the defense said Tuesday of the tiny divorcee at her murder trial.

The 44-year-old brunette cried bitterly as she heard the prosecution picture her a vicious, revengeful woman who deliberately planned the murder of Forrest Teel, 54, Eli Lilly vice president, who left her after a 15-year affair.

Testimony finally got underway after two weeks of picking an all-male, all-married jury.

First witness was Patrolman Richard Anderson, the first person to reach the dying Teel's side. Anderson testified he asked Teel who shot him and Teel twice replied "hospital" without naming his killer.

Defense Attorney Charles Symmes said Teel had promised Mrs. Nicholas to leave his wife and marry her only to jilt her for a new mistress, Laura Mowrer, 30.

Mrs. Nicholas waited for him outside his new girl's apartment, Symmes said, determined to find out if "it was all off," and to kill herself if it was. When he came out, an argument started in his car.

"Connie got the gun out. 'I am going to take my own life,' she said. He said 'don't be a damned fool' or words to that effect," Symmes said. "He grabbed the gun. It went off four times. She walked away from the car. She saw him shut the door and get under the driver side. She didn't know he was injured."

Mrs. Nicholas wiped the tears from her eyes with a paper tissue at the first mention of Teel's name. She bridled at being described as a kept woman.

"I'm not a kept woman," she said. "I worked hard all my life. I think a kept woman is one who sits around in a black negligee eating chocolates."

Ike Signs Jobless Pay Bill

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Tuesday signed a bill to prevent an immediate cutoff of emergency unemployment compensation benefits to an estimated 405,000 jobless.

Under the measure, the temporary federal program enacted during last year's recession will taper off during the next three months.

That program extended federal benefits to jobless with unemployment compensation rights. The law was due to expire at midnight Tuesday, after which no payments would be made.

The bill signed into law Tuesday will permit an unemployed person to receive federal benefits after Wednesday — if he had exhausted his state rights before that date.

No payments will be made after June 30. No one who exhausts his state benefits after Tuesday can become eligible for the federal payments.

Court Stays Teamster Monitors

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The U.S. Court of Appeals Tuesday stayed effectiveness of an order giving court-appointed monitors broad powers to enforce cleanup demands on the Teamsters Union.

The order was issued Feb. 9 by Judge F. Dickinson Letts of Federal District Court, who found union officials had ignored many of the monitors' orders.

The Appellate Court held up effectiveness of Judge Lett's order until after it hears April 15 an appeal by the union officers.

Judges Henry W. Edgerton and Charles Fahy voted for the stay. Judge Wilbur K. Miller dissented.

The Appellate Court said Teamster officers have agreed not to call a new union convention until after it has disposed of the appeal.

A three-member board of monitors was appointed in January, 1958, as a result of a compromise settlement of a suit brought by New York area rank-and-file members of the union to bar James R. Hoffa from taking office as president. The suit contended Hoffa's election was rigged. Under the settlement agreement, Hoffa and other officers elected with him were allowed to take over but with the monitors keeping tabs on their conduct.

An Aching Eye Turns to Love

AKRON, Ohio —(AP)— It was pain—not love—at first sight for Ed Gill and Gerry Marzano. Love came later.

The young couple met when Gill, with a speck of dirt in his eye, went to the B. F. Goodrich Co. dispensary where Miss Marzano works to have the eye treated.

Trains Roll In Mexico

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Mexico's railways began rolling again after an illegal strike. It hit the 14,000-mile government-owned National Railway System Saturday.

Following the arrest of about 3,000 workers, including leftist Demetrio Vallejo, leader of the railway union, most employes began returning to their jobs.

A four-man group has taken over direction of the union depending election of new officers.

The temporary officers are expected to renew negotiations with the railway system's management and government representatives looking toward a new labor contract.

Sports Plane Lost Since Friday

German Reds Holding U.S. Pilot

BERLIN —(AP)— Communist East Germany Tuesday confirmed that it is holding an American civilian pilot whose sports plane strayed across the Iron Curtain last Friday.

E. A. Vaughan, 32, an employe of the U.S. Army in Heidelberg, landed his Piper Cub just over the East German border near Dippach, apparently after getting lost.

Vaughan was on a flight from Mannheim to Nuernberg.

A spokesman of the East German foreign ministery in East Berlin said an official announcement will be made shortly.

"The circumstances of the border incident will be investigated very carefully since it is the third time in less than a year that an American plane has strayed into the German Democratic Republic," the spokesman said.

He declined to say where Vaughan is being held or to make any further comment.

If the pattern of past incidents is adhered to, Vaughan will be turned over eventually to the American Red Cross by the East German Red Cross after the payment of any expenses incurred by the American. The U.S. has no diplomatic relations with East Germany.

The U. S. Army and Vaughan's Dutch-born wife, who lives in Heidelberg, West Germany, have refused to disclose the missing pilot's home address in the U.S.

'Blanket' State Sales Tax Gaining Support

TALLAHASSEE — A move to extend the state's limited sales tax to a "blanket" levy appeared to be gathering steam Tuesday among members of the State Legislature, despite statements of leaders no new taxes would be levied.

Rep. John Shipp of Jackson indicated he has a bill which would broaden the base of the sales levy, taking in all items, among the m groceries and drugs, now exempt.

Shipp said he did not think the Legislature could adequately finance the state needs for the next biennium without additional revenue.

Gov. LeRoy Collins and leaders of both House and Senate have pledged not to levy any new taxes and declared there will be additional paring of budget requests of state departments and agencies.

Vandalism Breaks Electric Service

PENSACOLA — Officials of the struck Gulf Power Co. Tuesday reported nine interruptions of electric service in northwest Florida, all the result of vandalism. About 400 homes were without power all night Monday after a roll of barbed wire had been thrown over a transmission line.

Officials of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers denied any union members were involved in vandalism. More than 240 members of the union struck on March 23 in a contract dispute.

'Little Hole' Blown In Wall at Raiford

RAIFORD — A book on chemistry from the prison library and a few common chemicals which can produce explosives were clues which led to the prisoner who set off a "tiny bomb and blew a little hole" in a wall Sunday.

Warden DeWitt Sinclair said the suspect had "majored in chemistry." The warden admitted prisoners have been "making little bombs and shooting them like firecrackers" for some time.

Cuban Fishing Fleet Invasion Is Charged

KEY WEST — Complaints of a Cuban invasion were sent to the office of U.S. Sen. George Smathers (D., Fla.) Tuesday by officials of the Key West Charter Boatmen's Association.

Curtis Ryan, chairman of the board of the boatmen, charged Cuban commercial fishing vessels have moved into American territorial waters off Key West and were "catching fish in quantity.

He said a number of smacks, 40 to 60 feet long, were hauling in kingfish in quantity along the reefs from Sand Key west. Sen. Smathers promised to look into the complaint.

Condemned Slayer Meade Ruled Sane

HOLLYWOOD — Gilbert (Buzzy) Meade, condemned slayer, is sane, two psychiatrists of the South Florida State Hospital here have reported to the State Pardon Board.

The sanity tests were asked by attorneys for Meade, an escaped Connecticut convict, in a plea to the pardon board. The attorneys asked commutation of sentence on the grounds Meade was now insane.

Meade, while a fugitive from the Connecticut prison, killed his wife, Evelyn, and Dominic Albonizio, her lover, at Albonizio's home in Hollywood. The killings were in December, 1954.

The State Supreme Court has upheld Meade's conviction and sentence on appeal and the U.S. Supreme Court has refused to intervene.

The Court In A Puzzler

You Can Be Tried Twice

A MAN NAMED Bartkus was tried in a federal court in Illinois in 1953 on charges of robbing a federally insured savings bank, acquitted by the jury, then tried and convicted in a state court.

Since this was Bartkus' third strike at the legal plate, he went out for life as an habitual criminal.

But that was not the end of it.

The United States Supreme Court has now given Alfonse Bartkus a sort of immortality — at least in the law books — by ruling that his second conviction was correct and that he was not put in "double jeopardy."

The decision, a split one, has been interpreted as overthrowing the language of the Fifth Amendment that no person "be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

Speaking for the dissenting judges in this and a parallel case, Mr. Justice Black fears we are imitating "some (totalitarian) countries that allow the dangerous practice of trying people twice."

THE CASE really ramifies. It rehearses, in the majority opinion written by Mr. Justice Frankfurter, the whole history of the structure of the federal union.

The majority holds to the theory of "two sovereignties" under federalism. The minority finds double jeopardy "contrary to the spirit of our free country."

The Constitution is what the judges say it is. But in this instance, what is it?

There seems to be some precedent in court decisions running back to Holmes and beyond (at one point the majority specifies a dozen cases in a stated period) that "successive state and federal prosecutions are not in violation of the Fifth Amendment." Lawyers know this if laymen do not, but the latter must be puzzled by the majority's reasoning in a clear-cut case of a man who was tried twice for the same crime.

True, the "historic right of the states to maintain peace and order in their confines" is preserved. But the rights of the individual — Bartkus being unwilling to face trial twice — are put for the moment in Constitutional shadow.

ALL LEGAL quids and quiddities aside, the case shows another fascinating facet of the Supreme Court. In one of its rare instances it has divided on a major civil liberties issue.

And if the majority decision seemed to open the way for double trials of persons involved, say, in racial disputes, we find on the other side of the bench Justices Black, Warren and Douglas, the hard core of the court's "liberals."

Perhaps in this instance they were the real "conservatives," if first principles mean anything. The first principle of not trying a man twice for the same crime runs back to the dawn of history when man first began to fear Big Government.

We Can't Have It Both Ways

ONE BAD precedent can produce a chain reaction of economic ills.

We feared this when import quotas were clamped on lead and zinc. Now a Presidential order has severely limited imports of oil. The effect will be felt at home and abroad.

At home, in the Senate, the oil import quotas have brought two singular reactions from senators geographically far apart. Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, speaking perhaps for the generality of consumers, warns President Eisenhower that "you cannot control inflation and promote it at the same time." Speaking for this part of the country, Florida's Senator Holland says the order will damage industry and is "ill-considered, ill-advised."

The effect of quotas is to jack up prices. Everyone who uses fuel oil knows what's probably coming next.

Abroad, the effect is to curtail exports and to deprive foreign suppliers such as Canada to the north and Venezuela to the south of dollar credits which would be employed in our own export industries. A byproduct of this concession to Texas producers is to drain off domestic oil essential for national defense.

The President's order fortunately is subject to amendment or recall. He has promised to review it if price increases do occur.

Even if they do not, damage already has been done to our posture of freer trade under reciprocal arrangement. Just as you can't control inflation and promote it at the same time, so you cannot preach free trade and practice protection.

The order ought to be rescinded.

Whenever You Play Footsie—

INDIA'S prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, must be learning that it's useless to play cozy with Communism.

His avowed neutralism has long leaned heavily toward the Communist line. He has missed no chance to denounce Western "colonialism" in Asia. He inveighed bitterly against Great Britain and France when they invaded Suez. He almost had to be shoved into mild disapproval of the use of Red tanks against Hungarian freedom fighters in 1956.

Perhaps all this was due to the fact that Mr. Nehru had an eye on the guns of Red China ranged along the very borders of India.

Now that Tibet has flared into revolt against its Red conquerors, Mr. Nehru is on a dangerous spot. He is in the position of carrying his newborn independent nation in his arms while Red war dogs are snapping at his heels. And the infant's screams will only infuriate the bloodhounds.

"WHAT NEHRU actually fears," writes George Weller of the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service, "is that India will pay for any public indignation against China by having its own vulnerable borders snipped away."

These are an airbase in Kashmir, already disputed with Pakistan, and the Naga Hill country in northeast India, where tribesmen are waging guerrilla war against Nehru's troops.

"India's stakes in the Tibetan quarrel," Mr. Weller reports, "are too tender for frank parliamentary debate or public picketing even by the most ardent Indian anti-Communists."

But both are occurring, and Nehru is squirming. As Tito of Yugoslavia and others could have told him, the reward of playing footsie with Communism is a hotfoot.

Searching For The 'Delinquent'

A GROUP of experts in the field of juvenile delinquency has taken on a monumental task. It will try to define juvenile delinquency.

Webster identifies a delinquent as one who transgresses against duty or law. That could fit just about anyone who has lived in this civilization of responsibilities and laws past the age of infancy.

One goal of the 11 who met recently at the University of Chicago is to write a book which will redefine juvenile delinquency and suggest what aspects should come under court jurisdiction.

As we said, the task will not be easy. The measure differs with communities. As one expert recently pointed out at the meeting of the Florida Education Association, "it all depends."

In a community of elderly retired folk, who have forgotten they ever were children, any child who walks across a neighbor's lawn isn't a juvenile delinquent — he's a juvenile criminal.

Castro's Cuba After Four Months

THE CUBAN revolution is now in its fourth month. Enough has happened to cast a balance sheet on the accomplishments of Fidel Castro. In candor it must be said that the immediate future of that fair land seems dark.

The promise of New Year's Day, when the dictator Batista and his henchmen fled before the victors from the hills, is beginning to fade. But there is still a chance that Castro's policies will pay off in a revitalized and prosperous nation.

This is the assessment of John B. McDermott, The Herald's foreign affairs writer, after five days of investigation in Cuba's capital. Many Herald readers will agree after reading his enlightening series of articles.

On the credit side, the young Prime Minister has unified the nation. Cubans are a proud and patriotic people and Castro's victory against tremendous odds electrified them. His immediate reforms corrected inequities and restored human dignity after the degrading repressions of Batista's goons.

ON THE other hand, Castro advanced socialistic ideas. He talked of creating one vast middle class by elevating the poor and destroying the rich. A plan to divide the land would destroy the basic sugar industry, which rests on a plantation economy. In a dictator-like way, some Americans are being held without legal hearings. Castro made labor all-powerful. Known Communists crept into positions of power.

As a result, capital went into hiding and business activity slowed down. Today Cuba has over a million unemployed and [illegible] merchants and industralists face [illegible].

It is not a rosy picture. Neither is it hopeless. Even Castro's enemies concede his honesty and sincerity — qualities rare among Cuba's recent political leaders. Good will, which he seems to have in plenty, may be enough to swing the balance since he has the people behind him.

Friends of Cuba can only wish him well, for clearly the future of Cuba is in his hands. But at the moment, as Mr. McDermott summed up, the situation in the island republic is touch-and-go.

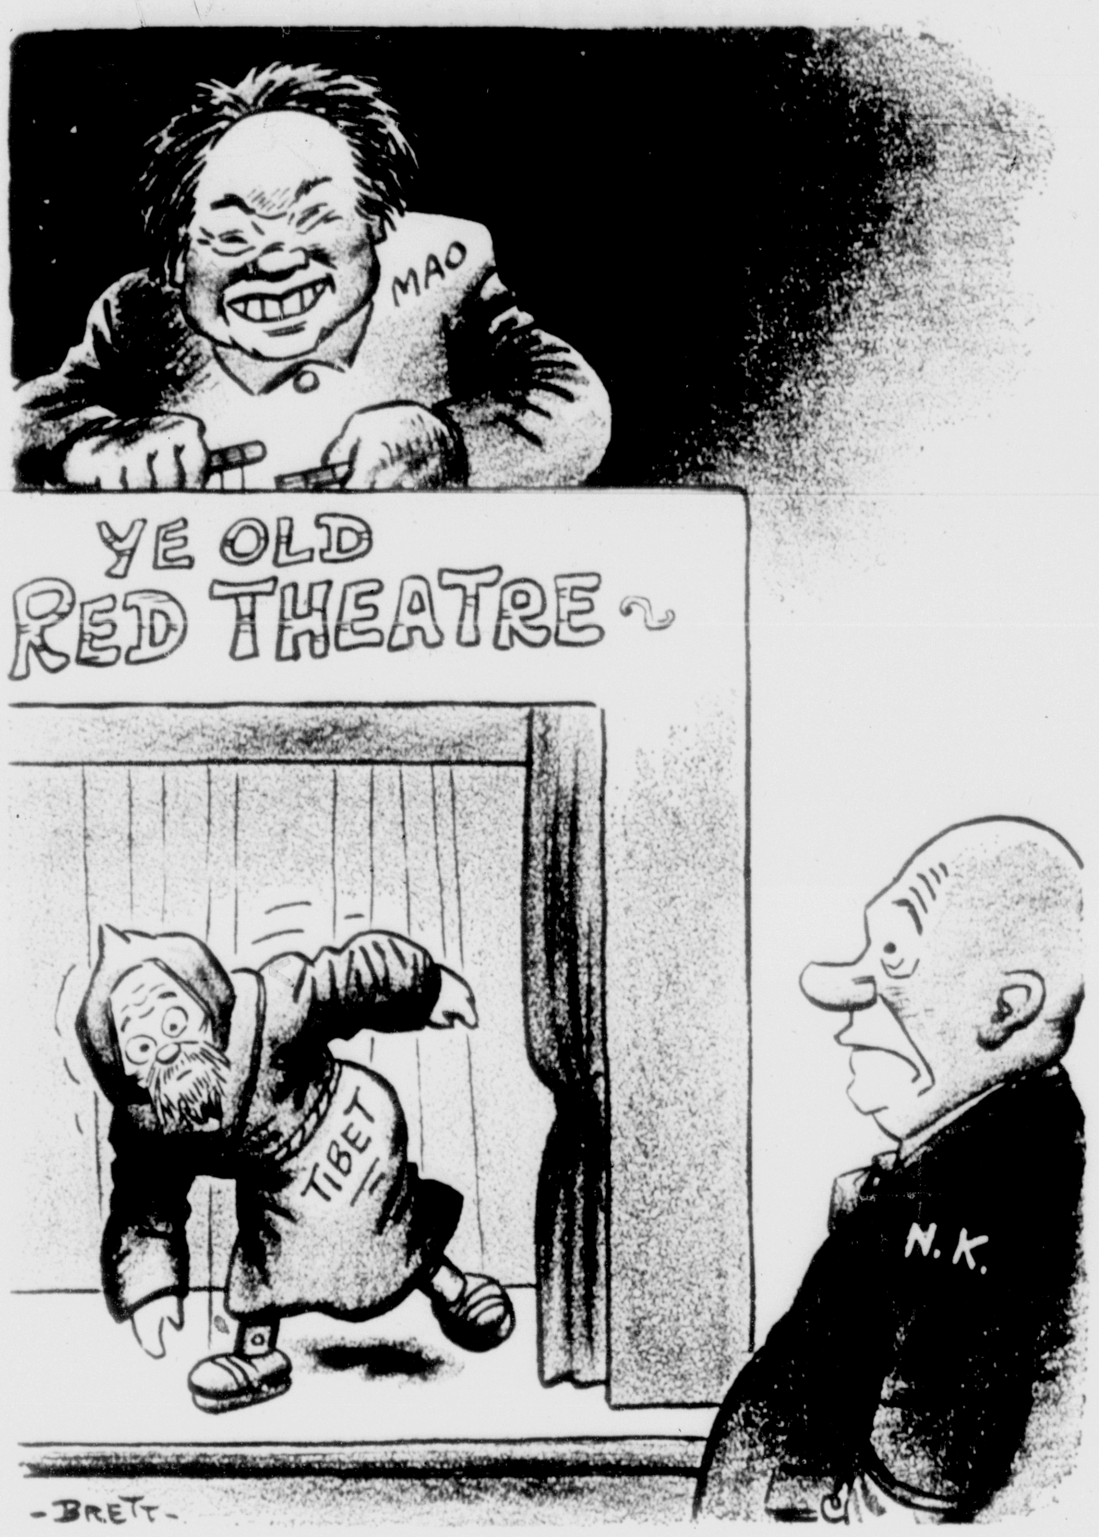
Forecasting The Sun

IT IS characteristic of the age of marvels in which we live that man's first view of the sun from a vantage point 123 miles in space went almost unnoticed. Yet it could be far more important than hanging artificial moons in space. For our sun controls all life, and, to an astonishing degree, how that life is lived.

The pictures were taken by rocket camera fired March 13 from the White Sands Proving Grounds. The experiment produced an image no man's eye ever saw before. It proved the sun does not pour out its energy helter-skelter, but in jets and spurts and clouds, like gas escaping through the holes in a gigantic Swiss cheese.

What it all means we do not know. But because this bombardment affects all things on earth from TV reception to growth itself, scientists foresee the time when daily sun forecasts will be as necessary as the pronouncements of the Weather Bureau. "Radiation showers today, followed by trouble on the cable" may become as routine as "fair and warmer."

Horning In On The Puppet Business



Voice Of The People

Bill Not 'Puny'--Kennedy

Editor The Herald: I have noted an editorial on labor-management reform legislation which appeared in your issue of Mar. 27. You commented that the bill which was passed by the Senate last year by an 88-1 vote was a "puny" bill and made similar comments about a bill which has just been reported by the Senate Labor Committee after three and one half weeks of careful consideration. You also discuss the problem of secondary boycotts.

On your first point, I hardly believe that a bill can fairly be called "puny" which:

(1) — Provides for full disclosure to union members, the government and the public of all union financial and administrative practices.

(2) — Requires conflict of interest reports of union officers.

(3) — Bars convicted criminals from holding union offices.

(4) — Grants full powers to the Secretary of Labor to compel compliance with the standards of the bill.

(5) — Limits trusteeships.

(6) — Provides for periodic secret elections with full guarantees to union members, backed by the federal government and the courts.

(7) — Forbids use of union money to pay fines of or defend persons guilty of violating the law.

(8) — Makes it a federal crime to embezzle union funds.

These are only a few of the areas covered by the bill which I have sponsored and I assure you that it is an effective instrument of labor reform which will make it unprofitable and dangerous for criminals to infiltrate legitimate trade unions.

The editorial also alluded to the fact that the bill would not halt the practice of exploiting racial tension in labor disputes which recently came to public attention. I believe that this practice is thoroughly reprehensible and beyond the bounds of decent, civilized behavior; but it is not a secondary boycott by any stretch of the imagination. No bill presently pending before the Senate dealing with boycotts would touch the practice to which your editorial referred.

The editorial's confusion on this point clearly demonstrates how complicated the whole matter of secondary boycotts is and illustrates the wisdom of the Senate Labor Committee's decision to seek the guidance of a panel of labor law experts in drafting comprehensive revisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. This panel is making good progress and should make its report to our committee before June.

What is needed now is strong public support for passage of a sound and effective labor-management reform like the bill just reported by the committee.

Our Survival Depends On Broader Education

Editor The Herald: Is it possible for a state which can produce such a man as George Smathers, also produce such short-sighted people as the Legislative Interim Committee on Education?

He has had the vision to foresee the tremendous significance of strengthening our ties with our Latin American neighbors. Yet, there are people in his own state who would undermine and sabotage the very essence of his philosophy.

To abolish or curtail adult education would deny to thousands of Spanish speaking immigrants the only feasible means they now have of learning to speak English. If America is not willing to educate our immigrants so they will become an asset to our society and not a liability, then we should close our doors to all people who wish to become citizens of our country.

I invite critics of our adult education program to visit my "English for New Americans Class" at Miami Senior High and judge whether this is a "frill" or a growing and necessary part of our total education program.

What of the native Americans who give up their evenings to improve their education, the veterans who must take courses at night, the police academy courses, the businessmen courses, the leisure-time courses for our elderly citizens, are these "frills," too?

The battle with Russia will be won with our minds, not with our bombs. Our very survival depends not on a curtailment of education, but on the greatest expansion of education in the history of America.

P. L. TORNILLO JR.

They Repay

Editor The Herald: Many thousands of adults, citizens and state tax-payers of Florida may be deprived in the future of the advantages of vocation training provided by state funds. Through vocational training, these adults have been able to increase their incomes and repay the cost of the expenses to the state through ability to pay greater taxes.

Why should our average adult citizen who is willing to use his spare time to better his position socially and economically, be deprived by the state of using part of his taxes for partial payment of training he desires for the purpose of improving his position?

Time For People To Speak Again

Let Metro's Backers Make Voices Heard

Editor The Herald: Ominous rumors and events during the past few weeks have been a worry to people who care deeply about Metropolitan government in Dade County. They have been discussed with concern by nearly every group I have been in for some time.

Campbell

We, as a city, have proven we want a central government capable of dealing with the enormous problems which come with sudden population growth.

It is futile any longer to yearn for the secluded serenity of neighboring but separate towns. Whether we like it or not we have become a great city, and are inevitably interdependent.

Planning must be on an area-wide basis. This fundamental change of approach has already had our vote, but now it needs our continuing support, our understanding and our patience.

When the commission hired O. W. Campbell as county manager there was almost unanimous approval. Here is a man of proven success, trained and experienced in government, free from local pressures and the cry of politics.

If now, instead of using his abilities, we constantly frustrate his efficiency, we are defeating only ourselves. Think of trying to amalgamate services and resources so long accepted as separate functions of 28 municipalities, with old bitterness as well as honest differences of opinion to handle.

Imagine attempting a wise plan with no central accumulation of reliable local statistics on which to base judgments.

Appreciate the difficulties of anticipating the needs of this area when almost every plan made in the past decade by business or industry became obsolete before it was finished. So far there has been little more than time to study the problems, build an organization able to deal with them, and decide which ones have priority.

The county commission has its hands full deciding policy, as was outlined so succinctly when the new commissioners took their seats. The actual carrying out of these policies is a tremendous job, requiring an adequate number of skilled professionals who will save many times their salaries if they are allowed to work free from pettiness, well meaning interference, or political pressure.

There seems to be widespread anxiety about the possible suffocation of the new county organization, and I feel it is time for those of us who want Metro, who believe in Mr. Campbell and the professional staff he is building, and who realize what a long term project this is, to stand up and say so! I am trying to do just that.

Behind The Front Page

Would Tell North About The South

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

"A LONG TIME AGO," writes G. C. Ware, the Leesburg banker, "I thought that we in the South should select a publicity director to prepare and publish page ads telling the true status of the racial problem here.

"The difference between Bill Reedy and me is that he told somebody about his thoughts."

Reedy is state representative from Lake County.

He has proposed to the governors of 11 states in the South that they raise $250,000 a year each for four years for a public relations campaign the purpose of which is to bring this area into a new and realistic focus in the North.

Pennekamp

Reedy says he has enough commitments to assure that Florida will appropriate $500,000 for its first two years soon after the Legislature meets next week.

Governors of several of the other states also have indicated support.

* * *

IN THE FAR reaches of his proposal Reedy is less than realistic. He believes that his campaign can win for the South the restoration of the separate but equal facilities rule instead of integration for schools.

He is hopeful, too, that Congress may vote to curb the powers of the U.S. Supreme Court.

* * *

OTHERWISE his proposal should do much to bring about a better understanding between the two areas.

"For many years," he says, "it has been my conviction that the people of the North look at the Southern states today and think of the conditions that exist in them as being the same as they were in pre-Civil War days.

"The people of the North do not know of the friendly relations that have existed for many years between the white and Negro people of the Southern states.

"They have no conception of the true advance of the Negro race as made in the last 25 years in the South."

* * *

HE WOULD operate his program through three-man commissions from each of the contributing states.

It would avoid condemnation of any northern conduct, or making comparisons.

At the same time through the use of pictures it would show living conditions among Negroes, supplemented with interviews with their leading professional men.

He wants the North to know that the infant mortality rate in Florida among Negroes has dropped from 106.8 per thousand in 1924 to 52.2.

Also that the life expectancy of members of the race, which was 59.9 years in 1930 had risen, in the South Atlantic states to 62 years by 1951.

Of the 105 Negro colleges in the United States, 95 are in the South.

* * *

"LET ME STRESS," says Reedy, "that for this program to be a success we must keep out all rabble-rousing, race hatred, hate literature, and the condemning of any people in any section of the nation.

"This program will not only put the Southern states on the offensive in this most important cause, but it also will aid them in tourism, industry, and financial help for expansion of the Southern states."

Reedy, who is 42, is a native of Hazard, Ky., but says he was impressed with the distortions in the northern viewpoint while working in war factories and retailing Florida citrus there for seven years.

He now is director of public relations for a radio station in Eustis and Leesburg.

Strictly Personal

No Magic To Solve Our School Crisis

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A SCHIZOPHRENIC, as everyone who goes to movie thrillers knows by now, is a split personality. The left side of his head doesn't know what the right side is thinking.

Harris

It seems to me that our nation, as a whole, is suffering from social schizophrenia. I was talking with a friend who happens to be president of the school board in a thriving suburban community.

"All the parents in our town want bigger and better schools," he shook his head dolefully. "Yet when we want to float a bond issue, or raise taxes slightly for that purpose, they vote us down."

Nowhere more clearly than on the issue of education can this social schizophrenia be diagnosed. Parents spend much of their time talking about their children's schooling — without knowing what a good education should consist of, and what it would cost to make it better.

* * *

IN HIS recent book, "America as a Civilization," Max Lerner brought up the startling fact that between 1932 and 1950 — a period when the student enrollment doubled in the U.S. — the percentage of national income spent on universities from both public and private sources was cut in half —from 1 per cent to ½ per cent.

Yet everybody is going to college these days, and head football coaches get as much as $60,000 a year, while the average faculty pay is $5,300 a year, and even the average college president's pay is only $11,000 a year.

Much the same situation obtains on the lower levels of education, where we need not only new buildings but new salary scales, new library books, new scholastic equipment, and new morale for a sadly battered profession.

Somehow we seem to believe in magic — to believe that if we attend enough PTA meetings, or complain about teaching methods, or urge our children to study harder, then the school system will suddenly and mysteriously transform itself into a magnificent institution of learning.

* * *

WE DON'T apply this kind of magical thinking to our businesses, or our marriages, or even our sports. We know that, in these, a considerable investment must be made, in time, in money, in energy, in realistic planning that has a sense of direction and a goal.

When parents are alarmed about a school fire, they rush to mass-meetings and vote to have the schools made fire-resistant, but they are reluctant to spend the money to have the faculty made poverty-resistant, or the pupils made ignorance-resistant. This is schizophrenia.

Are Labor Unions Clean?

Little Man Is Caught In Middle of Inquiry

By ROBERT E. HOYT
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Peter Batalias is one of the courageous rank-and-file men of labor who have come forward to put the finger on the grafters and chiselers among union leaders.

He is a member of the Long Island Local 138 of the International Union of Operating Engineers (IUOE)—as corrupt a union and local as you'll find in a bale of McClellan Committee reports.

HOYT

The murders linked to the IUOE would make a study in themselves.

Peter Batalias is one of the little people caught up in the mass of machinery the nation is using these days to try to bring about honesty and justice in labor unions.

It's doubtful whether Peter Batalias, for one, would do it again.

Last week he had this to say: "I've had it—up to here! Right up to my neck!"

He was testifying before a hostile group of congressmen on a House labor subcommittee. As they pushed him ever further, Batalias seemed on the verge of crackup.

He has been worked over by union hoods in the past. Now he was being worked over by congressmen, bent on discrediting his testimony—in a gentlemanly way, of course.

Batalias is not an erudite man, but he's far from stupid—unless it's stupid to fight corruption.

★ ★ ★

HIS UNION HAS REFUSED to refer him to a job since last November.

He has defected from even the small "reform" group he has worked with to clean up his local.

He has "bothered" the McClellan Committee staff so often that they cringe when they hear his name.

He's a man standing alone—with no place to go but out of the trade that has supported him since 1939, away from the Long Island area where he's known as a man who has defied his union's own private underworld.

Batalias has become a kind of pest, a conscience that tells even his own reform group friends: "No! I won't compromise."

Batalias and other IUOE men told their stories to the McClellan Committee 15 months ago. IUOE President William E. Maloney resigned, but was given a $50,000 a year pension. The members weren't consulted.

★ ★ ★

LOOKING INTO IUOE locals in five cities, the McClellan Committee found:

—DEMOCRATIC procedures virtually nonexistent.

—LOCALS LOOTED while held in trusteeships that lasted as long as 29 years.

—EXTENSIVE COLLUSION between union officers and management.

—MILLIONS OF DOLLARS of union funds diverted to the personal profit of union leaders for their "extravagant entertainment and luxury."

The committee said: "It did not seem to matter which local . . . (we) studied; such conditions . . . existed in all of them in varying degrees."

The Long Island local Peter Batalias wanted to clean up?

The committee said it was "rotten to the core."

IUOE President Maloney was succeeded by Joseph J. Delaney, secretary-treasurer of the union. The McClellan Committee's report said Delaney was up to his ears in doings of Maloney's administration.

New President Delaney immediately promised the AFL-CIO ethical practices committee that he would cooperate in a clean-up.

Who is Delaney—the "reform" leader of Peter Batalias' union?

In 1953 the New York State Crime Commission said Delaney got $13,650 in kickbacks from an insurance agency handling union welfare programs. Delaney's assistant, Richard E. Nolan, got an additional $9,100. Both were identified as "labor consultants." Neither performed any services.

Nolan was proposed by Delaney to be the "monitor" of Batalias' local, to direct the cleanup. The reform group screamed and Nolan was withdrawn.

Meany then asked the AFL-CIO executive council to put in his own charge this troublesome local which Peter Batalias wanted cleaned up. And he got the approval. It's the only local in the country exclusively under Meany's thumb.

In April, 1958—two months after Delaney's succession to the IUOE throne—Meany helped dedicate the IUOE's new 3 million dollar building in Washington. In his remarks he indicated that the IUOE had conducted a satisfactory "cleanup."

Next: He wouldn't make a deal.

Prime Minister Appealing

Why Did Japan Wait So Long To Rule Our Forces Illegal?

By KEYES BEECH
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

TOKYO — Japan's anti-war "MacArthur Constitution," a delayed-action time bomb, has exploded with a bang heard throughout the nation.

A Tokyo district court has ruled that American armed forces were unlawfully in Japan, because their presence was a violation of Japan's constitutional pledge against keeping any war potential.

Since American forces have been based in Japan since 1945 without their presence being legally questioned, this was news.

The story got top play in all the newspapers. One Tokyo daily headlined it, "Decision on U.S. Forces Shocks Nation."

★ ★ ★

THE IMMEDIATE effect of the decision was to:

1. CAST LEGAL doubt on the right of U.S. forces to be here. U.S. military strength in Japan has reached a postwar low of about 60,000 men, more than half of whom belong to the Air Force. The Air Force has five major bases in Japan, three in the Tokyo area.
2. PLACE JAPAN'S conservative pro-American government on the defensive. The ruling came when the government is facing local and national elections and at the same time trying to negotiate revision of the Japan-U.S. security treaty. This treaty gives the United States the right to bases here.
3. GAVE AID and comfort to the Communists and leftwing Socialists who have long fought against U.S. bases and tried to scuttle the security treaty.

★ ★ ★

BRAVING SOCIALIST fire, Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi said the Tokyo court's ruling was completely contrary to the government's interpretation of the constitution.

Therefore, he said, the government would not be bound by it. He promised to take the case straight to the Supreme Court, bypassing the lower court, to get a quick, clearcut ruling.

The Tokyo court's ruling came in a decision clearing seven Japanese charged with invading the U.S. Air Force base at nearby Tachikawa two years ago.

The seven men were arrested in a bloody riot when dozens of persons were injured in a clash between police and demonstrators protesting expansion of the Tachikawa base.

★ ★ ★

THE PRESIDING JUDGE, Akio Date, who overnight became a national figure by reason of his ruling, pointed out that Japan's constitution clearly states this country will keep no armed forces of any kind and forever renounces war even for self-defense.

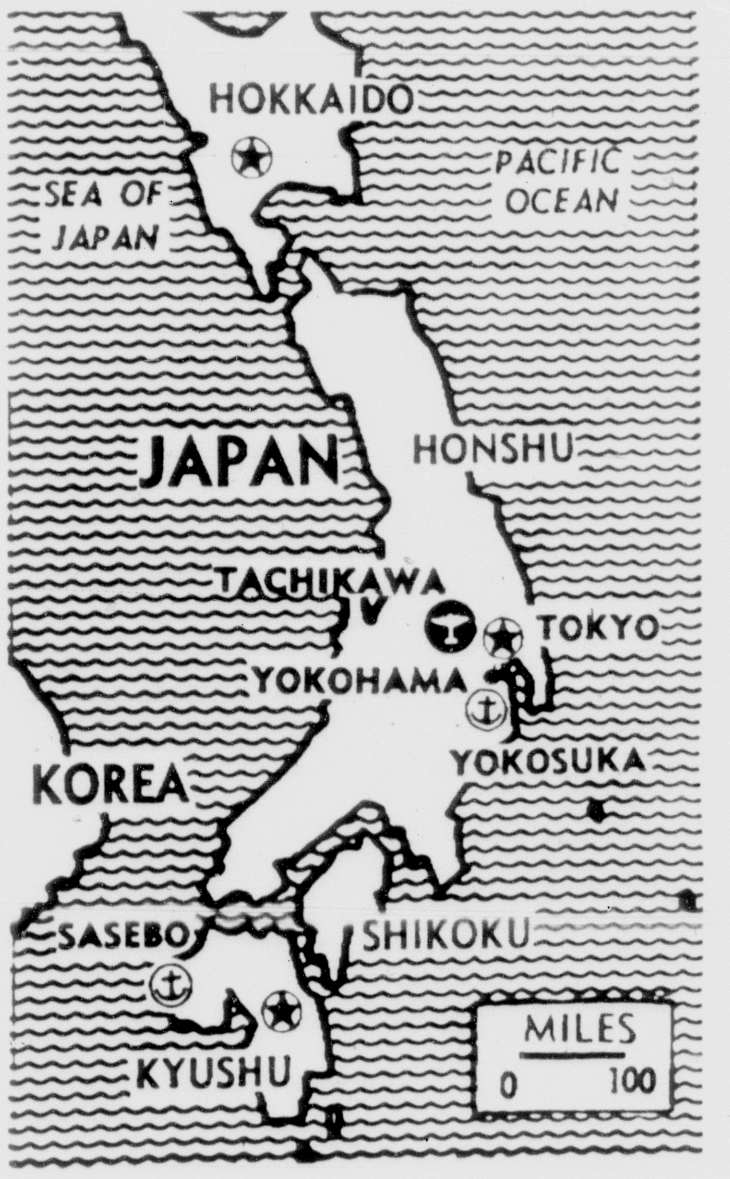
This being the case, he argued, American forces were here illegally.

And if that was the case, he continued, there was no case against the seven defendants.

★ ★ ★

OBSERVERS DOUBTED the Tokyo court's decision would be upheld by the Supreme Court since it would turn Japanese-American relations upside down.

Some observers argued that Japan's treaty obligations with the United States and the United Nations take precedence over domestic considerations.



THE U.S. HAS FIVE air bases in Japan, designated by stars on this map, the one at Tokyo representing three installations including Tachikawa, scene of rioting involved in the case just ruled upon.

QUESTION: Can again and against be used interchangeably? — T. L. D.

ANSWER: No. They once could, in many of their meanings, but not now. Only the illiterate are now "again the government." The educated are "against" it. (The pronunciation, by the way, is agen, and agenst.)

Again now means once more, in addition to, anew ("He told me again"); on the other hand ("I might, and again I might not"); back, in return ("Turn again, Whittington").

Against means in an opposite direction to, so as to meet ("Sailing against the wind"); in contact with ("She leaned against the mantelpiece"); in opposition to, adverse or hostile to ("against the government"); in resistance to or defense from ("Protection against catching cold"); in preparation for ("Money saved against next Christmas"); and in return for, as a balance ("credited against the goods shipped").

Formerly against had many other meanings, such as "directly opposite or facing," "in the presence of." In several of these again could be substituted.

What Jeopardy Decision Means

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Supreme Court in a landmark decision has cleared the way for states to try persons on charges similar to those on which they have been freed in federal trials.

Frankfurter

BLACK

The decision, by a one-judge majority, was explained in a 17-page opinion announced by Justice Felix Frankfurter.

Justice Hugo L. Black protested there would be "victims of such double prosecutions" who often will be those "without friends in high places." Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined in Black's dissenting opinion.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr.'s dissent was based on the contention that federal officials had connived in the subsequent state prosecution, making it "in effect a second federal prosecution." His opinion was joined by Warren and Douglas.

It was the first time the Supreme Court has ever specifically ruled that a federal prosecution is no bar to a state prosecution for the same crime. However, in several decisions since 1922 the court has upheld the federal government's right to prosecute persons after they had been prosecuted in state courts.

Monday's decision upheld the State Court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus of Chicago in connection with the 1953 robbery of a savings and loan association in Cicero, Ill.

Bartkus first was tried in Federal Court. He was acquitted. Then he was indicted and brought to trial in a State Criminal Court in Chicago. Convicted, he got a life sentence as a habitual criminal.

Frankfurter's majority opinion rejected a contention of counsel for Bartkus that the second trial in State Court violated the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment guarantee of due process of law.

While Frankfurter based his opinion on this legal point, Black, Warren and Douglas said the two trials violated the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against double jeopardy.

Brennan dissented on a different legal basis. He said the state trial amounted to "the second federal prosecution of Bartkus." He stated that federal authorities were unhappy over the Federal Court's acquittal and solicited the state indictment.

Black's dissenting opinion said that for some 150 years such a practice of double trial had been considered undesirable, but is "now likely to become a commonplace."

Whites Enter Negro Areas

By JUDITH HENNESSEE
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

WASHINGTON — The nation's capital is experiencing a unique twist to racial integration — whites are moving into Negro neighborhoods and the Negroes are moving out.

This reversal of old integration patterns is reaching major proportions in Washington and well may herald what is in store for other American cities.

Washington, like most northern and midwestern cities, received a heavy influx of southern Negroes during and after World War II. As a result, most of the capital's convenient downtown residential areas turned colored as the whites trotted off to live in the suburbs.

But the growth of Washington's Maryland and Virginia suburbs has destroyed their old lure. They have become costly, inconvenient and crowded. Consequently, it is once again fashionable (and profitable) to live in downtown Washington.

Not merely blocks, but entire sections are "turning" and the capital's slums are getting an unprecedented restoration. Liberal reconstruction loans, perhaps as much as anything, make this unplanned "urban renewal" possible.

Old brick townhouses, many of which have gone 10 or even 20 years without a paint job, are being bought up by homebuyers and speculators for $8,000 to $12,000. An additional $7,000 or $8,000 restores them to their pre-1900 charm.

Old Georgetown is completely restored and has become one of the city's most expensive neighborhoods. Twenty years ago it was a dilapidated, heavily colored area.

The Georgetown pattern is being followed closely in Foggy Bottom, near the White House, and on Capitol Hill.

★ ★ ★

IN THESE PLACES and others along the periphery of Negro and poor-white areas, the contrasts are startling. One can see charming blocks of restored flatfront federal-style houses, newly landscaped and freshly painted in lollypop colors — and rows of ramshackle red brick houses, windows broken and paint peeling, across the street or around the corner.

This is progress and progress usually is costly to somebody. In this case, it's the Negro.

Because of their generally low income, Negroes have found it difficult to own Washington real estate, although they occupy better than half of it as tenants, usually two or more families for each one-family dwelling. Thus, when blocks begin changing they have little or no choice but to move out.

But even colored homeowners sell out quickly when the "turning" begins. Recently a Negro detective on the Washington police force listed his Capitol Hill home for sale with the Barbara Held Realty Co. He said he didn't "want to stand in the way of the block turning."

★ ★ ★

KATHLEEN TOWER, a veteran Washington realtor, told this writer that "when a white person moves into a Negro block, it seems to demoralize the Negroes and they want to move."

Is Castro Involved in Red Attempt To Pour Ring Around Panama Canal?

By DREW PEARSON

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—The stock technique of the slight-of-hand performer is to get audience attention diverted to one part of the stage while he saws the lady in two in a wooden casket.

PEARSON

That technique was used by the Kremlin during the Berlin Airlift and it may be the Kremlin's strategy in Berlin today.

While the United States concentrated all its attention on the Berlin Airlift in 1948-49, the Kremlin was successfully busy on other parts of the world stage.

★ ★ ★

TODAY WHILE we again concentrate on Berlin, Iraq, one of the most vital countries in the Near East and a onetime ally, is rapidly coming under the Kremlin's wing.

But even more important, the Kremlin appears on the way to establish a beachhead in the Caribbean area around the Panama Canal.

★ ★ ★

THE NEW YORK Times, the Columbia Broadcasting System and others who built up Fidel Castro have been quite superficial in their reporting of the factors and influences around Castro.

But the fact is that Fidel is an extraordinary young man with an extraordinary background.

The first record of his operation to appear in American intelligence reports dates back to April 9, 1948, which, incidentally, was just eight days after the Russians clamped their first blockade on Berlin.

At that time George Marshall, secretary of state, was in Bogota, Colombia, attending the historic ninth meeting of the Pan American Union aimed at promoting peace and unity in the Western Hemisphere, when one of the worst civil massacres in recent Latin-American history bloodied the streets of Bogota.

A carefully laid student plot burst right under the nose of Secretary Marshall, streets were barricaded, 300 people killed.

No. 1 leader of this revolt, it now develops, was Fidel Castro. Records show that on April 3, five days before the massacre, Communist-slanted handbills were dropped from the gallery of the Colon Theater in Bogota as the president of Colombia and other officials attended.

Police at that time arrested two young Cubans — Fidel Castro and Rafael Del Pino. They were released.

After the massacre, police tried to arrest these two again, but they had taken asylum in the Cuban embassy.

The manager of the Hotel Claridge where they stayed testified that guns and ammunition had arrived at the hotel, and Guillermo Hoenigsberg, who occupied the next room, testified that he had listened to conversations of the two students indicating that they were agents for the "Third Front of the USSR in South America."

★ ★ ★

NOTE — Rafael Del Pino, once Castro's close friend, now living in Miami, has given up any left-wing ideas and told The Herald the other day that he would be willing to join or lead a revolt against Castro because of the leftist trend of the revolution.

★ ★ ★

BETWEEN the Bogota massacre and the beginning of the Castro revolt in Cuba four staunch friends of the U.S.A in the Caribbean were systematically assassinated:

President Somoza of Nicaragua, President Remon of Panama, President Castillo Armas of Guatemala and Colonel Aranda, a pro-U.S. Guatemalan candidate for president, murdered in Mexico to pave the way for pro-Communist Arbenz Guzman to take over.

Intelligence records show no link between Castro and these assassinations, but it's significant that Rubin Miro, who served two years in jail on the charge of killing President Remon of Panama is now in Havana and has been working with Castro for some time. Also, the Caribbean legion, 30 per cent Communist, has been fighting for Castro.

★ ★ ★

SIMULTANEOUS with Castro's successes in Cuba, two secret plots have been uncovered in Panama, one of them hatched on American soil inside the Canal Zone. Both occurred following Castro's rise to power in Cuba.

The first came to a head Feb. 18 in Panama City. The second was discovered as the result of a meeting at the home of Carlos Calzadilla, a former student leader, inside the Canal Zone.

There a group of sergeants and one lieutenant planned a revolt inside the Panamanian army, scheduled March 8. The revolt collapsed after discovery of the meeting.

President Ernesto de la Guardia, scrupulously honest, is a strong believer in democracy. There can be no charge of dictatorship or graft behind any plots against him.

Meanwhile, in Havana, the Communist paper "Hoy" has reopened and is publishing daily blasts against the United States; another paper for young Cubans, "Mella," follows a Communist line, and the old Batista paper "Revolucion" has been taken over by Fidelistas, edited by Castro's close friend, Carlos Franquia, and is following a pro-Communist line.

In Santiago, next to the vital U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, another pro-Communist paper, "Sierra Maestra," almost daily attacks the United States and praises Russian policy.

That's only part of the change that has come over the Caribbean since Fidel Castro came into power.

Norstad Slaps British Proposal

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

LONDON—British proposals for thinning out Allied forces in part of Western Europe as part of a settlement with Russia were roasted by NATO Supreme Commander Lauris Norstad in an interview on Britain's independent TV network.

NORSTAD

Norstad's attack was directed primarily at "disengagement" which would involve demilitarization of a zone straddling the Iron Curtain by both Allied and Communist forces.

This has been the pet project of the leftwing of Britain's Labor Party and warmly supported by the Russians.

General Norstad pointed out that this would probably involve the withdrawal of American and Canadian forces all the way to their homelands, whereas the Russians would withdraw only to nearby bases from which they could quickly return.

"There must be some important change in the political context (present political situation) to make even discussion of such a thing anything short of disastrous," the general declared.

Later he said he feels the same objections apply to proposals that Allied forces should be thinned out as part of a deal with Russia.

"Thinning out," has been formally discussed by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan both with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow and President Eisenhower in Washington.

British officials were quick to point out that Macmillan himself had made any thinning out conditional on establishment of an effective scheme of control and inspection.

Norstad is known to feel that thinning out should not even be discussed until after the Russians have agreed to a reasonable system of inspection at the ban-the-atom-tests conference which is now going on at Geneva.

So far the Russians have insisted that inspection teams on Soviet soil should be composed of Russians or be controlled by Russians.

85,000 Working In Missile Field

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The nation's missile and aircraft industry employs more scientists and engineers in research and development than any other industry, says the National Science Foundation.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Association, reported 85,000 scientists and engineers work in the aircraft and missile industry, of which 52,000 are directly connected with research and development.

Gambler Trafficante Is Out of Havana

—Associated Press Wirephoto

CHRISTINE JORGENSEN, the boy turned girl, and Howard J. Knox, 33, show up in the New York Municipal Building to obtain a marriage license. Christine, also 33, is an ex-GI named George Jorgensen Jr. who underwent a series of treatments in Denmark in 1950 and then announced his sex had been changed to female. No marriage license was granted Knox because he couldn't produce the Illinois divorce decree that ended a previous marriage. He's now making arrangements to obtain one.

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — The "gambling empire" of Santo Trafficante Jr. in Havana has been broken up.

Gambling circles here reported that Trafficante, who once operated the Sans Souci Casino, and had controlling interests in the Deauville, Capri, Sevilla-Biltmore and Comodoro Casinos, has returned to his home in Tampa, Fla.

The Sans Souci, Deauville and Sevilla-Biltmore have not reopened since being shut down, along with all other gaming places, when Fidel Castro took over the government. The Comodoro now is operated by Benny Fernandez of Tampa; the Capri by Angelo de Cristosaro of Havana.

Senorita Pastorita Nunez, who controls the casinos for the government, recently reiterated that all applicants for casino connections would be minutely screened as to record and background.

New York District Attorney Frank Hogan said last fall he wanted to question Trafficante in connection with the 1957 killing of Albert Anastasia in New York.

Million in Cash Seized by Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— More than a million dollars in cash has been seized by the Ministry for the Recovery of Misappropriated Funds from banks and safe deposit boxes where the money was held in the name of the wife of former Army Gen. Juan Rojas, official sources reported.

The general fled Cuba Jan. 1, the same day former Dictator Fulgencio Batista flew to the Dominican Republic.

This was reported to be the largest cash seizure to date from persons connected with the Batista regime.

A total of $1,138,704 was found in three bnaks and about $200,000 of this was in American money, the sources said.

Motel Men Seek Cut In Tax Bite

Operators of the Chateau Motel, which was not cut-in on tax reductions granted some other Miami Beach motels and hotels for last year's cold weather losses, charges "discrimination" in a Circuit Court suit.

The suit asks that Dade Tax Collector Earnest Overstreet and State Comptroller Ray Green be enjoined from enforcing payment of $31,443.18 real estate and $5,102.50 personal property taxes against the motel, 19115 Collins Ave., Miami Beach.

It alleges that 85 other hotels and motels obtained reductions as high as $250,000 in their valuations because of operating losses.

Tax Assessor John Gautier said that the reductions were granted to those who asked for it and showed records of such losses.

Narcotics Agents Grab 2 Suspects

NEW YORK —(AP)— Federal narcotics agents have arrested John (Big John) Ormento, a delegate to the Apalachin gangland convention and described by authorities as "one of the biggest importers and distributors" of narcotics in the U.S.

He was arrested along with Nick Tolentino, in the Bronx.

Both are long-sought narcotics conspiracy suspects, and Ormento was on the Federal Narcotics Bureau's "most wanted" list.

They were booked on fugitive charges.

Ormento, 45, formerly of Lido Beach, N.Y., was one of 36 men indicted last July with reputed Gangland Kingpin Vito Genovese in what the government described as a crackdown on the nation's top narcotics ring.

He had disappeared about a year ago, months before the indictments.

Tolentino, 50, was indicted in January 1958 after a Queens narcotics raid.

Ormento served three federal prison terms on narcotics charges, and was convicted of income tax evasion in 1945.

Both men were picked up during an investigation by city detectives into the fatal beating last month of John E. Jackson, about 70, who had been reported to be preparing to testify in the New Jersey narcotics trial of Frank Borelli.

Actress Gets Her Divorce

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Actress Rita Barnet Kenaston, 30, who was Bandleader Charlie Barnet's fifth wife, has divorced Oilman James M. Kenaston, 42. She was Kenaston's fourth wife.

She testified Kenaston drank excessively and abused her mentally and physically.

They married July 3 and separated Oct. 9. She received $25,000 cash in an agreement.

U.S. Aid Tops All In World

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP) — U.N. statistics Tuesday night showed the U.S. is putting out more than half of all the non-Communist world's country-to-country economic aid. The figures also showed the U.S. paid more than a third of all money contributed to U.N. agencies that give economic aid.

The statistics were published in the U.N.'s 1958 statistical yearbook. The yearbook, compiled from national sources, contained 187 tables of figures on population, production, consumption, trade, income and expenditure in almost 250 countries and territories.

It brought out that:

In the fiscal years 1954-1957, loans and grants paid to underdeveloped countries totaled $8,445,800,000, of which $7,637,000,000 came from 15 countries and the other $808,800,000 from the U.N. and the World Bank.

Of the $7,637,000,000 in bilateral aid, the U.S. supplied $4,116,300,000, or 53 per cent. It paid $3,675,500,000 in grants $440,800,000 (net) in loans.

Second to the U.S., France gave $2,598,400,000 in bilateral aid $1,699,600,000 in grants and $898,800,000 in loans. Britain gave $502,400,000 — $337,500,000 in grants and $164,900,000 in loans.

More than 70 countries contributed $2,212,900,000 for international economic aid to the U.N. Technical Assistance Program, Children's Fund, Korean Reconstruction and Palestine Refugee Agencies and affiliated World Bank and International Finance Corp.

Of this $844,300,000, or 38 per cent, came from the U.S., while the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Poland together contributed $10,900,000.

Israel received international economic aid averaging $94.90 for every person in the country in the 1954-57 period. Per capita, she got more than did 46 other countries. Libya got $82.50, South Korea $48, Tunisia $43.10, Nationalist China $41.70, Jordan $36.30 and Morocco $30.60.

In total aid received, South Korea led with $1,046,700,000. Pakistan had $387,700,000, Nationalist China $383,400,000, Brazil $315,800,000 and India $308,900,000.

Asia and the Far East got about 4½ billion dollars of economic aid, Africa about $3,100,000,000 and Latin America just over one billion.

Beach to Mark PAL Week

The week of April 6-12 has been designated Miami Beach PAL Week by Mayor Kenneth Oka to mark sponsorship of the Police Athletic League by the Miami Beach Police Department.

Activities during this period will be directed towards boys and girls. They will include a parade at 11 a.m. April 11 and a baseball game at 7 p.m. April 12 at Flamingo Park between the Miami Beach and Jacksonville police departments.

Speaker Announced

A report on the economy of Dade County will be presented by John Gibson, director of the Economic Development Council at the April 6 meeting of the Miami-Dade Chamber of Commerce.

ONE BIG UNHAPPY FAMILY resulted when mother and daughter married father and son. Mrs. Verla Smith Kruchten, 44, left, married Kenneth Kruchten in 1957. Her daughter Sara, 22, moved into the family home at Garden City, N.Y., and subsequently married Kruchten's son, Van Boone, 20. Both Mesdames Kruchten had enough last month and sued for divorce, charging cruelty and profane abuse. The daughter is holding her son, Kenneth.

Personal Injury Attorney Disbarred in Claims Case

Attorney James A. Dodd was ordered disbarred Tuesday by Circuit Judge William A. Herin who said Dodd padded damage suit claims "without any plausible excuse or explanation."

Dodd, the judge ruled, "failed to recognize or acknowledge the nature or consequences of his conduct although afforded ample opportunity" since disbarment charges were filed by State Attorney Richard E. Gerstein on Jan. 20, 1958.

Dodd's attorney, Richard H. Hunt, called the disbarment order "harsh" and said it will be appealed to the Florida Supreme Court.

Dodd was charged with inducing a doctor and a nurse to claim more than $1,000 for services not rendered to plaintiffs in a personal injury suit.

Meany Asks Data On Jobless

WASHINGTON — (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Tuesday that unless unemployment dropped by 250,000 to 300,000 in March the jobless situation is worse.

Meany said a 250,000 to 300,000 drop in idled workers would represent only the five per cent seasonal improvement expected between February and March.

He made the comment in a letter to Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss asking that the government release its March employment-unemployment data as soon as possible.

Meany said he sent the request to Strauss last Friday because the AFL-CIO is holding a mass conference on unemployment problems here April 8 and would like to "deal with facts, not guesses" on what the problem really is.

The government's latest official jobless figure, for February, was 4,749,000, up 25,000 from January. The figures, collected in mid-month by the Census Bureau, normally are released in the second week of the following month. The February report was issued March 11.

Wife-Avoiding Hoax

'Self-Recalled' Marine Arrested

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Ronald Blake, 22-year-old Marine reservist accused of sending fake telegrams recalling himself and a buddy to active duty, did it to get away from his wife, says the FBI.

U.S. Commissioner Edward W. Furia ordered the Bristol, Pa., youth held in $1,000 bail for a federal grand jury.

After hearing testimony from FBI agents, Furia said he was convinced Blake was "harmless but in obvious need of psychiatric care."

The agents said Blake admitted sending the telegram to himself because he wanted to get away from his pregnant wife and run off with another woman. He is separated from his wife. They have one child.

A similar telegram was received last week by Blake's friend, William Spangenberg, also 22, and from Bristol. Both notices were signed by "Lt. Col. Snelling."

Blake, according to the FBI testimony, said he went to sleep Thursday afternoon with the idea of telling Spangenberg it was a hoax as soon as he awoke.

But, the agents said, by the time Blake awoke Spangenberg had left for the Marine base at Camp LeJeune, N.C.

Blake then left for a Marine station at White Oaks, Md., convinced he must go through with the hoax, the agents said, where he aroused the suspicion of Marine officers.

He returned to Bristol Friday and was arrested. He was charged with impersonating a Marine office, the fictitious "Lt. Col. Snelling."

Virus Found; May Be New Cancer Clue

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. — Viruses, for the first time, are being found at the scene of the crime in human cancer.

SNIDER

This does not mean they are guilty, for the evidence is still circumstantial. But it means that cancer experts will move with renewed momentum toward an indictment.

The new and highly important link in the chain of investigation was reported here by Dr. J. W. Beard of Duke University, Durham, N.C.

He said "virus particles have been found in tissue taken from six leukemia patients."

This kind of information has long been sought.

It has been known for many years that several types of cancer in mice, chickens, rabbits, frogs and birds were caused by viruses.

But many investigators have refused to buy the proposition this could also be true in man, even though flu and polio are known to be caused by viruses.

"The particles we have seen I know to be viruses," said Dr. Beard. "If they have nothing to do with leukemia, then there are no cows in Texas."

Dr. Beard presented the information to a seminar bringing together many of the nation's leading cancer investigators. The seven-day meeting is sponsored by the American Cancer Society as part of the April Cancer Crusade.

From time to time, known viruses, such as the measles virus, have been found in human cancer cells. But these particular viruses have not been seen before, Dr. Beard said.

The next step is to demonstrate their presence again and again, in many laboratories, until there can be no doubt of a viral cause of some kinds of cancer in humans, Dr. Beard said.

Similar evidence has been found in at least one other laboratory in the last 18 months, Dr. Beard added.

Some investigators have theorized that if it can be shown that cancer is caused by virus, a vaccine might be made, as in the case of the Salk vaccine against the polio virus.

Dr. Beard, however, is not too enthusiastic over such prospects in cancer. He is much more hopeful that drugs can be discovered to interrupt the maurauding virus before it can take over the cell's factory.

2 Boxes Arrive in Tokyo

Eisenhower Gift to Michiko: Glassware

TOKYO —(AP)— Two large boxes of Steuben glassware from President and Mrs. Eisenhower arrived in Tokyo by plane to join the growing collection of wedding gifts for Crown Prince Akihito and Miss Michiko Shoda.

Reliable sources said the Eisenhowers sent a crystal bowl and an electrically illuminated vase, valued at $1,400.

The American embassy is expected to deliver them in the next few days. The wedding is April 10.

A Woman--And 99 Men

BOSTON —(AP)— The 8,000-ton merchant ship SS City of London, out of Calcutta, docked in East Boston with a crew of 99 men and one woman.

KATHLEEN

The lone female in the ship's crew is Miss Kathleen Davis, 35, of Norpath, England. Her job is ship stewardess. Her duties?

"I am linen keeper, librarian and shop keeper and attend to lady passengers. We have carried only six in the past 10 months."

Until three years ago, when she first went to sea, she was a dental nurse.

By the Associated Press

STATUESQUE LIZ RENAY has pleaded innocent in Los Angeles to a charge that she perjured herself during a grand jury investigation of the finances of her ex-boyfriend, Mickey Cohen.

The red-haired actress was ordered to appear April 13 to have her trial date set. She is free on $1,500 bail.

Cohen, once a Los Angeles gambling figure, said he declined to answer the federal grand jury's questions. Other testimony has been kept secret.

Onassis Hires New Manager

ARISTOTLE ONASSIS the shipping magnate, has hired a new manager to try to run Monaco's tourist attractions at less cost.

ONASSIS

Charles Simon, former manager of the Onassis-controlled Monaco Seabaths Co. — which operates the Riviera principality's hotels and gambling casino — quit in Monte Carlo after a dispute with the Greek ship-owner.

Simon is being replaced by 62-year-old Raoul Bertin, who reportedly sees eye to eye with Onassis on money matters.

Simon and Onassis fell out after the former remodeled the Hotel De Paris at a cost of two million dollars — about twice what Onassis had intended to pay.

INSTANT CREDIT—PREFERRED CREDIT—REVOLVING CREDIT

Presently receiving publicity in both the Herald and News, was established in our banks and mentioned in the Miami Daily News on January 26, 1956. On November 19, 1956 we ran an advertisement in the Miami Daily News and on November 26, 1956 the same advertisement in the Miami Herald, which we reproduce as follows:

"THE BEST . . .

Yes, we are forced to admit we have the best credit plan (for our own customers).

It's very simple. We provide the cash or credit which enables our borrowers to trade anywhere they please and thus save by making purchases for cash, usually at lower prices.

Another nice feature is, the interest we charge does not apply until the customer uses the money, and then we charge only on the amount our customer actually uses. One note is signed, no renewals required.

If you are a customer write, phone or call on any officer and inquire about our "Preferred Check Credit Plan."

Colin Kelly Awaits West Point Reply

COLIN III

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Colin P. Kelly III, 18, is sweating out the results of stiff examinations that will determine whether he gets the West Point appointment President Roosevelt requested for him when he was a baby.

Kelly is the son of one of America's first World War II heroes, Capt. Colin P. Kelly, Jr., who died in a B17 bomber three days after Pearl Harbor while attacking a Japanese convoy off the Philippines.

"Corky," as young Kelly is known, will know in seven weeks whether he will be able to enter the Military Academy at West Point in July.

After Capt. Kelly's death, President Roosevelt wrote a letter to "the President of the U.S. in 1956" in which he asked that the bomber pilot's son be considered for a West Point appointment.

"Consider the merits of an American youth of goodly heritage," Roosevelt urged the future President, who turned out to be Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Kelly, whose home now is Chester Heights, Pa., entered competition in two categories or quotas-presidential and sons of deceased veterans.

On March 11-14, he took the examinations at Valley Forge (Pa.) Army Hospital, for possible candidates. The Army said the results will be known in mid-May.

Hospital-Surgical Insurance for all Men and Women 65 and over

REGARDLESS OF PAST OR PRESENT HEALTH

Pays up to: 1) $10.00 a day hospital room and board for as long as 60 days. 2) $5.00 a day for care of the same condition in a licensed convalescent or nursing home. Convalescent period must immediately follow at least 5 days hospitalization. Total hospital-convalescent period cannot exceed 60 days. 3) A surgical schedule that pays from $4.50 to $225.00, according to the nature of the operation. 4) Up to $1,000 for additional medical expense. Plan pays 80% of the actual charges, in excess of $100, for specified hospital "extra" expenses such as Xrays and blood transfusions. 5) You receive immediate protection for accidents which occur, or sickness which originates after the issue date of your policy. 6) You are also protected for conditions you had before your policy was issued, provided the hospital confinement begins—surgical operation is performed—after your policy has been in force six months. 7) Covers both illness and injuries except: those caused by war, alcoholism or drug addiction; those covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employer's Liability Laws. Confinement in U. S. Government hospital or any state or county T. B. or mental institution is not covered.

Note: Enrollment period ends April 6, 1959. To be eligible, you must be 65 or over by April 15, 1959, the date the policy will be effective.

A Japanese-Chinese-Hawaiian-U.S. Tangle

Will She Get Her Citizenship Back?

Mrs. Yamamura

By JOY WINANS
Herald Writer

Born a U.S. citizen in Hawaii, made Japanese by marriage, and the mother of a Chinese child, Mrs. Munethugu (Susi) Yamamura, 47, has finally achieved the first half of her goal—to live in America.

But the second half—to regain her lost citizenship through legal channels still seems very far away.

"I must to make work, get money for this. I know to make things with my hands," she said in her charmingly broken English Tuesday as she worked on net floral inserts in the HOMESTEAD home of her son Herbert.

The first half of her goal she achieved through the aid of Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Walton, 16971 SW 302nd Ter., Homestead, who have tried for years to get all of the Yamamura family into the U.S.

Through no fault of her own, petite Susi Yamamura lost her American citizenship in 1951 because she had remained outside U.S. territorial limits for more than 10 years.

Her main problem, it seemed, was a happy marriage which, since 1932, has produced five handsome children.

Mrs. Yamamura and her husband, who is still living in China, were married in Hilo, Hawaii in 1932.

In May, 1941, Yamamura, who was a Japanese citizen, took his wife and two sons, Herbert and Robert, back to Japan for a short visit.

There, they soon sensed the turbulent war currents and anti-American feelings of the Japanese. Since their sympathies lay with the U.S., they hastily fled the Land of the Rising Sun.

But they only got as far as Shanghai, China when World War II broke out. During the China sojourn, a daughter, Nobuko, was born.

After the war, Herbert and Robert were able to regain their citizenship by visiting Hawaii, but family sickness prevented Mrs. Yamamura from making the trip with them.

Later, the family, unable to enter the U.S., returned to Japan where they befriended Walton and his family who were visiting the Yamamura's town of Tsuma when the Korean War broke out.

In return for the Yamamura's looking after his family while he went off to fight as a master sergeant in the U.S. Army, Walton managed to bring Herbert and Robert into Florida when he returned.

But the problem of reuniting the whole Yamamura family in America was becoming more complicated in a very happy way: two more children—Amy and Peggy—were born.

But the Waltons kept working all angles from this side and late in 1958, they got permission to sponsor Mrs. Yamamura's entry into the country.

Still in Japan are Nobuko and father Yamamura, an industrial engineer.

As she worked rapidly on dainty net centerpieces for son Herbert's floral business, Mrs. Yamamura said confidently, "I must get all my family here, get money for this—but most important, I must get my citizenship back."

Monorail Gets A Cautious Nod

County Manager O. W. Campbell gave a cautious endorsement Tuesday to Monorail transportation for Dade County.

But Monorail's current backers, seventh to appear before a Miami area governing body in search of a franchise, failed to convince the Metro Commission.

Commissioners told Jack Vancherie, spokesman for Monorail Transportation Co. of America, they could not consider his franchise bid "without at least 100 hours of conferences to unwind the problems involved."

The Commission directed Campbell, county transit experts and Vancherie's group to hold the conferences and report back.

The Monorail company proposes to build a privately financed overhead transit line from Miami International Airport to Miami Beach, with a spur looping down into Bayfront Park in Miami.

"Monorail would be a useful contribution toward solving Dade's transportation problem if all the financial angles can be worked out," Campbell told the Commission.

Vanchert said he hoped to receive the franchise "immediately."

But Commission members said they first would need to know the affects of Monorail on airport franchises with taxicab and limousine companies, and on the bond issue financing the 36th St. Causeway.

The tentative Monorail route crosses Biscayne Bay atop the new 36th St. causeway.

Metro May Operate Buses Within Month

Service Expansion, Lower Fare on Way

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

Metro may be in the bus business in 20 or 30 days, Metro Commissioner Ben McGahey, chairman of the commission's transit committee, said Tuesday.

First step if Metro acquires major bus lines in the county would be to expand services and attempt to cut fares paid by riders who make multiple transfers to reach their destinations.

The commission gave 9-1 backing to a $6,000 audit and appraisal of all private bus line properties in the county.

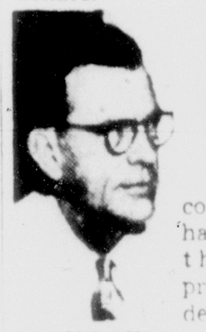
McGahey and County Manager O. W. Campbell said the survey is a prelude to final negotiations with William D. Pawley on the purchase of his three bus lines, Miami Transit, Miami Beach Railway and South Miami bus company.

Pawley's lines carry 84 per cent of Dade's transit riders. During year-long conferences, he and county officials have agreed on the general terms of a purchase plan.

Pawley would be paid out of transit revenues and continue to operate the company for a fee until the county had clear title.

Cost has been estimated at eight million dollars.

McGAHEY



PAWLEY

Pawley and county officials have agreed that the sale price would be determined by an independent appraisal.

McGahey told Commissioner Ralph Fossey, dissenter in the vote on the bus line audit, that his committee would continue to explore Fossey's alternate plan for a unified county bus system.

"Instead of the county owning the bus lines outright," Fossey said, "it would be better if we could have strict authority to regulate routes and fares, but leave the lines under private ownership."

McGahey's committee has not started negotiations with owners of the seven county bus lines which Pawley does not own.

No Alternatives

Guesswork Taken Out Of Route

By EDDIE GONG
Herald Staff Writer

Speculation by North Miamians about an alternate route for the north-south expressway through NORTH MIAMI was cut short Tuesday when State Road Board member William D. Singer said official plans call for construction of the giant artery along the west side of NW Sixth Ave.

"There is and has always been only one route planned," Singer told The Herald. He said some North Miamians had mistakenly assumed that the Road Department had plans for an alternative route to run just west of business buildings on NW Seventh Ave.

"That 'route' was only a rough scheme drawn up by engineers as a basis for the final plan," he said.

Singer pointed out that the NW Sixth Ave. route was the "most economically feasible."

"And it will take four and a half acres less of right of way," he added.

The route has been strongly protested by some 65 homeowners who would find themselves living in a "no man's land" between the proposed expressway and busy NW Seventh Ave.

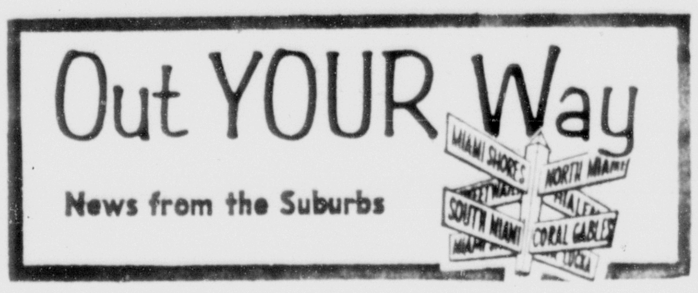
The North Miami City Council has gone on record favoring a route closer to NW Seventh Ave. so that the homes would be condemned and the owners compensated.

North Miami Mayor Tom Sasso said Tuesday, "I think it is immoral to leave those 65 houses stranded and I'm in favor of having the route moved over so they would be condemned," he said.

The Council is scheduled to meet with the State Road Department sometime in the next two weeks to discuss the proposed plan.

Singer said that the construction of the expressway under the present plan "could get under way without the agreement of the city.

"We want to move forward with good public relations, but at the same time we realize that in building an expressway of this size you can't please everybody."



Port Fire-Fighters Face CAB Inquiry

Port Authority fire-fighters go before a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing today to answer criticism of jet age facilities at Miami International Airport.

The CAB raised the question of whether fire fighting equipment here is adequate at a hearing which started Tuesday into the Jan. 17 fire that destroyed an Eastern Air Lines plane after it landed without injury to 12 passengers and five crew members.

A CAB investigator's report made before the board in the Empress Hotel hearing room was critical of a lack of a central fire fighting command, the use of water to fight the gasoline blaze, and the fact some assisting units had trouble locating hose connections.

Belcher Asks Tax Relief For Island Tank Farm

Belcher Oil Co. filed a Circuit Court suit Tuesday to ward off MIAMI BEACH city taxes on its 2½-acre oil tank field on Terminal Island in Government Cut.

The suit asks the court to require the city to show why it "unlawfully usurps municipal authority" by imposing taxes and refusing to supply city services.

The property is separated from the city's southern mainland boundary by 2,000 feet of Atlantic ocean and Biscayne bay waters, is accessible only by boat and "isolated and far removed from the advantages, conveniences and facilities of city life," says the suit.

Most of the island was taken off the city tax books by a 1951 circuit court order obtained by Gar Wood.

Serum for Cobra Bites Rushed to California

A package of serum to treat cobra bites was rushed to San Francisco from Miami Tuesday as California police feared a stolen cobra might claim a victim.

The serum was sent by reptile expert William Haast, of SOUTH MIAMI'S Serpentarium, who received a call from San Francisco's director of public health, Dr. Ellis Sox.

A 12-foot King cobra was stolen in the California city from a reptile collector. Haast said the bite of a cobra is lethal enough to kill 12 persons.

The Haast serum would be on hand to treat possible victims.

Bid Wins By a Hair

The HIALEAH City Council opened bids on a $450,000 water line expansion bond issue Tuesday at a special meeting and the winning purchase bid won by a scant .002 per cent over the next highest bid.

A syndicate headed by Robert F. Bell, of Miami Beach, made the winning bid of 4.116 per cent interest for the entire issue. The next closest bid was 4.118 per cent.

The bond issue matures in 1988 and will finance past and future water line extensions to new residential areas and construction of a new high pressure storage tank to be built in northwest Hialeah.

Airline Tried to Boot Him, Cuban Exile Tells Judge

A Cuban refugee Tuesday claimed he was dragged from his sister's house by private detectives in the pay of an airline which wanted to spirit him out of the country to avoid trouble with immigration authorities.

Federal Judge Emett Choate told lawyers for Jose Loinaz Diez, a former captain of intelligence in the Cuban army, he will enjoin anyone's interference with Diez's stay in Miami until a court can hear his complaint.

Diez' attorney, Alfred M. Carvajal, came to Choate with a plea for an injunction after filing a federal complaint against immigration authorities earlier in the day.

The complaint, he said, was initiated when private detectives went to Diez' sister's home, searched the place and "dragged Diez off to the airport."

Caravajal said an effort was made to force Diez to board a plane and leave the country.

For some time, Carvajal asserted, the detectives held Diez incommunicado without allowing him to talk to his lawyer or his sister, Mrs. Manley J. Segall, of 10131 SW 40th St.

An airline bringing an alien into the country can be fined heavily if the alien enters illegally and the line is found by a court to have been in some measure responsible.

Flows Like Wine

Israel's first export champagne bubbled mellow and yellow in scores of glasses at Miami Beach's Fontainebleau Hotel Tuesday during a wine tasting party that kicked off a new Israel bond drive.

The taster—although not experts, decided that the President's Champaigne, produced by Israel's state-controlled Carmel Wineries, was easily worth a second, third and fourth free glass.

On hand for the sampling were James McDonald, America's first ambassador to Israel and Israel Singer Jan Bart.

Body Hunted

Divers probed the muddy Miami River near the 12th Ave. bridge Tuesday for the body of John Szillat Jr., 26, of 1659 NW Ninth Ave., whose wallet and clothes were found on a dock after nearby residents heard cries for help and saw a man go under in the water.

Police theorized that Szillat, an attendant in the John Elliott Blood Bank at Jackson Memorial Hospital, had attempted a midnight swim and drowned.

Szillat came here from Cleveland. Acquaintances said he had been saving money for his educaton.

He was last seen late Monday afternoon, apparently in good spirits.

Landowners Ask Army

Metro commissioners ducked a proposal Tuesday that they pressure U. S. Army Engineers into moving the location of a proposed South Dade levee.

Owners of property near the levee site told commissioners the Army plan would make "a mosquito marsh" of land they plan to use for residential development.

Malcolm Wisehart and E. L. Cotton, spokesmen for the landowners, wanted the commission to endorse a levee relocation.

The commission voted, instead, to ask the Army Engineers to consider the move at the request of the landowners.

Russia Repatriates Last Poles

The New York Times Service

WARSAW — The last trainloads of Poles returning to their homeland from the Soviet Union crossed the Bug River into eastern Poland Tuesday.

Just across the border the trains pulled into the bleak repatriation center where every day for more than two years hundreds of exiles have had their first glimpse of Poland.

Officially, the last trains marked the end of a repatriation agreement signed between Poland and the Soviet Union Nov. 18, 1956. Under that agreement about 250,000 Poles have returned to Poland—from labor camps deep in the Soviet interior.

For Poland, the last trains were a chapter in a story of conquest, deportation and exile that stretches back 20 years.

The story is one that affects almost every family in Poland. It began in September, 1939, when thousands of Poles—particularly Jews—fled eastward before the German armies.

The Russians moved forward and the refugees, and millions of Poles in Eastern Poland, found themselves no longer in Poland but in Soviet territory.

That was the "first phase" of the exile, as the diplomatic historians put it. The second phase began when the Russians, in their zone of Poland, began deporting Poles to Siberia and other reaches of the Soviet Union—Poles who were politically "unreliable" or Poles who simply would make good laborers.

When the war ended and the Soviet occupation of Eastern Poland became internationally recognized, there were millions of Poles cut off from their homeland.

At first the Soviet Union allowed a flow of repatriates, Poles taking up the homes and farmlands left by the Germans in the western territories taken over by Poland. Then the flow became a trickle.

The political upheaval of 1956 forced the Russians to sign an agreement giving Poles greater economic, political and military independence.

$9 Million Given for Teachers

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Ford Foundation announced Tuesday it is giving away $9,161,210 to stimulate a "breakthrough" in efforts to improve the quality of America's teachers.

In addition, the foundation announced another $2,282,800 in education grants, including studies in the use of television as a classroom aide.

The foundation said the grants for improving the quality of teachers form the "First Phase" in a "concerted new effort." Another series of grants is expected to be announced later this year, the foundation added.

Named as recipients in the teacher - improvement grants are Barnard College, New York; Brown University, Providence, R. I.; the University of Chicago; Claremont (Calif.) Graduate School; Duke University, Durham, N. C.; George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.; and the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

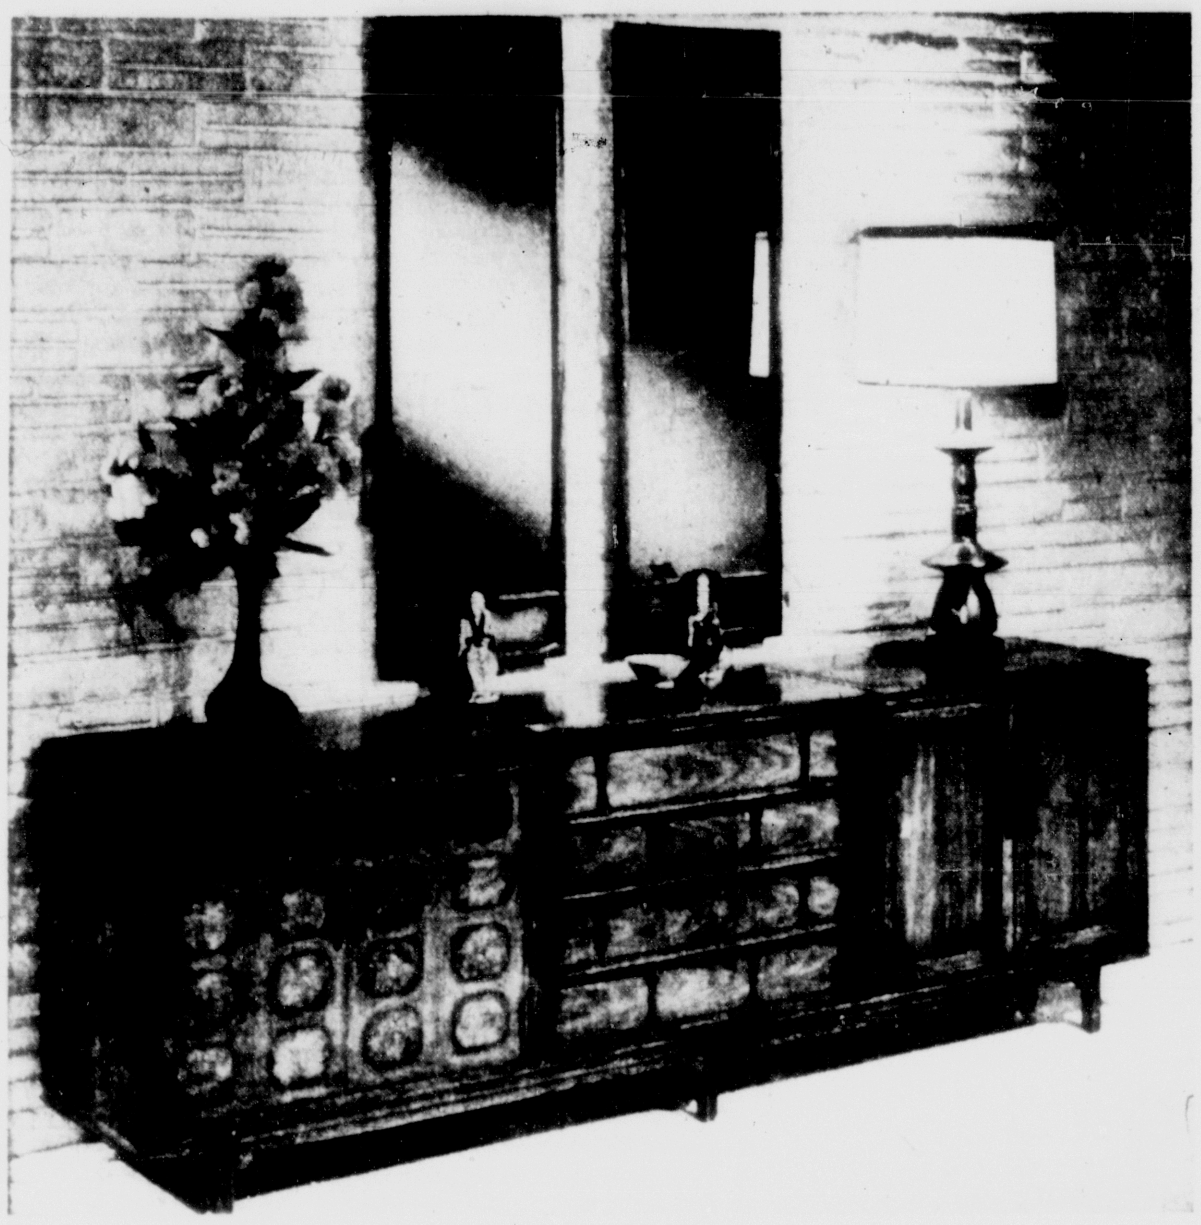
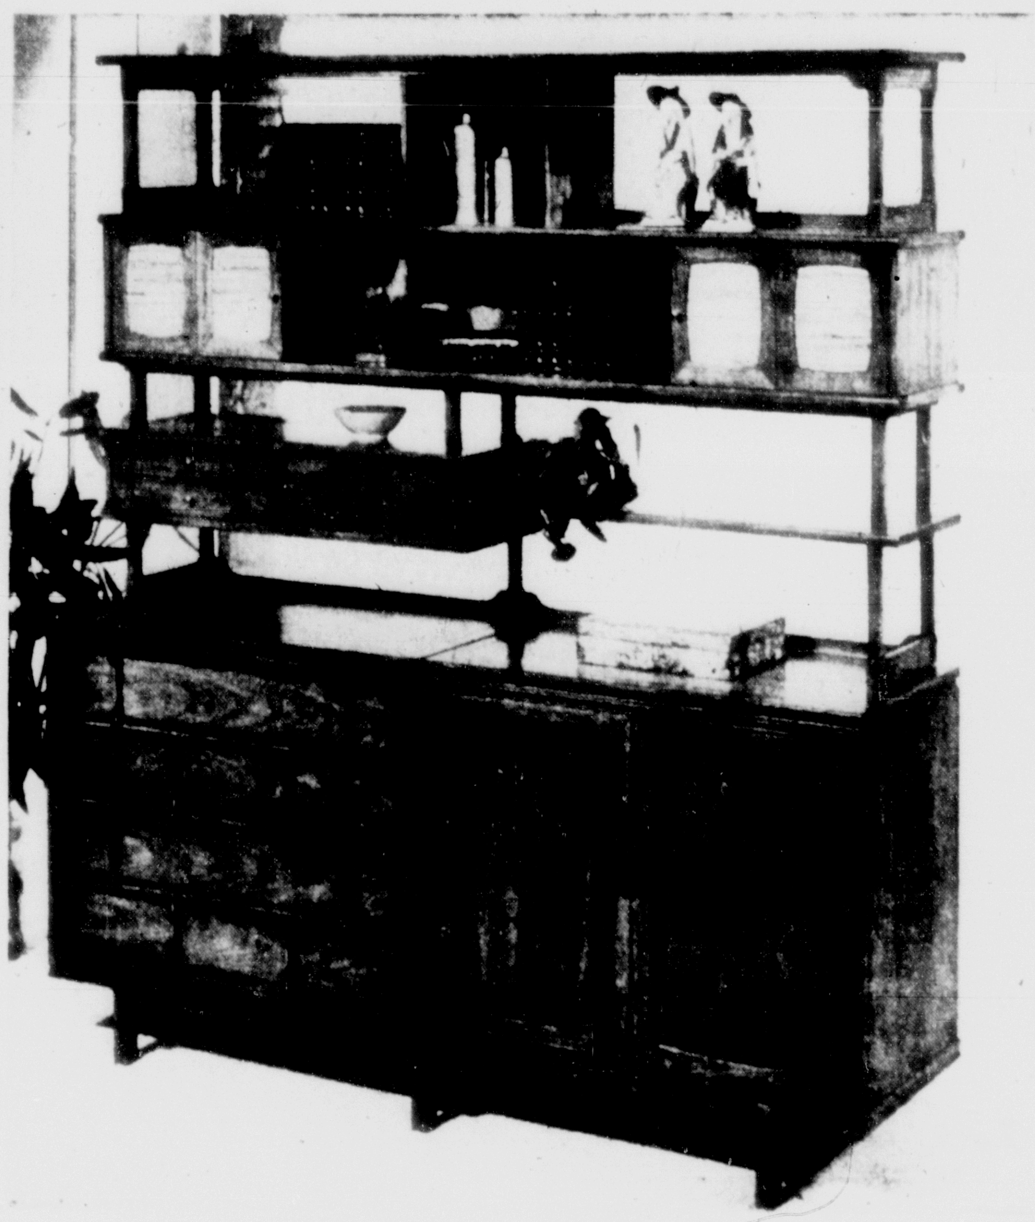
New Storage Units Make It Easier To Be Neat



New Series Of Storage Units Are Made of Pecan Wood
. . . with holly and acacia burl as accent woods



This Room Divider Is Organized for Easier Living
. . . it saves space in small quarters, too

By KAY MURPHY
Herald Decorating Editor

Organization is probably the most important part of housekeeping. Even furniture designers are beginning to realize this and are helping the job.

Organization in the home can be achieved by providing a place for everything, then putting everything in its place. When space is limited—and it is in the average home—storage units are the answer to the organization problem.

They're the answer if the storage units are not just a series of shelves and drawers but are compartmentalized, instead, to accomodate specific items. Like a woman's gloves and handbags, a man's shirts, cufflinks and tieclasps.

A new collection of furniture now available locally features all sorts of compartmentalized interiors. Bedroom chests have at least one drawer with shirt dividers in it. A tray for such miscellany as missing buttons, too.

There are deep, narrow drawers for lingerie and the multitude of accessories a woman accumulates to go with her wardrobe. One bedroom chest has a drop-down mirror behind a drawerfront.

Tarnish-resistant cloth lines the silver drawers in buffets and sideboards. A bar unit has bottle holders attached to the inside of its doors, a place to store bar equipment and a pullout serving shelf.

Where To Buy?

Call FR 9-3826 after 9:30 a.m. today. After 24 hours, write to The Miami Herald Shopping Service, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Storage is not the only story in the new collection. It includes seating pieces, tables and several types of bed headboards. There's a hint of the Oriental in the styling but essentially it can be classified as "contemporary functional."

Breakfronts have a pagoda lift to their tops. Drawer pulls are arranged to form a fretwork pattern on the front of chests and cabinets. A few chairs are reminiscent of rickshaw seats.

All the furniture has pecan as its basic wood. Oriental holly and acacia burl provide the decorative detail—in the form of parquetry or inlays.

The woods have a teak-like finish, which heightens the Oriental illusion. And the Oriental styling is more an illusion than it is stark reality. The influence is as subtle as incense.

The shapes of individual pieces have been borrowed from many cultures but they retain the curvilinear look of Oriental design.

If you would like to know where you may purchase the furniture described, call The Herald Shopping Service.

Maternity Home Group Gets National Approval

By ELEANOR DIXON
Herald Club Editor

Dade County is one step closer to having a maternity home now that the national Florence Crittenton Homes Association has approved the affiliation of the local committee working toward this goal.

Michael Shores, president of the local committee, announced the "official" affiliation with the national association Tuesday at a luncheon in the Pub Restaurant for some 80 community leaders.

Speaker at this event was Mrs. W. Boyce Hunter, Charlotte, N. C., president of the national board of Florence Crittenton Homes Association (a network of more than 50 member agencies furnishing care and-or services to unwed mothers and their babies).

Mrs. Hunter, who has worked with the Florence Crittenton movement for 20 years, explained the need for maternity home care and told what services are given to the girls who are "illegitimately pregnant."

"Latest figures show that there are 193,500 illegitimate births each year," said Mrs. Hunter. "And these are only the registered births. There must actually be twice that number."

"What disturbs us most," she continued, "is that in the past ten years, there has been a 40 per cent increase in illegitimate births among the girls under 18."

And she pointed out that Florence Crittenton member agencies serve girls "of all ages, regardless of ability to pay. We have an 'open door' policy."

Mrs. Hunter summarized the needs of unwed mothers, filled by Crittenton agencies, as: Protected living environment. Early and sustained medical care. Companionship. Skilled and sympathetic counseling. Referral (if desired by the girl) to a licensed child placing agency.

* * *

HER TALK was followed by a tape recording of an anonymous girl who had had her baby through a Florence Crittenton agency's help and had returned, after professional counseling and guidance, to everyday life.

The luncheon's guest list read like a "who's who" in organizations in Dade County. Purpose of the event was to acquaint these men and women with the needs and plans of the local committee.

"We will need your organization's help financially and as volunteers," said Staples Pierce, a vice president of the committee, to the representatives of men's and women's service and civic clubs.

"We hope you will interest your members in serving on our committees, and in helping us obtain annual subscriptions."

Mr. Pierce added that the local association also hopes to become a member of the United Fund.

Newly named directors of the committee were introduced by Mr. Shores. They are: Anthony Abraham, S. K. Bronstein, Edward Christiansen, Mrs. Connie Gee, Dr. Leon Greene, Mrs. Raymond Jenkins, the Rev. E. O. Krug, Miss Sara MacNamara, Mrs. W. L. Mussett, Miss Helen Parades, Dr. Hunter Rogers, and Mrs. John D. Simmons.

Mrs. March Dickins, a vice president, introduced Mrs. Hunter, who came to Miami especially for this luncheon and other conferences with the local committee.

Dag Disappoints Women

By Herald Wire Services

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The commission on the status of women has ended its discussion of the "lamentably small" role of women in the United Nations. Several women delegates expressed regret that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold had not placed more women on the secretariat.

Their concern was summed up by Miss Ruth Tomlinson of Britain, who reminded the commission delegates that each year they have attacked the problem and considered it from practically every angle.

"Even so," she said, "we do not seem to have made a great impression on the powers that be."

This Cure Didn't Work

PARIS — Mrs. Rene Louis Lafforgue, wife of the French author, was expecting a baby, a situation which put her husband on edge.

So, she sent him to the French Alps to do some hard skiing and to get his mind off the subject. Mr. Lafforgue quickly returned to Paris with a broken leg he received on the ski slopes.

He and Mrs. Lafforgue shared the same hospital suite.

Cheery Gifts Win Friends

NEW YORK — Turning out baskets of cheer has turned into a tidy business for a couple of fortyish New York women.

"We wanted something to do in our old age," said Mrs. Ethel Aaron.

The two women started their custom-gift business originally for the hospitalized, and fittingly called their firm "Bedside Manna." But since they opened shop in January, they've branched out.

The World Was a Garden

NEW YORK — Britain's Lady Astor, looking over the confused international situation, yearns wistfully for the good old days.

"When I was a child in Virginia," she observed, "all one thought about was the garden and one didn't trouble about the rest of the world."

Gay 'Night In Havana'

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

PERSON TO PERSON

Ole! and Ole again! The Night in Havana at Ada and Ray Dodge's casino was a real comparisa. Costumes were out of this world. And the men said they enjoyed themselves to the Nth degree because of all of the cheesecake.

Ada was in white organdy ruffled Cuban costume. She and Ray, with their houseguests, Sue and Harold Florsheim of Chicago, welcomed the 250 senors and senoras as they entered. Sue wore a gold dancing costume. Harold's nickname is "Boots," naturally, for he is the vip of the shoe company. The Florsheims are just back from a fishing trip down in Marathon, where they had wonderful luck with the bonefish.

A sign on the front of the Dodges' Pine Tree Drive home read "Habana, Cuba." As you entered the foyer of their house, their pretty daughter Diane (Mrs. David) Schwartzburg and her friend Cele Murdock, both in abbreviated dancing costumes, handed out "lottery" tickets. Across from them was "customs," where daiquiris were served.

Many people hadn't seen the new Dodge house which is a dream of white and gold. A huge tent stood beyond the swimming pool and sheltered tables for dining.

Ada and Ray are well known for their costume parties and Tuesday night's soiree was up to par. Their guests really got into the spirit of the evening. For instance, Castro was there in the person of Sam Becker, who had a bit of trouble sipping his cocktails through all that beard. Sam also was carrying a machine gun. His wife Sally was a dancing girl.

Most outstanding costume among the senors was the authentic toreador's outfit worn by Alberto Ledesma. He bought the clothes in Madrid, Spain, from Emilio Jumillano, the famous bull fighter. It was pale lavender, trimmed with pure gold and even the pigtail down his back and the stockings on his legs were the real thing. Emilio sold the magnificent suit because he wore it once in the ring and didn't do very well that day.

Three of the cutest ladies of the evening of Havana were Charlotte (Mrs. Bill) Husted, Wini (Mrs. Carl) Leigh and Elva Kimball. With their saucy white sailors they wore white cubaveras and long fishnet stockings. Under the cubaveras were their little spangled pants in which was tucked their mad money.

Torchy and Capt Ehrhart were matador and bull, with false faces. Martha Langston looked like a doll in a toreador suit squired by Shelby as a Spanish don. Three little Cuban angels who carried a sign proclaiming this were Jeanie (Mrs. George) Storer, Mary Ann (Mrs. James) Knight and Joanie (Mrs. Charles) Shelden. To their already well-known angel costumes they had added beards and machine guns, plus the signs. (They always attended costume parties dressed as angels.)

Sue Fitzgerald wore the tallest comb of the evening; she made the comb from a coat hanger and draped it with a mantilla. Her date was Norbert Cusick.

She's Mrs. Milloway Now

A quiet ceremony in the chapel of the Miami Beach Community Church on Monday morning united Jean Morehead Davis and John Eugene Milloway Jr.

Mrs. J. E. Milloway Jr.

Jean, affectionately known as "Papoo", is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Sinclair and the late Charles A. Morehead. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John E. Milloway of Greensboro, N.C., and the late Mr. Milloway.

He attended University of North Carolina and University of Miami where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha. Jean is a native Miamian and attended Miss Harris' School.

After a wedding breakfast at La Gorce Country Club the newlyweds left for a honeymoon in North Carolina, where they will attend the wedding of John's sister, Nancy Ann and Thomas Boyette. They'll make their home in Miami.

Helen Rust Wants Comfort

An even dozen years of wedded bliss was celebrated by Helen and Paul Rust at their home on Pine Tree Drive with a cocktail buffet. The house was filled with spring flowers sent by well wishers and the laden buffet table in the dining room offered all sorts of delectable viands.

Red-headed Helen wore a blue silk dress under which she had tucked an exquisite lace blouse of imported Val lace. "I'm going in for comfort this year," she exclaimed and showed her flat heeled shoes.

More than 75 of the Rusts' good friends called to congratulate them.

Mrs. Wilcox Is Married

Christine Wilcox, widow of former State Congressman J. Mark Wilcox, and George W. Slaton, retired insurance executive of West Palm Beach, were married March 9 in Live Oak, Fla.

The bride's son, Joel C. Wilcox, and the bridegroom's son, Jake C. Slaton, attended the couple. The two families have been friends since 1925. The newlyweds will live in West Palm Beach and White Springs where the bride has a home.

It's 'Cloud Seven' for Allene

A pink mist above the flower arrangement on a table at Riviera Country Club on Tuesday evening was labeled "Cloud Seven." And that's where Allene Gayle Dawson and Charles F. Berndt Jr. were floating.

Allene Dawson

For their engagement was announced by Allene's mother, Mrs. Richard K. Preston, 544 Madeira Ave., Coral Gables, at this dinner party which she gave. The future bridegroom's parents, the Charles F. Berndts, 2818 Trade Ave., Coconut Grove, were among guests.

Both Allene and Charles are native Miamians from pioneer families. Allene's maternal grandfather, the late Walter Al. Kohlhepp was associated with Carl Fisher in the development of Miami Beach. Her father is Forrest Braden Dawson of Coral Gables.

She attended Barry College and University of Miami. Her fiance attended UM, and his family were early settlers in the Grove. Their wedding date is June 12 at Plymouth Congregational Church.

Bulletin Has Time-Saving Sewing Tips

Streamlined methods to save time in home sewing without sacrificing good looks or durability are covered in a new U.S. Department of Agriculture bulletin.

The bulletin is Simplified Clothing Construction (HG-59). Single copies are available free by writing the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

Some topics covered in the bulletin are fabrics and patterns to save time in handling, sewing or fitting; easier methods of cutting, marking, basting, machine stitching and finishing seams, and how to organize sewing to save time.

The bulletin also gives step-by-step instructions for many sewing jobs—collars, sleeves, facings and plackets.

Elegant Polo in a Pasture

By GWEN HARRISON
Herald Columnist

Owner of the elegant Gulf Stream Polo Club fields, Henry V. Pope, Delray architect, is back from Jamaica where he designed an island home for Mrs. Blanche Blackwell . . . during his trip he was whisked away from work to a local polo match at Vaux Hall in Ocho Rios . . . although the field was a converted pasture, complete to reluctant-to-move cows, the ponies inferior to those at Gulf Stream, and the players minus-one goalers, the women attended in all their finery as if attending races at Ascot . . . trust the British to find a way for polo . . .

Visitors and regulars around the 79th Street Causeway again will be seeing, around the end of the week, the woman in the bright blue wig which matches her bright blue sports car . . . she's Treasure Island's Alma Slocum Dupuy who says the wig holds her hair in place when she drives . . . she's in New York for the nonce . . .

That call might come through any day . . . when the white wings, of the dove family, are flying down Mexico way, Mary and Laddie Sanford in Palm Beach get a telephone call from Virginia and Clint Murchison from their, not Texas, but Mexico ranch . . . the Sanfords fly down immediately for the shooting season, which is about this time each year . . . the ranch in Mexico is so large it has to be flown to, and there is a complete city just for the workers, one including schools, church and all things necessary to a community . . . on the same ranch are the dove fields, but they're also so far from the "city" they have to be flown to by planes as large as DC-3's . . . former polo great, Laddie Sanford, now incapacitated as a result of old polo injuries, can hunt from one of his specially constructed wheelchairs . . .

Why Husbands Don't Stay at Home

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

In answer to Depressed and why husbands go a-straying, the key seems to be "why" her alleged philandering husband prefers fun and company away from home.

It might be the care of home and children is such a burden that little time is left for attention to him. Neglect, mental or physical, preys on one's mind, and to escape it one seeks new companionship.

It might be a good deal for Depressed to get a baby sitter. Get prettied up and when hubby comes, tell him you're going out with him, or without him!

Home life for both may be in a rut, but could eventually be happy again with a few changes. Invite friends in for cards and highballs, or TV fights. Home is what you make it.

Divorce is ugly. The thought of legal fees, support for two children and alimony should sober any husband who thinks he can dance and not pay the fiddler.

Never sacrifice respectability for revenge. Two wrongs never made a right.

GENTLEMAN READER

★ ★ ★

'Relax—And Save Your Mind'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Depressed has a problem, but she should relax and save her good mind, because with two babies she can't afford to lose it. Any husband who two-times a devoted wife, good home and babies is losing HIS mind!

Depressed doesn't need a divorce, she needs time to let her childish husband grow up. Married men often go on the town with single men, but don't worry about those lipstick signs and late hours.

I've been on those shindigs . . . they aren't as "wild" as you imagine. A lot of nonsensical drinking talk, unnecessary drinking, lost sleep and chasing low I.Q. alcoholic women who are merely time-killers, nothing more.

Depressed's husband will survive this childish cycle. He has a gold mine and knows it. Some husbands use this reverse, obscure method to hold wives in line.

Depressed should wait for this clown to grow up. But if she can't, buy a baseball bat and bust it over his empty head.

OLDER, IF NOT WISER

Do I detect the fine phrasing of our former column faithful, Bachelor Bob? It's been a long time . . . welcome back to the "fold."

'Mom Doesn't Understand Me'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I am 12 years old and in the seventh grade. My problem is my mother. I love her dearly and wouldn't want to hurt her for the world.

But we don't get along. She doesn't understand me. I have tried talking to her and my father, but it doesn't do any good. I don't want her to treat me like a baby, or her sister, just her daughter.

For example: If I were to clean the whole house up spic and span, she would have to find something wrong with it.

I am an only child.

TROUBLED

Did you ever do it—clean up the whole house, spic and span, and have mother find something wrong???

No, it isn't always easy for parents and 12-year-olds to understand one another. But remember, understanding is a two-way street.

And if you try a little harder to understand two people who love you most, you'll be making things easier, not only for them, but for yourself as well.

P.S. Your letter prompted me to ask my 13-year-old son if he thought his parents understood him. "You understand me all right, I guess," he replied. "Trouble is, I don't always understand you!"

★ ★ ★

Could These Reasons Apply?

DEAR DEPRESSED:

Not knowing the age of you or your husband, I have three causes that may make him stay out.

1. If he goes out with "young single boys," he must be their age, and you, dear lady, if not older in years, must be the type that likes to keep a spotless home—therefore, no relaxing atmosphere.

2. You say you give him good meals. But do you ever ask what he would like, instead of feeding him like a pet?

3. Could be he likes to show he's boss, so don't act too virtuous. Let him find a little fault, occasionally.

That lipstick may be just a prank by a Beeeee-Girl.

OLD MARRIED FOX

Let us beeeee frank. If the lipstick's a prank, no wife will say thanks . . . And another shadow has been cast on that "relaxing atmosphere."

Baby Chicks? No Thank You!

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I think it's horrible to see the stores selling live baby ducks and chicks for children to play with. Most of these innocents wind up dead before they know what hit them.

I have a 2½ year old son. He is not viscious, so I thought he might love a little pet. I got him a duck, and he loved it all right, kissed and squeezed it real affectionately. After an hour of nervous tension on my part, I took it back to the store.

Actually I felt worse instead of better, knowing this adorable duck would only be sold to some other child for use as a toy.

There are probably some children who will give these pets good homes, but I imagine the majority will suffer for no good reason.

P.N.

If all parents felt as you do, Charles W. Pusey, director of the Humane Society who annually frowns on the sale of such animals, would be a much happier man.

Eleanor Hart.

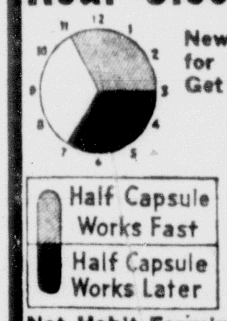
By JOSEPHINE ROBERTSON

I ask thy special care today, Father, for a physician who carries a great burden of responsibility. Strengthen him physically for the long hours of exacting labor, mentally for the recurring decisions that may mean life or death, and spiritually for the countless times when he must supply the courage for those who seek his help. Reward him with the satisfaction of knowing how much he has eased suffering and brought comfort and renewal. Keep up his zest in acquiring new skills and exploring new fields of knowledge. Grant him refreshing hours, too, when he can forget his cares in lighthearted recreation. And give to me, I pray, and to his other friends and patients insight into his problems and sympathy for his lonely responsibilities, that we may contribute in some measure to the ongoing of his work of healing. Amen.



Real Sleep Tonight...All Night!

New Kind of Sleeping Capsule WORKS TWICE for Tense, Nervous, Agitated Folks Who Can't Get to Sleep or Wake Up too Soon

When worries and cares of an agitating day make you so nervous, tense and upset you dread the thought of a sleepless night ahead . . . when you're tired and weary and in dire need of a full night of peaceful slumber . . . let new easy REAL SLEEP CAPSULES help you go drowsily to sleep and to stay asleep all night through. REAL SLEEP is the new scientific formula that actually works twice (1) fast to help make you drowsy and relax you into calm restful slumber. Then hours later REAL SLEEP works again to help you keep on sleeping without waking up in the middle of the night. No other sleeping aid you can buy without a prescription has this exclusive continuing sleep inducing action.

Not Habit-Forming! Contains No Narcotics! No Barbiturates! Instead Soothing, Drowsy Action Helps You Sleep Naturally

REAL SLEEP doesn't deaden the senses; doesn't knock you out. You don't wake up with that drugged, dopey feeling but awake refreshed, rested, ready for the day ahead. REAL SLEEP's ingredients are relaxing, soothing, tranquilizing. REAL SLEEP makes you drowsy and helps you sleep naturally . . . not for just an hour or two but for all night long. When you take REAL SLEEP CAPSULES jittery nerves calm down. Tense muscles relax. The agitated feeling fades. And as you sink from drowsiness into sound restful slumber, you can do so in the confidence REAL SLEEP will continue working with a soothing, relaxing, drowse inducing action for hours and hours while you sleep.

Sleep Tonight—All Night Or Money Back

Get REAL SLEEP CAPSULES from your druggist today. 8 Capsules only $1. (20 for $2.) Take as directed and if not satisfied, simply return for purchase price refund. Remember, only REAL SLEEP CAPSULES give exclusive two way continuing action. Ask for REAL SLEEP CAPSULES . . . for real sleep tonight.

Bake Enough of These Tasty Muffins for Second Servings

. . . oatmeal, cheese and caraway seed make them different

Piping Hot Muffins Make Any Meal Extra Special

By JEANNE VOLTZ

Herald Homemaking Editor

A nugget of cheese melts in each Oatmeal Cheese Muffin as it bakes. Caraway seed in the batter add nutty flavor.

Daily Food Guide

And as any experienced mother and wife can tell you, piping hot muffins make the simplest meal seem something special.

The muffins will bake while fat beef patties grill on a griddle or fry pan. Cook a frozen vegetable and serve a made-in-the-morning dessert for supper in a hurry.

QUICK SUPPER

Grilled Beef Patties
With Mushrooms
Buttered Broccoli
Raw Carrots, Celery
Oatmeal Cheese Muffins
Fruit Gelatin

The secret of tender muffins is stirring in dry ingredients only until dampened, no more.

OATMEAL CHEESE MUFFINS

- ¾ cup sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons double acting baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- ¾ cup uncooked rolled oats
- ½ teaspoon caraway seed
- 1 egg
- ⅔ cup milk
- 12 ½-inch cubes Cheddar cheese

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into a mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture is like corn meal. Blend in oats and caraway seed. Beat egg and milk together. Add to dry ingredients all at once. Stir until flour mixture is dampened. Do not overmix.

Place a heaping tablespoon of batter in each of 12 greased 2½-inch muffin cups. Place one cube of cheese in each muffin cup. Fill muffin cups ¾ full of batter. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12 muffins.

Club Asks Classes For Emotionally-Ill

The Opti-Mrs. Club of Miami Beach hopes to persuade the Dade County School Board to provide classes for emotionally disturbed children, as it does for mentally retarded and handicapped children.

Currently the club is making a survey to determine the number of emotionally disturbed children in the county who are not attending public school.

The survey leaders, Mrs. Jack Low, Mrs. Harold Druker and Mrs. Irving H. Fell, are meeting with Dr. Joe Hall, school superintendent, and his staff, to explore the possibilities. Mrs. Low is legislative chairman of the fourth district of Opti-Mrs. Clubs; Mrs. Druker is president of the Miami Beach Club and Mrs. Fell is chairman of community affairs.

The three are getting survey information from the Mental Health Society, the Child Guidance Clinic, Miami Beach Social Service Bureau, the Montanari Clinical School and private doctors.

C. H. Keating Speaks Today

Charles H. Keating Jr., director of the nation-wide Citizens Committee for Decent Literature, will speak at the 10:30 a.m. meeting today of the Decent Literature Council of Dade County.

Mr. Keating is a resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, and is vacationing in Fort Lauderdale. Meeting will be held in the Coral Gables Woman's Club.

Another feature of the meeting, to be conducted by Mrs. Joe Popp, president, will be the film "The Accused" starring Loretta Young. The film shows how one town rid itself of obscene literature.

'I'm Having Parent Trouble'

DEAR MRS. RICKER:

I am almost 15 and I am having parent troubles. My father says I'll have to quit the Civil Air Patrol if my grades aren't better. I've been asked to a Record Hop three different times but he wouldn't let me go.

Dorothy Ricker

He doesn't want me to go to a gym where I can play with other boys. After I had three dates with a girl he told me he wouldn't drive me to pick her up again because it was too far (the round trip from my house, to hers and to school is about five miles).

He won't let me have a driver's permit, either. Dad says I'm too young to go steady and seems to think I'm going to drag a girl up the aisle instead of to a school dance.

He won't let me watch rock 'n roll shows like Dick Clark's and he'd "have a cow" if he knew I watched 77 Sunset Strip.

My mother thinks a boy I hang around with should be "investigated" because of my bad language, but the only bad language I hear is from my father. They won't let me do anything. What am I do do — wander the streets by myself?

NICK

While it seems that at least some of your complaints about your father are justified, I am wondering just how many of your difficulties you are bringing on yourself.

Dad may not be fair but can you truthfully say that you are doing your part to make this father-son relationship a happy one? Perhaps it might help if you did some serious thinking about the situation.

For example, start off with these questions: Why are your grades low? Can you do better in school? You should be doing your best. Believe me, later on you will be glad you did when you acquire a family of your own to support. That is when an education begins to pay off.

Even if your father does use "bad language," you obviously recognize it as being wrong so why copy it? And what sort of a person is the boy you hang around with? What kind of a reputation does he have?

What I am trying to point out, Nick, is this: Perhaps if you would be more cooperative Dad would be, too. Why not try it and see what happens?

'Boy Called Me By Wrong Name'

DEAR MRS. RICKER:

I have been dating a boy who has nice manners, is always very well-groomed, prompt and courteous. I was talking to him one day on the phone and during the conversation he called me Rita which is not my name. I know he knows a girl whose name is Rita.

He apologized immediately but since then has often referred to this incident. I'm wondering if he wished he was talking to her?

Do you think I should make light of it or should I give him some of his own medicine and call him by another boy's name?

"NOT RITA"

The boy probably was embarrassed when he called you by another girl's name and it still bothers him which is why he keeps mentioning it. However, once he apologized he should not have mentioned it again.

If you really like him, I can see no point in bothering with a petty revenge. All of us make conversational slips occasionally so my advice is to forget the whole thing.

CARRYING LILLIAN RUSSELL'S umbrella and all dressed up in 'Gay Nineties' gear is Mrs. Charles Cottone. She good naturedly wore and brought family heirlooms to the Miami Beach Woman's Club's recent party. Mrs. Cottone is wearing a dress which belonged to her aunt, Minnie E. Seebert of Buffalo, N.Y., in 1886, and she's carrying a blanket and quilt made for her aunt's wedding. The quilt has pictures of Grover Cleveland in it.

7-Year Fight Can't Rid Daytona of 70 Shacks

Florida's Shame

Unlike most states, Florida can't get much federal aid to fight blight, the plague of modern cities. The reason why is explained as part of a series by David Kraslow and Juanita Greene on how Florida is trailing in Urban Renewal.

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

The City of Daytona Beach Would Like to Remove This Eyesore
. . . but state law prevents it from doing so

Seventy shacks along a railroad track in Daytona Beach are standing in the way of slum clearance all over Florida.

Next week the Florida Legislature will be asked for a new law that will break the blockade that has lasted almost seven years.

Then Daytona Beach, Miami and cities all over Florida could begin catching up with other states that are fighting blight with money supplied mostly by the federal government and private enterprise.

It was T. A. Adams, a wealthy doctor, owner of some of those 70 shacks, who stopped Urban Renewal in Florida.

When the city of Daytona Beach moved in to condemn his Negro-occupied property, he sued. Five Supreme Court justices in Tallahassee agreed with his claim that it would be unconstitutional for the city to take his property, clear it, then resell it to private enterprise for redevelopment.

The decision has frustrated slum clearance efforts in Florida cities ever since, though many attorneys say the case involved was a weak one and not really typical of a good Urban Renewal project.

For all these years the decision has been cited as the reason Florida is one of the seven states that can't put its hand very far into the billion dollar federal Urban Renewal till.

Off the record, many city attorneys say the blockade might be busted by a new suit, or just a regular law. But to be really on the safe side the blight fighters have decided to try to do what Georgia did—change the State constitution.

Daytona Beach had big plans for the 6½ acre sore spot on the edge of its close in Negro section. And it already had in hand a $130,000 contribution and a $302,000 loan from the federal government to do the job.

It was going to condemn and buy the site, clear it, then split it up for sale to developers who would put light industry and warehouses on it.

Many of the displaced families were to be moved into a new Negro housing project.

When Adams went to court to keep his land, six other Florida cities joined in Daytona's defense.

But Supreme Court Justice John Mathews, now deceased, called the project a "real estate promotion." Agreeing with him were Thomas Sebring, Elwyn Thomas, Frank Hobson and B. K. Roberts.

The court made much of the fact that the plan would change a residential area to all commercial and industrial. This is not typical of most Urban Renewal projects.

Said Mathews:

"It is inconceivable that anyone would seriously contend that the acquisition of real estate for declared purposes set forth is for a public use or purpose . . . If the municipalities can be vested with any such power or authority, they can take over the entire field of private enterprise without limit so long as they can find a blighted area containing sufficient real estate."

Mathews made note of the fact that buyers of the land would be competing with other free enterprise.

Disagreeing with the majority of judges was Justice Glenn Terrell.

He said he could not see "where the sanctity of property rights is being violated."

"I do not think" he added, "the constitution was intended to be construed so as to condemn a community to live in eyeshot of a social blight like that revealed by the record."

A look along the railroad tracks, added Terrell, brings to mind "a dilapidated turpentine still or saw mill quarters, abandoned by the owner and preempted by bats, bed bugs and billy goats."

The strip looks today as it did then. Only the intervening years have increased the population density of the bats, bugs and billy goats.

Latins Back Amendment

A newly-organized Latin American civic and social group Tuesday endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment which would bring Florida more federal funds for slum clearance.

The group is the Instituto Civico Social de las Americas, headed by Joaquin Campos, owner of a typewriter company.

"Something should be done," said Campos, "to create proper housing for the working Latin Americans."

Many of them are concentrated, he added, in the rapidly deteriorating northwest area on the fringe of the downtown business district.

Fair to Open

The annual Club Fair of Miami Jackson High School will be at 8 p.m. Thursday at the school. Sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association, it will feature displays by the service and special interest clubs of the school. It is open to the public.

XAVIER CUGAT AND ABBE LANE DISCOVER
NEW VITAMIN-MINERAL PLUS FORMULA FIGHTS FATIGUE* in 20 minutes

Just released! New hi-potency iron-rich vitamin mineral tablets, that attack your tired, run-down feeling—right away when you need it most . . . then help build you up day by day!

No ordinary vitamin formula—only new INSTA-PEP makes this unqualified guarantee: No waiting days or weeks to feel more active—your tired feeling must go away—with your very first tablet—OR YOU PAY NOTHING!

"We do shows every night . . . travel a lot. People ask why we don't get tired. We take Insta-Pep every day—it takes away that tired feeling almost immediately,"—say Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane.

New York, N. Y. (Special)—A new day is dawning for thousands of men and women who feel tired and under par physically because they are not absorbing enough essential B-complex vitamins and minerals every day. For, at last, science has developed a therapeutic formula of extra high potency vitamins and minerals for people who lack these vital factors plus a remarkable "anti-fatigue" factor for immediate action.

The new formula has been extensively tested under normal living conditions with dramatic results. In case after case, people who felt so old and tired that they could scarcely drag themselves out of bed in the morning, reported they felt their fatigue "lift away" right after taking the new plus formula, and felt stronger and peppier with each day they took it.

Men made such glowing comments as: "I feel ten years younger—could dance all night" . . . "Now I can't wait to get to work in the morning . . . so much energy I don't know what to do with it."

Women who had been so tired and nervous that they snapped at their husbands and children, said nothing bothered them now—they felt wonderful and "even their husbands noticed the difference." Girls who had been unpopular due to listlessness became vivacious, and started dating.

NEW FORMULA WORKS FAST!

Even more remarkable—in a high percentage of cases, the people said their diet was already high in vitamins, or that they had been taking vitamin supplements of the usual kind—some with minerals. They were amazed that the new formula made such a big difference in the way they felt—often in just a few minutes—as nothing had seemed to help before. The secret is a safe, natural "anti-fatigue" factor to lift away tiredness right away—plus high potency vitamins, iron and other minerals to help build you up day by day. The new formula is now being released for sale without prescription, under the name of INSTA-PEP.

DON'T WAIT ANOTHER DAY!

If you suffer from vague aches and pains . . . feel too tired too often . . . just don't seem to have the verve, the vitality, the enthusiasm you used to have . . . this may be a sign that your entire system, for some time, has been suffering from "sub-clinical symptoms of vitamin and mineral deficiencies," especially of the vital B-complex vitamins. These vital factors must be supplied to the body regularly.

Each tablet of INSTA-PEP gives you 15 times the requirement of Thiamin (Vitamin B-1) to aid efficient circulation and steady nerves, 5 times the requirement of Riboflavin (Vitamin B-2) to inspire buoyant energy, and 5 times the requirement of Iron for rich, red blood, PLUS 20 other precious NUTRIENTS—vitamins, minerals, amino acids, even trace elements! No wonder just one tablet daily may do so much for you so fast!

Try INSTA-PEP with the amazing "anti-fatigue" factor, yourself! Take it every day with breakfast, and discover that wonderful "full of life" feeling! In fact, INSTA-PEP is so dynamic you should feel it starting to work . . . feel your tiredness lift away . . . the very first day you take it.

* GUARANTEED
INSTA-PEP is guaranteed to bring transitory relief from that dull, tired feeling in minutes, keep you feeling bright and alert all day, and help build up your entire system day after day . . . or return unused contents for full money back. INSTA-PEP is absolutely safe when taken as directed. Get it today!

Some Bits Were Good

Spring Is Just Too Big To Arrive in One Hour

NEW YORK—(AP)—An interesting entertainment idea tried to blossom on the television screen this week with "America Pauses for Springtime" on CBS-TV.

Using film, tape and live cameras, Producer Barry Wood and his staff broke out of the studio walls and ambled around America with a variety of entertainers against a variety of actual scenes.

The concept was big and imaginative. Why it did not come off for me personally I'm not exactly sure.

Perhaps an American spring is too big and complex to encompass in an hour of television. Yet I have seen it done movingly in a 14-line sonnet.

I enjoyed Marge and Gower Champion dancing in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park; Herb Shriner wandering around the hamlet of Coesse, Ind.; the West Point choir and the Air Force chorale.

Suddenly, when Genevieve appeared singing a French song in a Louisiana swamp, I wondered what in the world she was doing there.

Spring, delightful season though it is, simply failed to hold together a diffuse program.

It would have been simpler to bring the performers together under one roof than to ramble the country pursuing them.

WITH ONLY 24 HOURS left on his United States visitor's visa, Italian Actor Fabrizio Mioni landed a television job—and thus won a two-month extension of his visa.

Mioni makes his American debut in "A Sword of Marius" on "Goodyear Theater" (NBC-TV) April 13.

A chance meeting with Assistant Casting Director Lee Wallace in a Los Angeles restaurant resulted in Mioni obtaining the second lead opposite James Mason in the drama.

"Wallace asked me if I could fence," Mioni explained the other day. "I answered 'yes,' and he told me to show up for a screen test the next day."

When the test for the filmed show proved successful, Mioni was rushed to the Los Angeles Federal Building Feb. 16 and was granted a two-month extension of his expiring visitor's visa.

Mioni studied architecture in Italy before he became interested in the theater. He appeared in two plays, 15 TV shows and four movies in Italy before coming to the United States.

Now he has one principal hope: to spend the rest of his life in this country.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Wednesday, April 1st, 1959

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A.M. is excellent for any civic affairs or anything in connection with the general public. See that everything is running smoothly where your work is concerned and that your credit is A-1. P.M. take it easy and get to bed early.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Fine day for ferreting out facts and figures that will be invaluable in your career. Particularly be sure you meet charming newcomers who will fit nicely into the pattern of your life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Money matters may not appeal right now, but delve into them for here is your opportunity to establish real security for yourself. Be sure to collect what is owed you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you adopt a less personal and more intellectual attitude toward those whom you consider to be associates in any way, this will bring about far better results.

LEO (July 22 to August 21) Since there is so much for you to do today, it is best to plan your labors and work methodically so that you clear the slate for the important days ahead. Attend to most important affairs first.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22) Early A.M. is fine for visiting hairdresser or barber, getting your appearance at its very best. Then be alert while at the wheel or in motion. Make all vital social visits. FOR YOU COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for May send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895, Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Home and family ties should occupy your thoughts today, even while out in the world of affairs. Be loyal to the nth degree. P.M. buy pretty little gifts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A day for calling, visiting, corresponding — whether for business or socially. Aspects fine for reaching real understanding with everyone important to you in the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) No time today to dwell on ideas and dreams of the future. Concentrate on the important financial and security matters that require attention NOW.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think of yourself today. Dress in best taste, put your best foot forward and be off to see those persons who can help you materially in your endeavors or social career.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget about gadding about today and give your attention to pressing financial and personal matters at home, with kin, or at office and with business associates.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Excellent day to analyze and know what your true aims in life are, so that you can quickly start the ball rolling in the right direction by seeing key people.

Persons and Programs

CBS-TV's Keep Talking has the wobbles again. Orson Bean, currently filming "Anatomy of a Murder" in Michigan., has been offered the fourth panel seat on NBC-TV's new game show, Laugh Line, which debuts April 16. Elaine May, Mike Nichols and Dorothy Loudon are the other panelists.

ABC-TV's Maverick and Lawman and CBS-TV's Ed Sullivan all out-trendexed NBC-TV's "Music With Mary Martin" Sunday night. Miss Martin pulled a disappointing hour rating of 13.3. Her daytime NBC-TV special, "Magic With Mary Martin," did considerably better.

Claudette Colbert landed the emcee job on CBS-TV's special day-time series, Woman, which will be launched May 19.

Opening lead: Seven of ♠.

Alert defense by West foiled his opponent's valiant attempt to make the three no trump contact today.

South opened with one diamond and West overcalled one spade. North did not quite have enough for a free bid and South made the normal reopening double to show a good hand. When his partner showed the hearts he tried two no trump.

Any more drastic action is to be avoided at this time, inasmuch as North's hand is an unknown quantity. Sight must not be lost of the fact that he had been drafted into the bidding. North, boasting of eight high card points, was quick to carry on to game.

The seven of spades was opened and East's jack went to declarer's king. Declarer appeared to have nine tricks in full view until West showed out on the second lead of diamonds. The budget had to be replanned. Four heart tricks now became indispensable to declarer's operations. In light of West's vulnerable overcall it seemed likely that the queen of hearts was on side. However, a cover of the ten of hearts would block the suit and permit the cashing of only three heart tricks.

In the hope of getting by without a cover, South led the nine of hearts. This would have lulled many players into playing low at trick two but not West. A rapid calculation made it clear to him that the play of the queen could gain, but could not possibly lose. That declarer intended to finesse the jack there could be no reasonable doubt. If declarer had the nine and a small heart only three tricks were available to him, but if he happened to have the nine and ten alone the cover was imperative. So the queen came up.

South was not yet thru. He exited with a spade in an effort to force a club lead from West; but East took the trick with the nine and relieved partner of the pressure by returning a club.

Daytime TV Shows

6:30 a.m.

7 — NUCLEAR PHYSICS — Guest lecturer on "Electron Optics" will be Dr. Albert Rose, research physicist.

7

7 — TODAY — Jazz pianist Barbara Carroll switches about and sings. The studio will be crammed with toys to show the latest directions in that business.

8:45

4 — MOVIE — "East of the River," (1940), John Garfield, Bill Lundigan, Brenda Marshall. The gangster world is the subject.

11:00

4 — I LOVE LUCY — How does one explain to a husband when one gets carried away at a furniture sale?

1 p.m.

7 — MOVIE — "Riders of the Stars," (1954, William Lundigan, Herbert Marshall, Richard Carlson. The assignment is to ride into space, capture a meteor, bring it back for investigation.

2:00

10 — DAY IN COURT — A widow sues a practical joker when her husband dies of a heart attack.

4

4—SCIENCE FICTION THEATRE — A scientist whose new processes can create supermen — and dead men — is played by Marshall Thompson.

5

7 — MOVIE — "Merrily We Live," (1938), Constance Bennett, Brian Aherne, Billie Burke. Because of his shabby appearance, a writer is coerced into taking a position as a chauffer.

5:30

2 — COMPASS ROSE — "Cedar Bough's Bargain" tells the story of a slave girl among the Indians of the Pacific Northwest.

7

2 — SPEAKING SPANISH — The vocabulary of a South American food market.

4 — MOVIE — "The Suspect," (1945), Charles Laughton, Ella Raines. An innocent friendship with a young girl forces a man to kill his wife.

7 — CITIZEN SOLDIER — "The Attack."

10 — THIS IS ALICE — Alice adopts a Brahma bull. Things are made worse when she decides to enter him in a rodeo.

7:30

2 — DECISION FOR RESEARCH — A panel of scientists will discuss "The Mysterious Pulse."

7 — WAGON TRAIN — Richard Anderson plays a one-armed Quaker who is branded coward for his pacifist beliefs, until cholera hits the train.

10 — LAWRENCE WELK — Musical highlights include "My Little Pizza Pie," "Save-a-Penny Super Store" and "Sunday Means so Much to Me."

8

2 — LIVING HEBREW—Simple conversation phrases for everyday use will be stressed.

8:30

2 — WORLD AND PHYSICS — Dr. Teller will answer the query, "Does the Atom Really Exist?"

4 — U.S. MARSHAL — "The Fence" stars John Bromfield.

10 — OZZIE AND HARRIET — "Togetherness" is great stuff — but there can be too much of any good thing.

9

2 — WILD LIFE CLUB — "Back Country Trout" as a gamefish will be discussed.

4 — MILLIONAIRE — When a man is reputed as one who stretches the truth with frequency, it is difficult for him to get people to believe he has come into $1,000,000.

7 — MILTON BERLE — Uncle Miltie has assembled some fine people tonight. He has Edgar Bergen, who comes complete with a select set of animated splinters. And Peggy King, who is the pretty, perky one. And Joe Besser, one of the veteran stooges of vaudeville, who makes a fine art out of heckling.

Milton Berle and Edgar Bergen
... host and his "dummy" at 9 on Ch. 7.

10 — DONNA REED — The effect of a rock-and-roller on a teen-age girl is shown tonight, when one of the breed shows up in town. Presto, he gets the measles and is confined to Donna's house. James Darren, a genuine guitar-twanger, plays the singer and gets to plug his current recording again and again and again.

9:30

2 — GARDEN CLUB — Mrs. James Steel is tonight's expert on "Growing and Propagation of Hibiscus."

4 — I'VE GOT A SECRET — film.

7 — BAT MASTERSON — Using one of his most effective weapons — romantic charm — Bat battles the beautiful "boss-lady" of Denver.

10 — ACCUSED — Pamela Mason portrays the defendant charged with slaying an elderly woman for money.

10

2 — NUCLEAR ENERGY — Wm. L. Laurence, science editor of the N. Y. Times, is guest on a program devoted to the beginning discoveries of nuclear energy.

4 — CIRCLE THEATRE — While grabbing a fast lunch one day, producer Robert Costello and some of his staff suddenly arrived at the notion that people are full of awesomely blind faith about the safety and cleanliness of the food they eat. Tonight, on "The Innocent Killer," they show how New York's Department of Preventable Disease tries to keep germs away from food and people — a timely plot, in view of last week's poisoned fish scare in Philadelphia and New Jersey. Arnold Moss, Scott McKay star.

7 — THIS IS YOUR LIFE — film.

10:30

Greetings

This may look like some new technological monster of the machine age who is about to speak to you. But, in reality, it's an 18-foot high, 30,000-pound "mask" that will form part of an 82,500-kilowatt steam turbine generator unit for the Puerto Rican water resources authority near San Juan. The mouth-like opening admits the initial, high-pressure, high-temperature steam from the boiler into the turbine. Steam is then returned to the boiler for reheating and is readmitted to the turbine through the two eye-like openings. This unit is shown at the General Electric plant in Lynn, Mass.

Automation Spreading Its Wings

Brain Still Mightier than Machine--but for How Long?

Last of a Series

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

So far, no one has been able to make a machine that will duplicate the functions of the human brain.

People who worry that they may be made obsolete by a machine can take comfort in the knowledge that no collection of transistors, printed circuits, and ferro-magnetic cores that has yet been devised can actually think.

Present - day computers weigh about 3,500 pounds and occupy from 250 to 300 square feet of floor space, but can duplicate the function of only a few of the brain's 10 million nerve cells.

Before a computer operator, or systems man, can get answers from his machine, he must explain the question to it as simply as though he were talking to a three-year-old child.

The processing section of a computer operates on electrical impulses. Information is stored on megnetic drums, discs or tape. The correct sequence of impulses brings forth the right answers.

Getting answers from a computer is similar to selecting a record on a juke box, except that punch cards or magnetic tapes are usually used in place of push buttons.

Numbers and letters are used to lay out, or program, a question so it can be understood by the machine.

* * *

THE SYSTEMS analyst must know the address of each bit of information stored in the computer, and the code which tells the machine what to do with the information after it has been located.

A skilled analyst may spend hours or even days programming a complicated question for a computer.

Recently, though, Sperry Rand developed a computer to take the place of the systems analyst.

Called the Univac magnetic amplifier solid-state computer, it can read simple English instructions and convert them into a code which can be understood by the machine.

The new Univac makes it possible for a layman, with a little training, to do his own programming.

One of the new Univacs will soon be installed at the General Development Corp. offices on Coral Way to keep track of thousands of accounts receivable.

Burroughs, International Business Machines, and other manufacturers are producing character-sensing equipment capable of reading the amount on a bank check and sending out impulses enabling a data processing system to deduct the amount from the depositor's account and bring his statement up to date.

* * *

ONE SUCH machine has already been installed at the Dania Bank. Plastic identification cards given to depositors are used to stamp their names and account numbers on checks and deposit slips in a manner that can be read by the machine.

Bankers say the fully-automated bank is still a long way off.

"How can they build a machine that can decide if someone should be given a loan? There are some things in business that can never be accomplished without human intervention."

These limitations are not recognized by the men who design and build computers.

Scientists have already built machines that can play a fair game of checkers or chess.

* * *

LAST WEEK, some research engineers announced at a professional gathering in New York that they have made some progress toward the development of a machine that will learn from experience and make decisions.

Other scientists are at work on a computer that will translate foreign languages — particularly Russian — into understandable English in a fraction of a second.

Still others are studying the structure of the human brain in the hope that they can recreate it electronically in simplified form.

Most of these advanced research projects are financed by the government for military purposes.

A machine capable of making decisions based on experience might be used to evolve strategy for a battle.

Since war and business have many factors in common, it's likely that "thinking machines" developed for military use will turn up in the business world in due time.

When they do, those well-advertised cigaret smokers who like to think for themselves may find it easier to let a machine do their thinking for them.

U.S. Cracks Down On Miami Broker

The federal government Tuesday revoked the broker-dealer registration of Sills & Co., a Miami stock brokerage firm whose president was convicted of grand larceny last year.

The Miami office of the Securities and Exchange Commission said the order stemmed from actions of Robert Bernard Sills, who headed the firm in the Ingraham Bldg.

The SEC said the firm converted customers' funds to its own use, filed a false financial report, and failed to keep accurate books and records and to comply with other SEC regulations.

Sills was convicted in federal court here last October of grand larceny in connection with a $14,625 stock deal between the company and an out-of-state restaurant owner. He received a suspended sentence.

Both Sills and the firm's sales manager, Arthur P. Green, are under indictment on mail fraud and securities fraud charges. Sills is free on bond but Green was never taken into custody and is still being sought by authorities.

When the SEC began looking into the Sills firm, it charged that Sills and Green "engaged in acts, practices and a course of business which operated as a fraud and deceit upon customers."

Ryder Expands Again

Ryder System Inc. of Miami, the nation's second largest car and truck leasing firm, announced it will buy the Dixie Drive It Yourself System of Birmingham, Ala., for some seven million dollars.

Dixie, which reported revenues of 5.7 million dollars in 1958, is headed by John W. Black Jr., who will become a vice president of the Ryder System.

Dixie's fleet of 3,000 cars and trucks will bring to more than 15,000 those operated by Ryder System.

When the purchase is completed in June, Ryder will have 130 locations in more than 90 U.S. and Canadian cities.

"This acquisition gives us locations in seven large cities where we had no previous operations," said President James Ryder.

FPL Report

Picture Of Our Growth

By JAMES RUSSELL
Herald Business Editor

A bright picture of Florida's growth in 1958 and its potential in the years ahead was painted by Florida Power and Light Co. Tuesday in its annual report to stockholders.

Its own net income, the utility said, jumped more than four million dollars to a total of $24,773,000.

The rest of the area FP&L serves, stretching across South Florida and northward along the east coast to the Georgia border, grew at about the same rate. And a similar growth trend was essentially true for all of the state.

In a look at the economy of Florida and the Miami area, FP&L found that:

THE AVERAGE WEEKLY population gain in the state in the past three years was 5,032 (of which 3,885 moved here from elsewhere).

MIAMI LEADS all large metropolitan areas in the nation in the rate of growth of its manufacturing industries.

A TOTAL OF 151 new plants located in the Miami area in 1958, bringing nearly 10 million dollars in additional payrolls here.

JET AIRLINERS are bringing "Florida's sunshine nearer than ever before" to northern tourists and businessmen.

MANUFACTURING employment, which fell off eight per cent for the nation as a whole last year, continued to rise in Florida.

"Last year," the utility says, "when there were reverses in most of the nation as a result of the business recession, Florida's rate of growth merely slowed down a little."

Florida Power and Light spent 78 million dollars on expansion and improvement of its facilities last year, the largest amount it has ever spent. By the end of the year, it was serving 480 towns, cities and communities. The firm's operating revenues were nearly 145 million dollars, up 13 million over 1957.

The utility said sales of electrical appliances in its service area in 1958 "were more than double the national average."

Looking to the future, FP&L's board chairman, McGregor Smith said, "Our greatest challenge continues to be keeping up with Florida's steady and rapid growth."

$54 Million In Payments

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Health Insurance Institute reported benefit payments by insurance companies to the people of Florida who are covered by health insurance policies reached a new high during 1958.

In the period from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31, 1958, the Institute said, an estimated 54 million dollars was paid out to help cover the cost of hospital and doctor bills, and to replace income lost through sickness or disability.

Another Split for IBM

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

International Business Machines Corp. directors recommended a three-for-one split of the company's 12 million shares of common stock.

The split, if it is approved at the annual stockholders meeting April 28, would be the third for IBM in three years. The company split five for one in 1956 and two for one in 1957.

Prior to the announcement Tuesday, IBM stock was being traded at about $519 a share. The news caused the price to jump 21 points.

The directors also announced they will pay a 50-cent dividend for the second quarter of this year on the new shares.

IBM has been paying 65 cents quarterly on present shares. It also paid a stock dividend of 2.5 per cent in January this year and in January 1958.

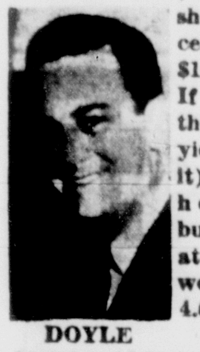
It's Dividends, Not Interest on Stocks

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. Maybe you can explain how the interest is figured on preferred stocks. Is it on the face amount or on the amount that the stock is trading at?

What I mean is this: Suppose a 7 per cent preferred stock has a face value of $100. At that rate, it would mean that interest of $7 a year is paid on each share. But suppose the price of the stock goes up to $150 a share in trading on the stock exchange. Does that mean that the interest paid on each share is increased to 7 per cent of the trading price.



DOYLE

If it does, the interest should be 7 percent of $150, or $10.50 a year. If it doesn't, the return (or yield as you call it) to the stockholder who buys the stock at $150 a share would only be 4.6 per cent.

And, if the interest paid isn't changed when the market price of preferred stock rises or falls, how do you explain this? I notice several different companies have 7 per cent preferred stocks listed on the stock exchange. In one case the stock trades around $150 a share. In another case the quotation is $40 a share. Why?

A. In the first place, you get dividends — not interest — on stocks. That goes for both preferred and common stocks. Interest is paid on debt securities, such as bonds, debentures and notes.

The dividend rate on most preferred stocks (except for participating preferreds) is fixed. It is set at the time the stock is issued. After that it does not change, no matter what the market price of the stock happens to be.

Quite often, the dividend will be spelled out in dollars and cents. For instance, one share of $100 par, $7 dividend, preferred stock pays $7 a year.

But, more likely, the dividend will be set as a percentage of the par (face) value of the preferred stock. So, a share of $100 par, $7 per cent preferred stock also pays $7 a year.

Par value and the dividend rate can be set at almost any price. The 7 per cent issue you mention trading around $40 is probably a $25 par preferred. The fixed dividend feature of high - quality preferred stocks often sends their market value well above par value.

* * *

Q. I have read, in reference books, that some bonds are traded "flat." What in the world does that mean?

A. It means that the market price of certain bonds is the full price. The buyer does not have to pay the seller any interest that has built up since the last interest payment date.

Most bonds are dealt in "and interest," meaning that the buyer pays the market price plus any accrued interest.

Income bonds, which pay interest only when earned, are normally traded flat. So are bonds which are in default (haven't met their interest payments.)

* * *

Q. What do people mean when they say that a stock is "selling a certain number of times its dividend?"

A. You should be able to figure that one out yourself. If a stock is trading at $50 a share and it pays $1 a year in dividends, it is said to be selling at "50 times dividend." You're more likely to hear that a stock is selling "a certain number of times its earnings." If the same stock (trading at $50) earns $2 a year, it is said to be selling at "25 times earnings."

COMPLETE N.Y. STOCKS: Market Dips Again

Stocks in 3rd Week Of Decline

NEW YORK — (AP) — A month-to-month advance stretching over 13 months ended Tuesday as the stock market declined again and showed a net loss for the month of March.

A narrow decline for the month was shown in the Dow Jones industrial average, thus interrupting what has been hailed as the greatest bull market in history.

The decline came as the market headed into its third week of falling prices after hitting its latest series of record peaks in mid-March.

Zenith had another splurge to the upside, gaining 4. Thiokol dropped 3⅛, Philadelphia & Reading lost another 5 and H. L. Green slid 7-8.

American Stock Exchange prices mixed. Volume was 1,990,000 shares compared with 2,010,000 Monday.

This has been the rate of interest paid for 1-year Loans made to us.

12% Per Annum

Interest paid to you monthly. Many have taken advantage of the opportunity.

BUT . . .
After April 10, 1959 the rate will be only . . .

10% Per Annum

HOWEVER . . .
If your loan to us is made before April 11th, 12% per annum interest will be paid for the entire year.

ALSO . . .
Loans received on or before the 10th will bear interest from the 1st. Interest paid monthly.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SPORTS Car Club of America, Florida region, has scheduled a big two-day race program at Master Field, Opa-locka, May 16-17. Three members have guaranteed $12,000, necessary to set up the show. The events will be just about the same as the Orange Bowl show two years ago. Ken Coleman of Palm Beach, regional executive, will be in charge of the show. The racing program will be directed by Lucky Casner of Miami.

BELL

The show, although all amateur, will attract dozens of well-known and capable drivers. In Florida there are many skilled pilots, with cars equal to anything the professionals drive. Profits will be divided equally between Variety Children's Hospital and Miami Police Benevolent Association.

A Problem

Something's gotta give in Japan. A Tokyo district court has ruled that U. S. troops and military bases in Japan violate Japan's new constitution. And the "no war" clause in the constitution was written by U. S. occupation officials.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way, even now, to save human lives.

Musical Mingling

Miami Beach Civic orchestra — about 70 members — will try something new Thursday night: a party for its friends at Roney Plaza. These friends will be permitted to ask questions, make suggestions, and finally listen to some music. Singers Joyce Farber and Bob Ellis and pianist Dilson Petrey also will be on the program. Mayor Kenneth Oka, president of the orchestra association, will preside.

$96,725 Lure

Nassau's 1959 sports car race program will be backed by $96,725 in purses, trophies and other expenses. The Bahamas Automobile Club and Bahamas Hotel Association met after the Sebring races and agreed on big purse increases. The four days of racing have brought international publicity to the British islands off our shore and sanction of the Royal Automobile Club of England.

There'll be $20,000 in purses, $3,000 in accessory monies, $8,000 in starting money for the 10 top international drivers. The rest goes for travel, hotels, entertainment and purses. Virtually all of the big name drivers at Sebring approved the new setup.

Donn Differs

Before Joseph E. Widener died he had an opportunity to come up with the Florida Derby at Hialeah Park. Instead he named his big three-year-old race the Flamingo.

"There's but one Derby," he used to say, "The English race at Epson Downs. We all should stay away from that name."

But Jimmy Donn thought differently. So when he got Gulfstream rolling again he added the Florida Derby. And it's going to be quite a race Saturday afternoon. The three top horses will be Easy Spur, Troilus and Sword Dancer. But 10 may start.

Easy Spur beat Troilus eight lengths last week. But he's not that easily beaten when he has his running shoes. I saw Concordian beat Armed by six or eight in the McLennan one time. Two weeks later with even better weight advantage, he let Armed beat him just as badly.

Do you realize that California's Silver Spoon, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, is a daughter of Citation? He hasn't many good offspring so far, but she's mighty fast.

Wife's Last Day: At 18, A Sudden Ache

Funeral services for Joy Hester, 18, of 11265 SW 61st Ter., will be held at 11 a.m. today.

By JOY REESE SHAW

Herald Staff Writer

The day was Sunday, March 29, in the year of our Lord, 1959. Easter. A day of Joy.

5:15 P.M. Joy Hester was inside tinkering around in the kitchen of the shining new house.

She was still in her new, green bathing suit. She looked cute in it.

Her husband, Gerald, 26, was outside tinkering around with their new boat.

The young Hesters intended to go water-skiing if the weather cleared up.

5:20 P.M. Joy took a couple of aspirin. Maybe they would stop the headache that seemed to be developing. She sat down and turned on the television set.

She watched the program—but mostly she thought about the new house, about all the wonderful wedding gifts, and how really settled she felt. After all, they had only been married since New Year's Day.

5:20 P.M. Outside, Gerald thought about Joy—and the night he met her at a party . . . and about his job as an engineer with the Mackle Company.

5:25 P.M. Joy's headache was blinding. She stumbled outside—frightened and crying . . . "I can't see right . . . I can't see . . ."

5:30 P.M. Gerald held the ice pack to his wife's head . . . talking gently . . . reassuring her.

5:45 P.M. Emergency room of Doctor's Hospital . . . such a funny headache . . . just to get help . . .

7:25 P.M. It was taking so long . . . everything would be all right though . . . just a headache . . . it had to be all right . . .

9:00 P.M. Best to go home now, they told Gerald. She's unconscious. Nothing he could do . . . kind explanatory words from the doctor . . . blood vessel . . . cerebral hemorrhage . . . just have to wait.

12:30 P.M. The phone jangled hollowly . . . as if it knew. As if it knew . . . that Joy was dead.

* * *

Gerald's mother: "I couldn't believe it. I was over only that morning for a cup of coffee . . . she was so well . . ."

Gerald: "At first I couldn't cry." And of the house: "I will never live there again."

The doctor: "She was probably born with a weak spot in the artery and never knew it. It's like a blister that breaks. Not uncommon . . ."

His voice was sad:

"Someday, I think . . . we'll be able to diagnose and operate before the bleeding . . ."

Jackie Van Marlen Tried the Forbidden Fruit

'. . . we all felt terrible.'

Despite Warning, 12 Schoolgirls Eat Poison Seeds

By PHIL MEYER

Herald Staff Writer

Twelve little girls tasted the forbidden fruit of the poisonous sandbox tree Tuesday and ended up in the hospital. It threw their fourth-grade class at Shenandoah Elementary School, 1023 SW 21st Ave., into turmoil.

"I told them three times to leave those seeds alone. I could have just died," lamented their teacher, Mrs. Ruby Ruettger after the girls had been packed off to a hospital, pronounced healthy and sent home.

The children picked up the seeds while on a "nature walk" to look for birds they had been studying.

"It's good, it tastes like a walnut," said one of the children, according to Mrs. Ruettger. Then other girls tried them, despite the teacher's warnings.

Boys, offered the tempting fruit by the girls, stoutly refused. "They just wanted to watch birds," explained Jackie Van Marlen, 9, who admitted swallowing her share.

Back at the school, one girl became nauseated, and others started to turn green.

School officials quickly linked the illness to the seeds and called University of Miami botanist Julia Morton, who advised them to send the girls to a doctor.

"They called us into the principal's office and asked us how many seeds we'd all eaten," said Jackie. "Then they told us they were poisonous.

"We all started crying. We were afraid our mummies were going to spank us. Then my mummy came and I saw it was all right, so I stopped."

All 12 were taken to Variety Children's Hospital, where the examining physician looked them over and reported "no serious effects."

"I made a couple of them vomit, but that was all," she said. "I just sent them home for observation. It was a lark for most of the children."

"Paulette (Paulette Moran) had to throw up with me," said Jackie, giving her version. "They gave us this medicine to make us vomit and it tasted pretty bad. But I feel good now."

Mrs. Morton said the sandbox tree, a spiny plant from Latin America, contains a poison "like snake venom."

Sandbox Tree

. . . poison, like a snake

The oily seeds are used in some parts of the world to stun fish and make them easy to catch, she said. Out West, they are used to poison coyotes.

Mrs. Ruettger said the fact that the seeds had fallen from the tree and dried out probably made them less toxic. "If eaten off the tree, they can be very dangerous," she said.

"But it turned out all right, and I'm very much relieved."

Called 'Small, Disruptive' Group

Jury Blasts Critics Of Cancer Institute

No Names Mentioned In Report

Charge of Funds Mishandling Denied

By JUANITA GREENE

Herald Staff Writer

Critics who have been hammering away at the Cancer Institute at Miami had the blast turned on them Tuesday by the Dade County Grand Jury.

They were described in official findings as a "small, disruptive" group motivated by selfishness and a determination to "rule or ruin."

The Grand Jury report mentioned no names, but it included in its criticism "some of the persons who made the complaint to us."

"The investigation made by the Grand Jury," the report read, "leads us to the conclusion that they have not acted in good faith."

Known to have gone to the Grand Jury with a long list of grievances against the institute was Robert Hanley, minority member of its board of directors.

Most outspoken public critic of the institute has been W. L. Philbrick, funeral director and Hanley's employer. Philbrick was former Institute first vice president.

"These few persons," said the jury of the unnamed complainers, "have made public accusations of wrongdoing which have no basis in truth or in fact."

There has been no mishandling of institute funds, the jury found. And it reported that financial audits have been made "in accord with the usual accepted practices of other civic and charitable organizations."

In his attacks, Philbrick has demanded a certified public audit of all institute funds.

A long-running feud between Philbrick and Dr. J. Ernest Ayre culminated Monday in the filing of a libel suit by the doctor against the funeral director.

On the heels of the jury's action, Mrs. C. Hubbard Davis resigned as treasurer and board member of the Institute.

She commented it would be "unrealistic" for her to remain with the institute under the present directors.

Philbrick's attorney, former Gov. Fuller Warren, said Tuesday his client would have no comment on the Grand Jury report since he was not named in it.

Cancer Institute May Join UM

The Cancer institute at Miami has been conferring with University of Miami officials for some time on the possibility of affiliation, Dr. J. Ernest Ayre, institute director, said Tuesday.

Both sides agree, he added, that the time is not ripe, but that eventually the affiliation will be accomplished.

The institute, explained Ayre, would insist on maintaining its autonomy and would not allow interference with the cytology center. It was here that mass testing for cancer of the cervex was pioneered.

Barrier To Hoffa Ruled Out

Sole Recognition Of Rival Vetoed

By DOM BONAFEDE

Herald Staff Writer

An opinion handed down Tuesday by County Attorney Darrey Davis removed possible legal barriers to the Teamsters Union drive to organize Dade county and municipal employes.

Davis bluntly told Metro Commissioners that a proposed resolution to give sole recognition to an AFL - CIO union "is most objectional from a legal standpoint."

DAVIS

The request was made by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, rivals of Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters Union for Dade's 25,000 county and municipal workers.

In other moves in the labor dispute:

FEDERATION OFFICIALS reported that five new organizers have arrived on the scene to beef up the AFL-CIO counter-drive against the Teamsters.

METRO OFFICIALS were asked by the Teamsters to deduct union dues from the paychecks of an estimated 1,000 new members.

In his opinion, Davis claimed the proposed resolution "recognizes a particular union, and expresses a preference for it above all others, at least by implication.

"Obviously, it is designed to induce county employes to become members of this particular union."

He added:

"It is our opinion that no such resolution as the one proposed should or may be adopted by the County Commission. To do so would be directly contrary to established principles of law."

Actually, the resolution never reached the floor of Tuesday's commission meeting because Commissioner Chuck Hall, who was scheduled to offer it, was absent because of illness.

Davis' opinion, however, may kill the plans for proposing the resolution.

Henry Feinstein, New York City union leader masterminding the Teamsters campaign, came to Miami Tuesday to argue personally against the resolution.

He hailed Davis' opinion as "a victory for our side."

Referring to a demonstration staged Tuesday by city workers in New York, Feinstein commented:

"When the time is ripe, we'll have demonstrations here too."

In the AFL-CIO camp, Robert Hastings, assistant director of organization, was sent here from Washington to take charge of the federation's drive.

Hastings said he was transferred to Miami "to stave off the Teamsters and build up our membership."

He added that 10 to 12 new organizers will be assigned to his staff.

Baby-Sitter Stranded at Home Three Days

Diver, Wife, Son Found Safe in Drifting Motorboat

By CHARLES TAYLOR

Herald Staff Writer

A Miami professional diver, his wife and 10-year-old son were found safe aboard their 24-foot boat late Tuesday after three days of drifting without food or fuel in a stormy sea.

Their four other children were stranded at home with a worried baby-sitter.

Friends said there was a possibility that several other persons were aboard the inboard motorboat "Drag-On" with Mr. and Mrs. Forest V. Gerstner, of 4380 NW 10th St., and the boy, Scotty, but this was not certain.

A New York-based tug, the Julia C. Moran, reported it found the disabled Gerstner boat drifting about 20 miles northeast of Vero Beach and took it in tow Tuesday night.

It was to turn the boat over to a 40-foot Coast Guard Cutter at the Miami seabouy off Government Cut early today.

Friends said the Gerstners left Crandon Park Marina Sunday morning for Bimini in the Bahamas where Gerstner was to spend two or three weeks on a commercial diving job. The "Drag-On" was rigged with a canvas awning but no cabin.

A neighbor said Gerstner talked of taking several other men with him, but a check Tuesday revealed at least two of the men had not made the trip.

Mrs. Gerstner and Scotty were to fly back to Miami Monday to join the couple's other four children — two boys and two girls — who were in the care of a baby sitter, Mary Jones, at the Gerstner home.

Gerstner called his home by ship-to-shore phone from the tug to tell his children he and their mother were "safe and fine" but tired from their ordeal. He said they ran into a storm Sunday night and were disabled, then apparently blown north in the Atlantic.

The Coast Guard said the Gerstners apparently ran out of fuel and food while wallowing in the storm. Gerstner didn't explain, however, just what disabled the cabin cruiser.

Willis DeCamp of 3525 NW 82nd St., a personal friend of the Gerstners, said he notified the Coast Guard the couple was missing Tuesday morning when he sent a messenger to the Gerstner home to deliver something and learned the distraught baby sitter and her mother were still there.

Another friend who was to meet Mrs. Gerstner and Scotty at the airport Monday, when they were due to return, said she also phoned the Coast Guard when she learned they were not aboard the plane, then checked and found they never arrived in Bimini.

METRO commissioners agreed Tuesday to ask the State Road Board to name the 36th St. Causeway after Mrs. Julia Tuttle, one of Miami's founders. The Miami Women's Club suggested the name.

'Mr. Tennis' in Middle

Paris Jeweler Sues Horace Dodge, II

By TOM LOWNES

Herald Staff Writer

A Miami Beach tennis promoter Tuesday found himself in the middle of a $19,050 Federal Court suit filed by a French jewel firm against Million-heir Horace Dodge, II. The suit demands payment on trinkets which Dodge claims his wife and the promoter ordered behind his back.

The jewelry dealers, Van Cleef & Arpel of Paris, Cannes, and points west claimed that the 58-year-old Dodge owes them the money for a pile of baubles billed to him in 1957.

They say Dodge's fifth wife, former showgirl Gregg Sherwood, 34, and Eddie Herr, Miami Beach's "Mr. Tennis," picked out the jewelry during a 10-day summer sojourn in the Dodges' villa on the French Riviera.

The jewelers' suit maintains that Herr, acting as Dodge's "secretary," ordered the rings, wristwatches, earrings and pins sent to the villa and the bill sent to Dodge's office in Detroit.

Dodge, who answered the suit from Palm Beach where he is now living, contends that: 1— Herr was not his secretary; 2 — He never authorized purchase of the jewelry; 3 — He is not responsible for Gregg's "luxury" debts.

As for paying for the gems, Dodge insists that his income is doled out by his 88-year-old mother — at her discretion.

The Van Cleef and Arpel people say that payment is now 19 months overdue.

If the Dodges don't want to make good on the debt, the suit suggests, there's always Eddie Herr, who signed Horace's name on a receipt.

Herr, who lives with his wife at 1649 Bay Dr., Miami Beach, says: "I was only acting as a messenger — I'm an innocent bystander."

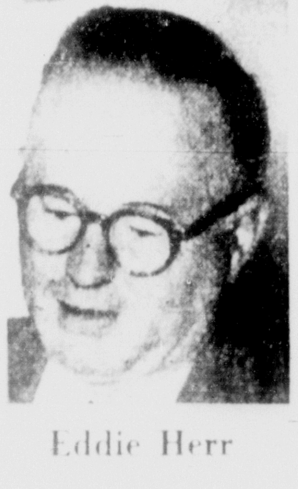
"Mrs. Dodge and I are just real, real good friends — I've always remained in the background. At her invitation I accompanied them to Europe in 1957 and went to Cannes with her, her mother and her son when Horace stayed over in England.

"Horace cabled from London and promised her everything under the sun — including the jewelry. He knew she was getting it. He's not paying for it just to be spiteful," said Herr.

Tuesday, the blonde Mrs. Dodge said in Palm Beach: "My husband can't possibly say he doesn't know about the jewelry — he's wearing one of the watches."

Horace Dodge

Gregg Dodge



Eddie Herr

"And besides," she said, "I'm sure that it will all be settled without any of this legal business."

Gregg is probably right. More than $100,000 in previous Dodge debts have been paid out of court — but not before suits were filed.

More Names—Same Data Bared

WASHINGTON — (AP) — House records showed Tuesday that government funds were paid to five political organizations for congressional office space during 1957-58.

Twelve House members rented space from persons or organizations with the same family name.

The records, made public by the House disbursing clerk, are for the year ended last June 30. Rental vouchers for the current fiscal year, which started last July 1, will not be available until later.

The law allows House members $1,200 a year to rent office space in their home districts when free space is not available in government buildings.

The records show these amounts as having been paid to political organizations for office rental for the following members or former members:

Rep. James C. Healey (D., N.Y.), $1,025 to the Sedgewick Democratic Club, New York City, 1957.

Former Rep. Emmet F. Byrne (R., Ill.), $1,250 to the 19th Ward Republican organization, Chicago, 1957 and 1958.

Rep. Charles M. Teague (R., Calif.), $1,025 to the Ventura County Republican Central Committee, 1957 and 1958.

Rental payments to persons with family names similar to those of the renting congressmen included these:

Rep. Watkins M. Abbitt (D., Va.), $860 to George Abbitt Jr., Appomattox, Va., 1957 and 1958.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R., Pa.), $780 to Robert B. Simpson, Huntingdon, Pa., 1957 and 1958.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman (R., Mich.), $1,070 to Leo W. Hoffman, Allegan, Mich., 1956 and 1957.

Rep. Otto E. Passman (D., La.), $1,525 to Passman Wholesale Equipment Co., Monroe, La., 1957 and 1958.

Rep. Ralph J. Scott (D., N.C.), $900 to Verna D. Scott, Danbury, N.C., 1957 and 1958.

Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski (R., Wis.), $575 to radio station WLIN, care of Alvin E. O'Konski, Merrill, Wis., 1957.

Rep. Joel T. Broyhill (R., Va.), $1,100 to M. T. Broyhill and Sons Corp., Arlington, Va., 1957 and 1958.

5,000 Racists Stage March on Richmond

Demand Halt to Mixing

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the State Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southern Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Miami Boy Flees Jail in Ocala

A 15-year-old Miami boy, arrested in Ocala after running away from home, broke out of the Marion County Jail with two other youths Tuesday and escaped.

Miami juvenile authorities said they were staking out the boy's home here. They said he ran away March 25 because his parents disciplined him for poor grades.

Marion County Sheriff F. L. McGehee said the three boys climbed on top of a shower stall and cut a hole in the plaster ceiling.

Farm Bloc Stands Pat

House Rejects Slash In Aid to Farmers

WASHINGTON —(UPI)— President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andresen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved conservation practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

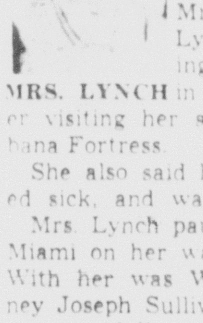
Nye's Mom In Cuba to Help Pilot

The mother of former Coral Gables Pilot Alan Robert Nye flew to Havana Tuesday seeking to free him from prison, where he had been held since Dec. 26 in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate Fidel Castro.



MRS. LYNCH

"Alan told me he is not guilty," Mrs. Helen Lynch of Whiting, Ind., said in Havana after visiting her son at La Cabana Fortress.

She also said her son "looked sick, and was very tired."

Mrs. Lynch paused briefly in Miami on her way to Havana. With her was Whiting Attorney Joseph Sullivan, who tried unsuccessfully earlier to have Nye freed.

Nye is accused of hiring out to cohorts of deposed Cuban President Fulgencio Batista to assassinate Cuban Prime Minister Castro, who was still fighting the revolution when Nye went to Cuba in December.

Nye, who formerly lived in Coral Gables, has repeatedly denied the assassination charges and contended he went to Cuba to join the rebels. The former Navy pilot was picked up only five days before Batista fled Cuba.

Finance Company Executive Is Dead

C. E. Burroughs Jr., 51, longtime finance company executive, died Tuesday.

He lived at 6715 SW 32nd Ter.

For the past nine years Mr. Burroughs served as manager of Beneficial Finance's Coral Gables office. He was a past treasurer of the Miami Consumer Finance Association.

He started out with the company in 1932, in Hammond, Ind., coming to the Miami office in 1938.

He was graduated from the University of Illinois, and was a member of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity, a World War II veteran and a member of the Coral Gables Post, American Legion.

His wife, Lila, survives.

Services will be at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at Van Orsdel's Coral Gables chapel. The American Legion Guard of Honor will conduct graveside services at Miami Memorial Park.

New York Mayor Is Hooted

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards, in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a so-called economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Bride Gets Kiss, Groom Goes Home

SWANSEA, Wales — (AP) — Keith Bowkett took his new bride, Violet Epps, to the movies, kissed her good night at her parents' doorstep, and then went home to his own folks.

The couple, both aged 16, have no home of their own.

"Until we find a home, we'll just see each other in the evenings as we used to when we were courting," said Keith after their wedding at the registrar's office.

Keith and Violet were also two years too young to join the wedding reception in a local bar. While the guests drank their health, Keith's father said: "We'll take something over to the house for them."

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

WRONG. MARRIAGE with someone from your own national and cultural group will probably require fewer adjustments. But it may also mean less stimulus and richness than a more challenging combination. America is great, partly because peoples from so many nations and races have added to its heritage. Marriages, also, can often benefit from bridging differences. More may depend upon your attitudes toward your differences, than the differences themselves.

2. No. Problems are more a sign of emotional maladjustment, than of intelligence. The bright boy who is in the wrong class may have far more problems than the ordinary youngster in the right group for him. Some of the most difficult problems in school arise because children are in situations that do not challenge them enough. Sometimes children who are real problems in their school class, succeed brilliantly when promoted a grade or two.

3. False. Many individuals have personalities of their own that enable them to stand out against the demands of their group. Studies of soldiering units, for example, show that such individuals can effectively prevent the development of cliques. Independence and individualism, even in small matters, helps groups to preserve that quality of difference that is the essence of democracy.

1953 STUDEBAKER "V8"

HERE'S one that you'd better circle with your red pencil. It's our 1953 STUDEBAKER "V8" COMMANDER 4 door sedan and — here's what you're looking for — It's special equipped with OVERDRIVE to help you get that famous Studebaker high gas mileage. You'll find a brand new spotless Glacier White over Mandarin Rust. The well kept factory original interior has been sparkled with NEW Custom tailored to fit expensive white Naugahyde and nylon color matched seat covers. Besides the money saver OVERDRIVE you'll have the big "8" tube Studebaker radio, directional signals, famous CLIMATIZER thermostat controlled heating and fresh air system and way above average white wall tires. It's guaranteed in writing for 90 days by Grentner Bros. and best of all — there's no cash needed—just trade in your 1949 model for the down payment.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Up Betimes--at Dawn!

DIARY OF A MIAMI PEPYS on Easter: Up betimes and this betimes was shortly before dawn, because I had to be about to hide the eggs before the children were up.

This unfortunate state of affairs resulted from the fact that our offspring believe that the Bunny Rabitt distributes the eggs. We sat up until a late hour the night before coloring the eggs, during which all of the young ones got liberal applications of coloring on their faces and hands which did cause their good mother considerable anguish, since she had to have them scrubbed and pretty in the morning.

Did manage to force myself out of bed while the sun was still low on the horizon and did hide the eggs in as obvious places as possible, inasmuch as I do have but little faith in the intelligence of my children, who at times seem to be as addlepated as their father.

Hardly back abed before the eldest girl child was up and about and ere long had the other two dashing about like bellowing steers, all of which bedlam made it impossible to go back to sleep, and did arise again with much mumbling and grumbling, at which the Good Woman did say I was acting like an old fool instead of a father who should be happy to be having fun with his children.

I remarked rather sharply that I could have considerable enjoyment if left alone in bed, and that I already knew where the eggs were, but this did me no good and I joined the egg hunt.

* * *

ALTHOUGH I had placed the eggs in most prominent positions, did have to lead youngest daughter to each egg she retrieved, which made me recollect on own childhood when I spent each Easter hunt searching at the spots where my older sister had just found an egg, and sadly reflected that heredity must be here to stay.

It being too noisy to return to bed, did digest morning newspaper with cup of coffee as the Good Wife tried to scrub and dress the children for Sunday School, a trial made more arduous by the hard boiled eggs which they persisted in scattering about the house. It did seem to me that very little of the eggs reached their stomachs.

After Sunday School, the ordeal of washing and dressing the children began all over again, because we were to be in the Twins Parade, and the confusion did become so great that I secretly wished I could sneak from there for a bit of quiet and solitude. Knowing my mate's temper at such time, did have good sense to keep such thoughts to myself and tried to hide in chair in a corner.

Family at length washed and dressed again, and after much anxious scanning of skies headed for parade assembly with two daughters proudly holding new parasols and purses, while wearing new gloves. Heated debate all the way to town, with girls telling the boy that he had no such fancy things and with boy telling girls that the handkerchief in his coat pocket and the new bow tie did set him off more than their foolish feminine decorations.

Did seem to me that girls had much the better of this argument, but chose not to enter into discussion.

* * *

AMIDST great confusion did arrive at courthouse where parade was to gather, and after losing wife and family, finally found them, at which the Good Wife did upbraid me for getting lost, which me thinks was most unfair since I had known where I was at all times.

Trying to disguise our unhappiness with one another, the wife and I did lower our voices and begin to beam and smile when parade officials led us to the car in which we were to ride.

Despite the threatening look of the weather, a goodly crowd was in the parade and an even goodlier crowd was gathered along the curbs and on the sidewalks, and I did expand with pride as we rode along with our children.

As becomes a dignitary, did bow and wave at the spectators along the way, which seemed to mightily puzzle them, for they seemed not to know why I was behaving in such fashion.

Did best to get the children to wave and bow, but with singular lack of success. Fear greatly that I could never campaign for public office with such lack of cooperation on part of family.

At end of day, to home for more hard boiled eggs. Expect fully to be eating on same for good many days, which does fill me with dread.

Jackson Teacher Receives Honor

Sarah Bennett, head of the girls' physical education department at Miami Jackson High School, has received a 1959 honor award from the Florida Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

She has taught physical education at Jackson for 12 years and was recognized by the association for her "outstanding contributions in physical education and recreation to the state association, Dade County and the county association."

Jack Kofoed Says

Half Century Ago Things Were Good

WILLIAM Bradford Williams, who lives in Miami Shores, stirred up a battalion of memories when he mentioned the number of newspapers published in Philadelphia half a century ago. There are only three left . . . Bulletin, Inquirer and Daily News.

In those days the morning papers were the Public Ledger, Record, Times, Press, North American and Inquirer; in the evening the Star, News, Call, Item, Chronicle Herald, Telegraph and Bulletin, and on Sundays an extra entry, a scandal sheet called Taggert's Times.

Some already had folded up when I went job hunting in 1912, and one by one they all slipped down the drain, except the Bulletin and Inquirer. There was too much competition, and the weak sisters couldn't take it. Even Cyrus H. K. Curtis, who made a fabulous fortune with such magazines as the "Saturday Evening Post" and "Ladies Home Journal," never could get his Ledger out of the red.

Working conditions for reporters were rough as cobbled streets, but a young fellow really learned the business. Technically, we had a 48-hour week, but who paid attention to such a technicality?

I never did less than 60, and if anyone hinted there should be over-time pay for extra work, he was tabbed as a potential anarchist.

That wasn't good, but everything about the newspaper business fascinated me so much I never gave long hours a second thought. So, while on the subject of my home town, I'll scratch some memories out of the old nostalgia box.

* * *

STREET VENDORS were always a source of interest. Some cried, "Crabs, Baltimore crabs, hard shelled and devilled," some "Peppery Pot, get your Peppery Pot." That is a soup, unknown in these parts, and wonderful.

The horseradish man came along pulling his little cart filled with huge radishes and a grinding machine, and, when the chill autumn nights arrived, another with a smoking brazier and hot chestnuts.

Itinerant German bands played "oompah, oompah" music on street corners, and hurdy gurdy men with gaily caparisoned monkeys riding atop the barrel organ, fascinated every youngster.

In spring Delaware River shad, the most wonderful of all fish, made delicious dinners. Dye mills along the river killed them off years ago, but the memory lingers . . . So do recollections of Forepaugh's theatre, where old melodramas like "East Lynne" drew weeping audiences . . . Bradenburg's Dime Museum . . . Keith's Chestnut St. theatre, with Herman's gymnasium on the top floor, where prize-fighters of the day trained . . . the Philadelphia to Cape May steamer, "Republic," which supplied vaudeville shows for passengers . . . The Tenderloin centered on Race and Vine Sts. between 8th and 10th . . . Theatrical boarding houses like Dad's and the Hurley House . . . The New York Giants riding in horse drawn buses from the Majestic Hotel to the Phillies' ball park.

* * *

WE DIDN'T have the advantages of today . . . automobiles, airplanes, television sets, home electrical appliances. Men worked long hours for small pay. Women toiled endlessly, washing, sweeping and cleaning by hand. A dollar bought a lot more than a dollar does today, but a laborer toiled 12 hours for 20 cents an hour.

It seemed an interesting period, but we were young, and any period would have been interesting.

There was no worry about wars, atomic bombs, rockets to the moon, but plenty about the prosaic things of life. The good old days actually weren't such good old days, but half a century from now people will say the same thing about 1959.

* * *

THOSE DAYS seem a hundred years ago, instead of 50. It's strange how such inconsequential items as these stick in the mind. I remember the beer smell when passing Hess's saloon . . . women's skirts dusting sidewalks and whirling up little flurries of dust . . . the way a horse's hoofs sounded on cobble-stones . . . the glitter of snow against store lights on Germantown Ave. during a blizzard . . . the thrill of sitting in a 25 cent gallery seat, and waiting for the theater curtain to go up. Such memories may not be important, but are pretty nice.

* * *

THERE'S A LOT of furore and hullabaloo about cigarets, and cancer that smoking may cause. So, Herb Benson, who runs "Tobacco World" in Coral Gables, sent me a collection of old time brands, including Homerun, Picayune, Sweet Caporal, Mecca, Egyptian Deities, Melachrino, Rameses and Helmar. I don't know if those butts were any better than today's, or if people didn't smoke as much, but nobody connected lung cancer with "coffin nails" then. I do recall that a girl I used to go with . . . the first I knew who smoked . . . insisted on me buying her straw tipped Melachrinos. They were snarky and expensive, 20 cents a pack to the best of my recollection.

The cigaret people used to include little cards printed with photographs of ball players, and the kids did a thriving business trading them.

Later I became a collector of pictures from the Police Gazette, prize fighters, actresses and burlesque queens mainly. They were large on fine enameled paper, and were my pride and joy. I kept those photographs hidden, for mom would have taken the broom handle to me if she'd found them.

Let Mother Fall From Her Dream

By ANN LANDERS

ANN

DEAR ANN: I'm a mature girl, 19, and hold a responsible position with an accounting firm. My mother is only 36 and has been a widow for seven years. She's lively and attractive, and people frequently take us for sisters.

About six months ago she started to date a divorced man. He is 30 years old, successful in business and very goodlooking. I was shocked when I first met him because I felt he was too young for Mother. But I said nothing because she was crazy about him and she hoped it would lead to marriage.

The three of us had a lot of fun together — until last week. He asked me to meet him for lunch and requested I say nothing to mother. I knew something was wrong. To put it bluntly, he's in love with ME, not her. He swears he never meant it to be this way, and I believe him. He's really a very decent guy.

I have no romantic interest in him whatever. In fact, I have a boy friend in the Navy. Do you think I owe it to my mother to tell her? I'm afraid it may break her heart. Yet, maybe she ought to know.—JASMINE

Dear Jasmine: Say nothing. When her dream world collapses it will be tough enough without this additional barb. Spare her the humiliation.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I'm a widower, 87, although I do not look my age. I have a first cousin who is a widow, age 65. We've always gotten along famously. She lives in a nearby city and I would like to invite her to visit me. Would it be proper to ask her to stay in my home? We are both people of excellent reputation and I don't want to start any gossip.

I have a housekeeper, but she doesn't stay overnight. Thank you.—OLD TIMER

Dear Old Timer: In my opinion, it would be perfectly proper for a man 87 years old (who doesn't look his age) to invite his cousin to visit in his home. You'll both be perfectly safe without a chaperone.

DEAR ANN: I've been divorced three years and have two children. The court awarded me custody of the children.

Last year the boy became hard to handle. Whenever I tried to correct him he'd run to his grandparents and tell them I was mistreating him. Then he would phone his father. I couldn't take this sort of thing, so I let his father have him.

My ex-husband has remarried and my son doesn't like the new wife. I miss my boy terribly and wish I hadn't let him go. Do you think I should try to get him back?

He hurt me so when he left me for his father that our relations are strained now. When I see him on Sunday for a few minutes I don't know what to say. Please give me some advice. I need it.—Y.L.R.

Dear Y.L.R.: This is not a matter for me to decide. Discuss this with your attorney and set up some meetings. First talk with your son, and perhaps he'd rather be with you now. He may be "easier to handle," knowing the alternative is living in the home of a foster mother whom he doesn't like.

Then discuss it with your ex-husband. He may feel the boy is better off with you under the circumstances. Your attorney should be in on all the discussions, because he'll be able to make an unemotional evaluation, based on what he sees and hears.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL to Concerned: Why should you be? These two sound as if they deserve each other. And they'll make an ideal couple. She has a heart of stone and he's a chiseler.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL to Corkey: He loses. The picture is me. It is recent. I will be 41 in July . . . (and thank you Doll.)

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Miami Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Washington' Out of Style

EUXTON, England —(AP)— Some of the folks on Washington Lane want their lane to have another name.

It used to be called German Lane after an old Euxton family. But in 1941 American troops arrived and for patriotic purposes the name was changed.

Now 25 of the 40 people living there want it changed back and have demanded that the local council take action.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms ... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Florida Derby Gains Class In Short Time at Gulfstream

NORMALLY IT requires years of tradition for a racing feature to acquire class. This is not true of the $100,000 Florida Derby, which will have its eighth running at Gulfstream Saturday.

FITZSIMMONS

The feature revived by President Jimmy Donn has in its brief existence produced upsets, thrills and human interest stories.

Under the latter heading there is none to top the 1955 Derby. The track was deluged by rain and its muddy condition led many to believe Nashua, the juvenile champion of the past year, would be scratched.

The late William Woodward Jr., owner of Nashua, was aware that thousands had come to see his horse run. He called Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons in New York and seeking his advice, added, "I don't want to disappoint them even if it snows."

Confident of Nashua's ability to handle any kind of footing, Fitzsimmons told Woodward to go ahead and race the horse. It was a tough assignment for Nashua, but he won by a neck.

* * *

LETS BACK TRACK to the inaugural of the Florida Derby:

1952—A field of 18 entered and three horses charged through the stretch to produce a photo finish. The film revealed Brookemeade Stable's Sky Ship had won over Handsome Teddy and Sandtop. Jampol, the favorite, finished fourth.

1953—The Derby was put in the class of other big features when Donn made it a $100,000 added event.

Money Broker was flown here from Orleans—he refused to enter the plane twice—and won. He was not so shy on the track, outrunning such contenders as Dark Star, Jamie K., Dr. Stanley and Matagorda.

1954—It began to appear a plane trip was the proper way to tune a Florida Derby winner. Correlation was flown here from California and Florida fans had their first view of Jockey Willie Shoemaker as his mount beat Goyamo, Next Page, Sea O'Erin and others.

* * *

Air Invaders Halted

1956—They flew in Terrang, Like Magic and Count Chic from California, but Needles, the Florida bred, came from far behind to beat Count Chic by three-quarters of a length. Suspense was rough for fans waiting for Jockey Dave Erb to get Needles moving.

1957—The scant field of five had class. Calumet's General Duke not only beat Bold Ruler, odds-on favorite, but equalled a world's record of 1:46 4-5 for the nine furlongs under 122 pounds. Trainer Fitzsimmons, who watched the race from the rail, murmured, "Bold Ruler was not good enough" and walked calmly away.

JONES

1958—Calumet won again, but Tim Tam, bet down to 35 cents on the dollar, had to give his all in a stretch run to beat Lincoln Road. The finish brought the fans to their feet screaming. Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, but a broken leg bone in the Belmont ended his racing career. This was a shocking disappointment to Trainer Jimmy Jones.

* * *

Heading for Augusta

YOUR REPORTER'S only regret in heading for Augusta, Ga., to see The Masters golf tournament is in missing the Florida Derby . . . It's quite a show and there'll be tuneful music and pageantry in the infield lake—provided by the water skiiers from Dick Pope's Cypress Gardens . . . And it would have been interesting to chat with Stan Musial, who'll be in Miami Saturday night and Sunday with the Cardinals for their exhibitions with Paul Richards' Orioles . . . The latter play three games here prior to the windup series . . . Danny Murtaugh is bringing his Pirates back tonight for a single game . . . The Phillies, who include several former Marlins on their roster, play here Thursday and Friday nights . . . Ed Bouchee who did so well with the Marlins, is at first base . . . Dick Farrell, 1956 Marlin, now considered one of the best relief pitchers in the National, is on their staff . . . The Phillies have another attraction in Richie Ashburn, the National's leading hitter of last year.

MUSIAL

* * *

Why Hollywood Succeeded

THE HOLLYWOOD KENNEL CLUB is ending its second best season tonight . . . The track will show a gain of almost $3,000,000 over last season . . . President William Syms and General Manager Tommy Lynch think part of their success was in giving the fans more marathon races, which seems to be what the greyhound followers want . . . Next year they plan to add even more marathons to the program . . . If Bud Jack, the great distance runner, wins the Derby he'll tie the record of 16 triumphs registered by the famed Neshoba three years ago . . . They say that Mar Dilly has the best chance of beating Bud Jack . . . Hollywood this past season broke individual mutuel and attendance records . . . The largest crowd was 9,059 and these fans wagered $319,150.

Rosewood, Big Effort Go in Suwannee Today

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Calumet Farm's Rosewood and Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort — two of the country's top distaff runners — clash today in the 12th running of the Suwannee River Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

A field of 10 fillies and mares was entered in the mile-and-one-sixteenth test which carries a purse of $15,000 added.

Charlie Burr, who guided Rosewood to victory in last year's Suwannee River, will attempt to make it two in a row and the Calumet mare is the likely choice today under top weight of 120 pounds. She won Hialeah's Black Helen Handicap in her last outing.

Big Effort, with Bill Hartack in the irons, looms as the main threat. The Brookmeade filly will carry 114 pounds and comes off an impressive distance race last Saturday in which she was beaten only a neck by the good colt, Day Court.

Others starters in the Suwannee River are Searching Wind, 102 pounds and William Cook; Water-Sparrow, 104 pounds and Calvin Stone; Tara Tella, 109 pounds and Jimmy Combest; Quick Wit, 104 pounds and Bill Harmatz; Oil Rich, 108 pounds and John Sellers; Sabena 2nd, 106 pounds and Lois Cook; Happy Princess, 112 pounds and Walter Blum, and Edna Allen, 109 pounds and John Choquette.

Happy Princess was second to Rosewood in the Black Helen but "retired early" in her last outing.

Quick Wit have been showing speed at the Hallandale oval and could be dangerous at the weights.

SWEET ERROR, a filly and the colt Matthias, both ridden by Johnny Choquette, won the two divisions of Gulfstream Park's Dinner Stakes for juveniles Tuesday.

Sweet Error stepped the three furlongs of the second division in 33 1-5 seconds to beat Our Jody.

Matthias, in the first division, beat Benell, the Florida Futurity winner by 2½ lengths.

Tuesday's crowd of 10,817 wagered $946,307. On the corresponding day last year 11,266 bet $1,006,476.

Jim Martenhoff Joins Herald As Outdoor Coverage Grows

Jim Martenhoff, master of everything from a dinghy to a schooner, has joined The Herald as boating editor.

The combination of Martenhoff and Vic Dunaway, who'll concentrate exclusively on his duties as fishing editor, gives The Herald a crack one-two punch in the outdoor field.

Martenhoff, 39, joins The Herald after serving as outdoor editor of the Miami News for two years.

Addition of the Brooklyn-born newspaperman marks the start of expanded boating coverage by The Herald. Martenhoff's comprehensive stories will appear both in the sports section and the Fun in Florida Sunday magazine section.

Such things as tips to boaters on care and maintenance of their craft will be featured regularly.

Martenhoff's interest in boating dates back to his youth. Raised on Long Island, he began sailing a beat-up Sharpie around the twisting channels of the south shore as soon as he could get out of his parents' sight.

Jim's first job was in a boatyard. "A man handed me a stack of sandpaper," he recalls, "and pointed to a boat. I spent a week sanding it."

After working up to boatyard foreman, Martenhoff decided to take a crack at journalism. He was first employed by the now defunct Review Star on Long Island and later moved to Newsday, where he was chief photographer.

Martenhoff was newsphoto editor of the Associated Press for 12 years, acting in a supervisory capacity in New York, Boston and Miami. He took a turn at pure camera work in Raleigh, N.C., setting up a photo bureau, and in Tokyo, from where he worked in covering the Korean war for seven months.

"During this time I never got over a basic liking for the outdoors," says Martenhoff. "I spent summers in New England (1945 to 1958)—camping, mountain climbing and winter skiing. I fished everywhere from Martha's Vineyard to Key West."

In boating, Martenhoff studied naval architecture. He learned navigation, piloting, boat handling and seamanship.

Phils Get Braves' Conley In Three-for-Three Swap

LOPATA

CONLEY

CLEARWATER —(AP)— The Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night traded Catcher Stan Lopata and infielders Ted Kazanski and Johnny O'Brien to the Milwaukee Braves for Pitcher Gene Conley, Shortstop Joe Koppe and Infielder-Outfielder Harry Hanebrink.

Philadelphia General Manager John Quinn announced the trade at the Phils' training camp here.

"I think the deal will help both clubs," he said.

Asked about Conley, who hasn't reported to the Braves for spring training because he is playing professional basketball with the Boston Celtics, Quinn said:

"We don't know Conley's committments. If he's committed to play with the Celtics, we'll have to go along with that committment."

He said he felt Conley "looked better last year with an 0-6 record than he did the previous year."

John McHale, Milwaukee vice president, said he hopes the acquisition of O'Brien will settle their second base problem.

"Johnny will be given every opportunity to play second base," he said. "Manager Fred Haney had him in Pittsburgh, and he's quite high on the lad."

Milwaukee has been trying to plug its second base gap since the loss of Red Schoendienst, who is undergoing treatment for tuberculosis.

Lopata will add depth to the Braves' catching staff and as pinch-hitter. McHale said Kazanski would be sent to Louisville.

"I've had my eye on Ted for a long time," McHale said. "I always felt he was brought up too fast. We'll see if he can't find himself at Louisville."

As for Conley, McHale said:

"Apparently Gene has made up his mind that he won't play baseball with Milwaukee. I hope he can help John Quinn at Philadelphia."

Meet Pirates Tonight

O's Back for 5 Games

The Baltimore Orioles return to their home base tonight for a rematch with Pittsburgh's Pirates at Miami Stadium. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Orioles conclude their Florida exhibition schedule with five games in succession at the Stadium. Philadelphia follows the Pirates in for Thursday and Friday night games, and the St. Louis Cardinals wind up the local schedule with a night game Saturday and afternoon contest Sunday.

Rookie Jerry Walker, Baltimore's most outstanding spring pitcher until the Miami Marlins belted him around last Saturday night, is slated to start tonight. Walker has tossed 20 1-3 innings, allowing seven runs (three by Miami) and 16 hits.

Billy Loes (seven innings, seven hits, five runs) and Skinny Brown (five innings, six hits, four runs) will follow Walker.

Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh will send two of his top hurlers, Vern Law and George Witt, against the Orioles.

LOES

The veteran Law was a 14-game winner in 1958 while Witt was the rookie sensation of the National League, winning nine of 11 decisions after being recalled from Columbus in June. The 25-year-old right-hander posted a phenomenal 1.61 erned run average.

Don Hoak's eighth-inning homer broke a 4-4 tie and propelled the Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday at Lakeland.

The victory was Pittsburgh's 11th against as many losses in the Grapefruit League season.

At Orlando, meanwhile, the Orioles scored twice in the 11th inning, then blunted a Washington comeback to win, 9-8. It was Baltimore's 12th victory in 18 games.

Leafs, Hawks Even Playoffs

TORONTO — (AP) — Big Frank Mahovlich, a bust in the early part of the season, scored at 11:21 of sudden-death overtime Tuesday night to give the Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins and tie their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series at two games apiece.

Mahovlich whipped a 15-foot backhander behind Goaltender Harry Lumley as the Bruins tried desperately to kill off a major penalty that couldn't have come at a worse time.

The series moves to Boston for a fifth game Thursday and returns here for a sixth meeting Saturday. Boston captured the first game 5-1, and the second 4-2.

Center Brian Cullen, who has seen limited service this season, and Gerry Ehman, the overtime scorer Saturday, were the other Leaf marksmen. Gronco Horvath and Gerry Toppazzini picked up the Bruin goals.

* * *

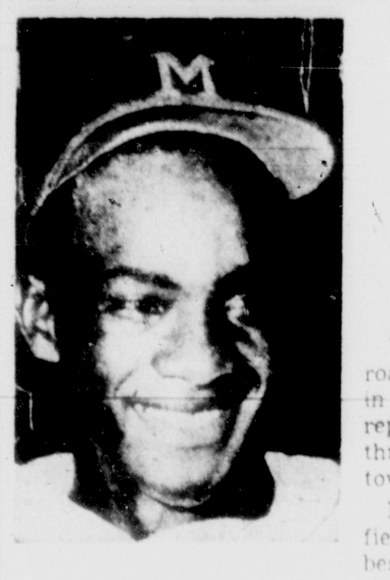
CHICAGO — (AP) — Chicago's underdog Black Hawks, playing rough hockey at its best, defeated the Montreal Canadiens, 3-1, to square their semifinal Stanley Cup series at two games each.

With 13:26 to play, Lorne Ferguson let one fly from about 20 feet out. The puck skidded past Montreal Goalie Jacques Plante and into the net for the winning score.

The standing-room-only crowd of 17,538 — largest Stadium throng since the Hawks met the same Canadiens in the 1953 playoffs — gave Ferguson and his teammates a two-minute ovation.

Valentine Always No. 1; Miami Loses

Marlin 'Rocks to Riches'



Fred Valentine
. . . quiet, confident

By EDDIE STORIN
Herald Staff Writer

When Fred Valentine was roaming the streets of Memphis in his early youth he earned a reputation as the best rock thrower on the south side of town.

Now the fleet Marlin center fielder is said to possess the best throwing arm in the Baltimore Orioles' farm system.

"Those rock fights we used to have did it," Valentine said prior to Miami's 5-0, one-hit defeat at the hands of Dallas Tuesday night at Flamingo Park. "We used to have some dandy battles and they strengthened my arm."

Being tops is nothing new to Valentine. He has been the best in about everything he has undertaken athletically during his 23 years.

—In college, Fred was an All-America quarterback. In 1956 he sparked Tennessee A and I to the National Negro football championship via a 41-39 victory over Florida A-M and Willie Galimore in the Orange Blossom Classic here.

—In Class B (Wilson), he was voted player of year in 1958 after leading the Carolina League with a .319 average.

—In the Army Valentine scored the highest mark in physical education among the trainees in his group. And he was chosen one of the top 10 men in his outfit.

Now the switch-hitting outfielder is moving up to triple-A baseball and he intends to keep right on being No. 1.

"I'm sure I can hit International League pitching," said Valentine in a quiet, confident tone. "To tell the truth I think I can hit in the big leagues, but I need this year here."

Fred has been Miami's most consistent swinger in the exhibition games. He leads the club with 12 hits and his 10 runs batted in are five more than the next best Marlin. He's by far the best looking rookie in camp and barring injury will open the season in center field.

Baseball scouts were flipping offers at Valentine before he entered Tennessee A and I. "I wanted to get that education first," he explains, "so when they gave me a football scholarship I grabbed it.

"But baseball has always been my first love. Two or three pro football teams talked to me, but I signed with the Orioles before the draft in 1957."

* * *

TUESDAY'S GAME was one of the few this spring in which Valentine hasn't hit safely. But he had plenty of company as only First Baseman Len Tucker was able to manage a base hit in Miami's fifth defeat in five games with Dallas.

Tuesday's Beach Bout

Stitch, Beecham Sign

Louisville's Rudell Stitch, who gummed up records of two local boxers in the past, goes after his third Miami Beach scalp at the Beach Auditorium next Tuesday night.

Stitch meets Jimmy Beecham, now a welterweight after fighting two years in the middleweight division, in a 10-round feature bout announced Tuesday by Promoter Chris Dundee.

But Can He Hold It?

Burke Has Masters Course by the Tail

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — Jackie Burke has the tough Augusta National Golf Course by the tail. The question is, can he hold it when they start playing for keeps in the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday?

The 36-year-old Houston professional, winner of the Masters in 1956, shot a practice round 64, eight under par, Tuesday following a spectacular 66 Monday. The competitive course record is 64, set in 1940.

"This is just shadow boxing," Burke apologized uncomfortably, as if a little embarrassed at winning the annual warmup derby. "But I must say I don't know when I have played better."

None of the other contestants in the star-spangled international field have approached Burke's proficiency over the 6,980-yard, par 36-36—72 layout which is lush and green and playing extremely long.

Jackie attributes his flashy form to two things: (1) an operation on his right hand a year ago; (2) a set of new clubs with broader faces such as those he used to win four winter tournaments in a row in 1952.

"A year ago I had a cyst on my hand," Burke said. "It pained me terrifically. I couldn't practice without the hand getting very sore. I had the cyst cut off. Now everything is fine."

For the second straight day the course basked under a warm sun, raising hope of a bright, clear weekend.

Homko Quits At Columbus

John Homko has resigned as head football coach at the new Christopher Columbus High School.

Homko became the Catholic school's first football coach when it opened last September. He previously coached 14 years at now defunct St. Theresa High.

Pete Aiello, now serving at Sparta, N.C., will replace Homko as football coach. Dick Pollock will move up to Homko's athletic director status. Pollock, also will continue as basketball coach.

Homko was noted for getting the most from the least at St. Theresa. He took a squad of 25 and annually molded it into a solid small school team.

Lack of practice facilities (no football practice field) apparently prompted Homko's decision to leave football and Columbus.

Jackson's David Gal took medalist honors with a 38 as the Generals defeated Coral Gables, 3½-2½, in a nine-hole high school golf match at Biltmore Tuesday.

Metzger 'Bowler of Week' After 697 in Masters League

By DICK EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

John Metzger ignited a late-season spurt by pacing The Herald's Bowler of the Week contest Tuesday.

Metzger, The Herald's scratch Bowler of the Year in 1958, earned his first weekly certificate off a 236-225-246—697 in the Masters League at Bowling Palace.

Joining him as certificate winners are Pat Temple (women's scratch), Muriel Lawrence (women's handicap) and Harry Hagens (men's handicap). Several other outstanding scores — like Clarence Donaldson's 625 and Tim McCarthy's 643 — were ineligible for handicap honors because their averages were unlisted.

Perhaps the week's biggest feat was Pat Temple's 275 game in the Teachers League at Bowlerama. It won the 146 averager a dollar a pin. Her other less lofty games, (121-137) gave her a 533 set.

Mruiel Lawrence, a 147 averager in Hialeah Lanes' Pinpoppers League, bowled a 189-172-207—568. That gives her a 637 handicap set.

Hagens rolled a 225-194-246—665 in the Southwest Handicap League at Bird Bowl. With handicap, he figures up to 716.

The week's nominees:

BOWLERAMA: Pat Kasmarek (549 scratch), Mary Vercillo (616 handicap), Peggy Wortman (554 scratch), Amy Nelson (506 scratch), Maizie Lakosky (501 scratch), Julia McGlothlin (489 scratch), Phyllis Todd (584 scratch), Patricia Temple (275 scratch), Tex Manning (700 handicap).

PLAYDIUM: Clarence Donaldson (625 scratch), Dick Kramer (634 handicap).

CLOVERLEAF: Noralee Morris (494 scratch).

TROPICAL: Dot Bange (610 handicap), Floyd Feid (253 scratch).

PALACE: John Metzger (697 scratch), Tim McCarthy (643 scratch), Thelma Cuozzo (564 scratch), Rose Ortega (579 scratch).

HIALEAH: Muriel Lawrence (637 handicap), Mike Condry (543 scratch), Frank McDonald (597 scratch), Carl Gustafson (547 scratch), Bette Fetterman (526 scratch).

COLISEUM: Leo Demorese (662 scratch).

Fleeman Takes A Second Shot At Roy Harris

DALLAS —(AP)— Roy Harris, the ambitious young man from Cut and Shoot, gives Donnie Fleeman another chance to lift his Texas heavyweight championship in a nationally televised fight here tonight.

TV FIGHT

Fleeman, the lightheavyweight king from Midlothian, tries for a second time to beat the rugged fellow who went 12 rounds with world's heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and is seeking a second opportunity.

The Cut and Shoot school teacher beat Fleeman decisively when they met over 12 rounds here last December, but never could put him to the canvas.

The two will go 12 rounds tonight and Fleeman says this time he thinks he has a much better chance.

"I overtrained for the other fight and Harris was too fast for me," he explained. "This time I have worked more on speed and footwork and think I'm ready to take him."

The fight is scheduled for 10 p.m. (EST) and Promoter Ralph Smith predicted a crowd of from 6,000 to 7,500 paying $20,000.

Attracting almost as much attention as the Harris-Fleeman fight is a 10-rounder between Joey Giambra, the Dallas middleweight who was a top-ranked boxer before he took time out seven months ago for removal of chips from his right elbow, and Al Andrews of Superior, Wis. Giambra returned to the ring several weeks ago with a 2-round knockout of Andy Anderson of Indianapolis and says his arm is sound and giving him no trouble.

Top NBA Draft

Royals Pick Boozer, Pistons Select Howell

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Big names and big men were the prize commodities Tuesday as the eight clubs of the National Basketball Association drafted 81 players for possible use in the 1959-60 season.

COX

It came as no surprise when Kansas State's Bob Boozer and Mississippi State's Bailey Howell were the two first selections. Cincinnati, by reason of having the poorest season record, had first choice and picked the 6-8 Boozer. Detroit, with the second pick, then latched on to the 6-7 Howell.

Both were members of the AP All-America first team. Another—Johnny Cox of Kentucky — went to New York on the fourth round.

Two of the smallest of the big name players — Don Hennon of Pittsburgh, 5-8½, and Leo Byrd of Marshall, 6-1— also were chosen by Cincinnati. They were on the second All-America team along with Tom Hawkins of Notre Dame, John Green of Michigan State and Lou Pucillo of North Carolina State.

Hawkins was drafted by Minneapolis, Green by New York and Pucillo by St. Louis.

From the third team, St. Louis picked St. Louis University's Bob Ferry as its second selection.

He Dreams Of Bud Jack —And Weeps

Veterinarians as a rule are not particularly morose people but there must be at least one who is inclined in that direction these days. That would be Dr. Charles Hall, a Malden, Mass., vet who found himself so overstocked with racing greyhounds a couple years ago that he sold one litter to Mrs. Lillian A. Ryan.

One of the dogs in that litter was Bud Jack, a fawn-colored dog whelped in September, 1956.

Tonight Bud Jack runs as odds-on favorite in the Hollywood Derby, closing the Hollywood Kennel Club meeting.

Before he's done as a runner, Bud Jack figures to have won some $35,000 in purses.

At stud he can earn another $50,000.

Mrs. Ryan bought the whole litter for $1,000.

* * *

Racing, and Eating

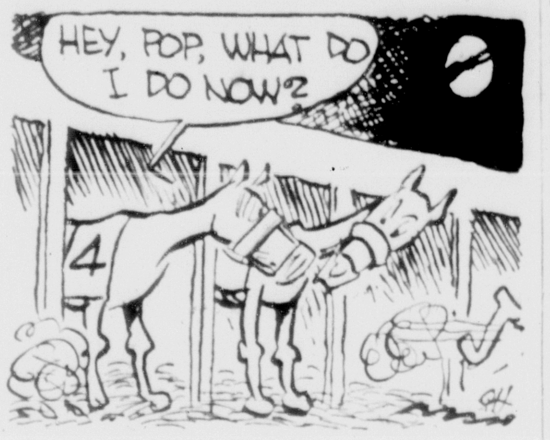
MRS. RYAN'S SON PAUL trains her greyhounds. They sent Bud Jack to the races last summer at Revere Beach, Mass. and he splintered records for "maidens" by winning 16 out of 24 there. Altogether Bud Jack has been in the money 45 times in 51 starts.

"For sale value," says Trainer Ryan, "Bud Jack must be worth $25,000. But we've already turned down $10,000 for him. There's not enough money in the mint to buy him."

Railside rooters are most impressed by Bud Jack's box-to-wire speed and his splendid desire. Trainer Ryan brings up something else.

"A lot of otherwise fine dogs develop a dumb habit of running into trouble. They get bumped, or run up on other dogs, or lose ground by going wide.

"Bud Jack was born with a racing head. He ducks in wherever there's a hole or he'll drop back and wait for an opening.



HEY, POP, WHAT DO I DO NOW?
4
GH

"He's so mild-mannered he hardly ever even barks. You have to drag him out of the kennel in the morning. Then he lays down the minute you get him to the yard.

"The only time he shows any real interest . . . outside of racing . . . is at feeding time."

Smart is right.

Life with Father

BECAUSE of Bud Jack, Mrs. Ryan already has become the first woman to lead Hollywood dog-owners in 25 years.

More fun could be just around the corner.

Bud Jack already is a papa. A litter of seven little Bud Jack girls and boys cavorts on the Ryan farm in Wakefield, Mass. When Bud Jack returns to Hollywood next year, he'll bring along four sons and three daughters.

A father-son-daughter race—first in greyhound history—could be coming up.

Meanwhile, that Massachusetts vet who sold the Bud Jack litter for $1,000 must wonder.

He can't be smiling.

But Still a Pain In The Neck

Ted's Happy: No Bones Broken

BOSTON—(AP)—Ted Williams was encouraged Tuesday with a report that X-rays showed he apparently has no broken or dislocated bones and evidently is not suffering arthritis.

However, the hospitalized Boston Red Sox slugger continued to have pain in his neck and right shoulder. Williams has been affected for more than two weeks.

Tuesday's hospital bulletin said symptomatic treatments continued, an indication the 40-year-old batting expert was undergoing traction for what he himself described as a kink in his neck.

On his arrival he vowed he'd be ready to open the season April 10. Doctors neither encouraged nor discouraged Williams but many observers think Williams is too optimistic.

Mulloy Rolls In Net Meet

NICE, France — (UPI) — Gardnar Mulloy and Budge Patty, two United States tennis veterans who do most of their playing in Europe, scored first round victories Tuesday in the Nice International Tennis Tournament.

Mulloy, of Coral Gables, beat Jean-Paul Bergerat of France, 2-6, 6-0, 6-2, Patty, of Los Angeles and Paris, defeated Rene Chaffour; another Frenchman, 6-4, 6-2.

Jacques Grigry, the third U.S. player in this tournament, also won, dropping Rene Zojou of France, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

Rookie Rings Bell, Reds Rock Robin

By the Associated Press

Jim O'Toole, Cincinnati's $50,000 bonus baby, continued his fine spring performances Tuesday, pitching no-hit ball over a four-inning stint as the Reds defeated Philadelphia and Robin Roberts, 5-0.

The 22-year-old Red rookie, expected to fill one of the voids on the weak Cincinnati pitching staff, has credentials galore. He fashioned a 20-8 record last year with Nashville of the Southern Association and compiled a creditable 2.44 earned run average.

Willard Schmidt and Bob Mabe also pitched effectively for the Reds, combining to three-hit Philadelphia over the final five innings.

In other games, Kansas City defeated New York for the third consecutive time, 4-2; Los Angeles rapped Milwaukee, 9-2; Pittsburgh edged Detroit, 6-5; Chicago's White Sox defeated St. Louis, 5-1; Baltimore nipped Washington, 9-8 in 11 innings; Chicago's Cubs whacked Boston, 11-6; and San Francisco beat Cleveland, 7-5.

Roberts, mainstay of the Phils' mound corps, went the distance for the second time, but was troubled by the gopher ball. Gus Bell tagged him for two home runs and Ed Bailey connected for another.

Kansas City scored twice in the ninth off Rookie John Gabler to nip the Yanks after Art Ditmar checked the A's for eight innings. Art Houtteman's string of 10 scoreless innings was snapped when the Yankees scored the tying run in the eighth off the comeback eyeing veteran.

The Dodgers broke a four-game losing streak, scoring five runs in the eighth to break a 2-2 tie at the expense of the Braves' Juan Pizzaro. Rookie Gene Snyder, who pitched six innings, and Billy Harris permitted Milwaukee only seven hits. Harris also drove in two runs.

Billy White, acquired from San Francisco, hit his third homer in as many days for St. Louis, but it was the only run given up by Billy Pierce and Bob Shaw. The White Sox pitchers combined to six-hit the Red Birds.

Homers by Earl Averill and Johnny Goryl featured a 16-hit Cub attack.

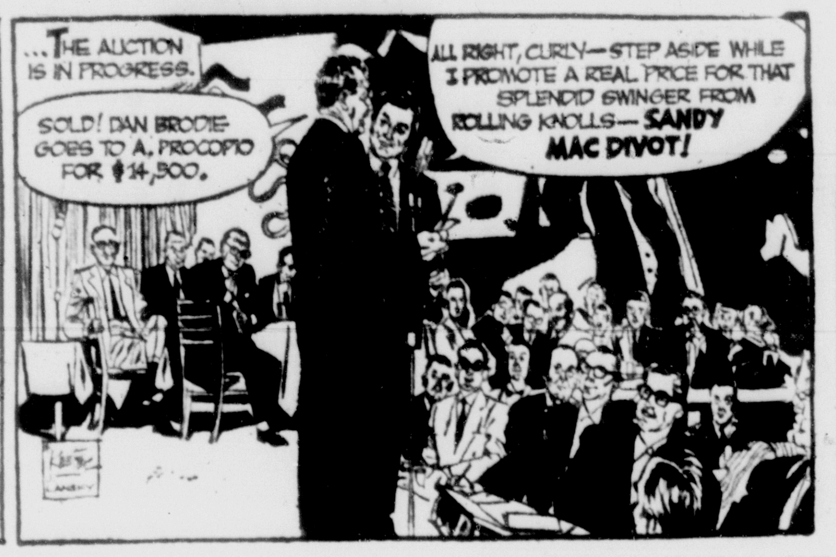
MAC DIVOT

Traditionally the night before the Champions' Tournament begins, the famous Calcutta auction is held at the Desert Country Club.

This year, 27 pros, each eligible by having won a major tournament during the past year, will be auctioned to well-heeled aficionados of the Royal and Ancient. The total pool should exceed $300,000.

After 10% for charity, buyers of the first seven players share the rest… from 40% for first to 5% for fifth, sixth and seventh. The winner's share should be around $110,000…



…THE AUCTION IS IN PROGRESS.

Calhoun Bitter Over Loss

Feel Like I'm 16, Chortles Old Bobo

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Bobo Olson, the ex-middleweight champ now boxing as a light heavy, was back in the big time after a unanimous but hotly disputed decision over Rory Calhoun Monday night.

"I'm 30, an old man," Olson said after 10 hard fought rounds in the Cow Palace, "But I feel like 16."

Olson is planning a month's vacation after his fourth straight comeback victory as a light heavyweight, then wants someone of the caliber of Tony Anthony or Yvon Durelle.

Matchmaker Benny Ford said he would start working to get another foe for Olson in a few days.

Olson's fight against Calhoun drew a crowd of 11,246 for a net gate of $51,400, third largest in the country this year.

There was joy in the Olson dressing room, but down the hall bitter words came from Calhoun's camp.

Manager Frank Bachman said he would protest to the California Athletic Commission over the refereeing of Pete Morelli. The referee took two points away from the White Plains, N.Y., Negro for low blows and warned him several times. Olson lives in San Francisco.

Bachman asserted that Morelli — a Stockton, Calif., recreation department employee working his first big city fight —permitted Olson to butt and continually pushed Calhoun into the ropes when he stepped in to break the fighters.

Calhoun, ranked No. 8 among the middleweights by Ring, went down for a count of five in the seventh round, but insisted it was no legitimate knockdown.

What did he think of Olson's punch? It depends on where he uses it, Calhoun said. "If he fought here and with the same referee, he could beat Champion Archie Moore tomorrow," he added.

John Metzger Wins Pin Title

John Metzger (199.89) edged Dave Metzger (199.86) Tuesday night for high average as the Miami Classic League ended its season at Bowlerama. John rolled 651, Dave 659. George Swanson, however, was high with 675.

Desk Exchange's 3,143 was a season team high.

Shenandoah Wins 'A' Title

Rick Robinson's field goal in the final 10 seconds gave Shenandoah Junior High a 15-14 victory over Nautilus and the Class A championship in the Dade County Junior High tournament at Coral Gables High Tuesday.

In class B, Mark Snider scored 16 points in almost singlehandedly beating Henry Filer, 20-14, for Ponce de Leon. The Class C title went to Madison Junior High via a 32-24 victory over Shenandoah sparked by Don Durgin's 16 points.

Brian Fly'n

BLACKPOOL, England —(AP) — Brian London said Tuesday he would probably fly to the United States this weekend to train for his world heavyweight title fight against Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas, Nev., May 1.

FSU Nine Beaten By 3-2

TALLAHASSEE—(AP)—Western Michigan pushed across two unearned runs after two outs in the eighth inning to turn back Florida State, 3-2, here Tuesday night.

Righthander Marion Williams pitched Duke University to its second straight victory in Florida State's tournament, shutting out Michigan, 2-0, in an earlier game.

Mrs. Kramer, Williams Win In Indian Creek Golf Play

Mrs. R. C. Kramer and Mrs. J. R. Williams Jr., won a matchoff from Mrs. M. P. Gilbert and Mrs. G. T. Baker to take the first prize in the Rosemary Sladeck golf tournament at Indian Creek Tuesday.

The two teams had tied with a best-ball 62 in the ladies day event.

In Indian Creek's Lois Osten low-net tournament, Mrs. Gilbert won with a 66 (92-26). Tied for second were Mrs. Kramer (94-21 — 73) and Mrs. Bradford Foote (105-32—73).

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Florida State's golf team won its fourth match of the season from a Southeastern Conference opponent Tuesday defeating Auburn, 21-6.

Hollywood Closes With Derby

Bud Jack Dominates All-Marathon Slate

An all-marathon program of 11 races at 3-8 mile, headed by the 25th running of the Hollywood Derby, closes out the second most successful meeting in Hollywood Kennel club history tonight.

Only in the 1956-57 meeting did the Hollywood club "handle" more betting money than it will this season.

Center of attraction tonight will be on the first 3-8 mile collision of the track's two great dogs — Bud Jack and Mar Dilly.

This pair heads the field in the Derby — 11th race on the card. Bud Jack seems almost certain to go postward an odds-on choice, but many fans will lean to the youthful Mar Dilly, a stretch-running fool.

Neither fared too well in the post position draw. Bud Jack will start from the No. 8 box; Mar Dilly from No. 5.

The flashy Quill will be in No. 1 and the rail-running Run Best in No. 2. Mello Jim, like Quill a wide runner, drew No. 3, with Bd. Farrago in No. 4, Tight Line in No. 6 and Ripshot in No. 7.

The longshot players will likely concentrate on Quill, Bd. Farrago and Mello Jim.

The Derby semifinals were won by Mar Dilly in 39.4 seconds, and Bud Jack in 39.8.

This was Mar Dilly's first start at the marathon distance, while Bud Jack has been beaten only once at 3-8 mile all season — that in the finals of the $10,000 Silver Anniversary stake by Feldcrest.

The 10th race will be the Derby Consolation, with La Veon, Soapy Jones and Shadow Bug likely to share favoritism.

Hot Jackson Overpowers Stings, 11-2

Miami Jackson scored five runs in the first inning Tuesday and pounded on to an 11-2 victory over Miami High's baseball team at Miami Field. The game counted in the Southern Sub-District and Big Ten Conference races.

Barry Levinson's two hits went wasted as host Key West, behind Boog Powell's two homers and six RBIs, downed Miami Beach, 10-2.

Winning Pitcher Ron Brandani gave up five hits and collected three himself to lead South Dade past Curley, 7-4. He struck out 10.

The Tech at Coral Gables and Hialeah at Southwest games were rained out, and join the Edison-Jackson and North Miami-Fort Lauderdale swimming meets on today's prep agenda. Norland and St. Patrick's couldn't play baseball Tuesday because the Miami Marlins were scheduled to use Flamingo Park.

Tenth-grader Fred Norman set Miami High down on four hits as he posted his second victory. The lefty struck out 16 and walked four.

It's Official: UM Top Point-Maker

NEW YORK—(AP)—U-Miami, California, Auburn, Tulsa, Mississippi State and Southern Methodist were team statistical champions of major college basketball last season, figures from the NCAA Service Bureau showed Tuesday.

Miami averaged 87.6 points to win the offense title by less than three points from the 1958 champion, West Virginia. California, the NCAA tournament champion, led in defense with a 51-point yield.

Auburn topped the nation in field goal percentage with 48.8 per cent, Tulsa led in free throw shooting with 76.1 per cent, and Southern Methodist, repeating from a year ago, led in committing the fewest fouls per game — a 13.3 average. Mississippi State led in rebounding with 58.9 per cent recoveries.

California, winning its second national defense championship, pointed up the change in college basketball over the years. When the Bears were defense champs in 1926, their per-game yield was 15.6 points a game — equal to what an Oscar Robertson or Jerry West scores alone on an "off night" these days.

Team figures as a whole showed that, although scoring increased in 1958-1959 competition, the boost was less than a point. In 4,211 major games, 579,559 points were scored for a two-team average of 137.6. Last year the average was 136.8.

OWNERS: 1. Comshaw Stable; 2. W J Schmidt; 3. H S Nichols; 4. H Rosset; 5. W. L. Huntley; 6. Kronenberger & Zee; 7. D G Neuman.

NIMBLE TOP restrained off early lead, moved to fore from outside when ready at midway point, came again after being headed a furlong out and won with authority. ACTIVE CRATER sent extremely fast along outside on second turn, wore down NIMBLE TOP on entering stretch but had little left when real test came. PESKY PEGGY passed only tiring horses.

SCRATCHES: None.

Hope 'Too White?'

Sword Dancer Defies Hoodoo

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

There's a time-worn jingle about thoroughbreds which goes like this:

Four white legs, keep him not a day;

Three white legs, send him far away;

Two white legs, sell him to a friend;

One white leg, keep him to the end.

By heeding this dubious adage, Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's Brookmeade Stable would have parted with a small but speedy chestnut colt who is one of the top three contenders in Saturday's $100,000 added Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park.

The colt's name is Sword Dancer and he'll be out to bury the turf's superstition against too much white in thoroughbreds. Sword Dancer has three white legs and a white blaze from forehead to nostrils.

Trainer Elliott Burch certainly has no qualms about the coloring of his charge.

"We don't care what color they are, if they can run," said Burch.

The Yale-educated horseman admits that Brookmeade has had better than average luck with chestnuts. Sunglow, Sword Dancer's daddy, was a chestnut and so were Brookmeade's Sailor and Going Away.

If Sword Dancer becomes a giant killer, he won't be the first good runner who sported white leggings.

The great Salvator was equipped with white-walls all around. And the same goes for Jolly Roger, one of the best steeplechasers in history.

Sword Dancer, who won his last start at Gulfstream in eye-opening fashion, will be up against Troilus and Easy Spur for the first time this year in the Florida Derby.

But Sword Dancer and Troilus met once before. It was last July in a maiden race at Delaware Park. Both were beaten that day by a horse called Gemian; Troilus was second and Sword Dancer third.

Neither Sword Dancer nor Troilus attracted much attention at that time. But it's a different story now.

If Sword Dancer performs well, Brookmeade will "send him far away" all right — to Louisville and a "run for the roses" in May.

a—Mrs. D. F. Stewart and Mrs. Louise Hilton entry.

PREY has a good chance in this open race; CONGA STAR'S last was in stakes company; JEFF'S FUTURE is liked by clocker; CABLE KING is in good form.

967—FOURTH—Purse $3,300, 3-year-olds, allowances, 6½ furlongs. Post 3:20.

Ind	PP	Horse,	Jockey	Wt.	Odds

A Fish Story In Duplicate: Caught Twice

EM 1 Thomas J. Rupp had a day off from his duties at the Miami Naval Recruiting office so he set forth in a 14-foot rowboat and recruited a 26½-lb. sailfish.

The sail struck between Bear Cut and the Gulfstream, hitting a drifted ballyhoo. Rupp landed his prize in about 15 minutes and brought it in for entry in the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament and for mounting.

DUNAWAY

An interesting sideline on the catch was the fact that several things indicated the sail had been caught before and released. Its bill was broken, and there was other evidence of boatside handling.

So there's an indisputable argument for releasing any fish you don't want for mounting or eating. They definitely can be caught again.

Carrying Automation a Bit Too Far

THE RECENT RUN of white marlin in Miami Beach waters has provided thrills for many fishermen, but you can bet none of them was happier than 13-year-old John Schumacher of Stevensville, Md. John fished with Capt. Fred Hansen on the Delmar III and boated a white measuring 7½ feet after a one-hour battle. The fish is being mounted to show the folks back home.

FISHING

with Vic Dunaway

—This column often contains news of items for fishermen to watch for. Now here's something to watch out for—and avoid. It's described as an "automatic reel and lander which will catch, hook and play fish; then automatically land them." If it works, you can send the gadget fishing while you stay home and take a nap.

—Dates of this year's Cat Cay Club Tuna Tournament are May 23-28. For information, entry blank or registration, write the Cat Cay Yacht Club, Box 1191, Miami.

In answer to several recent inquiries, you definitely must have a State of Florida fishing license to fish the freshwater ponds and streams of Everglades National Park, but of course no license is required for bank-fishing in the immediate area of Flamingo, which is all salt water.

Florida Tops in World IGFA Marks

YOU MAY HAVE known that Florida holds far more world record listings with the International Game Fish Association than any other angling territory in the world, but if you have any idea of the exact number, you're a real bug for statistics.

Next in line are the Bahamas with 52, and after that comes Mexico with 40.

It's a pretty good bet you won't guess which state is runner-up to Florida for nationwide honors. California? Nope, it's New York with 27. California has 25.

These figures were laboriously compiled from the latest IGFA record pamphlet.

In case you're wondering why I should take the time to count them all up—well, I mentioned something about statistical bugs a couple of paragraphs ago, and there's nothing to do now but confess to being one.

Powell 9th on Beach Win

Valdes Slipped To 6th by Ring

NEW YORK — (AP) — Heavyweight Charlie Powell, who bombed out leaning Nino Valdes at Miami Beach Auditorium March 4, Tuesday reaped the first of what should be many rewards from the victory.

He was promoted to boxing's top ten heavyweights for the first time in his short career, by Ring Magazine, which placed him ninth on their March list. Valdes slipped from second to sixth.

Miami Beach's Willie Pastrano hung in the seventh slot, while Light Heavyweight Champ Archie Moore, preparing to defend his title, was dropped from the heavyweight rankings.

Harold Gomes' unanimous decision over Paul Jorgensen at the Beach last week came too late to shuffle Ring's featherweight ratings. Gomes still stands No. 8 contender to Jorgensen's fourth.

The ratings:

HEAVYWEIGHTS, Champion, Floyd Patterson, New York.

1. Ingemar Johansson; 2. Zora Folley; 3. Henry Cooper; 4. Sonny Liston; 5. Eddie Machen; 6. Nino Valdes; 7. Willie Pastrano; 8. Brian London; 9. Charley Powell; 10. Joe Erskine.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHTS (175 pounds), Champion, Archie Moore, San Diego.

1. Harold Johnson 2. Tony Anthony; 3. Yvon Durelle; 4. Erich Schoppner; 5. Sonny Ray; 6. Mike Holt; 7. Johnny Halafihi; 8. Jesse Bowdry; 9. Jerry Luedee; 10. Chic Calderwood.

MIDDLEWEIGHTS (160 pounds), Ray Robinson, New York.

1. Carmen Basilio; 2. Gene Fullmer; 3. Spider Webb; 4. Gustav Scholz; 5. Holly Mims; 6. Ralph (Tiger) Jones; 7. Joey Giardello; 8. Rory Calhoun; 9. Gene (Ace) Armstrong; 10. Paul Pender.

WELTERWEIGHTS (147 pounds), Don Jordan, Los Angeles.

1. Virgil Akins; 2. Sugar Hart; 3. Del Flanagan; 4. Ralph Dupas; 5. Isaac Logart; 6. Gaspar Ortega; 7. Denny Moyer; 8. Vince Martinez; 9. Emilio Marconi; 10. Gil Turner.

LIGHTWEIGHTS (135 pounds), Champion, Joe Brown, New Orleans.

Cornell 2-Hits Stranahan, 6-0

Pint-sized Dick Cornell, a 5-foot-7, 130-pound curve ball specialist, shut out Stranahan High on two hits Tuesday to guide North Miami to a 6-0 victory at the Curley High field.

Cornell struck out seven and walked two. Third baseman Dennis Willis was his chief assistant in the win, driving in three runs with two singles. Greg Zehnder, shortstop, went two for two and scored twice.

Geraldine Page, of 'Sweet Bird of Youth,' Leads Quiet Life

Tennessee Williams' Brazen Star Is Gentle Soul

By MILT FREUDENHEIM
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

Geraldine Page at Home
. . . 'Princess Paz' is refined, attractive 35

NEW YORK — Away from the theater in her sunny little Greenwich Village penthouse, Geraldine Page hardly seems the girl to be ripping up the stage as a corrupt, dazzling Tennessee Williams heroine.

The star of Williams' latest Broadway triumph, "Sweet Bird of Youth" is a gentle soul seemingly incapable of representing herself to a hotel clerk as Princess Pazmezoglu as she does in the play.

"I had been playing shy little creatures," she confesses, and that fits the off-stage picture more snugly.

The road to the top as marked by unanimous raves for her performance by New York critics started for Gerry way back when, in Chicago, she appeared in a Methodist Church play while a student at Englewood High School on the South Side.

She studied for three years with the Goodman Theater in Chicago, then embarked on six years in stock companies in Lake Zurich, Woodstock, Marengo, Rockford, Springer, all in Illinois, and Janesville, Wis.

She played some Tennessee Williams heroines in those days. The off-Broadway lead in Williams' "Summer and Smoke" was her first big score in New York.

"He certainly writes goldmines for actresses," is her modest comment.

Television viewers may remember Miss Page's appearance in William Faulkner's "Old Man" on Playhouse 90. She also got an Academy Award nomination for her work in the movie "Hondo" with John Wayne.

A serious student, she is a member of the famous Actors Studio, also attends acting classes with Uta Hagen, and studies voice for good measure.

Born in 1924 in Kirksville, Mo., Geraldine moved with her parents Dr. and Mrs. Leon Page to Chicago when she was 5. Dr. Page, now a widower, has retired to Arizona where he writes humorous essays. His recent book is "The Philosophy of Socrates Smith."

Seated with her fair fresh face (no make-up apparent) in the full spring sunlight from her terrace window, Miss Page assured friends who rang her white telephone that they would get tickets to her show.

She was wearing a tailored plaid wool suit with red velvet collar. Her hair, freshly curled and strawberry-blonded was the only clue to the presence in the room of a decaying Hollywood "Princess" in love with youth, the Princess Pazmezoglu.

Poison Plant Talk Slated

Julia Morton, Director of the Morton Collectanea of the University of Miami will present an illustrated talk on poisonous plants of South Florida and edible wild plants in a special survival training program for Boy Scouts in the auditorium of the Miami Public Library at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The program, sponsored by the Tropical Audubon Society and the library, is open to the public.

Mrs. Morton is co-author of "400 Plants of South Florida" and "Fifty Tropical Fruits of Nassau," and author of "Some Useful and Ornamental Plants of the Caribbean Gardens" and numerous articles on tropical fruits and plants grown in this area.

Holiday on Ice Unveils Another Show Business Masterpiece

IF YOU ARE INTERESTED in the cold facts—just as the 1958 edition of Holiday on Ice was a topper of the previous shows so is this 1959 edition now running at the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall better by what seems a mile than the one it follows.

Of course, this impression of "bigger and better" is not that so much as it is the knowing knack of the late and greatly lamented George Tyson and his wife-partner Ruth for devising something different than what has gone before. A change of area of background, the insertion of a new gimmick of presentation, a different theme—plus the same skilled artists and technique and you have the audiences leaving the arena after two-hours plus of thrills, beauty and comedy uttering an almost collective "They keep getting better, don't they?" The "they," of course, referring to the annual Holiday on Ice exhibitions.

Without a doubt, Holiday on Ice, which runs through Sunday night—with matinees on Saturday and Sunday—is the greatest exhibition of entertainment to play the Miami area during any winter.

We say this with the full belief and knowledge that movies (in a theater) are your best entertainment. But the degree in which we rate Holiday as "best exhibition of entertainment" is one of availability. Movies are always with us—Holiday comes but once a year.

* * *

Highlights Are Numerous

HIGHLIGHT of this year's show? Don't ask the impossible! We thought it was the opener "Vive Les Girls," a sophisticated offering of champagne on ice—until "The Lady and the Tramp," with a Disney-like touch came along. And that decision lasted only until delightful 5-year-old Debbie Williams was put on display by her father, Johnny, assisted by a skate-on and pratt-fall by her younger brother.

B.F. Pulley . . . rival

Dave Lerow . . . victor

Bennett Cerf . . . magnate

From then on we didn't attempt to give the acts a rating and just sat back in our seat to enjoy them all. But we didn't stay in the back of our seat. More often than not we were on its edge, wide-mouthed and pop-eyed with the beauty of the "opulent spectacle" of an ice ballet to the accompaniment of miracle fountains, convulsed by comedy antics of "an adult western" and entranced by the zip and beauty of Sweet Tulip Time, an Ice Prom, and Wizard of Oz.

But that's just the first half and that Tyson touch at change of pace makes the second half seem even better. We are going to let this half come to you as a pleasant surprise. It abounds with spectacle and comedy and true eye, ear and spine-tingling splendor.

If you've seen anywhere, on any stage, a presentation as impressive as the Chinese New Year Festival, especially the flame-spouting dragon, then you've caught something we missed along the way the too close to three-score years which have passed since first we saw little Eva rising to heaven on the end of a rope at Brooklyn's Bijou theater.

Ray Balmer and Frankie Sawyers dominate this one in the solo department, but Erika Kraft, Jinx Clark, James Lawrence, Margaret Fields, Paul Andre, Juanita Percelly, Alfred Mendoza, Tony Lemac, Donna Jeanne, Tommy Collins, Joyce Lockwood and other specialists on the steel blades have their moments of truthfully thrilling skating.

Pulley Competes with Himself

PLACE PIGALLE'S B.S. Pulley is his own competition via late late TV movies some of these nights. In addition to the recent "A Hole in the Head" and "Guys and Dolls," Pulley appeared in about 10 other pre-1950 movies . . . Candido, who beats out those bongo rhythms at the Pin Up Lounge, prepares for work by taping up his knuckles like a fighter does . . . They are squeezing out Ruth Palmer's engagement at the Ivanhoe Hotel. The accordionist-singer came in for a limited engagement and is holding over again . . . Musicmaker Dave Lerow has "scored" against an attack of pneumonia and will be back at the Diplomat Hotel's Petit Chose lounge soon.

Sammy Davis Jr., is working for Frank Sinatra—in a manner of speaking. Sammy will open today as star of the Las Vegas Sands, in which Frank is a partner . . . Bennett Cerf, of "What's My Line" and Random House publishers, is also a movie magnate now. He recently added 200 shares of Loew's stock to the 300 he already had . . . Caller asks when there will be more of Cinerama. Cy Fabian, recently at the Eden Roc, may have known but didn't tell us. Exchange of 375,000 shares of Stanley-Warner Cinerama Corp. stock for similar number of Cinerama Production was made recently.

Press agents for James Cagney's newest movie, "Shake Hands with the Devil," which was filmed in Ireland, made a bet on the Irish Sweepstakes and lost. But the odds were very good. The press agents invested a couple of hundred dollars in the sweepstakes for tickets in the names of us columnists. You can imagine the space that would have resulted—all mentioning the title of the movie and the fact that it was filmed in Ireland—if one of the columnists had won! . . . Don't boast of movie star's off-stage heroism to Anita Ventura, Drum girl dancer at Club 23! 'Tis said that one front-paged hero of the Cuban disorders could have gotten his wounds from a milk bottle propelled by Anita during a Havana party.

* * *

'Mrs. America' Better Than Ever

BERT NEVINS will have a bigger and better "Mrs. America" pageant going this year in Fort Lauderdale. This one—the 21st annual event—brings the series of age. Final judging is slated for June 11 through June 23. More than $50,000 in prizes will be awarded. One top prize is a swimming pool! . . . Al Goldman should expect a visit or two from members of the cast of Holiday on Ice to his Fu Manchu restaurant during its current run at the Miami Beach Exhibition Hall run. Show features a San Francisco Chinatown number—and producers George and Ruth Tyson weren't just satisfied to throw some Chinese costumes on the skaters—the Tyson Method included a thorough briefing on Chinese history, manner (and we presume cuisine). For instance, every skater in the number knows that this is the Year of the Dog on the Chinese Calendar and that Jin Duey is not Tom Dooley's brother, but a fried sweet Chinese dumpling.

Perkins Goes Years Without A Vacation

Tony Perkins . . . awakes

Kim Stanley . . . ablaze

Lana Turner . . . a goal

TONY PERKINS, who is giving a fine performance in the "Green Mansions" movie, is a dedicated actor. And what does such dedication mean? Well, the star recently stated: "I'm far too active and I drive myself too hard. One day, I was actually startled to find that there was absolutely nothing to do for two hours. I was a blank. I realized then that I hadn't had a vacation in three years." As for being a celebrity, Perkins groans: "It's becoming a bore for me to be the Tony who tries to abide by one rule after another—mustn't do this, mustn't go there."

Every performer strives to reach the warmth of the spotlight. And then they discover that the spotlight also burns.

* * *

WHERE THERE are stars there is light and fire. Kim Stanley created a page-one blaze by exiling herself from "A Touch of the Poet" after breaking diplomatic relations with co-star Eric Portman. Miss Stanley is a fiery sparkler. Although reviewers have always showered her with praise, she has criticized them. Moreover, she is her own toughest heckler. She has been publicly scornful of her performances in "Bus Stop" and "The Traveling Lady" — the shows that elevated her to stardom. Despite the rave notices for her emoting in "The Goddess" flicker, she declared: "I didn't like it."

Undoubtedly, Miss Stanley considers herself a perfectionist . . . Variety reports that she kept her eyes closed in scenes with Helen Hayes, explaining: "I cannot look at you!" . . . Translation: "I can't look at a great star."

* * *

SQUABBLES among performers are hardly anything novel. It has been said that suspicion is the friendship that one actress has for another . . . Hermione Gingold, who enlivens the "First Impressions" musical, once co-starred in a London show with Hermione Bagley. The War of the Hermiones was a long one. The ladies didn't speak to each other for nine months.

Miss Gingold has recalled: "She played her scenes looking at the top of my head and I looked at her right ear."

* * *

Several reviews of "Some Like It Hot" have noted that while Marilyn Monroe is as curvy as ever, she is slightly plump. It is difficult to believe there can be too much of a good thing . . . This momentous problem was discussed by the star some time ago. She stated: "In the high-style magazines you see models with their hip bones sticking out if nothing else. But I'm a woman, and the longer I am one the more I enjoy it. And since I have to be a woman I'm glad I'm me."

Cosmopolitan mag has Miss Monroe's explanation for being a well-rounded doll: "My husband likes me this way."

* * *

ONLY A YEAR ago the tragic headlines almost destroyed Lana Turner both emotionally and professionally. Nevertheless, her spirit refused to surrender. And she emerged from the shadows. The clouds seem to have vanished from her personal life. Previewers are giving a queen-size buildup to her performance in "Imitation of Life." Miss Turner knows that all the fame and gold is not as valuable as inner peace. During the dark days, the star observed: "Things — things by themselves — don't mean very much to me anymore. I want to get my laughter back."

In other words, life is meaningless without love and laughter.

* * *

MARY MARTIN is starring in the current Satevepost. She has succeeded as an actress — and as a human being. She is a star and a happy wife. She is in brief, a happy woman. Her glow springs from a generous spirit . . . Our favorite Mary Martin observation: "You can tell the story of my life by listing the people I'm grateful to."

Opening Tonight

Additions to the Greater Miami entertainment scene slated for today will include the following:

THE CRAWLING EYE — Horror film starring Forrest Tucker, coupled with science-fiction vehicle THE COSMIC MONSTER, also with Tucker. At the Town.

* * *

STALAG 17 — Reissue of Academy Award-winner pair — A PLACE IN THE SUN is double-billed. William Holden in first; Montgomery Clift and Elizabeth Taylor in second. At the Paramount, Colony and Coral.

* * *

RED CARPET — Comedian Ty Bennett, Maurice and Lamonte, pantomimics . . . ORCHID — Dancer Shondora . . . GALLERY — Pianist Flo Miles . . . LA RUE — Dancer Toni Reynolds . . . GAIETY — Dancer Ada Diaz . . . PLACE PIGALLE — Dancer Tammy Blue . . . JUNGLE — Paul Black . . . CLOVER — Lili St. Cyr in for limited stand . . . MONTMARTRE — Singer Kitty DeCarlo FIVE O'CLOCK — Dancer Lynn Warren.

* * *

TONIGHT ONLY — George Hopkins, Thunderbird; Jimmy Grippo, Algiers; Don Marchand, Singapore; Bob Novack Trio, Monte Carlo; Herkie Styles, Aristocrat; Sasha Leonoff, Deauville; Ricki Dunn, Sans Souci; Louise Brown, Casablanca.

'Ben Hur' Star Gets Little Rest

Heston and Gary Cooper To Co-Star in Sea Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Charlton Heston Gary Cooper

. . . 'Wreck of Mary Deare'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif—There have been so many rumors as to where Charlton Heston is going now that he has finished "Ben Hur," which took a year, I will give you his definite plans. He goes right back to MGM to co-star with Gary Cooper in the Julian Blaustein production, "The Wreck of the Mary Deare."

After reading the Eric Ambler script, based on the Hammond Innes novel, Charlton chose the "Mary Deare" story, which will have extensive locations at sea. Michael Anderson of "Around the World in 80 Days" fame will be at the directional helm.

Last week Charlton was on the Paramount lot to discuss "Summer and Smoke" with Hal Wallis. This won't start until late summer when Jean Simmons is free, and so far no definite commitment has been made.

IF ONLY Dick Long's domestic life were as good as his professional life he would be riding high. He and Mara Corday have never been able to iron out their troubles and are continually separating.

His marriage to poor, sweet Suzan Ball, who died of a malignancy, was one of Hollywood's saddest stories. He was devoted to her to the day of her death.

Dick is at Warner Bros., and has been in several of the Maverick TV shows as "Gentleman Jack." Now Bill Orr, Warners TV executive, has cast Dick as the star of "Bourbon Street Beat" for ABC-TV.

* * *

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER was expected to see "Pork Chop Hill," on Tuesday. This is the motion picture Gregory Peck and Sy Bartlett made. Sy is just back from Washington where he showed this story of the Korean War to a number of the lawmakers.

The picture tells a story of the last battle of the cold Korean War on Pork Chop Hill, where out of 135 men only 23 survived. If, says Sy, our boys fought to save a hill, which meant nothing to them, they certainly are not going to let Russia have Berlin.

* * *

I HAVE SEEN a truly great picture—"The Diary of Anne Frank" which is made true, tragic and at times even humorous by that artist George Stevens, whose creative ability is second to none. I had seen part of it some weeks ago, so I was very interested in seeing the completed picture at the gala premiere.

Millie Perkins, slim, big-eyed little girl who plays Anne Frank and is seldom off the screen, is a pupil of whom George can well be proud. This is her first screen appearance. I don't know when any beginner has equaled her fine performance.

Millie has the brilliant company of Joseph Schildkraut, a player of many years experience, as her father; Shelley Winters, a very human Mrs. Van Daan, and Ed Wynn with his wonderful flair for comedy, as the bachelor dentist. The rest of the cast contribute to one of the greatest pictures of all time.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS — Terry Moore is seeing a lot of Stuart Cramer these evenings. He was once married to Jean Peters. Last week Stuart, Terry, her mother, father and brother were at Catalina.

In Marlon Brando's "One-Eyed Jacks," Karl Malden horsewhips Marlon so realistically that Brando is counting his black and blue marks.

U.S. Studios Hire Reds, Council Says; Congress Urged to Act

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. —(AP)— The Hollywood Film Council has asked Congress to investigate "runaway" foreign movie production by American companies.

It charged in a resolution sent to the national AFL-CIO headquarters that such production is giving "aid and comfort to the Communist conspiracy against the free world."

The council said more than 50 per cent of the technicians and artists employed overseas by American film makers are Communists.

The council claims to represent 24,000 artists and technicians in the motion picture industry, "many of whom are now unemployed because of a continuing decrease in the number of theatrical featues made in this country."

It called on Congress to enact legislation requiring foreign-made motion pictures and television films exhibited primarily in the United States be plainly labeled with the country of origin.

Music Winners Giving Recital

The winners in the student division of the recent Miami Music Club auditions will be presented in recital at 2 p.m. Saturday at Musicians Club, Coral Gables.

Participating will be Douglas Kerley, Mary Ann Flynn, Ronny Fecht, Linda McClymonds, David Folsom, Natalie Deich, Masson Robertson, Ricky Suarez, Holly Higgins and Lillian Buss.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night. The blast was heard at Alma at 11:35 p.m.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial.

The bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Mahizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

Farm Bloc Adamant

House Rejects Farmers Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andersen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved conservation practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

Finds Her in Hospital Bed

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Announcement of the award, by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

as Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Mrs. Kelley's selection Monday—not made public until she was notified Tuesday—ended a period of acute embarrassment for the American Mothers Committee.

Committee officials in New York City reported they had discovered that through error by volunteer workers at national headquarters 40 Kansas women had been mailed "dear mother" letters when they should have had "dear member" letters inviting them to the May 4-8 convention in New York City.

Press Attacking Him, Says Fidel

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro said that some publications are waging systematic attacks against the Cuban revolution and thus raising doubts about it in the U.S. and elsewhere.

The bearded prime minister made the charge at a meeting with bus workers. Despite the alleged press campaign, he said he is sure American farmers support his government's agrarian reform program.

He added he believes Americans will even support the land redistribution program with donations as many Cubans are doing.

MIG Jets Harass U.S. Plane

Berlin Incident Protest Lodged

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corridors to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Forces biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

Hussein Visit Got Results

AMMAN, Jordan —(AP)— King Hussein has succeeded in arranging for American economic aid amounting to 35 million dollars a year in addition to military aid, a Jordan newspaper said Tuesday.

The daily Al Watan, close to government quarters, said the young king's visit to the U.S. has been a complete success.

Hussein had talks with President Eisenhower in Washington before setting out on his tour of other cities in the U.S.

Western Ministers Lay Plans for Talks

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — American, British, French and West German foreign ministers met Tuesday to hammer out details of their master plan for dealing with the Berlin crisis and other European problems at forthcoming negotiations with Russia.

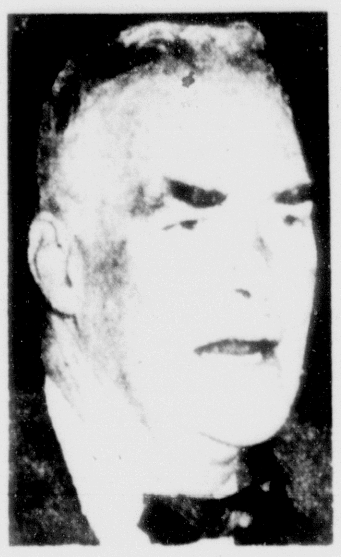
The meeting began with Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville taking part. West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano joined them later.

Their discussions climaxed a flurry of diplomatic activities. President Eisenhower met with his top foreign affairs advisers and two of the visiting foreign ministers called at the State Department for preliminary talks.

The principal aim of all the discussions was to settle on a long-range formula for the negotiations with Russia. It will be submitted to the foreign ministers of the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries, who begin a three-day meeting here Thursday.

The President met with both Herter and Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon earlier. Esienhower later talked with David K. E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to West Germany.

De Murville and Lloyd, meanwhile, called separately at the State Department for talks with Herter. The French diplomat said Germany was the main topic of his hour-long meeting with Herter, but other subjects were discussed.



Christian Herter

. . . some preliminaries

Selwyn Lloyd

. . . some hope

Lloyd was here only a week ago with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for the "Big Two" talks with President Eisenhower. He said on arrival that he considered as satisfactory the Russian note Monday accepting the West's proposal for a May 11 "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting. Lloyd said he thought the Russian attitude offered hope for a negotiated settlement of European problems.

There was no official U.S. reaction to the Russian reply, but officials privately welcomed the Soviet acceptance of an agenda broad enough to cover all problems related to Germany.

The U.S. officials showed some concern about the Russians' apparent assumption that the West is firmly committed to attend a summit conference after the foreign ministers' meeting. The Western powers insist that some progress be made before the heads of government come together.

As the foreign ministers gathered, the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany were reported to be in substantial agreement on a long-range formula for tying disarmament and European security to a gradual reunification of Germany.

But there was candid acknowledgement some tactical steps for dealing with the Russians, along with the course to be taken if an overall approach fails, need to be worked out.

Decision on Job Expected

Dulles Puts In Day Of Rest in Florida

JUPITER ISLAND — (AP) — John Foster Dulles, fighting against cancer, rested at this millionaires' island retreat Tuesday. He is expected to decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

The 71-year-old Dulles is staying at the home of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, 20 miles from West Palm Beach.

Dulles said he felt "pretty good," as he left Washington in the presidential plane Columbine III. He had nothing to say upon arrival.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, an Army internal medicine specialist, accompanied Dulles to Florida along with Dulles' wife, an aide, Joseph N. Green, a secretary, Phyllis Bernau, and a security officer. It is not known how long Dulles will stay.

Bride Gets Kiss, Groom Goes Home

SWANSEA, Wales — (AP) — Keith Bowkett took his new bride, Violet Epps, to the movies, kissed her good night at her parents' doorstep, and then went home to his own folks.

The couple, both aged 16, have no home of their own.

"Until we find a home, we'll just see each other in the evenings as we used to when we were courting," said Keith after their wedding at the registrar's office.

Keith and Violet were also two years too young to join the wedding reception in a local bar. While the guests drank their health, Keith's father said: "We'll take something over to the house for them."

Storm Seen Tapering Off

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A five-day storm roared over the Atlantic disrupting shipping and took the lives of at least four persons who were washed overboard from a German liner by a mountainous wave. The storm appeared to be tapering off.

The four missing men were members of the crew of the North German Lloyd liner Berlin. They were lost at the height of the hurricane-force storm Saturday as the ship battled heavy seas on a crossing from Bremen to New York with 534 passengers and about 350 crewmen.

The storm caused arrival delays of up to 24 hours for huge passenger vessels.

The Berlin's captain messaged that the 19,400-ton luxury liner paused to look for the missing men 700 nautical miles northeast of the Azores, but could not find them in the stormy sea.

The storm tossed 29,000-ton liner Constitution docked here Tuesday 19 hours late. The ship carried Film Star Glenn Ford and Edward B. Lawson, retiring U.S. ambassador to Israel, and his family.

Farewell March, Ya Big Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all right Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.82 inches of rain for the month up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were predicted all over the state, with a chance of more scattered showers in South Florida.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind, rainwise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25 inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949, or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 30 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

"A wet March may mean a wet April based on past performance," Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

India Main Target of Warning

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

Unconfirmed reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa, and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however, appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

The official Peiping People's Daily Tuesday followed up Nehru's statement with a thinly-cloaked warning that he mind his own business. The warning was broadcast by Radio Peiping.

In one breath, the official Communist Chinese newspaper called India "China's great, friendly neighbor" and in the next accused it of acting as a springboard for the revolt.

The People's Daily said India and Tibet's other neighbors in the Himalayas were serving as "props" for the rebellion and that Tibetan insurgents were using the Indian border town of Kalimpong as a "center for collusion with imperialism, the Chiang Kai-shek clique and foreign reactionaries." Nehru already had rejected similar earlier charges.

"The rebellion in Tibet and its supression are entirely internal affairs of China," the newspaper asserted, "no foreign country should interfere in the rebellion."

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Nehru told the Tibetans that India had no power to intervene in Tibet and in fact was reluctant to take any steps which "might aggravate the situation." But he expressed hope the present difficulties would end peacefully.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

Ingrid Expects Her 5th Child

PARIS — (AP) — Ingrid Bergman is expecting her fifth child in October, the French daily Paris Journal said Tuesday in its gossip column.

Ingrid Bergman is now the wife of Lars Schmidt, Swedish theater producer. They are believed to be on a vacation in Sweden.

Mayor Wagner Hooted By Picketing Employes

New York Hit by Budget Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards, in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a socalled economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

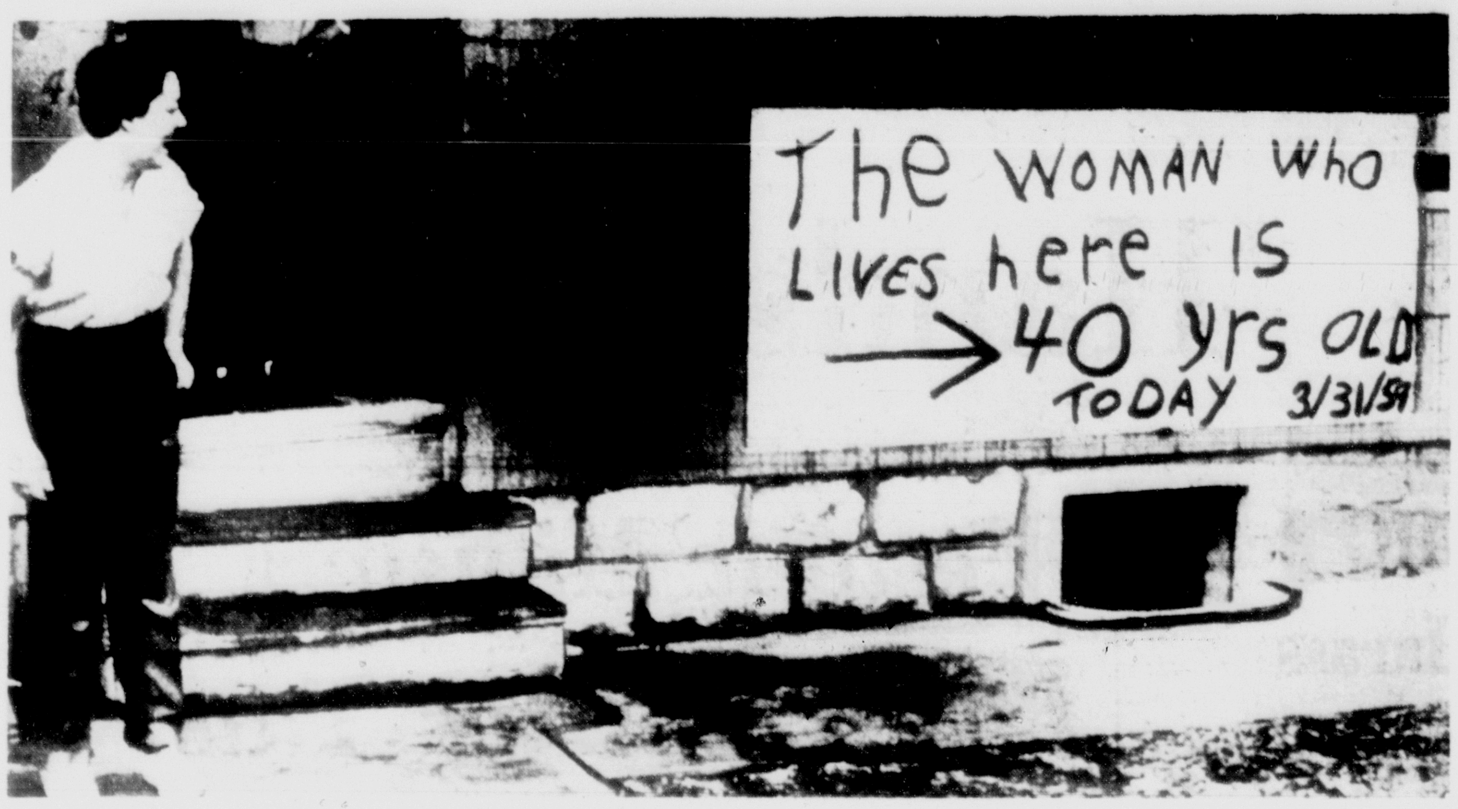
He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Wagner also said he had eliminated 1,300 city jobs—including 1,000 chauffeurs of city vehicles. The rest were vacant jobs or those filled by provisional employes.

City Hall previously had announced that uniformed policemen, firemen and sanitation employes would have to be satisfied with pay raises of $200 a year, instead of the $300 they had been led to expect. Other city employes, including school teachers, also faced reduced wage raises or none at all.

Official Resigns

CAIRO, Egypt — (AP) — Saudi Arabian Interior Minister Prince Abdalla Al Faisal has resigned "for health reasons," a Mecca radio report quoted by the newspaper Al Messa said. King Saud has accepted the resignation of Abdalla, son of Saudi Arabia's crown prince, the report added.



Sure Sign of Age

Mrs. Florence Dornack was startled when she stepped outside her home in Rochester, Minn., and saw this sign. Her husband, Chuck, put it up as a gag. He explained that she bawled him out a few months ago for giving her age as 40 on a fishing license. "I'll kill him for this," she exclaimed—but she laughed.

Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to 80 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General develpment is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus racetrack signboards.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SPORTS Car Club of America, Florida region, has scheduled a big two-day race program at Master Field, Opa-locka, May 16-17. Three members have guaranteed $12,000, necessary to set up the show. The events will be just about the same as the Orange Bowl show two years ago. Ken Coleman of Palm Beach, regional executive, will be in charge of the show. The racing program will be directed by Lucky Casner of Miami.

The show, although all amateur, will attract dozens of well-known and capable drivers. In Florida there are many skilled pilots, with cars equal to anything the professionals drive. Profits will be divided equally between Variety Children's Hospital and Miami Police Benevolent Association.

A Problem

Something's gotta give in Japan. A Tokyo district court has ruled that U. S. troops and military bases in Japan violate Japan's new constitution. And the "no war" clause in the constitution was written by U. S. occupation officials.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way, even now, to save human lives.

Musical Mingling

Miami Beach Civic orchestra — about 70 members — will try something new Thursday night: a party for its friends at Roney Plaza. These friends will be permitted to ask questions, make suggestions, and finally listen to some music. Singers Joyce Farber and Bob Ellis and pianist Dilson Petrey also will be on the program. Mayor Kenneth Oka, president of the orchestra association, will preside.

28 Escape Flames in Haiti Crash

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti—(AP)— Twenty-eight persons escaped serious injury Tuesday when a Haitian Airlines DC3 made a belly landing in a field outside the capital. Six American tourists were aboard.

The twin-engine craft caught fire after the emergency landing and the passengers and crew raced out through a sheet of flame. Some suffered superficial cuts and burns but none was hospitalized.

The pilot lost his port engine shortly after the plane took off on a flight from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the northern part of Haiti.

The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Max Holzman and their daughter, Susan, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Goodwin of Los Angeles, and Miss Alix Causse, Wilton, Conn.

Two Canadians were also aboard. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stefanovich, Hamilton.

Mother Off To Get Son From Fidel

The mother of former Coral Gables Pilot Alan Robert Nye, held in a Cuban prison since Dec. 26, flew to his aid Tuesday calling the attempted assassination charges against him "ridiculous."

Mrs. Helen Lynch flew to Havana from Miami after a brief pause on her trip from Whiting, Ind., her home. With her was Whiting Attorney Joseph Sullivan, who tried unsuccessfully earlier to have Nye freed from La Cabana Fortress near Havana.

Mrs. Lynch said that "although the Cubans move slowly," she and Sullivan feel they can have Nye released "quickly."

Nye is accused of hiring out to cohorts of deposed Cuban President Fulgencio Batista to assassinate Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, who was still fighting the revolution when Nye went to Cuba in December.

Nye, who formerly lived in Coral Gables, has repeatedly denied the assassination charges and contended he went to Cuba to join the rebels. The former Navy pilot was picked up only five days before Batista fled Cuba.

Mrs. Lynch said she will try to see her son in Havana and plan to stay there "until Alan is released."

You'll Get Arms, Manilla Is Told

MANILA — (AP) — The foreign office says Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen has assured the Philippines the U.S. will deliver more arms, including jet planes, this year.

Delivery of F86 jets, patrol boats, engineering ordnance and signal equipment have been promised, the announcement said. The materiel is part of the U.S. arms aid grants to the Philippines.

Racists March on Richmond

Crowd Asks Fight Against Integration

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the state Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southside Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the Capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the Capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Crash Fatal To Head of African State

BANGUI, Central African Republic — (AP) — Premier Barthelemy Boganda, a witch doctor's son who rose to political power in this Negro republic, was found dead Tuesday in the wreckage of a plane 100 miles west of here.

The interior ministry said the bodies of all nine aboard the French-made Atlas flying boxcar had been identified by a search party. The twin-engine plane vanished Sunday on a flight to Bangui from Berberati, 200 miles west of here.

Also aboard the Aeronmaritime de Transport plane were four crewmen and four other passengers including the government's information chief and a member of Parliament.

Boganda, 48, was the leader of the Central African Republic, formerly the French Territory of Ubangi-Shari. He kept the area within President Charles de Gaulle's new French overseas community by backing the De Gaulle constitution in last September's referendum.

Accused Slayer of Lover Weeps in Court
... Mrs. Connie Nichcolas at Indianapolis trial

Jury Told Teel's Death 'Accident'

INDIANAPOLIS —(UPI)— Mrs. Connie Nicholas was about to kill herself but in a struggle for the revolver her married lover was shot to death, the defense said Tuesday of the tiny divorcee at her murder trial.

The 44-year-old brunette cried bitterly as she heard the prosecution picture her a vicious, revengeful woman who deliberately planned the murder of Forrest Teel, 54, Eli Lilly vice president, who left her after a 15-year affair.

Testimony finally got underway after two weeks of picking an all-male, all-married jury. They can find Mrs. Nicholas guilty of first degree murder, carrying the death penalty, manslaughter with a prison term of as little as two years in prison, or acquit her.

First witness was Patrolman Richard Anderson, the first person to reach the dying Teel's side. Anderson testified he asked Teel who shot him and Teel twice replied "hospital" without naming his killer.

Ten photos of the death scene, including some of Teel's body, were introduced as state's exhibits.

At the outset, they heard two very different versions of the death of the wealthy and socially prominent Teel.

Defense Attorney Charles Symmes said Teel had promised Mrs. Nicholas to leave his wife and marry her only to jilt her for a new mistress, Laura Mowrer, 30.

Mrs. Nicholas waited for him outside his new girl's apartment, Symmes said, determined to find out if "it was all off," and to kill herself if it was. When he came out, an argument started in his car.

"Connie got the gun out. 'I am going to take my own life,' she said. He said 'don't be a damned fool' or words to that effect," Symmes said. "He grabbed the gun. It went off four times. She walked away from the car. She saw him shut the door and get under the driver side. She didn't know he was injured."

Mrs. Nicholas wiped the tears from her eyes with a paper tissue at the first mention of Teel's name. She bridled at being described as a kept woman.

"I'm not a kept woman," she said. "I worked hard all my life. I think a kept woman is one who sits around in a black negligee eating chocolates."

Jobless Pay Bill Signed By President

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower Tuesday signed a bill to prevent an immediate cutoff emergency unemployment compensation benefits to an estimated 405,000 jobless.

Under the measure, the temporary federal program enacted during last year's recession will taper off during the next three months.

That program extended federal benefits to jobless with unemployment compensation rights. The law was due to expire at midnight Tuesday, after which no payments would be made.

The bill signed into law Tuesday will permit an unemployed person to receive federal benefits after Wednesday — if he had exhausted his state rights before that date.

No payments will be made after June 30. No one who exhausts his state benefits after Tuesday can become eligible for the federal payments.

The Labor Department, which endorsed the bill as enacted, estimated that it would provide payments totaling 78 million dollars to some 405,000 persons now out of work.

National Summary

A disturbance centered in Kansas during the middle of the day was associated with scattered showers and thundershowers in the Central Plains and occasional snow mixed with rain in the Central Rockies. Showers and thunderstorms will be scattered from Texas over the Mississippi Valley into portions of the Ohio Valley tonight and extend over the eastern portion of the country from the Mississippi River to the East Coast tomorrow with the exception of the extreme northeast and the Florida Peninsula.

A few light showers occurring in Ohio and Pennsylvania during the middle of the day will spread into Western New York tonight. Considerable cloudiness prevailed over the northern half of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast while sunshine and cloudiness vied for dominance in the Southern half where warm temperatures were reported. Readings in the 70's extended from the Gulf States into Kentucky and Missouri where Springfield observed a 70 while Tampa had a 78. The 50's stretched from Nebraska into New York where Buffalo reported a 53 and Omaha recorded a 56.

Generally fair weather from California into New Mexico will continue through Thursday. Sunshine raised temperatures to the 70's before noon in southern California.

70 Daytona Beach Shacks Block Slum-Fighting Plans

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Seventy shacks along a railroad track in Daytona Beach are standing in the way of slum clearance all over Florida.

Next week the Florida Legislature will be asked for a new law that will break the 6½ year blockade.

Then Daytona Beach, Miami and cities all over Florida could begin catching up with other states that are fighting blight with money supplied mostly by the federal government and private enterprise.

It was T. A. Adams, a wealthy doctor, owner of some of those 70 shacks, who stopped Urban Renewal in Florida.

Unlike most states, Florida can't get much federal aid to fight blight, the plague of modern cities. The reason why is explained as part of a series by David Kraslow and Juanita Greene on how Florida is trailing in Urban Renewal.

When the city of Daytona Beach moved in to condemn his Negro-occupied property, he sued. Five Supreme Court justices in Tallahassee agreed with his claim that it would be unconstitutional for the city to take his property, clear it, then resell it to private enterprise for redevelopment.

The decision has frustrated slum clearance efforts in Florida cities ever since, though many attorneys say the case involved was a weak one and not really typical of a good Urban Renewal project.

For all these years the decision has been cited as the reason Florida is one of the seven states that can't put its hand very far into the billion dollar federal Urban Renewal till.

Off the record, many city attorneys say the blockade might be busted by a new suit, or just a regular law. But to be really on the safe side the blight fighters have decided to try to do what Georgia did—change the State constitution.

Daytona Beach had big plans for the 6½ acre sore spot on the edge of its close in Negro section. And it already had in hand a $130,000 contribution and a $302,000 loan from the federal government to do the job.

It was going to condemn and buy the site, clear it, then split it up for sale to developers who would put light industry and warehouses on it.

Many of the displaced families were to be moved into a new Negro housing project.

When Adams went to court to keep his land, six other Florida cities joined in Daytona's defense.

But Supreme Court Justice John Mathews, now deceased, called the project a "real estate promotion." Agreeing with him were Thomas Sebring, Elwyn Thomas, Frank Hobson and B. K. Roberts.

The court made much of the fact that the plan would change a residential area to all commercial and industrial. This is not typical of most Urban Renewal projects.

Said Mathews:

"It is inconceivable that anyone would seriously contend that the acquisition of real estate for declared purposes set forth is for a public use or purpose . . . If the municipalities can be vested with any such power or authority, they can take over the entire field of private enterprise without limit so long as they can find a blighted area containing sufficient real estate."

Mathews made note of the fact that buyers of the land would be competing with other free enterprise.

Disagreeing with the majority of judges was Justice Glenn Terrell.

He said he could not see "where the sanctity of property rights is being violated."

"I do not think" he added, "the constitution was intended to be construed so as to condemn a community to live in eyeshot of a social blight like that revealed by the record."

A look along the railroad tracks, added Terrell, brings to mind "a dilapidated turpentine still or saw mill quarters, abandoned by the owner and preempted by bats, bed bugs and billy goats."

The strip looks today as it did then. Only the intervening years have increased the population density of the bats, bugs and billy goats.

Electricity Fails As Strike Goes On

By Herald Wire Services

PENSACOLA—New power interruptions were reported by the strike-bound Gulf Power Co. Tuesday.

A company spokesman said an estimated 400 residential customers around Milton were without electricity throughout the night. H. W. Olcott said a roll of barbed wire was thrown over one power line and the circuit was out of operation from 10:15 p.m. until 8:40 Tuesday.

Service also was disrupted on two other lines in the Milton area throughout the night. Olcott said it was not yet determined what caused those failures.

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has denied its members were involved in a series of power failures. The company said the incidents were the work of vandals.

Approximately 240 union employes struck March 23 in a contract dispute.

A federal mediator, Sloan Springfield of New Orleans, said no joint negotiations are scheduled at present. The last was held on Sunday. Springfield said he was continuing to confer with the opposing sides in an effort to seek a solution.

Snark Readied

TAMPA — The commanding general of the Strategic Air Command's Eighth Air Force said Tuesday the Snark intercontinental missile unit "will be in position to reach any target in the world" within a few months.

The unit, currently a part of the test center at Patrick Air Force Base, will transfer to Perque Isle AFB, Maine, as soon as it becomes "operational," Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney Jr. said.

Sweeney, in Tampa for an informal visit at MacDill AFB, declined to discuss national defense policies with newsmen but said "SAC at present can carry out its mission . . . in a matter of minutes."

Added Power

WASHINGTON—The Rural Electrification Administration said Tuesday it has approved a one million dollar loan to build a power station on Pine Island and extend electricity in Southwest Florida.

The loan will go to the Lee County Electric Cooperative of Fort Myers.

The administration said the money plus funds from prior loans will go toward the construction of the 5,000 kilovolt-ampere substation and building 100 miles of new distribution line to birng power to 1,300 rural consumers in Lee, Charlotte, Collier and Hendry Counties.

Senator Is 78

MONTICELLO — The dean of the Florida Senate, S. D. Clarke, observed his 78th birthday Tuesday with a little fellowship and a little politics.

Sen. Clarke spent the day as usual looking after the affairs of his bank.

This evening a group of his longtime friends and legislative cronies visited his home to toast the birthday.

Clarke has served continuously in the Florida Senate since 1930. He was senate president in 1947.

Gas Cable

ST. PETERSBURG — The Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corp. said Tuesday it has asked permission to lay an eight-inch pipeline across Old Tampa Bay.

The company building the pipeline to bring natural gas to Florida this year, asked the Army Corps of Engineers for approval to place the submarine pipeline loosely on the bottom of the bay across South Gandy Channel.

A ruling on the request will come after the engineers study the proposal.

Senator Favors Bay, Monroe

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Sen. Bart Knight of Blountstown said Tuesday he will urge the Legislature to restrict reapportionment this year to providing separate senators for Bay and Monroe Counties.

Gov. LeRoy Collins has stated repeatedly that he will not accept a bill that goes no further than taking care of Bay and Monroe Counties. He insists that any reapportionment also provide separate senators for Manatee, Sarasota, Brevard and Seminole Counties.

Would Include Groceries, Drugs

'Blanket' Sales Tax Move Gathers Steam

Breakdown Seen in Opposition

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A movement to apply the state sales tax to all items appeared to pick up steam Tuesday in the face of what had seemed to be an almost solid wall of opposition.

Rep. John Shipp of Jackson, an influential House member, said he doesn't think the coming Legislature can adequately finance state needs without voting new taxes.

But House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley of Walton said again he was confident the Legislature could hold the line on any new taxes and still take care of all state needs.

Shipp, however, hinted strongly that he has up his sleeve a bill that would broaden Florida's three per cent sales tax to hit every item, including groceries and drugs which are now exempt from the tax.

Gov. LeRoy Collins is pledged against any new general taxes and both House and Senate leaders have stated flatly that the Legislature can get by without major tax boosts.

However, they concede that if this is done it will mean making some budget cuts.

The chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations committees announced after a closed meeting two weeks ago that heads of the various sub-committees under them agreed to an arbitrary budget cut to 685 million dollars.

This would amount to about 40 million dollars under recommended spending by the Cabinet Budget Commission. Shipp said Tuesday he did not attend that meeting, has made no such agreement and does not intend to.

"I am willing to vote whatever taxes it takes to finance a growing state, and I frankly feel that some new taxes will be needed," Shipp said.

He offered a three per cent across-the-board sales tax bill in 1957, but it was rejected.

Shipp is chairman of the powerful House Education Committee and also heads the subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee responsible for determining spending for public schools and universities during the next two years.

Agencies under Shipp's subcommittee account for about 65 per cent of total state spending. And he says he does not intend to arbitrarily cut these budgets just to avoid taxes.

Another subcommittee member, Rep. Sam Saunders of Clay, supports Shipp's stand. Saunders said he has never pledged his vote against new taxes and will not.

The subcommittee opened a two-day work session on budget recommendations Tuesday. Shipp said the group will not necessarily recommend cuts in spending recommended by the Cabinet for schools and state-supported universities.

Shipp joined his Senate counterpart, John Rawls of Marianna, in stating that no drastic cuts will be made in the building budget for the new University of South Florida under construction at Tampa.

Phone Talks Cut Short

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — An overzealous post hole digger knocked out telephone and teletype service in the downtown business section here Tuesday.

He dug five holes for posts and cut a cable carrying 202 circuits at five places.

Phone company officials said he couldn't have done a better job if he used a transit.

The cuttings interrupted all telephone and teletype service at The News-Journal—64 phones and six teletype machines—and phones to the city's main fire station and Chamber of Commerce.

Two Killed

This three-car crash on the heavily traveled Trout River Bridge north of Jacksonville late Monday killed two Jacksonville women and critically injured seven other persons. Dead were Elizabeth Virginia Fuller, 47, and Mattie Mae de Brown, 58. Police said a car headed south in the northbound lane rammed headon into a second vehicle. The third auto was unable to stop and piled into the wreckage.

2 Believed Dead on Gulf Boat

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — A Coast Guard plane located the missing 35-foot pleasure cruiser, Miss Bonnie, Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico.

A helicopter picked up one of three men who went out on the vessel Saturday. The other two were believed dead.

Lt. Roger Frawley, helicopter pilot from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station, said he took Virgil Garrison of Crystal River off an unidentified vessel at the scene and flew him to Crystal River.

Garrison was taken to a hospital at Inverness.

The Coast Guard said a Martin Marlin seaplane spotted the Miss Bonnie awash and under tow of the unidentified craft about 17 miles out in the gulf and 10 miles south of Cedar Key. The helicopter was summoned to get Garrison.

Garrison went into the gulf with Randall Maruska of Crystal River and Andy Strange of Jacksonville on a fishing trip Saturday. A search was launched when the three, employes of a fishing concern at Crystal River, failed to return Sunday.

The helicopter pilot said he spotted the body of one man aboard the floundering Miss Bonnie. He quoted Garrison as saying the third man jumped overboard with two life jackets Sunday night. Garrison didn't identify the men by name.

The tow vessel cut the pleasure craft loose and headed for port shortly after the Coast Guard reached the scene, apparently because of a shortage of fuel.

Bomarc Sent Aloft For 'Kill'

CAPE CANAVERAL — (AP) — A roaring Bomarc interceptor missile shot through the clouds Tuesday, aiming for a simulated enemy attack plane cruising in from the Atlantic.

The sleek Boeing missile, which soon will be operational at 14 strategic launching sites throughout the country, blazed aloft on the trail of a pilotless World War II vintage B17 bomber.

If all went well, the 47-foot missile would streak in at twice the speed of sound and execute a theoretical kill on the target.

For test purposes, however, the Bomarc usually veers away from the target in the last split second.

The Bomarc, being tested at a new range stretching south from Santa Rosa Island on the Florida gulf coast, uses a high thrust booster rocket to take off and twin ramjet engines for sustained flight.

A new version, called Bomarc B, soon will be tested by Boeing.

Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL—A strike threat intensified Tuesday as the iron workers union and the construction contractors of this missile base failed to agree on a new contract.

The 115 iron workers—and about 1,400 other construction workers—were prepared to strike when their contracts expired at midnight unless a last minute settlement was reached.

A last minute evening session for the iron workers was scheduled, and talks with the carpenters union were in progress.

If the men walk out, their action would halt 60 million dollars in work, including three launching pads for the Titan ICBM and modification of existing Atlas ICBM pads.

Gene Caudell, business agent for the iron workers, said "no progress" was made at a three hour session with officials of the Patrick Air Force Base Contract Association, bargaining agent for the almost 200 contractors of Patrick AFB and Cape Canaveral.

Caudell said there was a "possibility" that the talks might be extended past the midnight deadline.

Officials of the contracts association and Federal Mediator William McAlister were closeted with the carpenters and could not be reached for comment.

The iron workers are asking a 15-cent package—a five cents per hour pay hike and a 10 cents per hour "welfare fund." Iron workers now get $3.35 per hour, and contractors have offered a 2½ cent hike.

Frank Reimer, president of the carpenters, refused to define the carpenters demands. He said they would ask a "good increase." Carpenters now get $2.85 per hour here.

Reimer said if his union failed to reach a settlement, his men probably would "go fishing" rather than work today.

Raiford's 'Little Blast' Pinned Down

RAIFORD — (AP) — The prisoner who made a tiny bomb which blew a little hole in a wall Sunday was located Tuesday but Superintendent DeWitt Sinclair said "we can't prove it."

The superintendent would not identify the man by name but said he had been in several prisons and had admitted "majoring in chemistry" in one federal prison.

Sinclair said guards found a chemistry book — stolen from the prison library — in the cell along with some carbide, flint, acid and zinc, all hidden in various parts.

"Prisoners have been making little ones and shooting them like firecrackers for a long time," Sinclair said. "You can make a bomb out of 10,000 things if you know how—a pack of cards, toothbrush handle, soap, paint.

"We don't know what this one was made of but it blew a small hole in a thin wall between a shower and an alleyway. There was no security involved."

House Is Rammed

Boom! It's Not War, That's Car Crashing

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — "My first thought," said the Rev. Edwin Westbrook, "was that the Russians had started a war."

"The sound was so loud and near I thought we might have been bombed."

And well he might because the sound was caused by an auto driven at 80 miles an hour crashing into his corrugated steel home early Tuesday.

The Baptist minister—who does not have a church at present—said he and his wife and 6-year-old daughter were sleeping when the crash came. The impact ripped one corner and part of the roof and knocked the entire structure from its foundation.

Police said if the house hadn't been steel the three might have been killed for the car hit their bedroom.

Driver of the car was listed as Harold Colberg, a chief at the Naval Air Station. Witnesses said the car had been weaving for some distance before it left the road at an intersection of Timuquana Road and Ortega Farms Road on the outskirts of the city.

School 'Deduction' Plan Hit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — House Speaker-Designate Thomas Beasley took issue Tuesday with a proposal that the Legislature adopt a "tax credit" plan to insure private schooling for children whose parents won't send them to integrated schools.

Beasley said the proposal, advanced by Rep. William Chappell of Marion, could destroy public school financing and the state's overall economy by funneling off substantial income.

He disagreed with Chappell that the Ervin-Bailey private school tuition plan is unconstitutional.

Beasley, who will run the House with an iron hand if his previous term as speaker in 1947 is any indication, said the Legislature will be flooded with segregation bills.

But he said he does not think more than two major bills in this field will actually be voted into law.

One, he said, will be some form of tuition plan. The other will broaden the existing pupil placement act to provide additional criteria for determining admission of students to a specific school and permitting school boards to segregate students by sex.

The parent option tuition plan, which is expected to be introduced with enough cosponsors to insure its passage, would let parents withdraw children from integrated schools and draw a state subsidy of about $250 a year to educate them privately.

Beasley, a lawyer, said this plan will meet legal tests as long as the money is made available on an equal basis to white and Negro students.

Chappell, also an attorney, said federal courts will rule out any direct payment of state tax funds to private schools. There also is a danger, he said, that private schools accepting a state subsidy could be brought under court-enforced orders to integrate their classrooms.

Under his substitute proposal, no money would change hands. The parents would pay for a private education from their own pockets, but deduct the amount from their share of taxes for support of the public schools.

Opposition Breaking Up

Universal State Sales Tax Movement Gaining Support

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A movement to apply the state sales tax to all items appeared to pick up steam Tuesday in the face of what had seemed to be an almost solid wall of opposition.

Rep. John Shipp of Jackson, an influential House member, said he doesn't think the coming Legislature can adequately finance state needs without voting new taxes.

But House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley of Walton said again he was confident the Legislature could hold the line on any new taxes and still take care of all state needs.

Shipp, however, hinted strongly that he has up his sleeve a bill that would broaden Florida's three per cent sales tax to hit every item, including groceries and drugs which are now exempt from the tax.

Gov. LeRoy Collins is pledged against any new general taxes and both House and Senate leaders have stated flatly that the Legislature can get by without major tax boosts.

However, they concede that if this is done it will mean making some budget cuts.

The chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations committees announced after a closed meeting two weeks ago that heads of the various sub-committees under them agreed to an arbitrary budget cut to 685 million dollars.

This would amount to about 40 million dollars under recommended spending by the Cabinet Budget Commission. Shipp said Tuesday he did not attend that meeting, has made no such agreement and does not intend to.

"I am willing to vote whatever taxes it takes to finance a growing state, and I frankly feel that some new taxes will be needed," Shipp said.

He offered a three per cent across-the-board sales tax bill in 1957, but it was rejected.

Shipp is chairman of the powerful House Education Committee and also heads the subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee responsible for determining spending for public schools and universities during the next two years.

Agencies under Shipp's subcommittee account for about 65 per cent of total state spending.

Finds Her in Hospital Bed

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Announcement of the award, by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

As Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Mrs. Kelley's selection Monday—not made public until she was notified Tuesday—ended a period of acute embarrassment for the American Mothers Committee.

Committee officials in New York City reported they had discovered that through error by volunteer workers at national headquarters 40 Kansas women had been mailed "dear mother" letters when they should have had "dear member" letters inviting them to the May 4-8 convention in New York City.

MIG Jets Harass U.S. Plane

Berlin Incident Protest Lodged

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corriders to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Force's biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of the isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

Cuban Boats Stir Keys Protest

More State News, P. 17A, 1C, 2B

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The Key West Charter Boatman's Association has complained to the office of U.S. Sen. George Smathers about Cuban commercial boats fishing near here.

Curtis Ryan, chairman of the board and vice president of the association, said Tuesday Cuban smacks have moved into U.S. territorial waters off to Key West to catch fish in quantity.

Ryan said he talked long distance Tuesday with Smathers' Washington office. He said Scotty Peak, Smathers administrative assistance, promised the matter would be looked into.

"There were eight smacks, 40 to 60 feet long, plus some 20 skiffs, fishing out there Monday," Ryan said. He estimated that over 100 men were involved in the operation and that "thousands of pounds of kingfish are being hauled in. "Those kingfish around the reef provide our bread and butter," explained Ryan, who operates a charter boat himself.

"Once they've cleaned out the kingfish they'll start pulling out everything that moves," Ryan predicted.

Ryan said the Cuban vessels are fishing in waters along the reef from Sand Key westward towards Key West. Capt. Johnny West, president of the association, said the boats have been there for about 10 days.

West added that commercial fisherman from this area, as well as the charter boatmen, are also becoming upset by the Cubans' presence.

Ryan cautioned that if the Cubans continued to exploit local waters, fisherman from Key West may attempt to use force to keep them out.

"Then we'll have an international incident on our hands," Ryan said.

Ex-Tibetan Premier Lu Kang Wa Leaves Buddhist Temple
. . . with him is Indian lama, right, who led prayers for revolt

India Main Target of Broadcast

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

These reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however, appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

The official Peiping People's Daily Tuesday followed up Nehru's statement with a thinly-cloaked warning that he mind his own business. The warning was broadcast by Radio Peiping.

In one breath, the official Communist Chinese newspaper called India "China's great, friendly neighbor" and in the next accused it of acting as a springboard for the revolt.

The People's Daily said India and Tibet's other neighbors in the Himalayas were serving as "props" for the rebellion and that Tibetan insurgents were using the Indian border town of Kalimpong as a "center for collusion with imperialism, the Chiang Kai-shek clique and foreign reactionaries." Nehru already had rejected similar earlier charges.

"The rebellion in Tibet and its supression are entirely internal affairs of China," the newspaper asserted. "No foreign country should interfere in the rebellion."

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

Dulles Basks In the Sun

Herald Service

JUPITER ISLAND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported enjoying Florida's sunshine Tuesday at the Hobe Sound estate of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state.

Dulles spent considerable time outdoors, and took a swim in the estate's big pool, according to Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Green said Dulles has not talked by telephone with the President since his arrival. But Green said he had relayed to Washington information after talking with Dulles himself.

Fighting against cancer, Dulles is expected t decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

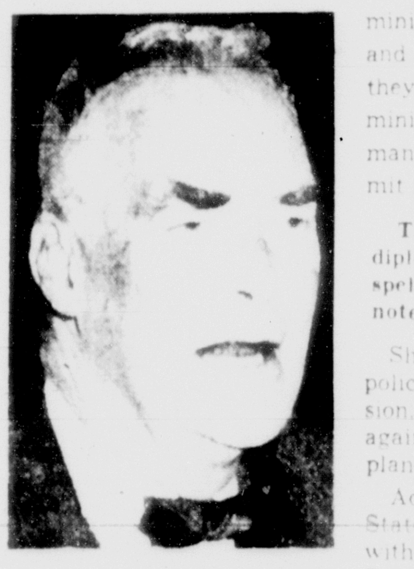
Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, an Army internal medicine specialist, accompanied Dulles to Florida along with Dulles' wife and other members of the Dulles party.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Western foreign ministers Tuesday resolved some of their differences over proposals they will offer Russia on Germany and Berlin.



Christian Herter
. . . joins in talks

At the same time, the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the U.S. reemphasized that they want progress at a foreign ministers' conference on Germany before they agree to summit meeting this summer.

This insistence on advance diplomatic spadework may be spelled out anew in another note to Russia.

Shortly before the foreign policy chiefs held their first session, the U.S. cautioned Russia against interfering with Allied plane flights into West Berlin.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter joined with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in discussing the note Russia sent Monday agreeing to a foreign ministers' parley starting May 11.

The three Allied foreign policy chiefs met in a second session later with West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

A spokesman for Herter told newsmen afterward "a couple of differences were resolved and a couple require more discussion." The spokesman did not identify the differences. But in advance of the meeting a British-U.S. split was evident on what concessions, if any, to

Today's Forecast: Cloudy, Warm

Farewell, March, You Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all right Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.82 inches of rain for the month up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were predicted all over the state, with a chance of more scattered showers in South Florida.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind, rainwise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25 inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949 or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 30 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

"A wet March may mean a wet April, based on past performance," Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

Mayor Wagner Hooted By Picketing Employes

New York Hit by Budget Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards, in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a so-called economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Wagner also said he had eliminated 1,300 city jobs—including 1,000 chauffeurs of city vehicles. The rest were vacant jobs or those filled by provisional employes.

City Hall previously had announced that uniformed policemen, firemen and sanitation employes would have to be satisfied with pay raises of $200 a year, instead of the $300 they had been led to expect. Other city employes, including school teachers, also faced reduced wage raises or none at all.

Official Resigns

Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to $0 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General Development is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus racetrack signboards.

SPORTS Car Club of America, Florida region, has scheduled a big two-day race program at Master Field, Opa-locka, May 16-17. Three members have guaranteed $12,000, necessary to set up the show. The events will be just about the same as the Orange Bowl show two years ago. Ken Coleman of Palm Beach, regional executive, will be in charge of the show. The racing program will be directed by Lucky Casner of Miami.

The show, although all amateur, will attract dozens of well-known and capable drivers. In Florida there are many skilled pilots, with cars equal to anything the professionals drive. Profits will be divided equally between Variety Children's Hospital and Miami Police Benevolent Association.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way, even now, to save human lives.

Mayor Kenneth Oka, president of the orchestra association, will preside.

28 Escape Flames in Haiti Crash

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti—(AP)— Twenty-eight persons escaped serious injury Tuesday when a Haitian Airlines DC3 made a belly landing in a field outside the capital. Six American tourists were aboard.

The twin-engine craft caught fire after the emergency landing and the passengers and crew raced out through a sheet of flame. Some suffered superficial cuts and burns but none was hospitalized.

The pilot lost his port engine shortly after the plane took off on a flight from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the northern part of Haiti.

The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Max Holzman and their daughter, Susan, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Goodwin of Los Angeles, and Miss Alix Causse, Wilton, Conn.

Two Canadians were also aboard. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stefanovich, Hamilton.

Racists March on Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the State Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southern Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial. Colombo is survived by his wife, Jane, of Indiatlantic and Detroit.

The other two bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Milhizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

He climaxed his spree by setting one blaze in front of the Central Fire Station.

Farm Bloc Adamant

House Rejects Farmers Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andresen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved conservation practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

offer the Soviets in new diplomatic talks.

The four top Allied diplomats scheduled two meetings for today to continue their attempt to forge a united front on all proposals involving Germany and Berlin's future. Results are to be reported to a full meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council which opens here Thursday.

A report on Tuesday's talks was given reporters by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state.

In discussing a possible new Allied note to Moscow, Berding said "we may have to send another note to straighten out a couple of points." He said these points were:

1—That a summit conference "should be predicated on some progress at a foreign ministers level." Berding said the Allies "speak as one" on this despite differences in wording in their last notes to Moscow.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was quoted Tuesday as saying that he believed a summit meeting should be held, preferably in San Francisco, even if a meeting of foreign ministers flops.

Newsweek magazine said Macmillan expressed this view during conversations at the Washington home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"There must be a summit or there may be war tomorrow," he was quoted as saying. "I cannot go to the queen and ask for . . . the evacuation of millions, many of them children, to far places of the commonwealth, until I have exhausted every other possibility.

2—That West German as well as East German Communist representatives could be invited to a foreign ministers meeting as advisers, but not as full participants, in all phases of the meeting. The Soviet note agreed only that the Germans should be represented at a conference of foreign ministers.

A British spokesman who also briefed reporters sought to minimize U.S.-British differences on how to handle the German problem. He emphasized all four nations are agreed on principles they will follow in seeking to maintain the objectives of German unity and the Allied right to remain in Berlin.

The two foreign ministers conferences Tuesday lasted nearly 3½ hours.

Two Killed

This three-car crash on the heavily traveled Trout River Bridge north of Jacksonville late Monday killed two Jacksonville women and critically injured seven other persons. Dead were Elizabeth Virginia Fuller, 47, and Mattie Mae de Brown, 58. Police said a car headed south in the northbound lane rammed headon into a second vehicle. The third auto was unable to stop and piled into the wreckage.

Proposed Building Code Bill Stirs Most Fire at Taxpayers Meeting

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — Proposed legislation enabling the Indian River County Commission to adopt a building code provoked the most discussion at a public meeting sponsored by the County Taxpayers Association on local bills being considered.

Rep. L. B. (Buck) Vocelle, County Commission Chairman Robert Graves and County and City Attorney Sherman Smith led the discussion Monday night at the Community Building.

Art Karst, Taxpayers Association president, introduced J. B. Egan, first vice president, as moderator and spokesman for the association's legislative committee which had studied the proposed bills. Vocelle outlined and explained the bills.

Regarding the building code, Smith explained that a permissive bill is being asked, that the county commission may not necessarily exercise the power to adopt a building code as soon as it receives it.

In expressing the views of the legislative committee Egan said, "We don't want to have hanging over our heads the chance that we might have to get permission to repair a leaky faucet."

"It strikes me as a very good bill," commented Jack Finnegan of the Mackle Bros. Sebastian office.

Tracy Turner, president of the local Realty Board, told the group, "I would think most thinking people . . . would want their county commissioners to have the authority to enact a building code."

Joe Roschach, president of Tropicolony, Inc., objected to a building code on the basis that waiting for building inspectors to make their inspections before work could proceed could add too much to the cost of building homes.

"There is no such thing as a simple building code or a simple way to enforce it," Roschach said. "I do not approve of the city building code. It is restrictive, arbitrary and overdesigned."

Joe Michael, president of the Indian River County Farm Bureau, reported that his organization had reaffirmed its opposition to a building code if it could not be made to apply only to subdivisions or developments.

After the discussion members of the Taxpayers Association voted to oppose the building code bill as written.

The Taxpayers affirmed bills releasing certain funds for maintenance of public health units and enabling the county to perform certain public services including garbage collection.

The Taxpayers suggested mail notices and legal advertisements to promulgate a bill to permit special police and street lighting districts.

2 Believed Dead on Gulf Boat

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — A Coast Guard plane located the missing 35-foot pleasure cruiser, Miss Bonnie, Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico.

A helicopter picked up one of three men who went out on the vessel Saturday. The other two were believed dead.

Lt. Roger Frawley, helicopter pilot from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station, said he took Virgil Garrison of Crystal River off an unidentified vessel at the scene and flew him to Crystal River.

Garrison was taken to a hospital at Inverness.

The Coast Guard said a Martin Marlin seaplane spotted the Miss Bonnie awash and under tow of the unidentified craft about 17 miles out in the gulf and 10 miles south of Cedar Key. The helicopter was summoned to get Garrison.

Garrison went into the gulf with Randall Maruska of Crystal River and Andy Strange of Jacksonville on a fishing trip Saturday. A search was launched when the three, employes of a fishing concern at Crystal River, failed to return Sunday.

The helicopter pilot said he spotted the body of one man aboard the floundering Miss Bonnie. He quoted Garrison as saying the third man jumped overboard with two life jackets Sunday night. Garrison didn't identify the men by name.

The tow vessel cut the pleasure craft loose and headed for port shortly after the Coast Guard reached the scene, apparently because of a shortage of fuel.

Raiford's 'Little Blast' Pinned Down

RAIFORD — (AP) — The prisoner who made a tiny bomb which blew a little hole in a wall Sunday was located Tuesday but Superintendent DeWitt Sinclair said "we can't prove it."

The superintendent would not identify the man by name but said he had been in several prisons and had admitted "majoring in chemistry" in one federal prison.

Sinclair said guards found a chemistry book — stolen from the prison library — in the cell along with some barbide, flint, acid and zinc, all hidden in various parts.

"Prisoners have been making little ones and shooting them like firecrackers for a long time," Sinclair said. "You can make a bomb out of 10,000 things if you know how—a pack of cards, toothbrush handle, soap, paint.

"We don't know what this one was made of but it blew a small hole in a thin wall between a shower and an alleyway. There was no security involved.

Phone Talks Cut Short

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — An overzealous post hole digger knocked out telephone and teletype service in the downtown business section here Tuesday.

He dug five holes for posts and cut a cable carrying 202 circuits at five places.

Phone company officials said he couldn't have done a better job if he used a transit.

The cuttings interrupted all telephone and teletype service at The News-Journal—64 phones and six teletype machines—and phones to the city's main fire station and Chamber of Commerce.

Electricity Fails As Strike Goes On

By Herald Wire Services

PENSACOLA—New power interruptions were reported by the strike-bound Gulf Power Co. Tuesday.

A company spokesman said an estimated 400 residential customers around Milton were without electricity throughout the night. H. W. Olcott said a roll of barbed wire was thrown over one power line and the circuit was out of operation from 10:15 p.m. until 8:40 Tuesday.

Service also was disrupted on two other lines in the Milton area throughout the night. Olcott said it was not yet determined what caused those failures.

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has denied its members were involved in a series of power failures. The company said the incidents were the work of vandals.

Approximately 240 union employes struck March 23 in a contract dispute.

A federal mediator, Sloan Springfield of New Orleans, said no joint negotiations are scheduled at present. The last was held on Sunday. Springfield said he was continuing to confer with the opposing sides in an effort to seek a solution.

Snark Readied

TAMPA — The commanding general of the Strategic Air Command's Eighth Air Force said Tuesday the Snark intercontinental missile unit "will be in position to reach any target in the world" within a few months.

The unit, currently a part of the test center at Patrick Air Force Base, will transfer to Perque Isle AFB, Maine, as soon as it becomes "operational," Maj. Gen. Walter C. Sweeney Jr. said.

Sweeney, in Tampa for an informal visit at MacDill AFB, declined to discuss national defense policies with newsmen but said "SAC at present can carry out its mission . . . in a matter of minutes."

Added Power

WASHINGTON—The Rural Electrification Administration said Tuesday it has approved a one million dollar loan to build a power station on Pine Island and extend electricity in Southwest Florida.

The loan will go to the Lee County Electric Cooperative of Fort Myers.

The administration said the money plus funds from prior loans will go toward the construction of the 5,000 kilovolt-ampere substation and building 100 miles of new distribution line to bring power to 1,300 rural consumers in Lee, Charlotte, Collier and Hendry Counties.

Senator Is 78

MONTICELLO — The dean of the Florida Senate, S. D. Clarke, observed his 78th birthday Tuesday with a little fellowship and a little politics.

Sen. Clarke spent the day as usual looking after the affairs of his bank.

This evening a group of his longtime friends and legislative cronies visited his home to toast the birthday.

Clarke has served continuously in the Florida Senate since 1930. He was senate president in 1947.

Gas Cable

ST. PETERSBURG — The Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corp. said Tuesday it has asked permission to lay an eight-inch pipeline across Old Tampa Bay.

The company building the pipeline to bring natural gas to Florida this year, asked the Army Corps of Engineers for approval to place the submarine pipeline loosely on the bottom of the bay across South Gandy Channel.

A ruling on the request will come after the engineers study the proposal.

School 'Deduction' Plan Hit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — House Speaker-Designate Thomas Beasley took issue Tuesday with a proposal that the Legislature adopt a "tax credit" plan to insure private schooling for children whose parents won't send them to integrated schools.

Beasley said the proposal, advanced by Rep. William Chappell of Marion, could destroy public school financing and the state's overall economy by funneling off substantial income.

He disagreed with Chappell that the Ervin-Bailey private school tuition plan is unconstitutional.

Beasley, who will run the House with an iron hand if his previous term as speaker in 1947 is any indication, said the Legislature will be flooded with segregation bills.

But he said he does not think more than two major bills in this field will actually be voted into law.

One, he said, will be some form of tuition plan. The other will broaden the existing pupil placement act to provide additional criteria for determining admission of students to a specific school and permitting school boards to segregate students by sex.

The parent option tuition plan, which is expected to be introduced with enough co-sponsors to insure it's passage, would let parents withdraw children from integrated schools and draw a state subsidy of about $250 a year to educate them privately.

Beasley, a lawyer, said this plan will meet legal tests as long as the money is made available on an equal basis to white and Negro students.

Chappell, also an attorney, said federal courts will rule out any direct payment of state tax funds to private schools. There also is a danger, he said, that private schools accepting a state subsidy could be brought under court-enforced orders to integrate their classrooms.

Under his substitute proposal, no money would change hands. The parents would pay for a private education from their own pockets, but deduct the amount from their share of taxes for support of the public schools.

Russia Repatriates Last Poles

The New York Times Service

WARSAW — The last trainloads of Poles returning to their homeland from the Soviet Union crossed the Bug River into eastern Poland Tuesday.

Just across the border the trains pulled into the bleak repatriation center where every day for more than two years hundreds of exiles have had their first glimpse of Poland.

Officially, the last trains marked the end of a repatriation agreement signed between Poland and the Soviet Union Nov. 18, 1956. Under that agreement about 250,000 Poles have returned to Poland—from labor camps deep in the Soviet interior.

For Poland, the last trains were a chapter in a story of conquest, deportation and exile that stretches back 20 years.

The story is one that affects almost every family in Poland. It began in September, 1939, when thousands of Poles—particularly Jews—fled eastward before the German armies.

The Russians moved forward and the refugees, and millions of Poles in Eastern Poland found themselves no longer in Poland but in Soviet territory.

That was the "first phase" of the exile, as the diplomatic historians put it. The second phase began when the Russians in their zone of Poland, began deporting Poles to Siberia and other reaches of the Soviet Union—Poles who were politically "unreliable" or Poles who simply would make good laborers.

When the war ended and the Soviet occupation of Eastern Poland became internationally recognized, there were millions of Poles cut off from their homeland.

At first the Soviet Union allowed a flow of repatriates. Poles taking up the homes and farmlands left by the Germans in the western territories taken over by Poland. Then the flow became a trickle.

The political upheaval of 1956 forced the Russians to sign an agreement giving Poles greater economic, political and military independence.

$9 Million Given for Teachers

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Ford Foundation announced Tuesday it is giving away $9,161,210 to stimulate a "breakthrough" in efforts to improve the quality of America's teachers.

In addition, the foundation announced another $2,282,800 in education grants, including studies in the use of television as a classroom aide.

The foundation said the grants for improving the quality of teachers form the "First Phase" in a "concerted new effort." Another series of grants is expected to be announced later this year, the foundation added.

Named as recipients in the teacher - improvement grants are Barnard College, New York; Brown University, Providence, R. I.; the University of Chicago; Claremont (Calif.) Graduate School; Duke University, Durham N. C.; George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.; and the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Easter Showers Did Delay Until Sunrise Service

By EDITH E. VOSS
Herald Correspondent

MRS. VOSS

AROUND BREVARD COUNTY—So it rained Easter, and we lost our bet it wouldn't. At least it waited until after sun(?)rise services, didn't it? Of course it also waited until after the morning papers had been delivered, which means we're still drying out Sunday papers we didn't get a chance to read that day. Dirty trick. If that helicopter hovering over our house when we were enjoying our soundest early morning sleep thought he'd have a ringside seat for an Easter Parade, he was certainly disappointed.

The beach areas of Brevard County were popular for sunrise services and we hear all were well attended. There were even "bleacher" seats at Cocoa Beach for services there, sponsored by the Beach churches. Stately Indian River makes a nice setting for services on the west side. Rockledge Presbyterian Church, with a patio facing the river, had perhaps the finest natural setting for its services, also well attended.

Cocoa Pilots Club Fete Troop

SPEAKING OF EASTER, that theme served as the decoration motif for the special dinner party the Cocoa Pilots Club had for Girl Scouts Troop 237, which it sponsors. Guests were even greeted at the door of the dining room of the Brevard Hotel by George, the Easter Bunny, who directed the way to the table, which was a masterpiece of baskets of candy and flowers. Surprise of the evening was the presentation to the troop by the club of a folding aluminum picnic table.

Here's Why All The Wives' Clubs

FROM TIME TO TIME we refer to special meetings, or events, sponsored by the such-and-such "wives club." These are numerous in this county—and most are county-wide in scope—that it failed to occur to us someone might wonder why a group would take such a name for a club.

For the enlightenment of what we assume must be a few, the clubs take their names from the firm of which husbands of said wives work. GE, Douglas and Convair, for instance, are obviously groups of wives of employes of those firms, at the missile test center at Cape Canaveral.

Latest of these to reach our attention is the Burroughs Wives Club. Incidentally, the meeting originally announced for April 7, was held last night.

* * *

Fiesta Title Contest Popular

LOOKS AS THOUGH there'll be plenty of competition in the county's largest fiesta this month. Entries are coming in like a mad rash (no typographical error) for the title of Miss Indian River Jubilee. This is a completely new title, succeeding the previous "Orange Jubilee" title by which this celebration has gone for the past twenty-five years or more.

Maybe it's the fatal fascination of "the first" such title that attracts the entries. April 6-11 are the dates for the Jubilee this year and many special events for each day are planned.

* * *

Brevard Students Watch Missiles

WHAT'S THIS bad (our opinion) publicity being given Fort Lauderdale about college students flocking there for Easter holidays and running some sort of marathon to see who can consume the most liquid refreshment? I don't believe I'd exactly want to brag about this feat. Anyway, it isn't likely to catch on in Brevard County communities.

Know what the college crowd does here? Go on night beach parties, where they will have a ringside seat for missile firings if there should be one that night. Take a look at Titusville, Cocoa, Eau Gallie or Melbourne Beach most any nice night and see the gay looking bonfires. They were very evident this past weekend with all the college kids home for the Easter holidays.

Not that there weren't considerable stacks of beer cans around, but at least the drinking wasn't the end and all for their being there.

* * *

Beware Portuguese Man-O-War

BY THE WAY, speaking of the beaches, newcomers should take warning of those periodic visitations of those harmless looking Portuguese man-o-wars, some of which have been along the shore and in the water for the past week or so. Their sting is terribly painful, take it from one who learned our first summer here in Cocoa.

So don't be tempted to play with those little transparent balloon-like creatures with the pretty purple markings—and don't step on them. Their poison has a deadly effect on glands nearest the touched area.

* * *

Spring, Flowers, and The Tour

SPRING ALWAYS brings thoughts of housecleaning and home beautification. For those so minded, the Melbourne Jaycee-ette sponsored tour of homes next Sunday should be enjoyable.

This is the third year this tour has been held and five homes will be on exhibition this year, as follows: Mr and Mrs. Myron Roebuck, 715 Riverside Dr., Indialantic; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watson, 460 Watson Dr., Indialantic Heights; Mr. and Mrs. John Sterner, 425 Palmetto Pl., Indialantic; Mr. and Mrs. R. DeHart of Atlantic Ave., Melbourne Beach; and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geiger, 500 S. Ramona Dr., Indialantic.

Tour will be conducted from 2 to 4 p.m. by members of the sponsoring group, all volunteer donations to be given the Brevard Hospital fund.

April 25-26 are the dates set for the annual Melbourne Flower Show. If exhibitors and sponsors are as lucky as those of the Central Brevard show two weeks ago, it'll be quite a nice show for South Brevardians.

The Cocoa-Rockledge Garden Club, sponsors of the Central Brevard Flower Show, were pleased to learn of the great possibilities of their new site, the new National Guard Armory in West Cocoa.

Speaking from the standpoint of the one who furnished the background music throughout two days of the show, we can say we were glad to learn of the acoustical possibilities of that building. As large and "barny" as it must necessarily be for an armory, it is acoustically amazing.

One simple set of stereo speakers on either side of the building were sufficient, even during the capacity-crowd hours. Food for thought for future concerts!

VISITORS FROM CANADA enjoy an outdoor meal in Florida's sunshine. That's something they wouldn't be doing back home way up north and west in Saskatchewan in the early spring time. Left to right are Michael Farion, Fred Young, Ernie Farion, Mrs. Young, G. A. Ruff, Mrs. Farion, Mrs. Ruff, S. N. Wynn and Mrs. Wynn. The Canadians spend several months here each winter. They got together for dinner in Michael Farion's home on Key Biscayne.

Titled Pair Attend Fete for Deb

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

PALM BEACH — Margaret Van Dyke (Peggy) Trout, whose Palm Beach debut last week at the home of her parents, the Thaddeus R. Trouts, highlighted the spring season, was feted Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rea at their home on Golfview Rd.

And among those who enjoyed the occasion were the Reas' houseguests, the Duke and Duchess of Segovia. They also had arrived in time for Peggy's debut dance, and were intrigued by the manner in which an American deb is launched.

The titled pair came to Palm Beach directly from California by way of India and Tokyo. The duke is the son of the late King Alphonso of Spain. They have made their home in Paris for a number of years and are longtime friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rea.

At a dinner party Mr. and Mrs. Rea gave for them at the Everglades Club, the blonde Duchess wore a swirled gown of blue chiffon. Mrs. Rea wore a white and gold gown made from a sari presented to her in India.

Another American courtesy interested the Duchess. The table decoration for the party was of orchids, and the hostess invited each woman guest to take an orchid for a corsage.

This is the first visit to America for the Duke and Duchess of Segovia.

Sunny Holm

AT THE ROYAL Poinciana Playhouse the other night, Celeste Holm — lingering in Palm Beach after starring in "Third Best Sport," wore a white organza gown, square cut, and her back was sunburned. But she looked happy and most un-actressy.

Here for the opening of "The Princess," by the Palm Beach ballet were a number of headline folk.

Earl Blackwell, the celebrity's celebrity, was escorting two lovelies and Jean Dalrymple, producer of the New York Civic Center, was not only present, but made a talk from the stage, saying beautiful words about the ballet.

As the weather becomes warmer, many leave their chincillas at home and wear satin stoles, green and scarlet being especially eye filling. Skirts remain conservative, with the majority of women preferring the short length evening dress.

Why Mr. John Designs Hats

NEW YORK —(UPI)— "I design hats for the woman wise enough to dress for men," says Mr. John. The milliner also says his new chapeaux have a "magical potency to make a lady look as young as she feels."

Descriptions of some new silhouettes: strawberry sailors of French milan, cricket casuals of gingham checks, carousel cartwheels of leghorn braid, and candy straw rustic rollers.

ADD ONION

Next time you prepare a sage-seasoned poultry dressing add an extra amount of onion cooked first in a little butter or margarine. Sage takes to onion!

Rosarian To Present 'Pinocchio'

WEST PALM BEACH — Rosarian Academy will present "The Perils of Pinocchio," at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse April 10-12.

Evening performances will be at 8:40 with matinees Friday at 4 and Saturday and Sunday at 2.

Paul Crabtree has written an original book of the play, and has collaborated with Sister Thomas Gertrude, Rosarian Music Department head, on 15 songs.

Marshall Grant has orchestrated these songs and will direct a 10-piece orchestra.

Sets have been designed by James Riley.

The play will be produced by a cast and chorus of 150 Rosarian students.

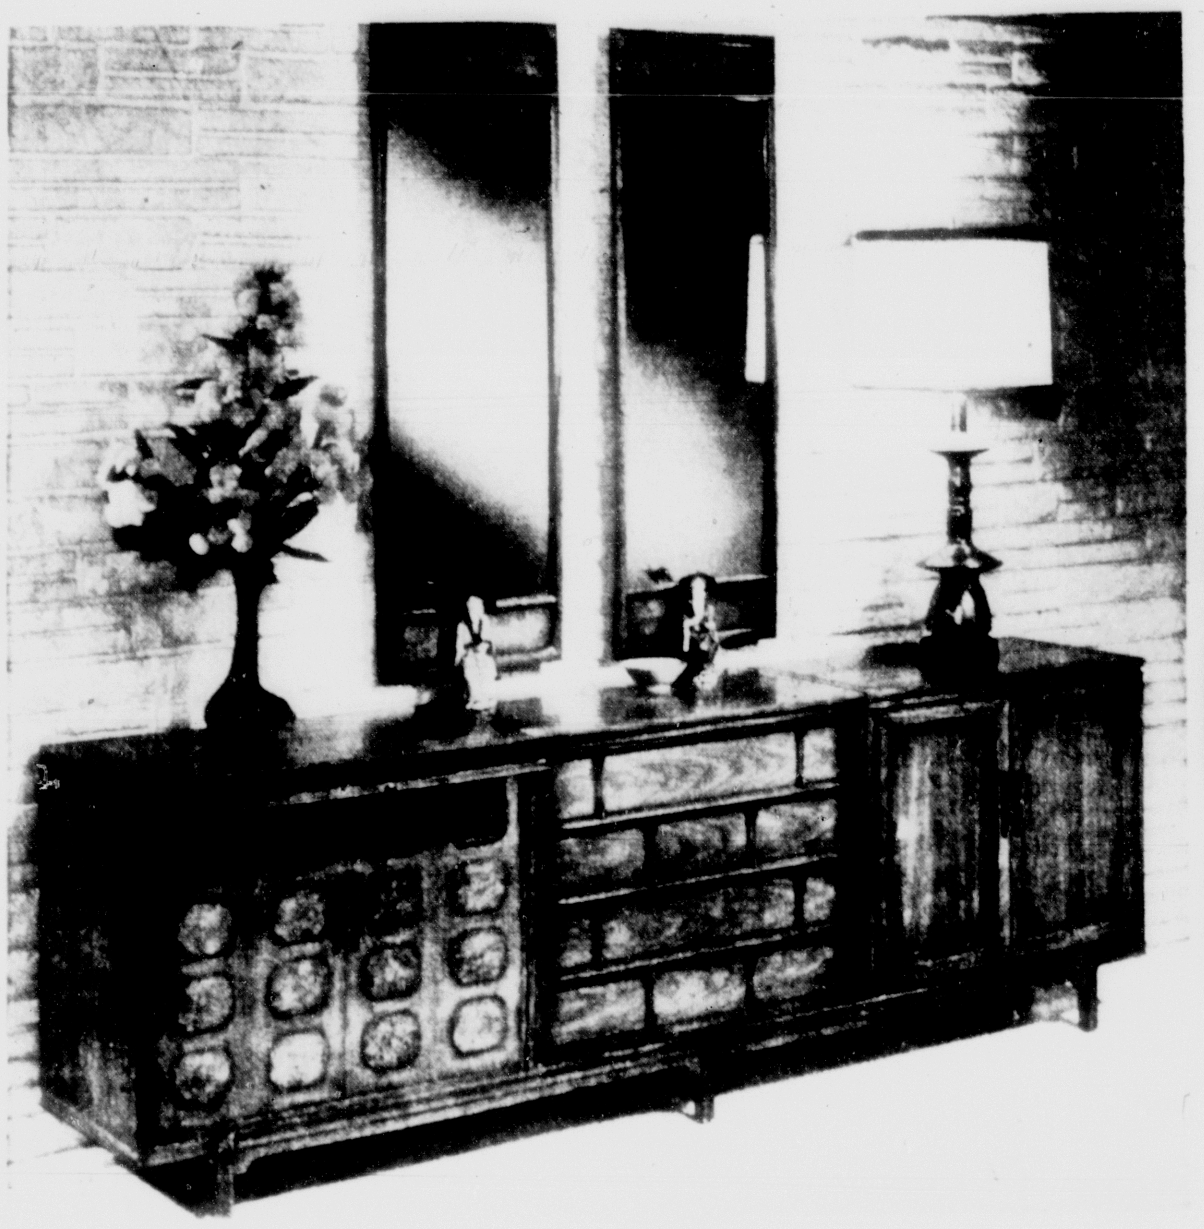
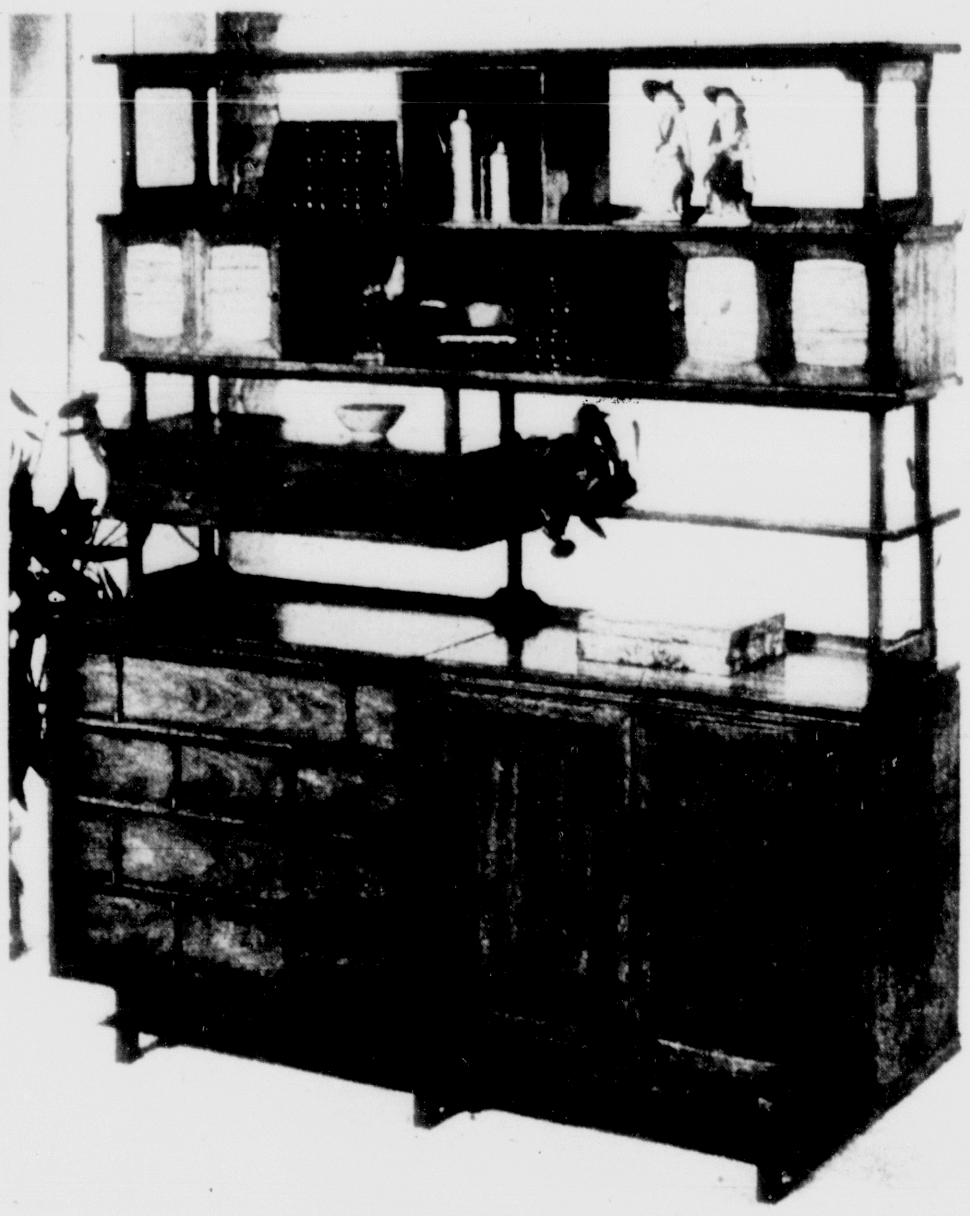
New Storage Units Make It Easier To Be Neat



New Series Of Storage Units Are Made of Pecan Wood
. . . with holly and acacia burl as accent woods



This Room Divider Is Organized for Easier Living
. . . it saves space in small quarters, too

By KAY MURPHY
Herald Decorating Editor

Organization is probably the most important part of housekeeping. Even furniture designers are beginning to realize this and are helping the job.

Organization in the home can be achieved by providing a place for everything, then putting everything in its place. When space is limited—and it is in the average home—storage units are the answer to the organization problem.

They're the answer if the storage units are not just a series of shelves and drawers but are compartmentalized, instead, to accomodate specific items. Like a woman's gloves and handbags, a man's shirts, cufflinks and tieclasps.

A new collection of furniture now available locally features all sorts of compartmentalized interiors. Bedroom chests have at least one drawer with shirt dividers in it. A tray for such miscellany as missing buttons, too.

There are deep, narrow drawers for lingerie and the multitude of accessories a woman accumulates to go with her wardrobe. One bedroom chest has a drop-down mirror behind a drawerfront.

Tarnish-resistant cloth lines the silver drawers in buffets and sideboards. A bar unit has bottle holders attached to the inside of its doors, a place to store bar equipment and a pullout serving shelf.

Where To Buy?

Call FR 9-3826 after 9:30 a.m. today. After 24 hours, write to The Miami Herald Shopping Service, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Storage is not the only story in the new collection. It includes seating pieces, tables and several types of bed headboards. There's a hint of the Oriental in the styling but essentially it can be classified as "contemporary functional."

Breakfronts have a pagoda lift to their tops. Drawer pulls are arranged to form a fretwork pattern on the front of chests and cabinets. A few chairs are reminiscent of rickshaw seats.

All the furniture has pecan as its basic wood. Oriental holly and acacia burl provide the decorative detail—in the form of parquetry or inlays.

The woods have a teak-like finish, which heightens the Oriental illusion. And the Oriental styling is more an illusion than it is stark reality. The influence is as subtle as incense.

The shapes of individual pieces have been borrowed from many cultures but they retain the curvilinear look of Oriental design.

If you would like to know where you may purchase the furniture described, call The Herald Shopping Service.

Maternity Home Group Gets National Approval

By ELEANOR DIXON
Herald Club Editor

Dade County is one step closer to having a maternity home now that the national Florence Crittenton Homes Association has approved the affiliation of the local committee working toward this goal.

Michael Shores, president of the local committee, announced the "official" affiliation with the national association Tuesday at a luncheon in the Pub Restaurant for some 80 community leaders.

Speaker at this event was Mrs. W. Boyce Hunter, Charlotte, N. C., president of the national board of Florence Crittenton Homes Association (a network of more than 50 member agencies furnishing care and-or services to unwed mothers and their babies).

Mrs. Hunter, who has worked with the Florence Crittenton movement for 20 years, explained the need for maternity home care and told what services are given to the girls who are "illegitimately pregnant."

"Latest figures show that there are 193,500 illegitimate births each year," said Mrs. Hunter. "And these are only the registered births. There must actually be twice that number."

"What disturbs us most," she continued, "is that in the past ten years, there has been a 40 per cent increase in illegitimate births among the girls under 18."

And she pointed out that Florence Crittenton member agencies serve girls of all ages, regardless of ability to pay. "We have an 'open door' policy."

Mrs. Hunter summarized the needs of unwed mothers filled by Crittenton agencies as: Protected living environment. Early and sustained medical care. Companionship. Skilled and sympathetic counseling. Referral (if desired by the girl) to a licensed child placing agency.

* * *

HER TALK was followed by a tape recording of an anonymous girl who had had her baby through a Florence Crittenton agency's help and had returned after professional counseling and guidance to everyday life.

The luncheon's guest list read like a "who's who" in organizations in Dade County. Purpose of the event was to acquaint these men and women with the needs and plans of the local committee.

"We will need your organization's help financially and as volunteers," said Staples Pierce, a vice president of the committee, to the representatives of men's and women's service and civic clubs.

"We hope you will interest your members in serving on our committees, and in helping us obtain annual subscriptions."

Mr. Pierce added that the local association also hopes to become a member of the United Fund.

Newly named directors of the committee were introduced by Mr. Shores. They are: Anthony Abraham, S. K. Bronstein, Edward Christiansen, Mrs. Connie Gee, Dr. Leon Greene, Mrs. Raymond Jenkins, the Rev. E. O. Krug, Miss Sara MacNamara, Mrs. W. L. Mussett, Miss Helen Parades, Dr. Hunter Rogers, and Mrs. John D. Simmons.

Mrs. March Dickins, a vice president, introduced Mrs. Hunter, who came to Miami especially for this luncheon and other conferences with the local committee.

Dag Disappoints Women

By Herald Wire Services

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The commission on the status of women has ended its discussion of the "lamentably small" role of women in the United Nations. Several women delegates expressed regret that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold had not placed more women on the secretariat.

Their concern was summed up by Miss Ruth Tomlinson of Britain, who reminded the commission delegates that each year they have attacked the problem and considered it from practically every angle.

"Even so," she said, "we do not seem to have made a great impression on the powers that be."

This Cure Didn't Work

PARIS — Mrs. Rene Louis Lafforgue, wife of the French author, was expecting a baby, a situation which put her husband on edge.

So, she sent him to the French Alps to do some hard skiing and to get his mind off the subject. Mr. Lafforgue quickly returned to Paris with a broken leg he received on the ski slopes.

He and Mrs. Lafforgue shared the same hospital suite.

Cheery Gifts Win Friends

NEW YORK — Turning out baskets of cheer has turned into a tidy business for a couple of fortyish New York women.

"We wanted something to do in our old age," said Mrs. Ethel Aaron.

The two women started their custom-gift business originally for the hospitalized, and fittingly called their firm "Bedside Manna." But since they opened shop in January they've branched out.

The World Was a Garden

NEW YORK — Britain's Lady Astor, looking over the confused international situation, yearns wistfully for the good old days.

"When I was a child in Virginia," she observed, "all one thought about was the garden and one didn't trouble about the rest of the world."

Sebastian Inlet Bridge District Bill Hopes Dim

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE BEACH — It appeared doubtful Tuesday that the local bill to create a special road and bridge district — to help construct a toll bridge over Sebastian Inlet — would be introduced during this session of the State Legislature.

State Rep. James H. Pruitt told The Herald that persons opposing the district have turned into him petitions carrying the names of 656 freeholders in the area involved.

A spokesman for the South Brevard Beaches Chamber of Commerce, backing the district idea and the estimated 1.2 million dollar bridge, reported that Chamber petitions contain the names of 385 freeholders.

Pruitt said, "I have checked the names on the opposition petitions against the voter list, and the 656 total is correct." The Chamber spokesman said the validity of all names on its petitions have not been checked, but this was being done Tuesday and Pruitt would get the petitions soon.

Pruitt said he told "both groups that I would follow the wishes of the majority of my constituents. The group opposing the bridge district has turned in petitions containing about 53.5 per cent of the freeholders so I now feel that I would be following the wishes of the majority by not presenting this bill."

However, Pruitt said he "intends, to keep an open mind about this, and there could be something come up to cause me to change my mind."

The opposition group's petitions asked that the area "east of the Indian River" be taken out of the proposed bridge district. Previously residents between Patrick Air Force Base and Indialantic conducted a similar campaign and had their section removed.

There are about 1,100 registered freeholders in the involved area, comprising precincts 25 and 27 in Melbourne Beach and Indialantic.

In Belbourne Area

Anti-Annexation Groups Unite

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE—Three separate anti-annexation groups Tuesday announced plans to join efforts to fight the city of Melbourne's proposal to consolidate a 22 square mile western area with the municipality.

The Committee Against Annexation, the West Melbourne Chamber of Commerce and a group of residents owning property immediately west of Eau Gallie's western limits have agreed to unite in an effort to win an April 18 annexation election.

Representatives from the groups said finances will be pooled to hire legal and public relations aides and to pay for promotional cost.

Some members of the groups also have started circulating petitions which ask the Circuit Court to issue a temporary injunction to exclude signer's property from the annexation area until a hearing for a permanent injunction is held.

The petitioners stand on the ground that Melbourne would not be able to provide sufficient municipal services to warrant annexation.

Meanwhile, the city is promoting its program by pointing out the benefits of bringing the rural areas into the municipality.

Melbourne says the benefits to the new areas would be: "Materially reduced fire insurance rates, substantial reduction of water rates, sewerage expansion, police and fire protection and street lights." The city says it would budget next year funds for a fire and police substation in the western area.

The opposition counters with the argument that "this kind of property does not need water." And, "how can overflowed land pastures and citrus groves be helped by police and fire protection?"

Senator Favors Bay, Monroe

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Sen. Bart Knight of Blountstown said Tuesday he will urge the Legislature to restrict reapportionment this year to providing separate senators for Bay and Monroe Counties.

Gov. LeRoy Collins has stated repeatedly that he will not accept a bill that goes no further than taking care of Bay and Monroe Counties. He insists that any reapportionment also provide separate senators for Manatee, Sarasota, Brevard and Seminole Counties.

Volusia to Vote On County Seat

DELAND — (UPI) — A citizens advisory committee voted Tuesday to let the people of Volusia County decide if they want to move the county seat from here to Daytona Beach.

The question came up recently when a group of Daytona Beach attorneys proposed that the weather-worn jail here be built in the more populous resort area.

But Attorney General Richard Ervin ruled that a proposed new jail must be built within the corporate limits of the county seat.

State OKs Drainage On A1A

Herald Bureau

INDIALANTIC — The State Road Department has started a $3,000 to $4,000 program to provide drainage for the busy SR A1A—Fifth Ave. intersection, which is part of the route used by area residents to get to Patrick Air Force Base jobs.

This drainage system will prevent deep water from covering the intersection after every rain. The flooding there has cost the state thousands of dollars in road repairs, according to city officials.

The program also is expected to help prevent flooding of neighboring sections of the Indialantic business district.

Town officials, who discussed the project with SRD representatives in DeLand recently, were told that the current job will put in a drainage system which can easily be pulled up and materials used again when A1A is four-laned.

Meanwhile, town officials are planning a storm and sanitary sewer system for the entire community which "would tie in with the A1A—Fifth Ave. project."

The municipal program would be financed through the issuance of general obligation bonds, according to present plans. Financing of this type requires approval of voters in a special referendum.

Bomarc Sent Aloft For 'Kill'

CAPE CANAVERAL — (P) — A roaring Bomarc interceptor missile shot through the clouds Tuesday, aiming for a simulated enemy attack plane cruising in from the Atlantic.

The sleek Boeing missile, which soon will be operational at 14 strategic launching sites throughout the country, blazed aloft on the trail of a pilotless World War II vintage B17 bomber.

If all went well, the 47-foot missile would streak in at twice the speed of sound and execute a theoretical kill on the target.

For test purposes, however, the Bomarc usually veers away from the target in the last split second.

The Bomarc, being tested at a new range stretching south from Santa Rosa Island on the Florida gulf coast, uses a high thrust booster rocket to take off and twin ramjet engines for sustained flight.

A new version, called Bomarc B, soon will be tested by Boeing.

Iron Workers Still Debating

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

CAPE CANAVERAL — Last-minute talks Tuesday apparently stalled off a threatened construction workers' strike for at least 15 days.

The Carpenters Union — which had been ready to walk out at midnight Tuesday — agreed to the delay and the Iron Workers, another key construction unit, were discussing it Tuesday night.

A. L. Johnson, business agent for the Carpenters, said agreement came during 11th-hour discussion with Federal Mediator William McAlister and an official of the Patrick Air Force Base Contractors Association, bargaining agent for the construction contractors of the Cape and Patrick.

McAlister and the contractors were closeted with the Iron Workers and could not be reached for comment.

In effect, Johnson explained, the agreement extended the Carpenters' pact with the contractors for 15 days. The pact had been scheduled to run out at midnight.

The delay agreement provides that any wage increases won by the Carpenters during the postponement will be retroactive to midnight Tuesday, he said.

The Carpenters, Iron Workers and Millwrights, key unions among the Cape's 1,500 construction workers, are all seeking wage increases. The Millwrights, however, held no local talks Tuesday.

Tuesday's last-minute delay seemed to change the tone of the contract talks. Earlier, the Iron Workers conferred with McAlister and the Contractors for three hours without reaching any agreement.

Gene Caudell, business agent for the Iron Workers, emerged from the talks with only the terse comment that "no progress" had been made.

Johnson credited McAlister with negotiating the delay.

"He is doing a wonderful job bringing us together," Johnson said.

In the contract negotiations, the Iron Workers are seeking a 15-cent package — a five-cent per hour pay hike and a 10-cent-an-hour "welfare fund." The union now gets $3.85 per hour and the contractors have offered a 2½ cents boost.

Frank Reimer, Carpenters president, and Johnson have not defined the Carpenters' demand. Reimer said they would ask a "good increase" over the existing $2.85-an-hour scale.

If the men walk out, their action would halt 60 million dollars in work, including three launching pads for the Titan ICBM and modification of existing Atlas ICBM pads.

Gene Caudell, business agent for the iron workers, said "no progress" was made at a three hour session with officials of the Patrick Air Force Base Contract Association, bargaining agent for the almost 200 contractors of Patrick AFB and Cape Canaveral.

Caudell said there was a "possibility" that the talks might be extended past the midnight deadline.

Officials of the contracts association and Federal Mediator William McAlister were closeted with the carpenters and could not be reached for comment.

The iron workers are asking a 15-cent package—a five cents per hour pay hike and a 10 cents per hour "welfare fund." Iron workers now get $3.35 per hour, and contractors have offered a 2½ cent hike.

Frank Reimer, president of the carpenters, refused to define the carpenters demands. He said they would ask a "good increase." Carpenters now get $2.85 per hour here.

Reimer said if his union failed to reach a settlement, his men probably would "go fishing" rather than work today.

Pushes Building, Teacher Hunt

Brevard Hopes to End School Double Classes

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — The Brevard County school system is in the middle of a six-million-dollar school-building expansion program this fiscal year that is expected to provide classroom space to eliminate double sessions during the 1959-60 term.

School officials also are getting a head start in finding enough teachers for the expanded facilities and replacement of any staff vacancies next year by carrying a teacher-recruiting drive to 500 colleges.

In disclosing these plans during a Melbourne visit, County Superintendent Woodrow J. Darden said, "Brevard County has the fastest growing school system in Florida — by far."

He said the school system is the "second biggest business in Brevard after Patrick Air Force Base."

This year the schools have a five-million-dollar operating budget, of which four million dollars go for teacher salaries and one million dollars for transportation and building maintenance. The multi-million dollar building expansion program is above that total.

"Schools in Brevard have been on double sessions since 1952, when I became superintendent," he said. New buildings under construction and planned this year, Darden explained, will provide classrooms for approximately 10,000 students.

The current enrollment is at 18,000, compared with 4,500 back in 1952. Some 12,000 of these pupils are transported.

Superintendent Darden estimated that between 250 and 300 new teachers must be recruited for the 1959-60 school year, which begins in September. He said there are 765 instructors now, against 170 seven years ago. At the beginning of the current term, 275 new teachers had to be hired.

Palm Shores Asks For City Rights

Herald Bureau

EAU GALLIE—Palm Shores, a proposed 16,000-home and commercial development of Magnason Properties, Inc., is slated to become Brevard County's newest municipality. It is located west of Eau Gallie.

A special act has been prepared for presentation to the State Legislature for approval of the corporation. State Rep. James H. Pruitt said this will be the only Brevard municipal corporation the Legislature will be asked to approve this session.

Pruitt said the Palm Shores bill does not require a referendum, and would become effective after Gov. LeRoy Collins signs it.

Five local residents have been listed in the bill as the town's first officials: C. H. Cannon, Harry Lee Johnson, Paul Liker, Ray O. Stett and Ben Haroldson. The five will select a mayor and vice mayor from the group, and will serve until elections can be held on select permanent officials.

Two of the five will be replaced in the first election, which will be held the second Tuesday in November, 1960, and the other three in the 1961 election.

Magnuson, a Miami concern, expects to start work this summer on its development, estimated as eventually costing several hundred million dollars.

Brevard Educator Speaks Out

School Chief Hits Talk About 'Frills'

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Brevard County School Superintendent Woodrow J. Darden tossed a verbal punch at Florida taxpayers who have been complaining that "we have too many frills in our educational system."

Darden said during a West Melbourne Chamber of Commerce talk that "frill teaching is the exception rather than the rule."

He declared that "people discussing the subject in letters to newspaper editors cite isolated cases and try to make them appear like this is the general practice."

Newspapers, "who must sell papers," also were accused of using isolated cases of frill teaching in news stories that attacked modern educational methods.

"A frill in education," Darden stated, "depends largely on who you're talking to. Some people will say that music and band are frills, while, on the other hand, you'll find people who'll fight you on the basis that music and band help in giving their children a better general education."

Darden pointed out that America is leaning toward a shorter work week, permitting more leisure time for workers. "Don't we then have the responsibility of teaching our children what to do with their spare time when they reach adulthood?" the school official asked.

"There is a lot more to life today," Darden said, "than the three-R's will provide."

Youths Held For Theft

MELBOURNE — Police rounded up a trio of juveniles ranging from 10 to 15 years old, and charged them with breaking and entering.

Police Chief John D. Thomas said Tuesday the three boys have been turned over to juvenile authorities, and are scheduled to appear before Juvenile Judge Virgil Conklin on March 15.

The chief said they "broke into two businesses and walked into two others." Only things found missing were a pistol and supply of ammunition.

School Bid OKd At Cocoa

Herald Bureau

TITUSVILLE — The Brevard County School Board Tuesday accepted the low bid of $415,900 by United Builders, Orlando, for construction of the new Pineridge Elementary School at Cocoa.

Another bid of $206,613 by Roemer Construction Co., Belle Glade, was accepted for construction of 10 classroom additions to Melbourne High School and other facilities.

The 26-classroom Pineridge School, which includes a cafetorium and administrative suite, will be located in northwest Cocoa, in an area recently annexed into the city. Construction time was given as 210 calendar days.

The Melbourne addition also includes a library, choir room, drafting room and television repair shop. Construction time is 175 days.

The highest bid of seven bidders on the Pineridge School was by Thomas Pagan, Inc., Pompano Beach, at $538,038.

Tractor Tips Over And Pins Operator

ROCKLEDGE — A tractor operator was near death Tuesday night from internal injuries sustained when his machine rolled over on him.

Surgeons at Wuesthoff Memorial Hospital were planning surgery to save his life.

The operator, James Crunkeoton, 31, of 1508 Highland St., Cocoa, was pinned under the eight-ton machine at Fiske Blvd. and Church St. Tuesday morning.

Patrolman Roy Bennett said one of the tractor's wheels suddenly locked and caused it to twist out of control and overturn.

Crunkeoton was thrown into a roadside drainage ditch, but his head was not forced under water.

Before he lost consciousness, the tractor was pulled off him by a crane which had been working nearby.

Junior Olympics Tryouts Planned

UPPER KEYS — Tryouts for the Junior Olympics of Coral Shores School will be April 17. Finals are April 24, at the school athletic field.

This annual event is open to all grades, and includes games, contests and track events. Winners receive ribbons at award night in May.

Woman Finds Note in Bottle During Outing on Beach

By GENE BURNETT
Herald Correspondent

TITUSVILLE—Storybooks often tell the mariner's romantic yarn of the note in bottle washed ashore but a Titusville woman has become one of the few to find such a bottle.

Mrs. Sonny Clifton, 17 Williams Ave., stumbled over the bottle-with note-at Titusville beach last Sunday while on a family outing.

With the aid of her husband, they removed the metal cap from what was no doubt a whisky bottle and drew out the paper dated only two Sundays before—March 15.

Was it a distress note? A ship wrecked sailor's frantic message?

No. All the note had to say was: "Please write."

It was apparently thrown out by the chief mate of the S.S. Catham who gave his address as: Bernuth Co., 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y.

On the reverse side of the paper, a complete breakfast-dinner menu was scrawled out.

Judging from the gradual illegibility of the writing as it neared the bottom of the page, Mrs. Clifton concluded that the chief probably emptied the bottle before tossing it overboard.

As for the fancy, amber colored bottle, she said "we're saving it for a flower vase." And on the note itself, she added: "we intend to write him, just out of curiosity."

Florida Derby Gains Class In Short Time at Gulfstream

NORMALLY IT requires years of tradition for a racing feature to acquire class. This is not true of the $100,000 Florida Derby, which will have its eighth running at Gulfstream Saturday.

The feature inaugurated by President Jimmy Donn has in its brief existence produced upsets, thrills and human interest stories.

FITZSIMMONS

Under the latter heading there is none to top the 1955 Derby. The track was deluged by rain and its muddy condition led many to believe Nashua, the juvenile champion of the past year, would be scratched.

The late William Woodward Jr., owner of Nashua, was aware that thousands had come to see his horse run. He called Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons in New York and seeking his advice, added, "I don't want to disappoint them even if it snows."

Confident of Nashua's ability to handle any kind of footing, Fitzsimmons told Woodward to go ahead and race the horse. It was a tough assignment for Nashua, but he won by a neck.

* * *

LETS BACK TRACK to the inaugural of the Florida Derby:

1952—A field of 18 entered and three horses charged through the stretch to produce a photo finish. The film revealed Brookemeade Stable's Sky Ship had won over Handsome Teddy and Sandtop. Jampol, the favorite, finished fourth.

1953—The Derby was put in the class of other big features when Donn made it a $100,000 added event.

Money Broker was flown here from Orleans—he refused to enter the plane twice—and won. He was not so shy on the track, outrunning such contenders as Dark Star, Jamie K., Dr. Stanley and Matagorda.

1954—It began to appear a plane trip was the proper way to tune a Florida Derby winner. Correlation was flown here from California and Florida fans had their first view of Jockey Willie Shoemaker as his mount beat Goyamo, Next Page, Sea O'Erin and others.

* * *

Air Invaders Halted

1956—They flew in Terrang, Like Magic and Count Chic from California, but Needles, the Florida bred, came from far behind to beat Count Chic by three-quarters of a length. Suspense was rough for fans waiting for Jockey Dave Erb to get Needles moving.

1957—The scant field of five had class. Calumet's General Duke not only beat Bold Ruler, odds-on favorite, but equalled a world's record of 1:46 4-5 for the nine furlongs under 122 pounds. Trainer Fitzsimmons, who watched the race from the rail, murmured, "Bold Ruler was not good enough" and walked calmly away.

JONES

1958—Calumet won again, but Tim Tam, bet down to 35 cents on the dollar, had to give his all in a stretch run to beat Lincoln Road. The Finish brought the fans to their feet screaming. Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, but a broken leg bone in the Belmont ended his racing career. This was a shocking disappointment to Trainer Jimmy Jones.

Heading for Augusta

YOUR REPORTER'S only regret in heading for Augusta, Ga., to see The Masters golf tournament is in missing the Florida Derby . . . It's quite a show and there'll be tuneful music and pageantry in the infield lake—provided by the water skiers from Dick Pope's Cypress Gardens . . . And it would have been interesting to chat with Stan Musial, who'll be in Miami Saturday night and Sunday with the Cardinals for their exhibitions with Paul Richards' Orioles . . . The latter play three games here prior to the windup series . . . Danny Murtaugh is bringing his Pirates back tonight for a single game . . . The Phillies, who include several former Marlins on their roster, play here Thursday and Friday nights . . . Ed Bouchee, who did so well with the Marlins, is at first base . . . Dick Farrell, 1956 Marlin, now considered one of the best relief pitchers in the National, is on their staff . . . The Phillies have another attraction in Richie Ashburn, the National's leading hitter of last year.

MUSIAL

* * *

Why Hollywood Succeeded

THE HOLLYWOOD KENNEL CLUB is ending its second best season tonight . . . The track will show a gain of almost $3,000,000 over last season . . . President William Syms and General Manager Tommy Lynch think part of their success was in giving the fans more marathon races, which seems to be what the greyhound followers want . . . Next year they plan to add even more marathons to the program . . . if Bud Jack, the great distance runner, wins the Derby he'll tie the record of 16 triumphs registered by the famed Neshoba three years ago . . . They say that Mar Dilly has the best chance of beating Bud Jack . . . Hollywood this past season broke individual mutuel and attendance records . . . The largest crowd was 9,050 and these fans wagered $319,150.

Joins Herald as Part of Expanded Coverage

Jim Martenhoff Named Boating Editor

Jim Martenhoff, master of every thing from a dinghy to a schooner, has joined The Herald as boating editor.

The combination of Martenhoff and Vic Dunaway, who'll concentrate exclusively in his duties as fishing editor, gives The Herald a crack one-two punch in the outdoor field.

Martenhoff, 39, joins The Herald after serving as outdoor editor of the Miami News for two years.

Addition of the Brooklyn-born newspaperman marks the start of expanded boating coverage by The Herald. Martenhoff's comprehensive stories will appear both in the sports section and the Fun in Florida Sunday magazine section.

Such things as tips to boaters on care and maintenance of their craft will be featured regularly.

Martenhoff's interest in boating dates back to his youth. Raised on Long Island, he began sailing a beat-up Sharpie around the twisting channels of the south shore as soon as he could get out of his parents' sight.

Jim's first job was in a boatyard. "A man handed me a stack of sandpaper," he recalls, "and pointed to a boat. I spent a week sanding it."

After working up to boatyard foreman, Martenhoff decided to take a crack at journalism. He was first employed by the now defunct Review Star and later moved to Newsday, where he was chief photographer.

Martenhoff was newsphoto editor of the Associated Press for 12 years, acting in a supervisory capacity in New York, Boston and Miami. He took a turn at pure camera work in Raleigh, N.C., setting up a photo bureau, and in Tokyo, from where he worked in covering the Korean war for seven months...

"During this time I never got over a basic liking for the outdoors," says Martenhoff. "I spent summers in New England (1945 to 1958)—camping, mountain climbing and winter skiing. I fished everywhere from Martha's Vineyard to Key West."

In boating, Martenhoff studied naval architecture. He learned navigation, piloting, boat handling and seamanship.

"When I was 17," says Martenhoff, "my father permitted me to take the family cruiser on a coastal trip with only my brother — no sailor-along."

Jim has sailed virtually every type of craft. He once had 10 minutes at the wheel of an ocean-going coastal freighter several hundred feet long.

X-Rays Encourage Williams

BOSTON—(AP)—Ted Williams was encouraged Tuesday with a report that X-rays showed he apparently has no broken or dislocated bones and evidently is not suffering arthritis.

However, the hospitalized Boston Red Sox slugger continued to have pain in his neck and right shoulder. Williams has been affected for more than two weeks.

Tuesday's hospital bulletin said symptomatic treatments continued, an indication the 40-year-old batting expert was undergoing traction for what he himself described as a kink in his neck.

On his arrival he vowed he'd be ready to open the season April 10. Doctors neither encouraged nor discouraged Williams but many observers think Williams is too optimistic.

A NEW TWIST—As Jockey Larney Hansman looks on with more than some amazement, Jockey Willie Harmatz shapes up for Saturday's Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park with a simple little exercise. Actually, the feet tucked under Harmatz' chin belong to Apprentice Jockey John Block. And a happy April's Fool to you, too.

O's, Pirates Clash Tonight At Stadium

The Baltimore Orioles return to their home base tonight for a rematch with Pittsburgh's Pirates at Miami Stadium. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Orioles conclude their Florida exhibition schedule with five games in succession at the Stadium. Philadelphia follows the Pirates in for Thursday and Friday night games, and the St. Louis Cardinals wind up the local schedule with a night game Saturday and afternoon contest Sunday.

Rookie Jerry Walker, Baltimore's most outstanding spring pitcher until the Miami Marlins belted him around last Saturday night, is slated to start tonight. Walker has tossed 20 1-3 innings, allowing seven runs (three by Miami) and 16 hits.

Billy Loes (seven innings, seven hits, five runs) and Skinny Brown (five innings, six hits, four runs) will follow Walker.

Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh will send two of his top hurlers, Vern Law and George Witt, against the Orioles.

The veteran Law was a 14-game winner in 1958 while Witt was the rookie sensation of the National League, winning nine of 11 decisions after being recalled from Columbus in June. The 25-year-old right-hander posted a phenomenal 1.61 earned run average.

Don Hoak's eighth-inning homer broke a 4-4 tie and propelled the Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday at Lakeland.

The victory was Pittsburgh's 11th against as many losses in the Grapefruit League season.

At Orlando, meanwhile, the Orioles scored twice in the 11th inning, then blunted a Washington comeback to win, 9-8. It was Baltimore's 12th victory in 18 games.

Ten Bid for $15,000 Purse

Rosewood, Big Effort Go in Suwannee Today

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Calumet Farm's Rosewood and Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort — two of the country's top distaff runners — clash today in the 12th running of the Suwannee River Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

A field of 10 fillies and mares was entered in the mile-and-one-sixteenth test which carries a purse of $15,000 added.

Charlie Burr, who guided Rosewood to victory in last year's Suwannee River, will attempt to make it two in a row and the Calumet mare is the likely choice today under top weight of 120 pounds. She won Hialeah's Black Helen Handicap in her last outing.

Big Effort, with Bill Hartack in the irons, looms as the main threat. The Brookmeade filly will carry 114 pounds and comes off an impressive distance race last Saturday in which she was beaten only a neck by the good colt, Day Court.

Behind Big Effort in that event were such good male horses as Belleau Chief and Noureddin.

Others starters in the Suwannee River are Searching Wind, 102 pounds and William Cook; Water-Sparrow, 104 pounds and Calvin Stone; Tara Tella, 109 pounds and Jimmy Combest; Quick Wit, 104 pounds and Bill Harmatz; Oil Rich, 108 pounds and John Sellers; Sabena 2nd, 106 pounds and Lois Cook; Happy Princess, 112 pounds and Walter Blum, and Edna Allen, 109 pounds and John Choquette.

Happy Princess was second to Rosewood in the Black Helen but "retired early" in her last outing. Edna Allen and Quick Wit have been showing speed at the Hallandale oval and could be dangerous at the weights.

If all 10 go postward, the Suwannee River will gross $16,825 and net the winner $9,700. Time mark for the event is 1:42.2, set by Estacion in 1957.

Choquette's The Story

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Sweet Error, a filly, and the colt Matthias, both ridden by Johnny Choquette, won the two divisions of Gulfstream Park's Dinner Stakes for juveniles Tuesday.

Sweet Error stepped the three furlongs of the second division in 33 1-5 seconds to beat Our Jody, under Buck Thornburg, by two lengths and pay $17.10. Ednez, ridden by Bill Hartack, was third.

Matthias, in the first division, beat Benell, the Florida Futurity winner, with Harrel Bolin, astride, by 2½ lengths. Third was Andale under Hartack.

The conditions of the race called for all owners to be residents of Florida and following the races they took part in a dinner-dance in the clubhouse.

Bell Rings Twice As Reds Rock Robin

CLEARWATER —(AP)— Two home runs by Gus Bell and one by Ed Bailey led the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 exhibition-victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and Pitcher Robin Roberts here Tuesday.

Despite the barrage, Roberts went the full nine innings for the second time this spring.

Southpaw Jim O'Toole continued as the Reds' rookie pitching sensation, going four innings without yielding a hit or run. Willard Schmidt and Charley Rabe finished up on the mound for the Reds, allowing three hits between them.

ST. PETERSBURGH —(AP)— Kansas City knocked off the New York Yankees for the third straight time Tuesday, scoring twice in the ninth for a 4-2 victory. The result pushed records of both teams to 10-10.

Rookie Right-hander John Gabler was clipped in the final inning after Art Ditmar went eight good rounds. Veteran Art Houtteman, trying for a comeback, was the winner although scored upon for the first time this spring.

Houtteman had a string of 10 scoreless frames before a triple by Deron Johnson and Bill Skowron's pinch sacrifice fly got the tieing run in the eighth.

Odds 7-1 He'll Be Traveling Soon

Paul Richards Not Long for Orioles–Furlong

By BILL FURLONG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Service

CHICAGO — Whose neck is best tailored for the executioner's block?

What major league managers will not be in their present jobs in 1960?

This season at lease three or four will depart. My guess is that they will include Cookie Lavagetto of Washington, Harry Craft of Kansas City, Walt Alston of Los Angeles, and Paul Richards of Baltimore.

The odds of the 16 managers leaving their jobs are offered in a separate tabulation. They indicate the relative security of the managers as much as their current chances of getting the ax.

The odds were based on the past records of the manager, the inclination of his owner to fire managers, and the chances of his survival should his team do more poorly than expected.

It also includes a highly elliptical and mysterious element called the Furlong Factor. Just what constitutes the Furlong Factor is a mystery — even to Furlong.

But it does include some personal convictions — that the longer a manager pilots a mediocre club, the nearer he is to extinction and that most clubs will not fire a manager in his first season, for instance.

That means at least five pilots are fairly safe, simply because this is their first full season in their current jobs.

The analysis of the American League (with years in the present job in parenthesis):

COOKIE LAVAGETTO, Washington (1½): Destined for another last-place finish, will probably fall prey to owner Calvin Griffith's need to make a show of "doing something."

The Mourning Line

AMERICAN LEAGUE		NATIONAL LEAGUE
Lavagetto, Wash.	3-1	Alston, Los Angeles	4-1
Craft, Kansas City	7-2	Rigney, S. Francisco	10-1
Richards, Baltimore	7-1	Murtaugh, Pitts.	12-1
Gordon, Cleveland	12-1	Hemus, St. Louis	15-1
Lopez, Chicago	12-1	Smith, Cincinnati	20-1
Norman, Detroit	15-1	Sawyer, Phil.	20-1
Higgins, Boston	18-1	Scheffing, Chicago	22-1
Stengel, N. York	100-1	Haney, Milwaukee	30-1

HARRY CRAFT, Kansas City, (1½): The easiest way to appease Kansas City fans for a poor ball club is to change managers . . . there is little likelihood that Kansas City will rise to a higher standing.

PAUL RICHARDS, Baltimore (4): Club is improving but will not hit its stride for several years. Richards himself has suggested simply that he won't be around to enjoy it.

But if he leaves Baltimore, again because the owners must show the fans some "action," he'll almost certainly land with another club. In fact, he might do what he did with the Sox — leave voluntarily for a different job.

JOE GORDON, Cleveland, (½): Faces the disappointment of a club that has been overbuilt in the press. The Indians will probably finish lower than the second predicted for them. Most people feel that, under Frank Lane, his job is very uncertain . . . Actually Lane's history is to fire the manager he inherits and to stand by the one he appoints. It would be very out of character for Lane to fire "his man" in his first full season.

AL LOPEZ, Chicago White Sox (2): Club due to falter, but he has done a brilliant job in keeping it in second place for two years. If Bill Veeck wants to give the Sox a "new look," Lopez might go. But not during the season.

BILL NORMAN, Detroit (½): Pulled the Tigers together in the last half of '58, has a much-improved club that might finish second—if it didn't lack power hitting. Unlikely to be fired in his first full season in the majors.

MIKE HIGGINS, Boston (4): Club will again be fairly unspectacular but his boss, Owner Tom Yawkey, changes managers as often as he cuts an artery. Higgins seems most secure among managers of "Seven Dwarfs" of American League.

CASEY STENGEL, New York (10): So who's gonna fire Santa Claus.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

WALT ALSTON, Los Angeles (5): The hounds were crying for him last year. This year Dodgers should do better, but if they continue to falter, Alston will be replaced by a more dynamic, controversial manager.

BILL RIGNEY, San Francisco, (3): Owner, Horace Stoneham, is reluctant to fire managers but usually does. So if the Giants don't plunge into pennant contention, Rigney will be in trouble . . . but the Giants should very much be in contention.

DANNY MURTAUGH, (2): Team built up from a likely second - division club into a likely pennant winner — If it isn't in the pennant race—zzt.

SOLLY HEMUS, St. Louis, (0): He's Augie Busch's "man" and he's in his first year on the job . . . This should protect Hemus from jeopardy despite a potentially poor team and the pressures from above.

MAYO SMITH, Cincinnati, (0): Powerful team coming along that may be in contention all the way. Had a mediocre record at Philadelphia but it's unlikely that, even if the Reds tumble, Smith will be axed in his first year.

EDDIE SAWYER, Philadelphia (½): Brought back by popular demand of the Phils' owner last year — Not expected to do much this year — but neither is he expected to suffer for it.

BOB SCHEFFING, Chicago Cubs, (2): Even if Cubs skid, will probably survive on the prestige of getting them into a fifth-place tie last year.

FRED HANEY, Milwaukee, (2½): Even if Milwaukee loses the pennant, it's unlikely the Braves would fire a manager who has won two pennants in two years.

Clewiston Golf Team Wins Four-Team Meet

Special To The Herald

CLEWISTON — Clewiston swept a Suncoast Conference four-team golf tournament here Tuesday, defeating Seacrest of Delray, Stuart and Belle Glade.

Stuart's Volney Stuart was medalist with a superb 75 over the fast Clewiston Country Club Course.

Clewiston defeated Stuart, 7½-4½; Seacrest, 8-4; and Belle Glade, 12-0.

Runner-up Seacrest beat Belle Glade, 8-4, and upset Stuart, 7-5. Stuart topped winless Belle Glade, 8½-3½.

The Suncoast Conference golf tournament, originally scheduled here April 6 and 7, has been postponed to April 10-11. Lafayette' Golden, executive secretary of the Florida High School Activities Association, ruled the tourney should be on a weekend to prevent players missing two days of school.

Melbourne's Lazenby Two-Hits Winter Park

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Righthander Bob Lazenby kept Melbourne's five-game slate clean with a two-hit, 10-3 triumph over Winter Park here Monday.

Lazenby permitted a fifth-inning infield singles in the fifth and sixth innings, but otherwise had the game under control.

Melbourne bats pounded 11 hits, including three doubles, against three Parker hurlers to hand the visitors their first setback in three starts.

Bill Hammond and Dennis Morawski each got two hits and every other Bulldog, with two exceptions, joined the hitting bandwagon.

It was the first local win over Winter Park in several years. The Bulldogs scored three runs in each of three innings — the first, fourth and sixth.

It was the third game in a row that a Melbourne hurler has gone the seven-inning distance to win.

The Bulldogs have four home games this week, Friday meeting Daytona Mainland and Saturday afternoon Orlando Boone.

Forest Hill Game Canceled

Herald Service

WEST PALM BEACH — The baseball game between Clewiston and Forest Hill was canceled by mutual agreement Tuesday, according to Forest Hill Coach Bobby Riggs.

Riggs was to serve as a pallbearer at the funeral of Al Tatum, West Palm Beach policeman who was killed Saturday in an accident, and many of the Falcon players planned to attend the funeral for their former coach in the Pony and Prep Leagues.

Burke Has Masters Course by the Tail

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — Jackie Burke has the tough Augusta National Golf Course by the tail. The question is, can he hold it when they start playing for keeps in the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday?

The 36-year-old Houston professional, winner of the Masters in 1956, shot a practice round 64, eight under par, Tuesday following a spectacular 66 Monday. The competitive course record is 64, set in 1940.

"This is just shadow boxing," Burke apologized uncomfortably, as if a little embarrassed at winning the annual warmup derby. "But I must say I don't know when I have played better."

None of the other contestants in the star-spangled international field have approached Burke's proficiency over the 6,980-yard, par 36-36—72 layout which is lush and green and playing extremely long.

Jackie attributes his flashy form to two things: (1) an operation on his right hand a year ago; (2) a set of new clubs with broader faces such as those he used to win four winter tournaments in a row in 1952.

"A year ago I had a cyst on my hand," Burke said. "It pained me terrifically. I couldn't practice without the hand getting very sore. I had the cyst cut off. Now everything is fine.

"Also I am using a different set of clubs. The trend has been toward a smaller faced club. I've gone back to the big faces. I have much more confidence."

For the second straight day the course basked under a warm sun, raising hope of a bright, clear weekend.

Predictions were that, if this kind of weather prevails, a score of 282 or possibly even 280 may be needed to win.

Opposition Breaking Up

Universal State Sales Tax Movement Gaining Support

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A movement to apply the state sales tax to all items appeared to pick up steam Tuesday in the face of what had seemed to be an almost solid wall of opposition.

Rep. John Shipp of Jackson, an influential House member, said he doesn't think the coming Legislature can adequately finance state needs without voting new taxes.

But House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley of Walton said again he was confident the Legislature could hold the line on any new taxes and still take care of all state needs.

Shipp, however, hinted strongly that he has up his sleeve a bill that would broaden Florida's three per cent sales tax to hit every item, including groceries and drugs which are now exempt from the tax.

Gov. LeRoy Collins is pledged against any new general taxes and both House and Senate leaders have stated flatly that the Legislature can get by without major tax boosts.

However, they concede that if this is done it will mean making some budget cuts.

The chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations committees announced after a closed meeting two weeks ago that heads of the various sub-committees under them agreed to an arbitrary budget cut to 685 million dollars.

This would amount to about 40 million dollars under recommended spending by the Cabinet Budget Commission. Shipp said Tuesday he did not attend that meeting, has made no such agreement and does not intend to.

"I am willing to vote whatever taxes it takes to finance a growing state, and I frankly feel that some new taxes will be needed," Shipp said.

He offered a three per cent across-the-board sales tax bill in 1957, but it was rejected.

Shipp is chairman of the powerful House Education Committee and also heads the subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee responsible for determining spending for public schools and universities during the next two years.

Agencies under Shipp's subcommittee account for about 65 per cent of total state spending.

Cuban Boats Stir Keys Protest

More State News, P. 17A, 1C, 2B

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The Key West Charter Boatman's Association has complained to the office of U.S. Sen. George Smathers about Cuban commercial boats fishing near here.

Curtis Ryan, chairman of the board and vice president of the association, said Tuesday Cuban smacks have moved into U.S. territorial waters off to Key West to catch fish in quantity.

Ryan said he talked long distance Tuesday with Smathers' Washington office. He said Scotty Peak, Smathers administrative assistance, promised the matter would be looked into.

"There were eight smacks, 40 to 60 feet long, plus some 20 skiffs, fishing out there Monday," Ryan said. He estimated that over 100 men were involved in the operation and that "thousands of pounds of kingfish are being hauled in. "Those kingfish around the reef provide our bread and butter," explained Ryan, who operates a charter boat himself.

"Once they've cleaned out the kingfish they'll start pulling out everything that moves," Ryan predicted.

Ryan said the Cuban vessels are fishing in waters along the reef from Sand Key westward towards Key West. Capt. Johnny West, president of the association, said the boats have been there for about 10 days.

West added that commercial fisherman from this area, as well as the charter boatmen, are also becoming upset by the Cubans' presence.

Ryan cautioned that if the Cubans continued to exploit local waters, fisherman from Key West may attempt to use force to keep them out.

"Then we'll have an international incident on our hands," Ryan said.

Finds Her in Hospital Bed

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Announcement of the award, by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

As Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Mrs. Kelley's selection Monday—not made public until she was notified Tuesday—ended a period of acute embarrassment for the American Mothers Committee.

Committee officials in New York City reported they had discovered that through error by volunteer workers at national headquarters 40 Kansas women had been mailed "dear mother" letters when they should have had "dear member" letters inviting them to the May 4-8 convention in New York City.

MIG Jets Harass U.S. Plane

Berlin Incident Protest Lodged

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corriders to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Force's biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of the isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

You'll Get Arms, Manila Is Told

Dulles Basks In the Sun

Herald Service

JUPITER ISLAND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported enjoying Florida's sunshine Tuesday at the Hobe Sound estate of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state.

Dulles spent considerable time outdoors, and took a swim in the estate's big pool, according to Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Green said Dulles has not talked by telephone with the President since his arrival. But Green said he had relayed to Washington information after talking with Dulles himself.

Fighting against cancer, Dulles is expected t decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, an Army internal medicine specialist, accompanied Dulles to Florida along with Dulles' wife and other members of the Dulles party.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Western foreign ministers Tuesday resolved some of their differences over proposals they will offer Russia on Germany and Berlin.

At the same time, the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the U.S. reemphasized that they want progress at a foreign ministers' conference on Germany before they agree to summit meeting this summer.

This insistence on advance diplomatic spadework may be spelled out anew in another note to Russia.

Shortly before the foreign policy chiefs held their first session, the U.S. cautioned Russia against interfering with Allied plane flights into West Berlin.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter joined with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in discussing the note Russia sent Monday agreeing to a foreign ministers' parley starting May 11.

The three Allied foreign policy chiefs met in a second session later with West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

A spokesman for Herter told newsmen afterward "a couple of differences were resolved and a couple require more discussion." The spokesman did not identify the differences. But in advance of the meeting a British-U.S. split was evident on what concessions, if any, to

Garbage Poisons Six Children

COALINGA, Calif. — (AP) — Six small children who spotted food in a pail and ate it wound up in a hospital Tuesday.

The food was garbage left out for collection by a family moving away. It contained rat poison.

The sick children — Bill Nankeris, five, Steven Scholorf, four, Ronnie Bannister, four, Georgina Skaggs, three, Pam Wallace, five, and Robin Wallace, two — are recovering.

Today's Forecast: Cloudy, Warm

Farewell, March, You Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all right Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.82 inches of rain for the month up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were predicted all over the state, with a chance of more scattered showers in South Florida.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind, rainwise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25 inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949, or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 30 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

"A wet March may mean a wet April, based on past performance," Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

India Main Target of Broadcast

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

These reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however, appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

The official Peiping People's Daily Tuesday followed up Nehru's statement with a thinly-cloaked warning that he mind his own business. The warning was broadcast by Radio Peiping.

In one breath, the official Communist Chinese newspaper called India "China's great, friendly neighbor" and in the next accused it of acting as a springboard for the revolt.

The People's Daily said India and Tibet's other neighbors in the Himalayas were serving as "props" for the rebellion and that Tibetan insurgents were using the Indian border town of Kalimpong as a "center for collusion with imperialism, the Chiang Kai-shek clique and foreign reactionaries." Nehru already had rejected similar earlier charges.

"The rebellion in Tibet and its supression are entirely internal affairs of China," the newspaper asserted. "No foreign country should interfere in the rebellion."

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

Mayor Wagner Hooted By Picketing Employes

New York Hit by Budget Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards, in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

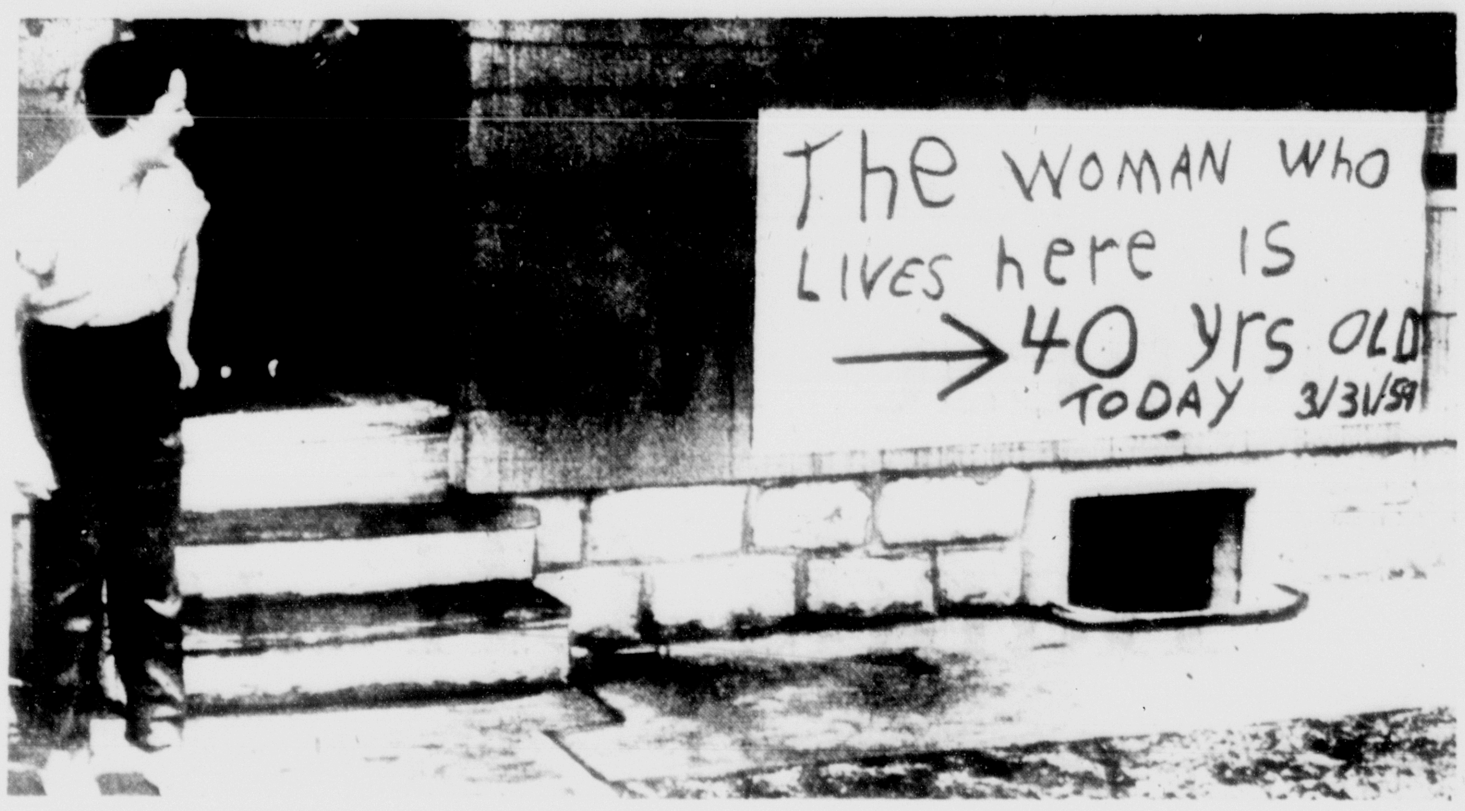
The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a so-called economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Wagner also said he had eliminated 1,300 city jobs—including 1,000 chauffeurs of city vehicles. The rest were vacant jobs or those filled by provisional employes.

City Hall previously had announced that uniformed policemen, firemen and sanitation employes would have to be satisfied with pay raises of $200 a year, instead of the $300 they had been led to expect. Other city employes, including school teachers, also faced reduced wage raises or none at all.



Sure Sign of Age

Mrs. Florence Dornack was startled when she stepped outside her home in Rochester, Minn., and saw this sign. Her husband, Chuck, put it up as a gag. He explained that she bawled him out a few months ago for giving her age as 40 on a fishing license. "I'll kill him for this," she exclaimed—but she laughed.

Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to 80 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General Development is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus racetrack signboards.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

SPORTS Car Club of America, Florida region, has scheduled a big two-day race program at Master Field, Opa-locka, May 16-17. Three members have guaranteed $12,000, necessary to set up the show. The events will be just about the same as the Orange Bowl show two years ago. Ken Coleman of Palm Beach, regional executive, will be in charge of the show. The racing program will be directed by Lucky Casner of Miami.

BELL

The show, although all amateur, will attract dozens of well-known and capable drivers. In Florida there are many skilled pilots, with cars equal to anything the professionals drive. Profits will be divided equally between Variety Children's Hospital and Miami Police Benevolent Association.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way even now, to save human lives.

Mayor Kenneth Oka, president of the orchestra association, will preside.

28 Escape Flames in Haiti Crash

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti — (AP) — Twenty-eight persons escaped serious injury Tuesday when a Haitian Airlines DC3 made a belly landing in a field outside the capital. Six American tourists were aboard.

The twin-engine craft caught fire after the emergency landing and the passengers and crew raced out through a sheet of flame. Some suffered superficial cuts and burns but none was hospitalized.

The pilot lost his port engine shortly after the plane took off on a flight from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the northern part of Haiti.

The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Max Holzman and their daughter, Susan, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Goodwin of Los Angeles, and Miss Alix Causse, Wilton, Conn.

Two Canadians were also aboard. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stefanovich, Hamilton.

Racists March on Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the State Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southern Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial. Colombo is survived by his wife, Jane, of Indiatlantic and Detroit.

The other two bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Milhizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

Fires Started In Parked Cars

DALLAS, Tex. —(AP)— Arson investigators blamed a slight, gray-haired clothing store employe Tuesday for setting at least eight fires in parked cars in downtown Dallas.

He climaxed his spree by setting one blaze in front of the Central Fire Station.

Farm Bloc Adamant

House Rejects Farmers Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andresen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved conservation practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

offer the Soviets in new diplomatic talks.

The four top Allied diplomats scheduled two meetings for today to continue their attempt to forge a united front on all proposals involving Germany and Berlin's future. Results are to be reported to a full meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council which opens here Thursday.

A report on Tuesday's talks was given reporters by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state.

In discussing a possible new Allied note to Moscow, Berding said "we may have to send another note to straighten out a couple of points." He said these points were:

1—That a summit conference "should be predicated on some progress at a foreign ministers level." Berding said the Allies "speak as one" on this despite differences in wording in their last notes to Moscow.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was quoted Tuesday as saying that he believed a summit meeting should be held, preferably in San Francisco, even if a meeting of foreign ministers flops.

Newsweek magazine said Macmillan expressed this view during conversations at the Washington home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"There must be a summit or there may be war tomorrow," he was quoted as saying. "I cannot go to the queen and ask for . . . the evacuation of millions, many of them children, to far places of the commonwealth, until I have exhausted every other possibility."

2—That West German as well as East German Communist representatives could be invited to a foreign ministers meeting as advisers, but not as full participants, in all phases of the meeting. The Soviet note agreed only that the Germans should be represented at a conference of foreign ministers.

A British spokesman who also briefed reporters sought to minimize U.S.-British differences on how to handle the German problem. He emphasized all four nations are agreed on principles they will follow in seeking to maintain the objectives of German unity and the Allied right to remain in Berlin.

The two foreign ministers conferences Tuesday lasted nearly 3½ hours.

Two Killed

This three-car crash on the heavily traveled Trout River Bridge north of Jacksonville late Monday killed two Jacksonville women and critically injured seven other persons. Dead were Elizabeth Virginia Fuller, 47, and Mattie Mae de Brown, 58. Police said a car headed south in the northbound lane rammed headon into a second vehicle. The third auto was unable to stop and piled into the wreckage.

Proposed Building Code Bill Stirs Most Fire at Taxpayers Meeting

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — Proposed legislation enabling the Indian River County Commission to adopt a building code provoked the most discussion at a public meeting sponsored by the County Taxpayers Association on local bills being considered.

Rep. L. B. (Buck) Vocelle, County Commission Chairman Robert Graves and County and City Attorney Sherman Smith led the discussion Monday night at the Community Building.

Art Karst, Taxpayers Association president, introduced J. B. Egan, first vice president, as moderator and spokesman for the association's legislative committee which had studied the proposed bills. Vocelle outlined and explained the bills.

Regarding the building code, Smith explained that a permissive bill is being asked that the county commission may not necessarily exercise the power to adopt a building code as soon as it receives it.

In expressing the views of the legislative committee Egan said "We don't want to have hanging over our heads the chance that we might have to get permission to repair a leaky faucet."

"It strikes me as a very good bill," commented Jack Finnegan of the Mackle Bros. Sebastian office.

Tracy Turner, president of the local Realty Board, told the group, "I would think most thinking people . . . would want their county commissioners to have the authority to enact a building code."

Joe Roschach, president of Tropicolony, Inc., objected to a building code on the basis that waiting for building inspectors to make their inspections before work could proceed could add too much to the cost of building homes.

"There is no such thing as a simple building code or a simple way to enforce it," Roschach said. "I do not approve of the city building code. It is restrictive, arbitrary and overdesigned."

Joe Michael, president of the Indian River County Farm Bureau, reported that his organization had reaffirmed its opposition to a building code if it could not be made to apply only to subdivisions or developments.

After the discussion members of the Taxpayers Association voted to oppose the building code bill as written.

The Taxpayers affirmed bills releasing certain funds for maintenance of public health units and enabling the county to perform certain public services including garbage collection.

The Taxpayers suggested mail notices and legal advertisements to promulgate a bill to permit special police and street lighting districts.

2 Believed Dead on Gulf Boat

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — A Coast Guard plane located the missing 35-foot pleasure cruiser, Miss Bonnie, Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico.

A helicopter picked up one of three men who went out on the vessel Saturday. The other two were believed dead.

Lt. Roger Frawley, helicopter pilot from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station, said he took Virgil Garrison of Crystal River off an unidentified vessel at the scene and flew him to Crystal River.

Garrison was taken to a hospital at Inverness.

The Coast Guard said a Martin Marlin seaplane spotted the Miss Bonnie awash and under tow of the unidentified craft about 17 miles out in the gulf and 10 miles south of Cedar Key. The helicopter was summoned to get Garrison.

Garrison went into the gulf with Randall Maruska of Crystal River and Andy Strange of Jacksonville on a fishing trip Saturday. A search was launched when the three employes of a fishing concern at Crystal River, failed to return Sunday.

The helicopter pilot said he spotted the body of one man aboard the floundering Miss Bonnie. He quoted Garrison as saying the third man jumped overboard with two life jackets Sunday night. Garrison didn't identify the men by name.

The tow vessel cut the pleasure craft loose and headed for port shortly after the Coast Guard reached the scene, apparently because of a shortage of fuel.

Raiford's 'Little Blast' Pinned Down

RAIFORD — (AP) — The prisoner who made a tiny bomb which blew a little hole in a wall Sunday was located Tuesday but Superintendent DeWitt Sinclair said "we can't prove it."

The superintendent would not identify the man by name but said he had been in several prisons and had admitted "majoring in chemistry" in one federal prison.

Sinclair said guards found a chemistry book — stolen from the prison library — in the cell along with some barbide, flint, acid and zinc, all hidden in various parts.

"Prisoners have been making little ones and shooting them like firecrackers for a long time," Sinclair said. "You can make a bomb out of 10,000 things if you know how—a pack of cards, toothbrush handle, soap, paint.

"We don't know what this one was made of but it blew a small hole in a thin wall between a shower and an alleyway. There was no security involved.

Phone Talks Cut Short

DAYTONA BEACH— (AP) — An overzealous post hole digger knocked out telephone and teletype service in the downtown business section here Tuesday.

He dug five holes for posts and cut a cable carrying 202 circuits at five places.

Phone company officials said he couldn't have done a better job if he used a transit.

The cuttings interrupted all telephone and teletype service at The News-Journal —64 phones and six teletype machines—and phones to the city's main fire station and Chamber of Commerce.

Electricity Fails As Strike Goes On

By Herald Wire Services

PENSACOLA—New power interruptions were reported by the strike-bound Gulf Power Co. Tuesday.

A company spokesman said an estimated 400 residential customers around Milton were without electricity throughout the night. H. W. Olcott said a roll of barbed wire was thrown over one power line and the circuit was out of operation from 10:15 p.m. until 8:40 Tuesday.

Service also was disrupted on two other lines in the Milton area throughout the night. Olcott said it was not yet determined what caused those failures.

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has denied its members were involved in a series of power failures. The company said the incidents were the work of vandals.

Approximately 240 union employes struck March 23 in a contract dispute.

A federal mediator, Sloan Springfield of New Orleans, said no joint negotiations are scheduled at present. The last was held on Sunday. Springfield said he was continuing to confer with the opposing sides in an effort to seek a solution.

Snark Readied

TAMPA — The commanding general of the Strategic Air Command's Eighth Air Force said Tuesday the Snark intercontinental missile unit "will be in position to reach any target in the world" within a few months.

The unit, currently a part of the test center at Patrick Air Force Base, will transfer to Perque Isle AFB, Maine, as soon as it becomes "operational," Maj Gen. Walter C. Sweeney Jr. said.

Sweeney, in Tampa for an informal visit at MacDill AFB, declined to discuss national defense policies with newsmen but said "SAC at present can carry out its mission . . . in a matter of minutes."

Added Power

WASHINGTON—The Rural Electrification Administration said Tuesday it has approved a one million dollar loan to build a power station on Pine Island and extend electricity in Southwest Florida.

The loan will go to the Lee County Electric Cooperative of Fort Myers.

The administration said the money plus funds from prior loans will go toward the construction of the 5,000 kilovolt-ampere substation and building 100 miles of new distribution line to bring power to 1,300 rural consumers in Lee, Charlotte, Collier and Hendry Counties.

Senator Is 78

MONTICELLO — The dean of the Florida Senate, S. D. Clarke, observed his 78th birthday Tuesday with a little fellowship and a little politics.

Sen. Clarke spent the day as usual looking after the affairs of his bank.

This evening a group of his longtime friends and legislative cronies visited his home to toast the birthday.

Clarke has served continuously in the Florida Senate since 1930. He was senate president in 1947.

Gas Cable

ST. PETERSBURG — The Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corp. said Tuesday it has asked permission to lay an eight-inch pipeline across Old Tampa Bay.

The company, building the pipeline to bring natural gas to Florida this year, asked the Army Corps of Engineers for approval to place the submarine pipeline loosely on the bottom of the bay across South Gandy Channel.

A ruling on the request will come after the engineers study the proposal.

School 'Deduction' Plan Hit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — House Speaker-Designate Thomas Beasley took issue Tuesday with a proposal that the Legislature adopt a "tax credit" plan to insure private schooling for children whose parents won't send them to integrated schools.

Beasley said the proposal, advanced by Rep. William Chappell of Marion, could destroy public school financing and the state's overall economy by funneling off substantial income.

He disagreed with Chappell that the Ervin-Bailey private school tuition plan is unconstitutional.

Beasley, who will run the House with an iron hand if his previous term as speaker in 1947 is any indication, said the Legislature will be flooded with segregation bills.

But he said he does not think more than two major bills in this field will actually be voted into law.

One, he said, will be some form of tuition plan. The other will broaden the existing pupil placement act to provide additional criteria for determining admission of students to a specific school and permitting school boards to segregate students by sex.

The parent option tuition plan, which is expected to be introduced with enough co-sponsors to insure its passage, would let parents withdraw children from integrated schools and draw a state subsidy of about $250 a year to educate them privately.

Beasley, a lawyer, said this plan will meet legal tests as long as the money is made available on an equal basis to white and Negro students.

Chappell, also an attorney, said federal courts will rule out any direct payment of state tax funds to private schools. There also is a danger, he said, that private schools accepting a state subsidy could be brought under court-enforced orders to integrate their classrooms.

Under his substitute proposal, no money would change hands. The parents would pay for a private education from their own pockets, but deduct the amount from their share of taxes for support of the public schools.

Russia Repatriates Last Poles

The New York Times Service

WARSAW — The last trainloads of Poles returning to their homeland from the Soviet Union crossed the Bug River into eastern Poland Tuesday.

Just across the border the trains pulled into the bleak repatriation center where every day for more than two years hundreds of exiles have had their first glimpse of Poland.

Officially, the last trains marked the end of a repatriation agreement signed between Poland and the Soviet Union Nov. 18, 1956. Under that agreement about 250,000 Poles have returned to Poland—from labor camps deep in the Soviet interior.

For Poland, the last trains were a chapter in a story of conquest, deportation and exile that stretches back 20 years.

The story is one that affects almost every family in Poland. It began in September, 1939, when thousands of Poles—particularly Jews—fled eastward before the German armies.

The Russians moved forward and the refugees, and millions of Poles in Eastern Poland, found themselves no longer in Poland but in Soviet territory.

That was the "first phase" of the exile, as the diplomatic historians put it. The second phase began when the Russians, in their zone of Poland, began deporting Poles to Siberia and other reaches of the Soviet Union—Poles who were politically "unreliable" or Poles who simply would make good laborers.

When the war ended and the Soviet occupation of Eastern Poland became internationally recognized, there were millions of Poles cut off from their homeland.

At first the Soviet Union allowed a flow of repatriates, Poles taking up the homes and farmlands left by the Germans in the western territories taken over by Poland. Then the flow became a trickle.

The political upheaval of 1956 forced the Russians to sign an agreement giving Poles greater economic, political and military independence.

$9 Million Given for Teachers

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Ford Foundation announced Tuesday it is giving away $9,161,210 to stimulate a "breakthrough" in efforts to improve the quality of America's teachers.

In addition, the foundation announced another $2,282,800 in education grants, including studies in the use of television as a classroom aide.

The foundation said the grants for improving the quality of teachers form the "First Phase" in a "concerted new effort." Another series of grants is expected to be announced later this year, the foundation added.

Named as recipients in the teacher-improvement grants are Barnard College, New York; Brown University, Providence, R. I.; the University of Chicago; Claremont (Calif.) Graduate School; Duke University, Durham, N. C.; George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.; and the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

A Decision Today?

Naples Beach Club Given Real Airing

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — The proposed Port Royal Beach Club got a thorough, but friendly, going over Tuesday before a "standing room only" crowd — but the city zoning board delayed decision until a later "deliberation and discussion behind closed doors."

Chairman W. G. Tracy would not comment, but a two-hour zoning board meeting in the afternoon apparently resulted in a decision, to be given the City Council today.

However, Councilman Arnold Haynes will be out of town and the other members and the mayor are reportedly split, two and two, on the permit. A decision may not be reached until next week . . .

The two-hour morning hearing went calmly and without interruption except twice.

There was laughter and applause when J. G. Sample, Port Royal developer, said he favored the club's erection.

J. G. Sample
. . . received applause

Booes and cries of "No!" greeted Attorney George Allen when he declared the beach club sign was "so hidden in the bushes I had to get out and look for it" in 1953.

Opinions of spectators were divided, with most of those in Port Royal and some along neighboring Gordon Dr. favoring the club, and many along the drive opposing it.

There were 18 for, 11 against and 22 letters on each side, many written by those attending. Seven lawyers took part.

Presentation of the building permit request by Thad Moss, Port Royal vice president, included a letter from Sample, limiting property use to a beach club for Port Royal residents, and with no liquor license. The club would never be open at night and would have no sleeping accommodations, except for a manager.

George Lederer
. . . an asset, why not?

Restriction changes could be made only after a zoning board hearing and a City Council vote of "a majority plus one," which Moss explained, would cover a proposed expansion to seven councilmen.

Moss said club membership requirements are so strict "We have two or three owners in Port Royal who acquired property under such circumstances, they are not members of the club."

J. W. Salisbury, Palm Beach attorney, cited similar clubs in Palm Beach, including the Bath and Tennis Club, as "not only an asset to the city but not a detriment to the people nearby."

Moss added the club would solve future problems by providing beach for "95 per cent of the people south of 21st Ave." and that its existence had been "accepted since 1950 without objection."

"It's hard to believe, if the beach club is so repulsive," Moss said, "that people would have bought property next to it."

Those opposed to the project, thought the club as planned "too big" and "simple cabanas or beach houses would be better." Others said the club "wouldn't be in keeping with Port Royal."

Earl F. Adams, recently-retired original zoning board member, declared "The board and the council are morally and legally bound to accept some form of building . . . but the extent could be less."

"It would take away the simplicity of Naples," said Mrs. W. B. Ford.

Ben Parks, attorney for the Kerckhoff properties, including Gulf frontage next Cutlass Cove Beach Club of Port Royal, said if the permit were allowed "We are going to ask the zoning be commercial likewise. This is spot zoning."

His warning of other possible beach clubs was supported by Frank Blumeyer, who added the home of Dr. James Craig had been mentioned as a possible club.

George Allen, Fort Myers attorney, insisted the city charter doesn't cover zoning, so state law applies, and requires a different procedure. He said zoning, under general welfare, cannot cover a private club.

"As for the sign," Allen said, "You can see a sign saying a shopping center is to be built, but that doesn't mean it will be."

Ben Parks
. . . we'll change, too

William D. Hixon, attorney for S. F. Briggs, and formerly attorney for Sample and the City of Naples when the zoning was passed, said the applicable ordinance is illegal and not based on either city charter or state law.

William P. Simmons, Miami attorney, charged Sample with "misleading" customers about the club.

"I won't say it was done fraudulently," he said, "but it appears to have been."

Simmons contended that beach club approval should have been obtained when the original plat was approved.

W. A. Sheppard attorney of Fort Myers, also representing Sample, said the question of the zoning ordinance validity didn't affect the board's decision "That's up to a court to determine."

During the discussion Hixon asked Dale Bremerman, board member and a contractor, to disqualify himself because he plans to bid on the $250,000 building. Bremerman, "in all fairness," refused.

Tracy offered to disqualify himself as a Port Royal resident, but no one asked him to.

S. F. Briggs
. . . object, strenously

Monroe OKs Road Projects

KEY WEST — Ten road projects to come out of the county's secondary road funds for 1959 were approved by the Monroe County Commissioners at a special meeting Tuesday.

The 10 in order of priority, are:

Black top U.S. 1 from Boca Chica to intersection with Roosevelt Blvd. in Key West; construct unnamed road on Fat Deer Key, construct bridge on State Road 939 on Sugarloaf Key with 20-or-more foot span (exact location to be designated later).

Surface old State Road 4A from Burton's Dr. north to connection with North Key Largo Rd. at Lake Surprise; surface old SR4A from Tavernier Creek down past sunken treasure on Plantation Key; construct road in Bay Point subdivision on Sugarloaf Key.

Construct road over Barry Ave. to Barry Beach and Mate's Beach subdivision on Little Torch Key; construct road on Banana Blvd. in Ecstasy subdivision on Crawl Key; construct road from Big Pine Key to No Name Key, and construct a road and bridge on old Sr4A from present road on north Key Largo, including Sound Bridge, to Dade County line.

Most of these projects were presented to State Road Department officials by Monroe County Rep. B. C. Papy at a hearing in Ft. Lauderdale last week. At that meeting it was brought out that Monroe has $756,310 available in secondary road funds.

The resolution adopted Tuesday listed no estimated costs for the projects, individually or collectively.

McBride, Government Fight for Plush Motel

Rival claimants to a part of deported racketeer Mike Spinella's plush Plantation Yacht Harbor resort motel in the Florida Keys were closing in Tuesday as Arthur B. (Mickey) McBride moved to foreclose a first mortgage. gage.

McBride, former owner of a racing wire service, a fleet of taxi cabs and large holdings in Coral Gables real estate, claims a mortgage assigned to him by Earl G. Kehoe, North Miami Beach attorney.

He says $131,041 in principal and interest is due on the mortgage.

Hoodlum Meyer Lansky disclaimed any interest in the motel. But the government is asserting a claim against it for taxes it alleges Spinella, now deported to Italy, failed to pay.

A court appointed receiver for Spinella's properties, William C. Lewis, reported a $200,000 high bid for the properties. But Federal Judge Emett C. Choate said he will delay approval of the sale until May 1 to await a better offer.

Flagler Ave. Drainage Part

Monroe Board OKs 3 Road Projects

SRD To Do Jobs Under Contract

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Contracts, totaling $562,007.73, for construction of three road projects, including the long-awaited drainage job on Flagler Ave., in Key West, were okayed Tuesday by Monroe County commissioners.

At a special session, the board authorized the State Road Department to award contracts on the Key West project for $398,482, one on Sugar Loaf Key for $95,307, and a third on Big Pine Key for $68,217. All were the low bids submitted.

The Key West job goes to R. H. Wright, Inc. of Fort Lauderdale.

The project, which has been in the talking stage for several years, will provide adequate drainage for Flagler Ave. from White St. to Roosevelt Blvd., and for First St. from N. Roosevelt Blvd. to Seidenberg Ave.

Included in the job is resurfacing of both streets.

Brewer Co., of Miami won the contract for the Sugarloaf Key job with a low bid of $95,307. The work calls for repaving several miles between Sugar Loaf Creek and State Rd. 939.

Contractor for construction and paving the Piney Point Rd. on Big Pine Key is Alonzo Conthron of Islamorada, whose bid came to $68,217.

The road is described as running 1.6 miles from the Pine Key Post Office to U. S. 1.

The three jobs will be built from county secondary road funds, under supervision of the State Road Department, which advertised and received all bids on the projects.

The board also:

AGREED to accept an insurance payment of $28,597 for damages to the county courthouse by fire during March.

POSTPONED until the regular meeting any action on a proposal by the chambers of commerce of the county that the advertising fund be raised from a $10,000 maximum to equivalent of a one-mill tax levy.

'Helpless,' Is Feeling Of Council

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Key West city fathers are in the unpleasant predicament of having to ask their political oppoents for favors.

At a special City Commission meeting Monday night, the commissioners went through the motions of approving a resolution, endorsing five proposed bills they'd like the Monroe County lawmakers to introduce at the coming session of the Legislature.

At the same time they roundly denounced the power over the city government held by the legislators, and officially opposed bills proposed by Rep. Bernie C. Papy which clip the city's fiscal authority and boost that of the utility board of the city electric system.

A couple of the commissioners suggested "total consolidation" of Key West and the county, or "home rule" for Key West.

"We might as well consolidate, they (the Papy forces) run the show anyway," Commissioner Louis Eisner shrugged.

Commissioner Joe Fernandez threw in the home rule idea for "investigation." Such a system of government, he said, would "help Key West get away from the evils of local bills in the Legislature."

The local bills proposed by Papy, the County's senior representative, forbid the city government from imposing a utility tax without a referendum or issuing any revenue bonds, and repeals any existing utility taxes.

Commissioner Bill Chappell protested there was "no reason for denying to Key West the powers allowed all other Florida communities."

Chappell's protest motion objected to "all bills which infringe on provisions of the charter empowering the city commission to operate the city."

The commissioner also leveled a volley at the Papy bills to increase the poweres of the utility board, and remove one of that body's "governing body" members. Chappell is the governing body member of the board presently.

"Obviously I'm the member about to be fired," Chappell said. "And I'm being fired because I had my own ideas, and dared to object to things that went on in that board."

The fact that I must be fired is proof I've been on the right track," Chappell asserted.

He predicted that the City Electric System would soon call for a new bond issue once the Papy bill eliminating city approval of such a move is passed.

In an atmosphere of futility, the commissioners approved five bills to be presented to the legislative delegation for consideration. The bills ask:

—A reduction of the charge by the county tax assessor for preparing city tax rolls from four to two per cent of the total assessment. The commission estimated this would save the city about $13,000 a year.

—Authorization to spend, over five years, up to $12,000 annually from cigaret tax money on the cemetery, instead of the present $7,500.

Repeal of the two-mill levy on the city for "maintenance and operation" of Monroe General Hospital, owned by the county. Fernandez termed this levy unfair to Key West, and suggested a one-mill countywide hospital tax.

Authorization to set aside, for seven years, $50,000 annually from cigaret tax money to acquire, construct and operate city beaches.

Amending the law on sale of any Key West utility so a "majority of electors" who vote decide. At present the law requires a two-thirds "Yes" vote of freeholders to approve sale.

Two other bills considered by the commission were rejected. One asked for an increase, from 20 to 22 mills, for the maximum tax the city may levy.

A Medicine Show Starts On Road

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — With a trumpet blast, a ribbon cutting, and the best wishes of local and state dignitaries, "The Greatest Medicine Show on Earth" gets underway at noon today.

Key West Mayor Delio Cobo, Monroe County Commissioner Clarence Higgs and officials of the American Cancer Society will be among those launching Alan Scott's 59'ers on a money-raising junket up the East Coast.

Scott's sendoff and premier medicine show will take place on the county courthouse grounds where U.S. 1 reaches its southernmost point.

Scott and his wife, Dolly, will go through music and comedy routine at least 40 stops between Key West and New York City. Their act includes authentic costumes and a specially designed "medicine wagon."

Object of Scott's "Goal-Rush" is to raise $59,000 for the American Cancer Society.

Scott's first stop will be in Marathon at 2:30 p.m. today. Shows in Dade County had to be canceled after authorities there denied permission to perform.

Scott will hit Hollywood Thursday morning. Fort Lauderdale and Pompano Beach are scheduled for Thursday afternoon. Friday he will perform at Boca Raton, Lake Worth and West Palm Beach. Stuart and Fort Pierce are on the program for Saturday.

Other Florida cities on the medicine show's route are Melbourne, New Smyrna Beach, St. Augustine and Jacksonville.

Chapters of the American Cancer Society and Chambers of Commerce along the way are cooperating in arranging local performances of the touring show.

2 Youths Held For Car Theft

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Two boys, 15 and 16, who stole three cars on an eight-state escapade were caught by Naples Police.

Sgt. Ed Helenek and Patrolman George McRae arrested the pair early Tuesday as they were trying to call their parents in Pennsylvania.

Chief S. B. Caruthers and Lt. Sam Bass said the boys went on a wandering excursion from their homes in Farrel, Pa., into Ohio, back to Pennsylvania and then by bus through Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

Police halted them at Winston-Salem, N.C., with a request they contact their parents. They abandoned their bus trip and hitchhiked until they stole a car in Salisbury, N.C., "because they were cold," and abandoned it in Charlotte, N.C.

They hitchhiked to Miami and took a car there "because one's feet hurt" and drove it across the Tamiami Trail until it ran out of gas at Carnestown.

Then they hitchhiked into Everglades and took a station wagon belonging to L. D. Iles. They drove to Naples, where they were caught.

Their disposition has not been determined.

Junior Olympics Tryouts Planned

UPPER KEYS — Tryouts for the Junior Olympics of Coral Shores School will be April 17. Finals are April 24, at the school athletic field.

This annual event is open to all grades and includes games, contests, and track events. Winners receive ribbons at award night, in May.

Deep Dive Saves Man In Crash

NAPLES — William Burdine, chairman of Burdine's, Inc. Miami, escaped injury in a boat crash on Naples Bay Tuesday afternoon. Also unhurt was Herman Hoffer, 60, of 85 NW 46th St., Miami, occupant of a rented skiff demolished in the accident.

Witnesses of the crash between Burdine's 24-foot twin-engine "Gator 11" and the 14-foot plywood skiff said Hoffer appeared to have been passing the larger craft when the two collided.

Burdine said he and his captain, Tom Robinson, knew nothing of what happened" until suddenly the boat was in front of us."

Hoffer told Police Lt. Sam Bass he "suddenly looked back over my shoulder, and there was this boat right on me."

The cruiser ran across the top of the skiff, knocking the transom and motor loose, breaking the port side and bait box, and kicking a hole out the starboard bow, according to a check of the wreck.

Hoffer said he jumped overboard and "stayed down on the bottom to miss the propellers." He was unhurt, but Burdine said he appeared shocked. Other craft picked up Hoffer and rescued the motor and boat.

Keys Power Co-Op Sets Elections

UPPER KEYS — Annual district meetings of the Florida Keys Electric Cooperative Association will each elect a trustee for a two year term. There are two trustees in each district.

First meeting is April 7 at the Civic Club at Key Largo. Candidates are George Murray and S. J. (Joe) Bond.

On April 9 meeting is set for the Tavernier Fire Department, with Everett Albury and George Marshall on the ballot.

Islamorada meeting is April 14 and Marathon April 16. Nominees have not been named for these districts yet.

Meetings will start at 7:30 p.m., with each member of the cooperative entitled to one vote. Nominations may be made from the floor.

Girls State Pair Picked

UPPER KEYS —The faculty of Coral Shores School selected Zada Carson of Tavernier, and Marlene Carey of Islamorada, to attend the American Legion Auxiliary Girls State at Tallahassee. Susie Ortiz of Tavernier, was named alternate.

The girls, all juniors, were selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and physical fitness.

They will be sponsored by Keys Memorial Post American Legion Auxiliary, Tavernier Fire Department Auxiliary, Upper Keys BPW, Florida Keys BPODoes, and Upper Keys Chamber of Commerce.

House Is Rammed

Boom! It's Not War, That's Car Crashing

JACKSONVILLE—(AP)—"My first thought," said the Rev. Edwin Westbrook, "was that the Russians had started a war."

"The sound was so loud and near I thought we might have been bombed."

And well he might because the sound was caused by an auto driven at 80 miles an hour crashing into his corrugated steel home early Tuesday.

The Baptist minister—who does not have a church at present—said he and his wife and 6-year-old daughter were sleeping when the crash came. The impact ripped one corner and part of the roof and knocked the entire structure from its foundation.

Police said if the house hadn't been steel the three might have been killed for the car hit their bedroom.

Driver of the car was listed as Harold Colberg, a chief at the Naval Air Station. Witnesses said the car had been weaving for some distance before it left the road at an intersection of Timuquano Road and Ortega Farms Road on the outskirts of the city.

Florida Derby Gains Class In Short Time at Gulfstream

NORMALLY IT requires years of tradition for a racing feature to acquire class. This is not true of the $100,000 Florida Derby, which will have its eighth running at Gulfstream Saturday.

FITZSIMMONS

The feature inaugurated by President Jimmy Donn has in its brief existence produced upsets, thrills and human interest stories.

Under the latter heading there is none to top the 1955 Derby. The track was deluged by rain and its muddy condition led many to believe Nashua, the juvenile champion of the past year, would be scratched.

The late William Woodward Jr., owner of Nashua, was aware that thousands had come to see his horse run. He called Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons in New York and seeking his advice, added, "I don't want to disappoint them even if it snows."

Confident of Nashua's ability to handle any kind of footing, Fitzsimmons told Woodward to go ahead and race the horse. It was a tough assignment for Nashua, but he won by a neck.

LETS BACK TRACK to the inaugural of the Florida Derby:

1952—A field of 18 entered and three horses charged through the stretch to produce a photo finish. The film revealed Brookemeade Stable's Sky Ship had won over Handsome Teddy and Sandtop. Jampol, the favorite, finished fourth.

1953—The Derby was put in the class of other big features when Donn made it a $100,000 added event.

Money Broker was flown here from Orleans—he refused to enter the plane twice—and won. He was not so shy on the track, out-running such contenders as Dark Star, Jamie K., Dr. Stanley and Matagorda.

1954—It began to appear a plane trip was the proper way to tune a Florida Derby winner. Correlation was flown here from California and Florida fans had their first view of Jockey Willie Shoemaker as his mount beat Goyamo, Next Page, Sea O'Erin and others.

* * *

Air Invaders Halted

1956—They flew in Terrang, Like Magic and Count Chic from California, but Needles, the Florida bred, came from far behind to beat Count Chic by three-quarters of a length. Suspense was rough for fans waiting for Jockey Dave Erb to get Needles moving.

JONES

1957—The scant field of five had class. Calumet's General Duke not only beat Bold Ruler, odds-on favorite, but equalled a world's record of 1:46 4-5 for the nine furlongs under 122 pounds. Trainer Fitzsimmons, who watched the race from the rail, murmured, "Bold Ruler was not good enough" and walked calmly away.

1958—Calumet won again, but Tim Tam, bet down to 35 cents on the dollar, had to give his all in a stretch run to beat Lincoln Road. The Finish brought the fans to their feet screaming. Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, but a broken leg bone in the Belmont ended his racing career. This was a shocking disappointment to Trainer Jimmy Jones.

Heading for Augusta

MUSIAL

YOUR REPORTER'S only regret in heading for Augusta, Ga., to see The Masters golf tournament is in missing the Florida Derby . . . It's quite a show and there'll be tuneful music and pageantry in the infield lake—provided by the water skiers from Dick Pope's Cypress Gardens . . . And it would have been interesting to chat with Stan Musial, who'll be in Miami Saturday night and Sunday with the Cardinals for their exhibitions with Paul Richards' Orioles . . . The latter play three games here prior to the windup series . . . Danny Murtaugh is bringing his Pirates back tonight for a single game . . . The Phillies, who include several former Marlins on their roster, play here Thursday and Friday nights . . . Ed Bouchee, who did so well with the Marlins, is at first base . . . Dick Farrell, 1956 Marlin, now considered one of the best relief pitchers in the National, is on their staff . . . The Phillies have another attraction in Richie Ashburn, the National's leading hitter of last year.

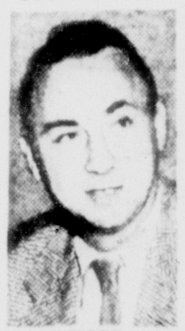
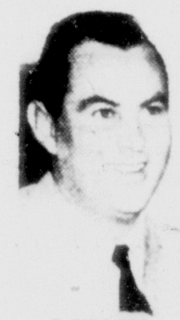
Why Hollywood Succeeded



SYMS



LYNCH

THE HOLLYWOOD KENNEL CLUB is ending its second best season tonight . . . The track will show a gain of almost $3,000,000 over last season . . . President William Syms and General Manager Tommy Lynch think part of their success was in giving the fans more marathon races, which seems to be what the greyhound followers want . . . Next year they plan to add even more marathons to the program . . . if Bud Jack, the great distance runner, wins the Derby he'll tie the record of 16 triumphs registered by the famed Neshoba three years ago . . . They say that Mar Dilly has the best chance of beating Bud Jack . . . Hollywood this past season broke individual mutuel and attendance records . . . The largest crowd was 9,059 and these fans wagered $319,150.

Joins Herald as Part of Expanded Coverage

Jim Martenhoff Named Boating Editor

Jim Martenhoff, master of every thing from a dinghy to a schooner, has joined The Herald as boating editor.

The combination of Martenhoff and Vic Dunaway, who'll concentrate exclusively in his duties as fishing editor, gives The Herald a crack one-two punch in the outdoor field.

Martenhoff, 39, joins The Herald after serving as outdoor editor of the Miami News for two years.

Addition of the Brooklyn-born newspaperman marks the start of expanded boating coverage by The Herald. Martenhoff's comprehensive stories will appear both in the sports section and the Fun in Florida Sunday magazine section.

Such things as tips to boaters on care and maintenance of their craft will be featured regularly.

Martenhoff's interest in boating dates back to his youth. Raised on Long Island, he began sailing a beat-up Sharpie around the twisting channels of the south shore as soon as he could get out of his parents' sight.

Jim's first job was in a boatyeard. "A man handed me a stack of sandpaper," he recalls, "and pointed to a boat. I spent a week sanding it."

After working up to boatyard foreman, Martenhoff decided to take a crack at journalism. He was first employed by the now defunct Review Star and later moved to Newsday, where he was chief photographer.

Martenhoff was newsphoto editor of the Associated Press for 12 years, acting in a supervisory capacity in New York, Boston and Miami. He took a turn at pure camera work in Raleigh, N.C., setting up a photo bureau, and in Tokyo, from where he worked in covering the Korean war for seven months...

"During this time I never got over a basic liking for the outdoors," says Martenhoff. "I spent summers in New England (1945 to 1958)—camping, mountain climbing and winter skiing. I fished everywhere from Martha's Vineyard to Key West."

In boating, Martenhoff studied naval architecture. He learned navigation, piloting, boat handling and seamanship.

"When I was 17," says Martenhoff, "my father permitted me to take the family cruiser on a coastal trip with only my brother — no sailor—along."

Jim Martenhoff

Jim has sailed virtually every type of craft. He once had 10 minutes at the wheel of an ocean-going coastal freighter several hundred feet long.

X-Rays Encourage Williams

BOSTON—(AP)—Ted Williams was encouraged Tuesday with a report that X-rays showed he apparently has no broken or dislocated bones and evidently is not suffering arthritis.

However, the hospitalized Boston Red Sox slugger continued to have pain in his neck and right shoulder. Williams has been affected for more than two weeks.

Tuesday's hospital bulletin said symptomatic treatments continued, an indication the 40-year-old batting expert was undergoing traction for what he himself described as a kink in his neck.

On his arrival he vowed he'd be ready to open the season April 10. Doctors neither encouraged nor discouraged Williams but many observers think Williams is too optimistic.

A NEW TWIST—As Jockey Larney Hansman looks on with more than some amazement, Jockey Willie Harmatz shapes up for Saturday's Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park with a simple little exercise. Actually, the feet tucked under Harmatz' chin belong to Apprentice Jockey John Block. And a happy April's Fool to you, too.

O's, Pirates Clash Tonight At Stadium

The Baltimore Orioles return to their home base tonight for a rematch with Pittsburgh's Pirates at Miami Stadium. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Orioles conclude their Florida exhibition schedule with five games in succession at the Stadium. Philadelphia follows the Pirates in for Thursday and Friday night games, and the St. Louis Cardinals wind up the local schedule with a night game Saturday and afternoon contest Sunday.

Rookie Jerry Walker, Baltimore's most outstanding spring pitcher until the Miami Marlins belted him around last Saturday night, is slated to start tonight. Walker has tossed 20 1-3 innings, allowing seven runs (three by Miami) and 16 hits.

Billy Loes (seven innings, seven hits, five runs) and Skinny Brown (five innings, six hits, four runs) will follow Walker.

Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh will send two of his top hurlers, Vern Law and George Witt, against the Orioles.

The veteran Law was a 14-game winner in 1958 while Witt was the rookie sensation of the National League, winning nine of 11 decisions after being recalled from Columbus in June. The 25-year-old right-hander posted a phenomenal 1.61 earned run average.

Don Hoak's eighth-inning homer broke a 4-4 tie and propelled the Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday at Lakeland.

The victory was Pittsburgh's 11th against as many losses in the Grapefruit League season.

At Orlando, meanwhile, the Orioles scored twice in the 11th inning, then blunted a Washington comeback to win, 9-8. It was Baltimore's 12th victory in 18 games.

Ten Bid for $15,000 Purse

Rosewood, Big Effort Go in Suwannee Today

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Calumet Farm's Rosewood and Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort — two of the country's top distaff runners — clash today in the 12th running of the Suwannee River Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

A field of 10 fillies and mares was entered in the mile-and-one-sixteenth test which carries a purse of $15,000 added.

Charlie Burr, who guided Rosewood to victory in last year's Suwannee River, will attempt to make it two in a row and the Calumet mare is the likely choice today under top weight of 120 pounds. She won Hialeah's Black Helen Handicap in her last outing.

Big Effort, with Bill Hartack in the irons, looms as the main threat. The Brookmeade filly will carry 114 pounds and comes off an impressive distance race last Saturday in which she was beaten only a neck by the good colt, Day Court.

Behind Big Effort in that event were such good male horses as Belleau Chief and Noureddin.

Others starters in the Suwannee River are Searching Wind, 102 pounds and William Cook, Water-Sparrow, 104 pounds and Calvin Stone; Tara Tella, 109 pounds and Jimmy Combest; Quick Wit, 104 pounds and Bill Harmatz; Oil Rich, 108 pounds and John Sellers; Sabena 2nd, 106 pounds and Lois Cook; Happy Princess, 112 pounds and Walter Blum, and Edna Allen, 109 pounds and John Choquette.

Happy Princess was second to Rosewood in the Black Helen but "retired early" in her last outing. Edna Allen and Quick Wit have been showing speed at the Hallandale oval and could be dangerous at the weights.

If all 10 go postward, the Suwannee River will gross $16,825 and net the winner $9,700. Time mark for the event is 1:42.2, set by Estacion in 1957.

Choquette's The Story

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Sweet Error, a filly, and the colt Matthias, both ridden by Johnny Choquette, won the two divisions of Gulfstream Park's Dinner Stakes for juveniles Tuesday.

Sweet Error stepped the three furlongs of the second division in 33 1-5 seconds to beat Our Jody, under Buck Thornburg, by two lengths and pay $17.10. Ednez, ridden by Bill Hartack, was third.

Matthias, in the first division, beat Benell, the Florida Futurity winner, with Harrel Bolin, astride, by 2½ lengths. Third was Andale under Hartack.

The conditions of the race called for all owners to be residents of Florida and following the races they took part in a dinner-dance in the clubhouse.

Bell Rings Twice As Reds Rock Robin

CLEARWATER —(AP)— Two home runs by Gus Bell and one by Ed Bailey led the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 exhibition-victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and Pitcher Robin Roberts here Tuesday.

Despite the barrage, Roberts went the full nine innings for the second time this spring.

Southpaw Jim O'Toole continued as the Reds' rookie pitching sensation, going four innings without yielding a hit or run. Willard Schmidt and Charley Rabe finished up on the mound for the Reds, allowing three hits between them.

* * *

ST. PETERSBURGH — (AP) — Kansas City knocked off the New York Yankees for the third straight time Tuesday, scoring twice in the ninth for a 4-2 victory. The result pushed records of both teams to 10-10.

Rookie Right-hander John Gabler was clipped in the final inning after Art Ditmar went eight good rounds. Veteran Art Houtteman, trying for a comeback, was the winner although scored upon for the first time this spring.

Houtteman had a string of 10 scoreless frames before a triple by Deron Johnson and Bill Skowron's pinch sacrifice fly got the tieing run in the eighth.

Odds 7-1 He'll Be Traveling Soon

Paul Richards Not Long for Orioles-Furlong

By BILL FURLONG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Service

CHICAGO — Whose neck is best tailored for the executioner's block?

What major league managers will not be in their present jobs in 1960?

This season at lease three or four will depart. My guess is that they will include Cookie Lavagetto of Washington, Harry Craft of Kansas City, Walt Alston of Los Angeles, and Paul Richards of Baltimore.

The odds of the 16 managers leaving their jobs are offered in a separate tabulation. They indicate the relative security of the managers as much as their current chances of getting the ax.

The odds were based on the past records of the manager, the inclination of his owner to fire managers, and the chances of his survival should his team do more poorly than expected.

It also includes a highly elliptical and mysterious element called the Furlong Factor. Just what constitutes the Furlong Factor is a mystery — even to Furlong.

But it does include some personal convictions — that the longer a manager pilots a mediocre club, the nearer he is to extinction and that most clubs will not fire a manager in his first season, for instance.

That means at least five pilots are fairly safe, simply because this is their first full season in their current jobs.

The analysis of the American League (with years in the present job in parenthesis):

COOKIE LAVAGETTO, Washington (1½): Destined for another last-place finish, will probably fall prey to owner Calvin Griffith's need to make a show of "doing something."

The Mourning Line

AMERICAN LEAGUE		NATIONAL LEAGUE
Lavagetto, Wash.	3-1	Alston, Los Angeles	4-1
Craft, Kansas City	7-2	Rigney, S. Francisco	10-1
Richards, Baltimore	7-1	Murtaugh, Pitts.	12-1
Gordon, Cleveland	12-1	Hemus, St. Louis	15-1
Lopez, Chicago	12-1	Smith, Cincinnati	20-1
Norman, Detroit	15-1	Sawyer, Phil.	20-1
Higgins, Boston	18-1	Scheffing, Chicago	22-1
Stengel, N. York	100-1	Haney, Milwaukee	30-1

HARRY CRAFT, Kansas City, (1½): The easiest way to appease Kansas City fans for a poor ball club is to change managers . . . there is little likelihood that Kansas City will rise to a higher standing.

PAUL RICHARDS, Baltimore (4): Club is improving but will not hit its stride for several years. Richards himself has suggested simply that he won't be around to enjoy it.

But if he leaves Baltimore, again because the owners must show the fans some "action," he'll almost certainly land with another club. In fact, he might do what he did with the Sox — leave voluntarily for a different job.

JOE GORDON, Cleveland, (½): Faces the disappointment of a club that has been overbuilt in the press. The Indians will probably finish lower than the second predicted for them. Most people feel that, under Frank Lane, his job is very uncertain . . . Actually Lane's history is to fire the manager he inherits and to stand by the one he appoints. It would be very out of character for Lane to fire "his man" in his first full season.

AL LOPEZ, Chicago White Sox (2): Club due to falter, but he has done a brilliant job in keeping it in second place for two years. If Bill Veeck wants to give the Sox a "new look," Lopez might go. But not during the season.

BILL NORMAN, Detroit (½): Pulled the Tigers together in the last half of '58, has a much-improved club that might finish second—if it didn't lack power hitting. Unlikely to be fired in his first full season in the majors.

MIKE HIGGINS, Boston (4): Club will again be fairly unspectacular but his boss, Owner Tom Yawkey, changes managers as often as he cuts an artery. Higgins seems most secure among managers of "Seven Dwarfs" of American League.

CASEY STENGEL, New York (10): So who's gonna fire Santa Claus.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

WALT ALSTON, Los Angeles (5): The hounds were crying for him last year. This year Dodgers should do better, but if they continue to falter, Alston will be replaced by a more dynamic, controversial manager.

BILL RIGNEY, San Francisco, (3): Owner, Horace Stoneham, is reluctant to fire managers but usually does. So if the Giants don't plunge into pennant contention, Rigney will be in trouble . . . but the Giants should very much be in contention.

DANNY MURTAUGH, (2): Team built up from a likely second - division club into a likely pennant winner — If it isn't in the pennant race—zzt.

SOLLY HEMUS, St. Louis, (0): He's Augie Busch's "man" and he's in his first year on the job . . . This should protect Hemus from jeopardy despite a potentially poor team and the pressures from above.

MAYO SMITH, Cincinnati, (0): Powerful team coming along that may be in contention all the way. Had a mediocre record at Philadelphia but it's unlikely that, even if the Reds tumble, Smith will be axed in his first year.

EDDIE SAWYER, Philadelphia (½): Brought back by popular demand of the Phils' owner last year — Not expected to do much this year — but neither is he expected to suffer for it.

BOB SCHEFFING, Chicago Cubs, (2): Even if Cubs skid, will probably survive on the prestige of getting them into a fifth-place tie last year.

FRED HANEY, Milwaukee, (2½): Even if Milwaukee loses the pennant, it's unlikely the Braves would fire a manager who has won two pennants in two years.

Clewiston Golf Team Wins Four-Team Meet

Special To The Herald

CLEWISTON — Clewiston swept a Suncoast Conference four-team golf tournament here Tuesday, defeating Seacrest of Delray, Stuart and Belle Glade.

Stuart's Volney Stuart was medalist with a superb 75 over the fast Clewiston Country Club Course.

Clewiston defeated Stuart, 7½-4½; Seacrest, 8-4; and Belle Glade, 12-0.

Runner-up Seacrest beat Belle Glade, 8-4, and upset Stuart, 7-5. Stuart topped winless Belle Glade, 8½-3½.

The Suncoast Conference golf tournament, originally scheduled here April 6 and 7, has been postponed to April 10-11. Lafayette Golden, executive secretary of the Florida High School Activities Association, ruled the tourney should be on a weekend to prevent players missing two days of school.

Melbourne's Lazenby Two-Hits Winter Park

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Righthander Bob Lazenby kept Melbourne's five-game slate clean with a two-hit, 10-3 triumph over Winter Park here Monday.

Lazenby permitted a fifth-inning infield singles in the fifth and sixth innings, but otherwise had the game under control.

Melbourne bats pounded 11 hits, including three doubles, against three Parker hurlers to hand the visitors their first setback in three starts.

Bill Hammond and Dennis Morawski each got two hits and every other Bulldog, with two exceptions, joined the hitting bandwagon.

It was the first local win over Winter Park in several years. The Bulldogs scored three runs in each of three innings — the first, fourth and sixth.

It was the third game in a row that a Melbourne hurler has gone the seven-inning distance to win.

The Bulldogs have four home games this week, Friday meeting Daytona Mainland and Saturday afternoon Orlando Boone.

Forest Hill Game Canceled

Herald Service

WEST PALM BEACH — The baseball game between Clewiston and Forest Hill was canceled by mutual agreement Tuesday, according to Forest Hill Coach Bobby Riggs.

Riggs was to serve as a pallbearer at the funeral of Al Tatum, West Palm Beach policeman who was killed Saturday in an accident, and many of the Falcon players planned to attend the funeral for their former coach in the Pony and Prep Leagues.

Burke Has Masters Course by the Tail

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. —(P)— Jackie Burke has the tough Augusta National Golf Course by the tail. The question is, can he hold it when they start playing for keeps in the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday?

The 36-year-old Houston professional, winner of the Masters in 1956, shot a practice round 64, eight under par, Tuesday following a spectacular 66 Monday. The competitive course record is 64, set in 1940.

"This is just shadow boxing," Burke apologized uncomfortably, as if a little embarrassed at winning the annual warmup derby. "But I must say I don't know when I have played better."

None of the other contestants in the star-spangled international field have approached Burke's proficiency over the 6,980-yard, par 36-36—72 layout which is lush and green and playing extremely long.

Jackie attributes his flashy form to two things: (1) an operation on his right hand a year ago; (2) a set of new clubs with broader faces such as those he used to win four winter tournaments in a row in 1952.

"A year ago I had a cyst on my hand," Burke said. "It pained me terrifically. I couldn't practice without the hand getting very sore. I had the cyst cut off. Now everything is fine.

"Also I am using a different set of clubs. The trend has been toward a smaller faced club. I've gone back to the big faces. I have much more confidence."

For the second straight day the course basked under a warm sun, raising hope of a bright, clear weekend.

Predictions were that, if this kind of weather prevails, a score of 282 or possibly even 280 may be needed to win.

Legal Loopholes Plugged

Convicted Murderer Mead Found Sane by Examiners

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two psychiatrists have found Gilbert (Buzzy) Mead sane.

It looked Tuesday like the end of the legal trail for Mead, who has escaped death in the electric chair for four years since his first conviction for first degree murder in March, 1955.

A report on Mead from the two psychiatrists, Dr. Arnold Eichert, superintendent of South Florida State Hospital, and Dr. Mordecai Haber, clinical director, has been forwarded to the governor.

The governor's office confirmed Tuesday that the two psychiatrists had found Mead sane. They were appointed by Gov. LeRoy Collins to make the examination.

The governor has not yet had time to read their report. William Durden, press secretary, said. It may be two or three days before he gets to it.

Quentin V. Long, assistant state attorney who prosecuted Mead at his second trial for killing his wife, Evelyn, said as far as he knows no legal avenues remain for Mead in his long battle to escape the chair.

The next step will be for the governor to set a date for the execution and sign the death warrant, it was reported.

However, Joseph Varon, Mead's attorney, who has carried his case to the U.S. Supreme Court, may appeal to the governor for clemency. He was returning from Tallahassee Tuesday night and could not be reached for comment.

Long said he would not consider joining in a plea for clemency. For one thing, it would have no effect, he said.

"I don't think it's deserved," he added. "I didn't think so at his trial, and I don't now. It was a rather brutal murder."

Mead was accused of killing his wife and her lover, Dominic Albonizio, in Albonizio's house on Harding St. in Hollywood in December, 1954. He was convicted of both murders in March, 1955, but the Florida Supreme Court ordered a new trial, holding that he should not have been tried simultaneously for two murders.

He was brought back from death row at Raiford in March 1956, for his second trial only to be returned. He has lived there ever since. He was tried only for his wife's slaying the second time and was convicted in April, 1956.

The Florida Supreme Court has turned down appeals and the U.S. Supreme Court has refused to review it.

Mead, who is well read and articulate, is popular among prisoners and jailers and has won a reputation as a sage and "jailhouse lawyer."

Finds Her in Hospital Bed

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Announcement of the award, by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

As Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Mrs. Kelley's selection Monday—not made public until she was notified Tuesday—ended a period of acute embarrassment for the American Mothers Committee.

Committee officials in New York City reported they had discovered that through error by volunteer workers at national headquarters 40 Kansas women had been mailed "dear mother" letters when they should have had "dear member" letters inviting them to the May 4-8 convention in New York City.

Rebels Busy In Honduras

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras —(AP)— A dynamite bomb exploded in a garage near the presidential palace but caused no damage.

The explosion, one of many here attributed to enemies of the national administration, came at a time when newspapers were reporting fresh conflict in Western Honduras.

Press dispatches said government troops had fought with rebels but there were no details.

About 100 residents of El Paraiso Department (state) came here to complain that the army seemed unable to cope with bandit raids. President Ramon Villeda Morales told them he would grant their request for arms if the army failed to eliminate the bandits from El Paraiso in two days.

Press Attacking Him, Says Fidel

HAVANA, Cuba —(AP)— Prime Minister Fidel Castro said that some publications are waging systematic attacks against the Cuban revolution and thus raising doubts about it in the U.S. and elsewhere.

The bearded prime minister made the charge at a meeting with bus workers. Despite the alleged press campaign, he said he is sure American farmers support his government's agrarian reform program.

He added he believes Americans will even support the land redistribution program with donations, as many Cubans are doing.

MIG Jets Harass U.S. Plane

Berlin Incident Protest Lodged

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corriders to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Force's biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of the isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

Dulles Basks In the Sun

Herald Service

JUPITER ISLAND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported enjoying Florida's sunshine Tuesday at the Hobe Sound estate of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state.

Dulles spent considerable time outdoors, and took a swim in the estate's big pool, according to Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Green said Dulles has not talked by telephone with the President since his arrival. But Green said he had relayed to Washington information after talking with Dulles himself.

Fighting against cancer, Dulles is expected to decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, an Army internal medicine specialist, accompanied Dulles to Florida along with Dulles' wife and other members of the Dulles party.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Western foreign ministers Tuesday resolved some of their differences over proposals they will offer Russia on Germany and Berlin.

At the same time, the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the U.S. reemphasized that they want progress at a foreign ministers conference on Germany before they agree to a summit meeting this summer.

This insistence on advance diplomatic spadework may be spelled out anew in another note to Russia.

Shortly before the foreign policy chiefs held their first session, the U.S. cautioned Russia against interfering with Allied plane flights into West Berlin.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter joined with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in discussing the note Russia sent Monday agreeing to a foreign ministers' parley starting May 11.

The three Allied foreign policy chiefs met in a second session later with West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

A spokesman for Herter told newsmen afterward "a couple of differences were resolved and a couple require more discussion." The spokesman did not identify the differences. But in advance of the meeting a British-U.S. split was evident on what concessions, if any, to

Today's Forecast: Cloudy, Warm

Farewell, March, You Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all night Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.82 inches of rain for the month up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were predicted all over the state, with a chance of more scattered showers in South Florida.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind, rain-wise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25 inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949 or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 30 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

"A wet March may mean a wet April, based on past performance," Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

India Main Target of Broadcast

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

These reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

The official Peiping People's Daily Tuesday followed up Nehru's statement with a thinly-cloaked warning that he mind his own business. The warning was broadcast by Radio Peiping.

In one breath, the official Communist Chinese newspaper called India "China's great, friendly neighbor" and in the next accused it of acting as a springboard for the revolt.

The People's Daily said India and Tibet's other neighbors in the Himalayas were serving as "props" for the rebellion and that Tibetan insurgents were using the Indian border town of Kalimpong as a "center for collusion with imperialism, the Chiang Kai-shek clique and foreign reactionaries." Nehru already had rejected similar earlier charges.

"The rebellion in Tibet and its supression are entirely internal affairs of China," the newspaper asserted. "No foreign country should interfere in the rebellion."

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

Mayor Wagner Hooted By Picketing Employes

New York Hit by Budget Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards, in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a so-called economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Wagner also said he had eliminated 1,300 city jobs—including 1,000 chauffeurs of city vehicles. The rest were vacant jobs or those filled by provisional employes.

City Hall previously had announced that uniformed policemen, firemen and sanitation employes would have to be satisfied with pay raises of $200 a year, instead of the $300 they had been led to expect. Other city employes, including school teachers, also faced reduced wage raises or none at all.

Official Resigns

Mrs. Florence Dornack was startled when she stepped outside her home in Rochester, Minn., and saw this sign. Her husband, Chuck, put it up as a gag. He explained that she bawled him out a few months ago for giving her age as 40 on a fishing license. "I'll kill him for this," she exclaimed—but she laughed.

Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to 80 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General Development is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus race-track signboards.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

SPORTS Car Club of America, Florida region, has scheduled a big two-day race program at Master Field, Opa-locka, May 16-17. Three members have guaranteed $12,000, necessary to set up the show. The events will be just about the same as the Orange Bowl show two years ago. Ken Coleman of Palm Beach, regional executive, will be in charge of the show. The racing program will be directed by Lucky Casner of Miami.

The show, although all amateur, will attract dozens of well-known and capable drivers. In Florida there are many skilled pilots, with cars equal to anything the professionals drive. Profits will be divided equally between Variety Children's Hospital and Miami Police Benevolent Association.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way even now, to save human lives.

Mayor Kenneth Oka, president of the orchestra association, will preside.

28 Escape Flames in Haiti Crash

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti—(AP)— Twenty-eight persons escaped serious injury Tuesday when a Haitian Airlines DC3 made a belly landing in a field outside the capital. Six American tourists were aboard.

The twin-engine craft caught fire after the emergency landing and the passengers and crew raced out through a sheet of flame. Some suffered superficial cuts and burns but none was hospitalized.

The pilot lost his port engine shortly after the plane took off on a flight from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the northern part of Haiti.

The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Max Holzman and their daughter, Susan, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Goodwin of Los Angeles, and Miss Alix Causse, Wilton, Conn.

Two Canadians were also aboard. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stefanovich, Hamilton.

Racists March on Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the State Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southern Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial. Colombo is survived by his wife, Jane, of Indiatlantic and Detroit.

The other two bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Milhizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

Fires Started In Parked Cars

He climaxed his spree by setting one blaze in front of the Central Fire Station.

Farm Bloc Adamant

House Rejects Farmers Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andresen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved conservation practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

offer the Soviets in new diplomatic talks.

The four top Allied diplomats scheduled two meetings for today to continue their attempt to forge a united front on all proposals involving Germany and Berlin's future. Results are to be reported to a full meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council which opens here Thursday.

A report on Tuesday's talks was given reporters by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state.

In discussing a possible new Allied note to Moscow, Berding said "we may have to send another note to straighten out a couple of points." He said these points were:

1—That a summit conference "should be predicated on some progress at a foreign ministers level." Berding said the Allies "speak as one" on this despite differences in wording in their last notes to Moscow.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was quoted Tuesday as saying that he believed a summit meeting should be held, preferably in San Francisco, even if a meeting of foreign ministers flops.

Newsweek magazine said Macmillan expressed this view during conversations at the Washington home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"There must be a summit or there may be war tomorrow," he was quoted as saying. "I cannot go to the queen and ask for . . . the evacuation of millions, many of them children, to far places of the commonwealth, until I have exhausted every other possibility."

2—That West German as well as East German Communist representatives could be invited to a foreign ministers meeting as advisers, but not as full participants, in all phases of the meeting. The Soviet note agreed only that the Germans should be represented at a conference of foreign ministers.

A British spokesman who also briefed reporters sought to minimize U.S.-British differences on how to handle the German problem. He emphasized all four nations are agreed on principles they will follow in seeking to maintain the objectives of German unity and the Allied right to remain in Berlin.

The two foreign ministers conferences Tuesday lasted nearly 3½ hours.

Irish President Has the Blarney

NEW YORK — (AP) — Ireland's President Sean T. O'Kelly sailed for the land of the blarney stone Tuesday, showering praise and kind words on all.

He wired President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard Nixon separately to express "my profound gratitude for the warmth of the reception here." Washington, he said, was "hospitality personified."

National Summary

A disturbance centered in Kansas during the middle of the day was associated with scattered showers and thundershowers in the Central Plains and occasional snow mixed with rain in the Central Rockies. Showers and thunderstorms will be scattered from Texas over the Mississippi Valley into portions of the Ohio Valley tonight and extend over the eastern portion of the country from the Mississippi River to the East Coast tomorrow with the exception of the extreme northeast and the Florida Peninsula.

A few light showers occurring in Ohio and Pennsylvania during the middle of the day will spread into Western New York tonight. Considerable cloudiness prevailed over the northern half of the nation from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast while sunshine and cloudiness vied for dominance in the Southern half where warm temperatures were reported. Readings in the 70's extended from the Gulf States into Kentucky and Missouri where Springfield observed a 70 while Tampa had a 78. The 50's stretched from Nebraska into New York where Buffalo reported a 53 and Omaha recorded a 56.

Generally fair weather from California into New Mexico will continue through Thursday. Sunshine raised temperatures to the 70's before noon in southern California.

Need Grows for Police Academy

ONE OF THE COUNTY'S greatest needs in the field of law enforcement is a police academy, George F. Silvia says, by way of comment on the second beating of Plantation Policeman Frank Fabiano. George is president of the Fraternal Order of Police Associates.

George feels that first-class training for officers can prevent many such instances. It's his belief that if an academy can be established, every city in the county should adopt a policy of hiring no one except graduates.

Police chiefs of the county began talking about an academy a couple of years ago. The County Commission has been asked to provide a site for it, but there hasn't been a really forceful campaign . . .

'Oh, Bonnie,' We're Not Unkind

A NOTE FROM BONNIE BAKER, the singer — she now calls herself "the world's oldest teenager" — good-humoredly protests that this column has been unkind about her age, which she unabashedly says is 42 today. It's all a mistake, though; somebody misread the item about her.

It said that Paul Fogarty, the Chicago TV performer, picked out the song "Oh, Johnny" for her in "the 1930's." Bonnie thought it said 1930 and cried out, "I was only 13 years old!"

Anyway, for the record, to use her phrase, the song was chosen for her by Merriel Abbott, who was producing shows at the Palmer House Hotel, and the record came out in 1940 . . .

Power Regains Old Job

Suspended Pay Still Held Back

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — The County Commission reinstated suspended Building Inspector Robert Power Tuesday, and put supervisors of three departments on permanent status.

Power, 63, will go back to work today. He was laid off last December after his indictment by the Grand Jury. The charges of malpractice and extortion were dropped last week.

County Attorney John Lloyd said Tuesday he has not yet decided whether suspended employes are eligible for back pay upon reinstatement.

The ruling will apply to Power, who makes $550 a month, and Charles Vermorel —reinstated after four months suspension—who makes $420.

The Commission in another action gave permanent status to Thomas McInnes, building department head; Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bittoni, supervisors of Junior Haven, and William Hogan, welfare administrator.

In other business the commission:

Poisoned Dog Toll Hits Nine

Herald Bureau

WEST HOLLYWOOD — Five more dogs were dead Tuesday as sheriff's deputies swung into an "around-the-clock" hunt for a suspected poisoner.

The latest deaths brought the toll in a small neighborhood in southwest West Hollywood to nine. Most were the pets of young children.

Ben Grigsby, chief criminal investigator for the Sheriff's Department said deputies are considering the possibility that the poisonings are not deliberate.

Some of the victims may have died of advanced distemper, he said.

All the deaths have been centered around the 6400 block from SW 19th to 23rd Sts.

A veterinarian told two families that their dogs apparently died of strychnine — a poison as deadly to human beings as to dogs.

Poolroom Owner Shot

HALLANDALE — Willie Goodman, 23, of 300 NW 3rd St., would rather play pool than do anything else.

Tuesday he walked into James Davis' Pembroke Rd. Pool Parlor and demanded to play for nothing, police said.

Davis refused, police said, and Goodman whipped out a gun and shot him in the chest.

The poolroom owner's condition was poor at Memorial Hospital in Hollywood. Goodman was jailed for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon.

Trujillo Eying Cuba, Says Haiti Official

Herald Bureau

DEERFIELD BEACH—General Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic, is a "leading candidate for taking over Cuba, if anyone does," according to a personal advisor to Haiti's President Francois Duvalier.

Haiti and the Dominican Republic share the island of Hispaniola, barely 50 miles from Cuba, and often rumored a target of Fidel Castro.

Francis R. Cusumano, a local resident, has served as personal advisor to President Duvalier since his election 17 months ago. The two met many times when Duvalier was working as a doctor in the interior of Haiti.

"Trujillo could send 100,000 men against Cuba tomorrow," said Cusumano, who maintains close liaison with Duvalier, and is well acquainted with activities on the island of Hispaniola.

As to any armed conflict between the two nations on "Hispaniola," Cusumano said "all the adverse publicity in this connection is Communist-inspired."

'Screaming Meemie' Fogger Gone

'Silencer' Sprays Swamp Skeeters

HOLLYWOOD — Those cotton-pickin', blood-suckin' mosquitoes are here again.

Or had you noticed?

City officials have, and Tuesday night they greeted a new invasion with a super dose of DDT.

And those that escaped the nocturnal attack were expected to "get theirs" from aerial spraying this morning.

"They're from the Everglades," explained Ed Barron, head of the city's Mosquito Control Department.

"They're not too bad but we try to keep the number down by getting to them before they get bad."

They're heaviest, Barron said, in the South and North Lake areas.

A new portable fogging machine—which the city is using on a trial basis—was put into action for the first time Tuesday night.

"We believe it will be a lot of help," Barron said. "If it does the trick, we'll probably keep it."

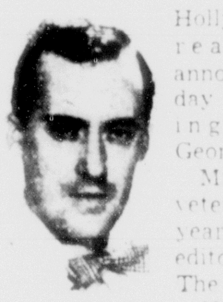
Money for the unit was appropriated in the city's current budget.

Barron said the city plans to "junk" its "Screaming Meemie," a seven-year-old fogging machine that was so noisy residents frequently complained.

Wife Gets Two Years In Stolen Goods Case

Hollywood Post Goes To Miller

HOLLYWOOD — James Miller, former assistant city editor of The Miami Herald, has been appointed chief of The Herald's Hollywood's bureau, it was announced Tuesday by Managing Editor George Beebe.



MILLER

Miller, 30, is a veteran of 10 years on the editorial staff of The Herald.

He has lived in Southeast Florida most of his life, and knows the booming South Broward area well.

Beebe said Miller will concentrate on expanding The Herald South Broward operation to keep pace with the communities in the area that are growing so rapidly.

He will succeed Rick Tuttle who is joining The Herald's city staff in Miami.

Miller joined The Herald in 1949 while still a journalism student at the University of Miami. He was graduated in 1950. He served The Herald as general assignment reporter, police reporter and as a member of The Herald's West Palm Beach bureau. He was assistant city editor for two years.

He is married and has two children.

Drowning Is Ruled Accidental

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The drowning of a 63-year-old visitor Tuesday in a canal behind her sister's home was ruled an accidental death by Dr. R. K. Haugen, county medical examiner.

Services for Mrs. Amy Martin will be at her hometown of Rockford, Ill. Kracer Funeral Home reported Tuesday night.

A widow, she was the office manager of a Rockford insurance company.

Her body was found by police at 9:30 a.m. in Lake Santa Barbara, several blocks east of the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert Ewert, 761 SE 22nd Ave.

The body was clothed in a nightgown when pulled from the water.

Mrs. Martin's brother-in-law, Albert, said she came here March 22 to recuperate from a recent illness. She was last seen alive by her relatives about 10 p.m. Monday, Ewert said.

He said Mrs. Martin apparently became dizzy while walking along the seawall Tuesday morning and fell in.

Bishop Cleared

FORT LAUDERDALE — County Building Inspector Edwin Bishop, 58, of 1960 SW 41st Ave., was found not guilty of a drunk driving charge Tuesday by a Court of Crimes jury.

Bishop was arrested last Christmas Eve at the corner of State Rd. 84 and State Rd. 7. He was defended by Attorney Clayton Nance.

Fiesta Queen Dazzled

'Jeepers, They Picked Me!'

By DUANE JONES

HOLLYWOOD—A 16-year-old cutie who "never won anything" was bubbling over with enthusiasm Tuesday.

Carole Johnson, a junior at South Broward High School, "still can't believe" she has been selected this city's 1959 Fiesta queen.

"Jeepers," she exclaimed. "I thought all beauty contests were rigged. But I found out differently Monday night."

Carole, a five-foot-two, eyes-of-blue blonde, entered the contest because several of her girl friends had.

"I didn't dream I'd win," she said. "I was in the Florida Derby beauty contest a few weeks ago and ended up with the booby prize. I never won anything."

In addition to the publicity that goes with a queen's title, winning the Fiesta contest got Carole out of the doghouse with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Johnson, 2210 N. Ocean Dr.

"I stayed out too late one night several weeks ago and was really in the doghouse," she smiled. "But that's over now . . . I hope."

Carole's still a bit peeved with her father, though. "He was betting on the girl who placed second," she pouted. "Isn't that awful?"

The new queen has no interest in modeling, the movies or the stage.

No Injuries Reported

7 Cars Derailed; Railroad Blocked

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — A northbound Florida East Coast passenger-Pullman train was derailed and forced to stand idle several hours Tuesday night at the railroad's intersection with NE 17th Ct.

Trainmen reported no injuries when seven Pullman cars of The Miamian slipped the rails and blocked the railroad's main line to New York.

Next run on the line, the 9:55 p.m. Havana Special, was canceled temporarily.

Railroad Agent Ralph Hooten said cause of the derailing was not known. He said there is a possibility the train brake shoe came loose, falling into a derail switch.

Hooten said the first eight cars of the 20-car train resumed the trip immediately, but that the seven middle derailed cars had to be taken away by wrecker and replaced.

The five rear cars, he said, were taken back to Port Everglades and switched over to the Seaboard Air Line Railroad.

Hooten said a train wrecker was called in from Buena Vista for a four to six-hour job of clearing the tracks.

The first few cars of the train had reached the bridge over the South Fork Middle River when the derailing occurred, but none of these was derailed.

Hooten said the train, carrying about 300 persons, was traveling about 10 miles per hour when the cars slipped the rails.

NEA President To Be Honored

Austin will be honored "for breaking the log jam to get Broward County airline service," Charles Sumwalt, association president, said. Northeast was the first major airline to start service at Broward International Airport.

Dr. Ted Arbuthnot of Fort Lauderdale is reservations chairman.

County Asks State Attack On Erosion

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — The shoreline erosion problem must be tackled on a statewide basis, County Commission Chairman George Petersen said Tuesday.

"Beaches don't recognize county lines," he declared. "Most of our beaches are inside city limits. It would not be fair to tax the county to maintain them."

County legislators are considering a bill for local authority to fight erosion if statewide action is not taken.

Work done independently in one county may cause harm at other parts of the coastline, Petersen said. Without state aid the county would have to levy an extra tax of two or three mills, he added.

Wouldn't Implicate Husband

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Mrs. Minnie Lou Dietsch was convicted of receiving stolen property Tuesday and sentenced to two years hard labor in state prison.

She burst into tears as the Criminal Court jury returned its verdict after 30 minutes study.

Maximum penalty for the crime is five years.

Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin filed notice of appeal and said he will also seek a new trial. Bond was set at $5,000.

The smartly-dressed woman, 43, was convicted of receiving a fur brooch and earring stolen Jan. 25 from a southeast residence.

She was arrested that night at her home, 1516 Garfield St., Hollywood. Her husband, Jack, left while police searched the place. They're still looking for him.

Mrs. Dietsch testified Tuesday that she had seen her husband since her arrest, and told him police wanted him to call.

"I can't make him give himself up . . . after all, he is my husband," she told the court.

Police testified they saw Mrs. Dietsch — through the window — hide a jacket in her bed. They said they found jewelry in the pockets.

"I don't know what it's all about . . . anything about it . . . who brought it in," the defendant said.

Prosecutor Wallace Allbritton said concealment of the jacket proved she knew the jewelry was stolen.

"She was caught with the goods on her," Allbritton declared.

One sharp exchange between Mrs. Dietsch and her prosecutor brought an unsuccessful motion from Rubin for a mistrial. Allbritton asked again about her husband.

"I'm on trial here, not him," she replied. "Is it right I should turn him in?"

"Yes," said Allbritton, "he's a criminal . . ." Rubin claimed the remark "prejudiced the jury beyond recall."

Judge Louis Weissing told the panel to disregard it, and admonished Allbritton: "Never make a statement like that in this courtroom again."

Keys Power Co-Op Sets Elections

UPPER KEYS — Annual district meetings of the Florida Keys Electric Cooperative Association will each elect a trustee for a two year term. There are two trustees in each district.

First meeting is April 7 at the Civic Club at Key Largo. Candidates are George Murray and S. J. (Joe) Bond.

On April 9 meeting is set for the Tavernier Fire Department, with Everett Albury and George Marshall on the ballot.

Islamorada meeting is April 14 and Marathon April 16. Nominees have not been named for these districts yet.

Meetings will start at 7:30 p.m. with each member of the cooperative entitled to one vote. Nominations may be made from the floor.

Miramar Police Chief Quits, Blames Politics

O'Toole Cites City's 'Turmoil'

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

MIRAMAR — Police Chief James B. O'Toole resigned Tuesday because of what he called "growing political turmoil."

He said he had been considering leaving since the "turmoil that erupted following the first election."

He was the third political official to bow out since the town's first municipal election in January.

Two days after taking office Charles Knapp resigned during a controversy over some of his municipal appointments. Less than two weeks ago Councilman P. Dalton Kennedy handed in his resignation as city attorney to "give the mayor to be elected April 7 a chance to appoint a man."

"The whole thing has degenerated into a political swill barrel," said O'Toole. "Frankly, I don't want to get involved in it."

He called Former Council President H. J. Seigel and his board "competent men who ran the city efficiently."

Siegel was a developer of the city who served on the council under a special charter provision prior to the January election.

In his letter, O'Toole listed "increase in my work at the Broward County Sheriff's Department and the fact that Siegel and his council are no longer guiding the city" as reasons for leaving. O'Toole is on the sheriff's vice squad.

The move was a shock to city officials. City Clerk Larry Duane had already placed a talk by the chief on the April 6 council agenda.

"It is a complete surprise," Kennedy said. "Jim had done a good job. I don't know of any friction with the current council."

Acting Mayor John Marini said O'Toole had done a "wonderful job. It is a loss to the city."

O'Toole's Miramar post is non-salaried.

He said he continued after the January political dispute "only to help shape up the department. It is in excellent condition now."

"I felt . . . a loyalty to Miramar's first city council," he said. Recently Seigel came under fire from several hundred homeowners when his Miramar Utilities Co. proposed a hike in rates. Negotiations are still pending.

Kennedy said Monday that the chief's resignation will be placed on the agenda next Monday.

A THREE-CAR ACCIDENT on busy Federal Hwy. in Dania Tuesday resulted in serious head injuries to Mike Cerne, 69, of East Haven, Conn. Police said Cerne's vehicle, headed north, plowed into the rear of another car and sent it barreling into an automobile that was stopped for a truck making a turn off the highway. Occupants in the other cars were not injured. Cerne was taken to North Broward General Hospital, Fort Lauderdale.

Bus Line Can't Be 'Forced'

By RICK TUTTLE
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The city cannot arbitrarily force Hollywood Bus Lines to provide service to the North Beach area, City Attorney August Paoli said Tuesday.

Paoli was ordered by Commissioners last week to find out what control the city has over the firm.

The North Central Beach Improvement Association complained the lack of service was keeping away tourists.

Present service ends at Lee St., about half way between Hollywood Blvd. and Dania Beach. This leaves about a mile and a half without service. The strip contains mostly apartment houses, catering to tourists.

Paoli said the city would have to apply for the added service, and then give the firm 30 days to either agree or object. If the company and the city can't agree within five days, an arbitration board is appointed.

One arbitrator is appointed by the city, one by the company and one by both parties. Any decision by the board is binding.

If the arbitration board can't agree, the matter goes to Circuit Court, Paoli said.

Charles D. Springer, bus company president, said the firm could not afford to operate runs into the section.

The property owners, led by R. T. Behrman, claim tourists at the apartments on North Beach are stranded unelss they have automobiles. Eighty property owners signed a petition requesting the service.

Hollywood Bus Lines has a 20-year franchise, signed 11 years ago after it was approved in a referendum.

"There can be no major changes in the franchise without another referendum," Paoli said.

Mayor Edmond L. McMorrough said he did not know whether the city would officially request service for the North Beach section.

District Fire Tax Sought

Bill Would Aid Volunteers

By TOM VINCIQUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The Broward legislative delegation will sponsor a bill at the next session to provide added fire protection for the unincorporated areas, State Rep. Emerson Allsworth said Tuesday.

Allsworth's comments followed announcement by the Broward County Volunteer Firemen's Association that because of the "tremedous growth of Broward County's population . . . member departments can no longer provide adequate services unless a new method of raising funds is found."

The departments operate on a pro rated share of $15,000 from the county, plus funds they are able to collect from homeowners and businesses in the areas they protect.

Allsworth said details of the proposed bill haven't been worked out, but it would set up one or more fire tax districts with the benefited areas paying their own way.

The firemen's association coupled its announcement with a plan calling for one tax district with administrative jurisdiction over each of the 11 existing volunteer departments included.

The fire departments—to be known as sub-districts—would retain their own autonomy, and would be responsible for fire protection in their individual districts.

The commission primarily would disburse tax money, with each district getting taxes collected from it. The association proposed a levy of $2 per 1,000 square feet of building space and 50 cents for each additional 500 feet.

Allsworth said he has been studying another plan in use at Hillsborough County. There an administrative board is empowered to levy up to $3 for each dwelling, $15 for commercial establishments and 50 cents for vacant lots.

Allsworth and Rep. A. J. Ryan said the final proposal would call for a referendum in the areas to be benefited.

The county firemen's plan would make the fire chief of each department a fire marshal, and the proposal asks that departments be exempt from paying state taxes on purchases of fire equipment.

So's Pensacola

Boca Seeking House Caucus

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

BOCA RATON — Pensacola and Boca Raton, two communities that would both like to be known as "university towns," are vying to see which will play host to a caucus of the State House of Representatives Nov. 18-20, it was disclosed here Tuesday.

City Commissioner Harold Dane revealed that invitations to legislators to hold their annual three-day huddle in Palm Beach County were mailed out Tuesday.

Dane admitted that Pensacola had a head start in issuing an invitation, and that a number of lawmakers were already pledged to caucus in the North Florida city.

The commissioner said he was banking on the lure of entertainment at the plush Boca Raton Hotel and the prospect of a University of Miami football game to bring some 260 of the state's top politicians to Palm Beach County.

Dane explained that it was customary for the governor, Cabinet, State Senate and other top officials to accompany the House of representatives.

"Pensacola, like Boca Raton, is bidding for a four-year state university, and also like Boca Raton, it has a defunct air base which it is willing to donate as a site.

A number of North Florida legislators have recently declared they will fight any move to locate a university here.

Dane's remarks came at Tuesday's City Commission meeting. The commission also took under consideration recommendations by Mayor Joe DeLong calling for an anti-noise ordinance, use of more women on city boards and committees and a request to the Chamber of Commerce that it organize a Better Business Bureau.

He Wants Lien on City Hall

Herald Bureau

BOYNTON BEACH — A Miami architect isn't fighting city hall. More than that, he's trying to foreclose it.

J. Richard Ogden Jr. is apparently out to prove wrong [illegible] saying "You can't fight city hall."

He asked Circuit Court in West Palm Beach Tuesday to slap a lien against the brand new Boynton Beach City Hall and to foreclose it.

Ogden claimed the city still owed him $3,429 of his $14,811 fee for architectural services rendered under his contract to design city hall, the police station, and the firehouse.

The Miami architect charged the city has refused to pay him. The figure allegedly due, he said, covers extra work on the building plus extra time, traveling and office expense occasioned by the "delinquency" of the contractor for the job.

Cuban Boats Stir Keys Protest

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The Key West Charter Boatman's Association has complained to the office of U.S. Sen. George Smathers about Cuban commercial boats fishing near here.

Curtis Ryan, chairman of the board and vice president of the association, said Tuesday Cuban smacks have moved into U.S. territorial waters off to Key West to catch fish in quantity.

Ryan said he talked long distance Tuesday with Smathers' Washington office. He said Scotty Peak, Smathers administrative assistance, promised the matter would be looked into.

"There were eight smacks, 40 to 60 feet long, plus some 20 skiffs, fishing out there Monday," Ryan said. He estimated that over 100 men were involved in the operation and that "thousands of pounds of kingfish are being hauled in. Those kingfish around the reef provide our bread and butter," explained Ryan, who operates a charter boat himself.

"Once they've cleaned out the kingfish they'll start pulling out everything that moves," Ryan predicted.

Ryan said the Cuban vessels are fishing in waters along the reef from Sand Key westward towards Key West. Capt. Johnny West, president of the association, said the boats have been there for about 10 days.

West added that commercial fisherman from this area, as well as the charter boatmen, are also becoming upset by the Cubans' presence.

Ryan cautioned that if the Cubans continued to exploit local waters, fisherman from Key West may attempt to use force to keep them out.

"Then we'll have an international incident on our hands," Ryan said.

School Chief Hits Talk About 'Frills'

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Brevard County School Superintendent Woodrow J. Darden tossed a verbal punch at Florida taxpayers who have been complaining that "we have too many frills in our educational system."

Darden said during a West Melbourne Chamber of Commerce talk that "frill teaching is the exception rather than the rule."

He declared that "people discussing the subject in letters to newspaper editors cite isolated cases and try to make them appear like this is the general practice."

Newspapers "who must sell papers" also were accused of using isolated cases of frill teaching in news stories that attacked modern educational methods.

"A frill in education," Darden stated, "depends largely on who you're talking to. Some people will say that music and band are frills, while, on the other hand, you'll find people who'll fight you on the basis that music and band help in giving their children a better general education."

Darden pointed out that America is leaning toward a shorter work week, permitting more leisure time for workers.

Mrs. Theresa F. Streule

FORT LAUDERDALE — Rosary services for Mrs. Theresa Frances Streule, 230 NE 51st Ct., who died Tuesday, will be at 8 tonight at Blackburn Funeral Home chapel. Mass will be at St. Clement's Catholic Church at 9:30 a.m. Thursday. Entombment will be in Lauderdale Memorial Gardens. Mrs. Streule came here from New York City 3½ years ago. Survivors include her husband, Theophil; a daughter and a son.

Louis William Easer

POMPANO BEACH — Louis William Easer, 1672 NE 29th St., Pompano Beach, died Tuesday. He came here two months ago from Homestead Park, Pa. Services and burial will be in Homestead Park. Local arrangements are being handled by Kraeer Funeral Home. Survivors include a sister, Miss Sophia Easer, Pompano Beach.

2 Youths Held For Car Theft

Herald Bureau

NAPLES — Two boys, 15 and 16, who stole three cars on an eight-state escapade were caught by Naples Police.

Sgt. Ed Helenek and Patrolman George McRae arrested the pair early Tuesday as they were trying to call their parents in Pennsylvania.

Chief S. B. Caruthers and Lt. Sam Bass said the boys went on a wandering excursion from their homes in Farrel, Pa., into Ohio, back to Pennsylvania and then by bus through Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

Police halted them at Winston-Salem, N.C., with a request they contact their parents. They abandoned their bus trip and hitchhiked until they stole a car in Salisbury, N.C., "because they were cold," and abandoned it in Charlotte, N.C.

They hitchhiked to Miami and took a car there "because one's feet hurt" and drove it across the Tamiami Trail until it ran out of gas at Carnestown.

Then they hitchhiked into Everglades and took a station wagon belonging to L. D. Iles. They drove to Naples, where they were caught.

Their disposition has not been determined.

Island Loses Its Monkeys

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The monkeys are gone from Monkey Island at Storyland.

It's their own fault they were sold.

As Co-owner J. L. Sullivan explains, "they were just getting too old."

Not that old age was the disturbing factor.

The wisdom that apparently came with the old age was the underlying cause of the monkey sale.

As the simians grew up, they smartened up, and just wouldn't stay on their island. They figured all kinds of ways to get off.

They'd get loose and wander around the tourist attraction, scaring the dickens out of kids and adults.

Monkeys don't generally take to water, but these island-isolated ones learned fast. Those that didn't care to swim, just clambered up the pipe through which the tourists are supposed to slide peanuts and popcorn to the island.

And they may have thought of a few more ways of getting off the island, that caretakers haven't figured out yet.

Anyway, the monkeys became so unruly they were sold through whatever channels "retirement" monkeys are generally sold.

Tractor Tips Over And Pins Operator

ROCKLEDGE — A tractor operator was near death Tuesday night from internal injuries sustained when his machine rolled over on him.

Surgeons at Wuesthoff Memorial Hospital were planning surgery to save his life.

The operator, James Crunkeoton, 31, of 1508 Highland St., Cocoa, was pinned under the eight-ton machine at Fiske Blvd. and Church St. Tuesday morning.

Patrolman Roy Bennett said one of the tractor's wheels suddenly locked and caused it to twist out of control and overturn.

Crunkeoton was thrown into a roadside drainage ditch, but his head was not forced under water.

Before he lost consciousness, the tractor was pulled off him by a crane which had been working nearby.

Miller Wins in Light Vote

West Palm Renames Mayor, Rejects Police Chief Plan

More Palm Beach News, 1C, 17A, 2B

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — Mayor Horace S. Miller was reelected, Commissioner L. W. Kelloway was thrown into a run-off and voters smashed a proposal to make the police chief post appointive in a municipal election here Tuesday.

Despite ideal weather, only 7,532 out of 26,804 eligible voters went to the polls in the "off-year" election.

The campaign was devoid of any burning issues.

The unofficial returns mean:

Mayor Miller will begin a fourth term on the board as Group E commissioner.

Commissioner Kelloway will contest with Ralph G. York, a south side barber, in the only contest that will be involved in a runoff election next Tuesday.

The "appointive chief of police" idea is again laid to rest. It was beaten 3,741 to 1,708.

Miller avoided a runoff for his commission seat by polling 3,674 votes or 348 more than the combined total of his two opponents.

J. H. French, a retired contractor, ran second to Miller with a vote of 2,324, while C. M. Morris Jr., son of a retired city official, was in last place with 1,002 votes.

Commissioner Kelloway, who has served three non-consecutive terms on the board, had more opposition to overcome and little chance of avoiding a runoff.

He managed to lead the field with a vote of 2,813, but York was only 687 votes behind to win the runoff spot. Two other candidates, Henry R. Antonik, a photography supply dealer, with 1,363 votes, and William M. Mitchell, county Negro veterans service officer, who had 1,171 votes, were eliminated.

Ironically, what was probably the most debated question of the campaign — whether the currently elected police chief office should be made appointive — turned out one of the lowest votes.

Only 5,549 voters balloted on that question, but in doing so they chalked up the fourth straight time West Palm Beach residents have turned thumbs down on an appointive chief.

All the votes were tallied by the city clerk immediately after the election and are unofficial until they are certified at a special meeting of the City Commission.

The board will meet Wednesday afternoon to canvass the results and officially arrange for the runoff.

Finds Her in Hospital Bed

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Announcement of the award, by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

As Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Mrs. Kelley's selection Monday—not made public until she was notified Tuesday—ended a period of acute embarrassment for the American Mothers Committee.

Committee officials in New York City reported they had discovered that through error by volunteer workers at national headquarters 40 Kansas women had been mailed "dear mother" letters when they should have had "dear member" letters inviting them to the May 4-8 convention in New York City.

Crash Fatal To Head of African State

BANGUI, Central African Republic — (AP) — Premier Barthelemy Boganda, a witch doctor's son who rose to political power in this Negro republic, was found dead Tuesday in the wreckage of a plane 100 miles west of here.

The interior ministry said the bodies of all nine aboard the French-made Atlas flying boxcar had been identified by a search party. The twin-engine plane vanished Sunday on a flight to Bangui from Berberati, 200 miles west of here.

Also aboard the Aeronmaritime de Transport plane were four crewmen and four other passengers including the government's information chief and a member of Parliament.

Boganda, 48, was the leader of the Central African Republic, formerly the French Territory of Ubangi-Shari. He kept the area within President Charles de Gaulle's new French overseas community by backing the De Gaulle constitution in last September's referendum.

Press Attacking Him, Says Fidel

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro said that some publications are waging systematic attacks against the Cuban revolution and thus raising doubts about it in the U.S. and elsewhere.

The bearded prime minister made the charge at a meeting with bus workers. Despite the alleged press campaign, he said he is sure American farmers support his government's agrarian reform program.

He added he believes Americans will even support the land redistribution program with donations, as many Cubans are doing.

MIG Jets Harass U.S. Plane

Berlin Incident Protest Lodged

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corriders to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Force's biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of the isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

Dulles Basks In the Sun

Herald Service

JUPITER ISLAND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported enjoying Florida's sunshine Tuesday at the Hobe Sound estate of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state.

Dulles spent considerable time outdoors, and took a swim in the estate's big pool, according to Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Green said Dulles has not talked by telephone with the President since his arrival. But Green said he had relayed to Washington information after talking with Dulles himself.

Fighting against cancer, Dulles is expected to decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, an Army internal medicine specialist, accompanied Dulles to Florida along with Dulles' wife, and other members of the Dulles party.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Western foreign ministers Tuesday resolved some of their differences over proposals they will offer Russia on Germany and Berlin.

At the same time, the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the U.S. reemphasized that they want progress at a foreign ministers' conference on Germany before they agree to a summit meating this summer.

This insistence on advance diplomatic spadework may be spelled out anew in another note to Russia.

Shortly before the foreign policy chiefs held their first session, the U.S. cautioned Russia against interfering with Allied plane flights into West Berlin.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter joined with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in discussing the note Russia sent Monday agreeing to a foreign ministers' parley starting May 11.

The three Allied foreign policy chiefs met in a second session later with West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

A spokesman for Herter told newsmen afterward "a couple of differences were resolved and a couple require more discussion." The spokesman did not identify the differences. But in advance of the meeting a British-U.S. split was evident on what concessions, if any, to

Today's Forecast: Cloudy, Warm

Farewell, March, You Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all right Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.82 inches of rain for the month up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were predicted all over the state, with a chance of more scattered showers in South Florida.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind, rainwise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25 inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949, or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 30 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

"A wet March may mean a wet April, based on past performance," Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

India Main Target of Broadcast

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

These reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however, appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

The official Peiping People's Daily Tuesday followed up Nehru's statement with a thinly-cloaked warning that he mind his own business. The warning was broadcast by Radio Peiping.

In one breath, the official Communist Chinese newspaper called India "China's great, friendly neighbor" and in the next accused it of acting as a springboard for the revolt.

The People's Daily said India and Tibet's other neighbors in the Himalayas were serving as "props" for the rebellion and that Tibetan insurgents were using the Indian border town of Kalimpong as a "center for collusion with imperialism, the Chiang Kai-shek clique and foreign reactionaries." Nehru already had rejected similar earlier charges.

"The rebellion in Tibet and its supression are entirely internal affairs of China," the newspaper asserted. "No foreign country should interfere in the rebellion."

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

Mayor Wagner Hooted By Picketing Employes

New York Hit by Budget Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a so-called economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Wagner also said he had eliminated 1,[illegible]00 city jobs—including 1,000 chauffeurs of city vehicles. The rest were vacant jobs or those filled by provisional employes.

City Hall previously had announced that uniformed policemen, firemen and sanitation employes would have to be satisfied with pay raises of $200 a year, instead of the $300 they had been led to expect. Other city employes, including school teachers, also faced reduced wage raises or none at all.

Official Resigns

Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to 30 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General Development is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus racetrack signboards.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way even now, to save human lives.

28 Escape Flames in Haiti Crash

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti — (AP) — Twenty-eight persons escaped serious injury Tuesday when a Haitian Airlines DC3 made a belly landing in a field outside the capital. Six American tourists were aboard.

The twin-engine craft caught fire after the emergency landing and the passengers and crew raced out through a sheet of flame. Some suffered superficial cuts and burns but none was hospitalized.

The pilot lost his port engine shortly after the plane took off on a flight from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the northern part of Haiti.

The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Max Holzman and their daughter Susan, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Goodwin of Los Angeles and Miss Alix Causse, Wilton, Conn.

Two Canadians were also aboard. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stefanovich, Hamilton.

Racists March on Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. — (UPI) — Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the State Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southern Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial. Colombo is survived by his wife, Jane, of Indiatlantic and Detroit.

The other two bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Milhizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

He climaxed his spree by setting one blaze in front of the Central Fire Station.

Farm Bloc Adamant

House Rejects Farmers Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andresen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved "conservation" practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

offer the Soviets in new diplomatic talks.

The four top Allied diplomats scheduled two meetings for today to continue their attempt to forge a united front on all proposals involving Germany and Berlin's future. Results are to be reported to a full meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council which opens here Thursday.

A report on Tuesday's talks was given reporters by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state.

In discussing a possible new Allied note to Moscow, Berding said "we may have to send another note to straighten out a couple of points." He said these points were:

1—That a summit conference "should be predicated on some progress at a foreign ministers level." Berding said the Allies "speak as one" on this despite differences in wording in their last notes to Moscow.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was quoted Tuesday as saying that he believed a summit meeting should be held, preferably in San Francisco, even if a meeting of foreign ministers flops.

Newsweek magazine said Macmillan expressed this view during conversations at the Washington home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"There must be a summit or there may be war tomorrow," he was quoted as saying. "I cannot go to the queen and ask for . . . the evacuation of millions, many of them children, to far places of the commonwealth, until I have exhausted every other possibility."

2—That West German as well as East German Communist representatives could be invited to a foreign ministers meeting as advisers, but not as full participants, in all phases of the meeting. The Soviet note agreed only that the Germans should be represented at a conference of foreign ministers.

A British spokesman who also briefed reporters sought to minimize U.S.-British differences on how to handle the German problem. He emphasized all four nations are agreed on principles they will follow in seeking to maintain the objectives of German unity and the Allied right to remain in Berlin.

The two foreign ministers conferences Tuesday lasted nearly 3½ hours.

Two Killed

This three-car crash on the heavily traveled Trout River Bridge north of Jacksonville late Monday killed two Jacksonville women and critically injured seven other persons. Dead were Elizabeth Virginia Fuller, 47, and Mattie Mae de Brown, 58. Police said a car headed south in the northbound lane rammed headon into a second vehicle. The third auto was unable to stop and piled into the wreckage.

Proposed Building Code Bill Stirs Most Fire at Taxpayers Meeting

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — Proposed legislation enabling the Indian River County Commission to adopt a building code provoked the most discussion at a public meeting sponsored by the County Taxpayers Association on local bills being considered.

Rep. L. B. (Buck) Vocelle, County Commission Chairman Robert Graves and County and City Attorney Sherman Smith led the discussion Monday night at the Community Building.

Art Karst, Taxpayers Association president, introduced J. B. Egan, first vice president, as moderator and spokesman for the association's legislative committee which had studied the proposed bills. Vocelle outlined and explained the bills.

Regarding the building code, Smith explained that a permissive bill is being asked, that the county commission may not necessarily exercise the power to adopt a building code as soon as it receives it.

In expressing the views of the legislative committee Egan said, "We don't want to have hanging over our heads the chance that we might have to get permission to repair a leaky faucet."

"It strikes me as a very good bill," commented Jack Finnegan of the Mackle Bros. Sebastian office.

Tracy Turner, president of the local Realty Board, told the group, "I would think most thinking people . . . would want their county commissioners to have the authority to enact a building code."

Joe Roschach, president of Tropicolony, Inc., objected to a building code on the basis that waiting for building inspectors to make their inspections before work could proceed could add too much to the cost of building homes.

"There is no such thing as a simple building code or a simple way to enforce it," Roschach said. "I do not approve of the city building code. It is restrictive, arbitrary and overdesigned."

Joe Michael, president of the Indian River County Farm Bureau, reported that his organization had reaffirmed its opposition to a building code if it could not be made to apply only to subdivisions or developments.

After the discussion members of the Taxpayers Association voted to oppose the building code bill as written.

The Taxpayers affirmed bills releasing certain funds for maintenance of public health units and enabling the county to perform certain public services including garbage collection.

The Taxpayers suggested mail notices and legal advertisements to promulgate a bill to permit special police and street lighting districts.

NAPLES — Members of the Naples Shrine Club will travel to Fort Myers Sunday to see the Pittsburgh Pirates play Philadelphia. Following the game the club will have a get-together with Fort Myers Shriners.

2 Believed Dead on Gulf Boat

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — A Coast Guard plane located the missing 35-foot pleasure cruiser, Miss Bonnie, Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico.

A helicopter picked up one of three men who went out on the vessel Saturday. The other two were believed dead.

Lt. Roger Frawley, helicopter pilot from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station, said he took Virgil Garrison of Crystal River off an unidentified vessel at the scene and flew him to Crystal River.

Garrison was taken to a hospital at Inverness.

The Coast Guard said a Martin Marlin seaplane spotted the Miss Bonnie awash and under tow of the unidentified craft about 17 miles out in the gulf and 10 miles south of Cedar Key. The helicopter was summoned to get Garrison.

Garrison went into the gulf with Randall Maruska of Crystal River and Andy Strange of Jacksonville on a fishing trip Saturday. A search was launched when the three, employes of a fishing concern at Crystal River, failed to return Sunday.

The helicopter pilot said he spotted the body of one man aboard the floundering Miss Bonnie. He quoted Garrison as saying the third man jumped overboard with two life jackets Sunday night. Garrison didn't identify the men by name.

The tow vessel cut the pleasure craft loose and headed for port shortly after the Coast Guard reached the scene, apparently because of a shortage of fuel.

Raiford's 'Little Blast' Pinned Down

RAIFORD — (AP) — The prisoner who made a tiny bomb which blew a little hole in a wall Sunday was located Tuesday but Superintendent DeWitt Sinclair said "we can't prove it."

The superintendent would not identify the man by name but said he had been in several prisons and had admitted "majoring in chemistry" in one federal prison.

Sinclair said guards found a chemistry book — stolen from the prison library — in the cell along with some barbide, flint, acid and zinc, all hidden in various parts.

"Prisoners have been making little ones and shooting them like firecrackers for a long time," Sinclair said. "You can make a bomb out of 10,000 things if you know how—a pack of cards, toothbrush handle, soap, paint.

"We don't know what this one was made of but it blew a small hole in a thin wall between a shower and an alleyway. There was no security involved.

Phone Talks Cut Short

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — An overzealous post hole digger knocked out telephone and teletype service in the downtown business section here Tuesday.

He dug five holes for posts and cut a cable carrying 202 circuits at five places.

Phone company officials said he couldn't have done a better job if he used a transit.

The cuttings interrupted all telephone and teletype service at The News-Journal — 64 phones and six teletype machines — and phones to the city's main fire station and Chamber of Commerce.

Electricity Fails As Strike Goes On

By Herald Wire Services

PENSACOLA — New power interruptions were reported by the strike-bound Gulf Power Co. Tuesday.

A company spokesman said an estimated 400 residential customers around Milton were without electricity throughout the night. H. W. Olcott said a roll of barbed wire was thrown over one power line and the circuit was out of operation from 10:15 p.m. until 8:40 Tuesday.

Service also was disrupted on two other lines in the Milton area throughout the night. Olcott said it was not yet determined what caused those failures.

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has denied its members were involved in a series of power failures. The company said the incidents were the work of vandals.

Approximately 240 union employes struck March 23 in a contract dispute.

A federal mediator, Sloan Springfield of New Orleans, said no joint negotiations are scheduled at present. The last was held on Sunday. Springfield said he was continuing to confer with the opposing sides in an effort to seek a solution.

Snark Readied

TAMPA — The commanding general of the Strategic Air Command's Eighth Air Force said Tuesday the Snark intercontinental missile unit "will be in position to reach any target in the world" within a few months.

The unit, currently a part of the test center at Patrick Air Force Base, will transfer to Perque Isle AFB, Maine, as soon as it becomes "operational," Maj Gen. Walter C. Sweeney Jr. said.

Sweeney, in Tampa for an informal visit at MacDill AFB, declined to discuss national defense policies with newsmen but said "SAC at present can carry out its mission . . . in a matter of minutes."

Added Power

WASHINGTON—The Rural Electrification Administration said Tuesday it has approved a one million dollar loan to build a power station on Pine Island and extend electricity in Southwest Florida.

The loan will go to the Lee County Electric Cooperative of Fort Myers.

The administration said the money plus funds from prior loans will go toward the construction of the 5,000 kilovolt-ampere substation and building 100 miles of new distribution line to bring power to 1,300 rural consumers in Lee, Charlotte, Collier and Hendry Counties.

Senator Is 78

MONTICELLO — The dean of the Florida Senate, S. D. Clarke, observed his 78th birthday Tuesday with a little fellowship and a little politics.

Sen. Clarke spent the day as usual looking after the affairs of his bank.

This evening a group of his longtime friends and legislative cronies visited his home to toast the birthday.

Clarke has served continuously in the Florida Senate since 1930. He was senate president in 1947.

Gas Cable

ST. PETERSBURG — The Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corp. said Tuesday it has asked permission to lay an eight-inch pipeline across Old Tampa Bay.

The company, building the pipeline to bring natural gas to Florida this year, asked the Army Corps of Engineers for approval to place the submarine pipeline loosely on the bottom of the bay across South Gandy Channel.

A ruling on the request will come after the engineers study the proposal.

School 'Deduction' Plan Hit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — House Speaker-Designate Thomas Beasley took issue Tuesday with a proposal that the Legislature adopt a "tax credit" plan to insure private schooling for children whose parents won't send them to integrated schools.

Beasley said the proposal, advanced by Rep. William Chappell of Marion, could destroy public school financing and the state's overall economy by funneling off substantial income.

He disagreed with Chappell that the Ervin-Bailey private school tuition plan is unconstitutional.

Beasley, who will run the House with an iron hand if his previous term as speaker in 1947 is any indication, said the Legislature will be flooded with segregation bills.

But he said he does not think more than two major bills in this field will actually be voted into law.

One, he said, will be some form of tuition plan. The other will broaden the existing pupil placement act to provide additional criteria for determining admission of students to a specific school and permitting school boards to segregate students by sex.

The parent option tuition plan, which is expected to be introduced with enough cosponsors to insure it's passage, would let parents withdraw children from integrated schools and draw a state subsidy of about $250 a year to educate them privately.

Beasley, a lawyer, said this plan will meet legal tests as long as the money is made available on an equal basis to white and Negro students.

Chappell, also an attorney, said federal courts will rule out any direct payment of state tax funds to private schools. There also is a danger, he said, that private schools accepting a state subsidy could be brought under court-enforced orders to integrate their classrooms.

Under his substitute proposal, no money would change hands. The parents would pay for a private education from their own pockets, but deduct the amount from their share of taxes for support of the public schools.

Russia Repatriates Last Poles

The New York Times Service

WARSAW — The last trainloads of Poles returning to their homeland from the Soviet Union crossed the Bug River into eastern Poland Tuesday.

Just across the border the trains pulled into the bleak repatriation center where every day for more than two years hundreds of exiles have had their first glimpse of Poland.

Officially, the last trains marked the end of a repatriation agreement signed between Poland and the Soviet Union Nov. 18, 1956. Under that agreement about 250,000 Poles have returned to Poland—from labor camps deep in the Soviet interior.

For Poland, the last trains were a chapter in a story of conquest, deportation and exile that stretches back 20 years.

The story is one that affects almost every family in Poland. It began in September, 1939, when thousands of Poles—particularly Jews—fled eastward before the German armies.

The Russians moved forward and the refugees, and millions of Poles in Eastern Poland found themselves no longer in Poland but in Soviet territory.

That was the "first phase" of the exile, as the diplomatic historians put it. The second phase began when the Russians, in their zone of Poland, began deporting Poles to Siberia and other reaches of the Soviet Union—Poles who were politically "unreliable" or Poles who simply would make good laborers.

When the war ended and the Soviet occupation of Eastern Poland became internationally recognized, there were millions of Poles cut off from their homeland.

At first the Soviet Union allowed a flow of repatriates, Poles taking up the homes and farmlands left by the Germans in the western territories taken over by Poland. Then the flow became a trickle.

The political upheaval of 1956 forced the Russians to sign an agreement giving Poles greater economic, political and military independence.

$9 Million Given for Teachers

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Ford Foundation announced Tuesday it is giving away $9,161,210 to stimulate a "breakthrough" in efforts to improve the quality of America's teachers.

In addition, the foundation announced another $2,282,800 in education grants, including studies in the use of television as a classroom aide.

The foundation said the grants for improving the quality of teachers form the "First Phase" in a "concerted new effort." Another series of grants is expected to be announced later this year, the foundation added.

Named as recipients in the teacher - improvement grants are Barnard College, New York; Brown University, Providence, R. I.; the University of Chicago; Claremont (Calif.) Graduate School; Duke University Durham N. C.; George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.; Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.; and the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

Easter Showers Did Delay Until Sunrise Service

By EDITH E. VOSS
Herald Correspondent

MRS. VOSS

AROUND BREVARD COUNTY—So it rained Easter, and we lost our bet it wouldn't. At least it waited until after sun(?)rise services, didn't it? Of course it also waited until after the morning papers had been delivered, which means we're still drying out Sunday papers we didn't get a chance to read that day. Dirty trick. If that helicopter hovering over our house when we were enjoying our soundest early morning sleep thought he'd have a ringside seat for an Easter Parade, he was certainly disappointed.

The beach areas of Brevard County were popular for sunrise services and we hear all were well attended. There were even "bleacher" seats at Cocoa Beach for services there, sponsored by the Beach churches. Stately Indian River makes a nice setting for services on the west side. Rockledge Presbyterian Church, with a patio facing the river, had perhaps the finest natural setting for its services, also well attended.

Cocoa Pilots Club Fete Troop

SPEAKING OF EASTER, that theme served as the decoration motif for the special dinner party the Cocoa Pilots Club had for Girl Scouts Troop 237, which it sponsors. Guests were even greeted at the door of the dining room of the Brevard Hotel by George, the Easter Bunny, who directed the way to the table, which was a masterpiece of baskets of candy and flowers. Surprise of the evening was the presentation to the troop by the club of a folding aluminum picnic table.

Here's Why All The Wives' Clubs

FROM TIME TO TIME we refer to special meetings, or events, sponsored by the such-and-such "wives club." These are numerous in this county—and most are county-wide in scope—that it failed to occur to us someone might wonder why a group would take such a name for a club.

For the enlightenment of what we assume must be a few, the clubs take their names from the firm of which husbands of said wives work. GE, Douglas and Convair, for instance, are obviously groups of wives of employes of those firms, at the missile test center at Cape Canaveral.

Latest of these to reach our attention is the Burroughs Wives Club. Incidentally, the meeting originally announced for April 7, was held last night.

* * *

Fiesta Title Contest Popular

LOOKS AS THOUGH there'll be plenty of competition in the county's largest fiesta this month. Entries are coming in like a mad rash (no typographical error) for the title of Miss Indian River Jubilee. This is a completely new title, succeeding the previous "Orange Jubilee" title by which this celebration has gone for the past twenty-five years or more.

Maybe it's the fatal fascination of "the first" such title that attracts the entries. April 6-11 are the dates for the Jubilee this year and many special events for each day are planned.

Brevard Students Watch Missiles

WHAT'S THIS bad (our opinion) publicity being given Fort Lauderdale about college students flocking there for Easter holidays and running some sort of marathon to see who can consume the most liquid refreshment? I don't believe I'd exactly want to brag about this feat. Anyway, it isn't likely to catch on in Brevard County communities.

Know what the college crowd does here? Go on night beach parties, where they will have a ringside seat for missile firings if there should be one that night. Take a look at Titusville, Cocoa, Eau Gallie or Melbourne Beach most any nice night and see the gay looking bonfires. They were very evident this past weekend with all the college kids home for the Easter holidays.

Not that there weren't considerable stacks of beer cans around, but at least the drinking wasn't the end and all for their being there.

Beware Portuguese Man-O-War

BY THE WAY, speaking of the beaches, newcomers should take warning of those periodic visitations of those harmless looking Portuguese man-o-wars, some of which have been along the shore and in the water for the past week or so. Their sting is terribly painful, take it from one who learned our first summer here in Cocoa.

So don't be tempted to play with those little transparent balloon-like creatures with the pretty purple markings—and don't step on them. Their poison has a deadly effect on glands nearest the touched area.

Spring, Flowers, and The Tour

SPRING ALWAYS brings thoughts of housecleaning and home beautification. For those so minded, the Melbourne Jaycee-ette sponsored tour of homes next Sunday should be enjoyable.

This is the third year this tour has been held and five homes will be on exhibition this year, as follows: Mr and Mrs. Myron Roebuck, 715 Riverside Dr., Indialantic; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watson, 460 Watson Dr., Indialantic Heights; Mr. and Mrs. John Sterner, 425 Palmetto Pl., Indialantic; Mr. and Mrs. R. DeHart of Atlantic Ave., Melbourne Beach; and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Geiger, 500 S. Ramona Dr., Indialantic.

Tour will be conducted from 2 to 4 p.m. by members of the sponsoring group, all volunteer donations to be given the Brevard Hospital fund.

April 25-26 are the dates set for the annual Melbourne Flower Show. If exhibitors and sponsors are as lucky as those of the Central Brevard show two weeks ago, it'll be quite a nice show for South Brevardians.

The Cocoa-Rockledge Garden Club, sponsors of the Central Brevard Flower Show, were pleased to learn of the great possibilities of their new site, the new National Guard Armory in West Cocoa.

Speaking from the standpoint of the one who furnished the background music throughout two days of the show, we can say we were glad to learn of the acoustical possibilities of that building. As large and "barny" as it must necessarily be for an armory, it is acoustically amazing.

One simple set of stereo speakers on either side of the building were sufficient, even during the capacity-crowd hours. Food for thought for future concerts!

VISITORS FROM CANADA enjoy an outdoor meal in Florida's sunshine. That's something they wouldn't be doing back home way up north and west in Saskatchewan in the early spring time. Left to right are Michael Farion, Fred Young, Ernie Farion, Mrs. Young, G. A. Ruff, Mrs. Farion, Mrs. Ruff, S. N. Wynn and Mrs. Wynn. The Canadians spend several months here each winter. They got together for dinner in Michael Farion's home on Key Biscayne.

Titled Pair Attend Fete for Deb

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Miss Trout
. . . Palm Beach deb

PALM BEACH — Margaret Van Dyke (Peggy) Trout, whose Palm Beach debut last week at the home of her parents, the Thaddeus R. Trouts, highlighted the spring season, was feted Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Rea at their home on Golfview Rd.

And among those who enjoyed the occasion were the Reas' houseguests, the Duke and Duchess of Segovia. They also had arrived in time for Peggy's debut dance, and were intrigued by the manner in which an American deb is launched.

The titled pair came to Palm Beach directly from California by way of India and Tokyo. The duke is the son of the late King Alphonso of Spain. They have made their home in Paris for a number of years and are longtime friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rea.

At a dinner party Mr. and Mrs. Rea gave for them at the Everglades Club, the blonde Duchess wore a swirled gown of blue chiffon. Mrs. Rea wore a white and gold gown made from a sari presented to her in India.

Another American courtesy interested the Duchess. The table decoration for the party was of orchids, and the hostess invited each woman guest to take an orchid for a corsage.

This is the first visit to America for the Duke and Duchess of Segovia.

Shirleys Hosts

MR. AND MRS. Walter T. Shirley have been hosts to the Ed Sullivans. The Shirleys own an entrancing white house with pink accents in the decor, on Everglades Island. There is a patio overlooking the lake that invites you to take your ease and let the world and the sumptuous yachts (and barges) go by.

Sunny Holm

AT THE ROYAL Poinciana Playhouse the other night, Celeste Holm — lingering in Palm Beach after starring in "Third Best Sport," wore a white organza gown, square cut, and her back was sunburned. But she looked happy and most un-actressy.

Here for the opening of "The Princess," by the Palm Beach ballet were a number of headline folk.

Earl Blackwell, the celebrity's celebrity, was escorting two lovelies and Jean Dalrymple, producer of the New York Civic Center, was not only present, but made a talk from the stage, saying beautiful words about the ballet.

As the weather becomes warmer, many leave their chincillas at home and wear satin stoles, green and scarlet being especially eye filling. Skirts remain conservative, with the majority of women preferring the short length evening dress.

ADD ONION

Next time you prepare a sage-seasoned poultry dressing, add an extra amount of onion cooked first in a little butter or margarine. Sage takes to onion!

Why Mr. John Designs Hats

NEW YORK —(UPI)— "I design hats for the woman wise enough to dress for men," says Mr. John. The milliner also says his new chapeaux have a "magical potency to make a lady look as young as she feels."

Descriptions of some new silhouettes: strawberry sailors of French milan, cricket casuals of gingham checks, carousel cartwheels of leghorn braid, and candy straw rustic rollers.

Rosarian To Present 'Pinocchio'

WEST PALM BEACH — Rosarian Academy will present "The Perils of Pinocchio," at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse April 10-12.

Evening performances will be at 8:40 with matinees Friday at 4 and Saturday and Sunday at 2.

Paul Crabtree has written an original book of the play, and has collaborated with Sister Thomas Gertrude, Rosarian Music Department head, on 15 songs.

Marshall Grant has orchestrated these songs and will direct a 10-piece orchestra.

Sets have been designed by James Riley.

The play will be produced by a cast and chorus of 150 Rosarian students.

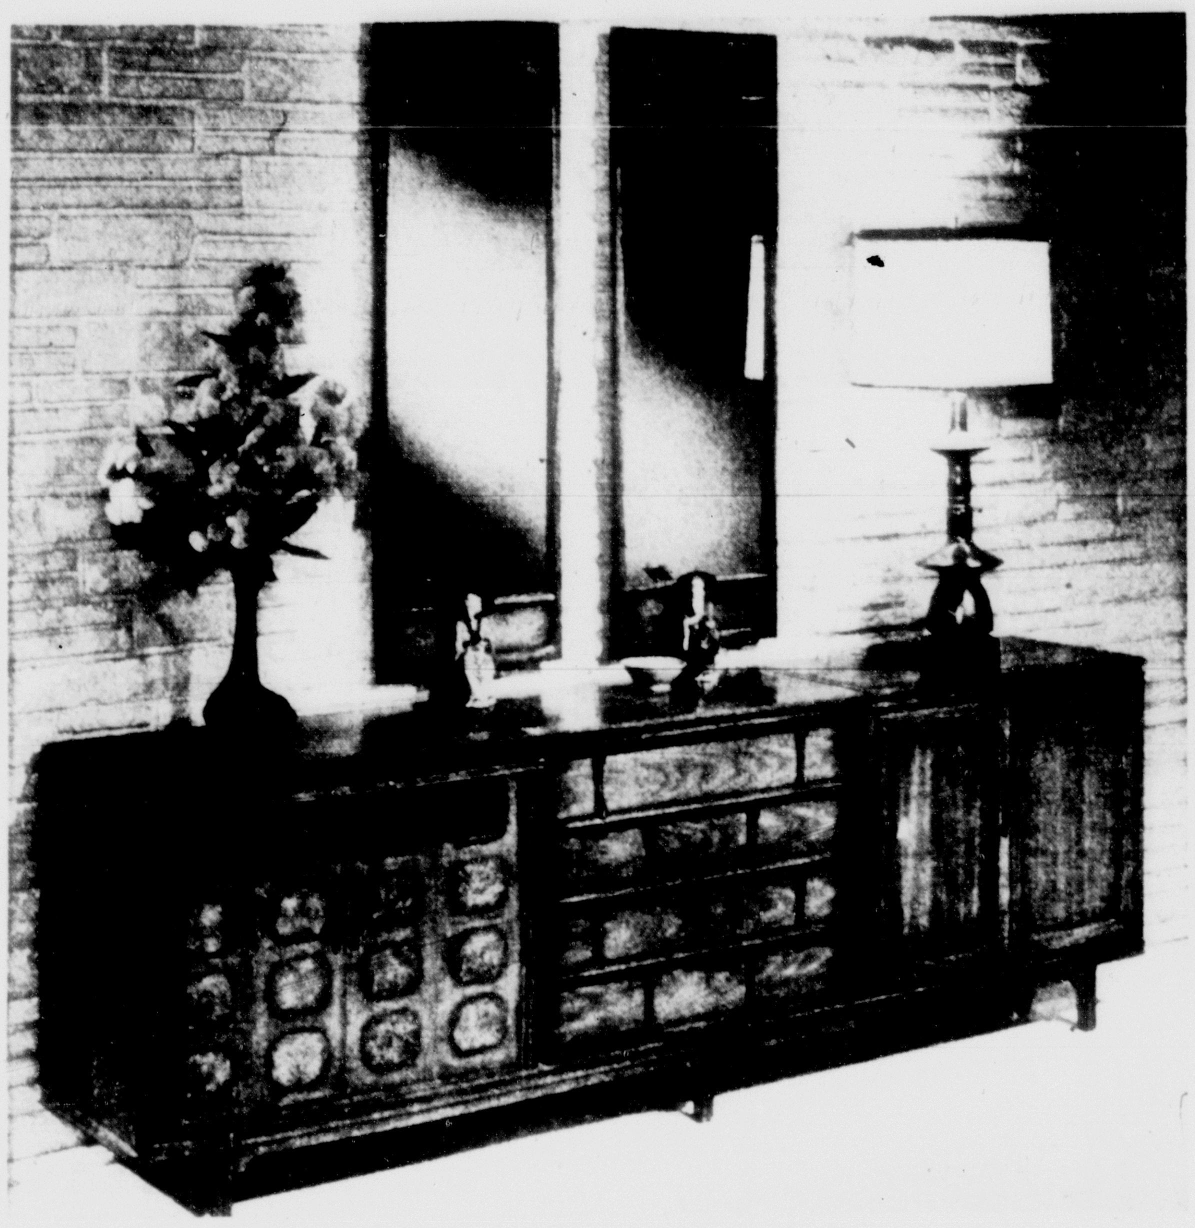
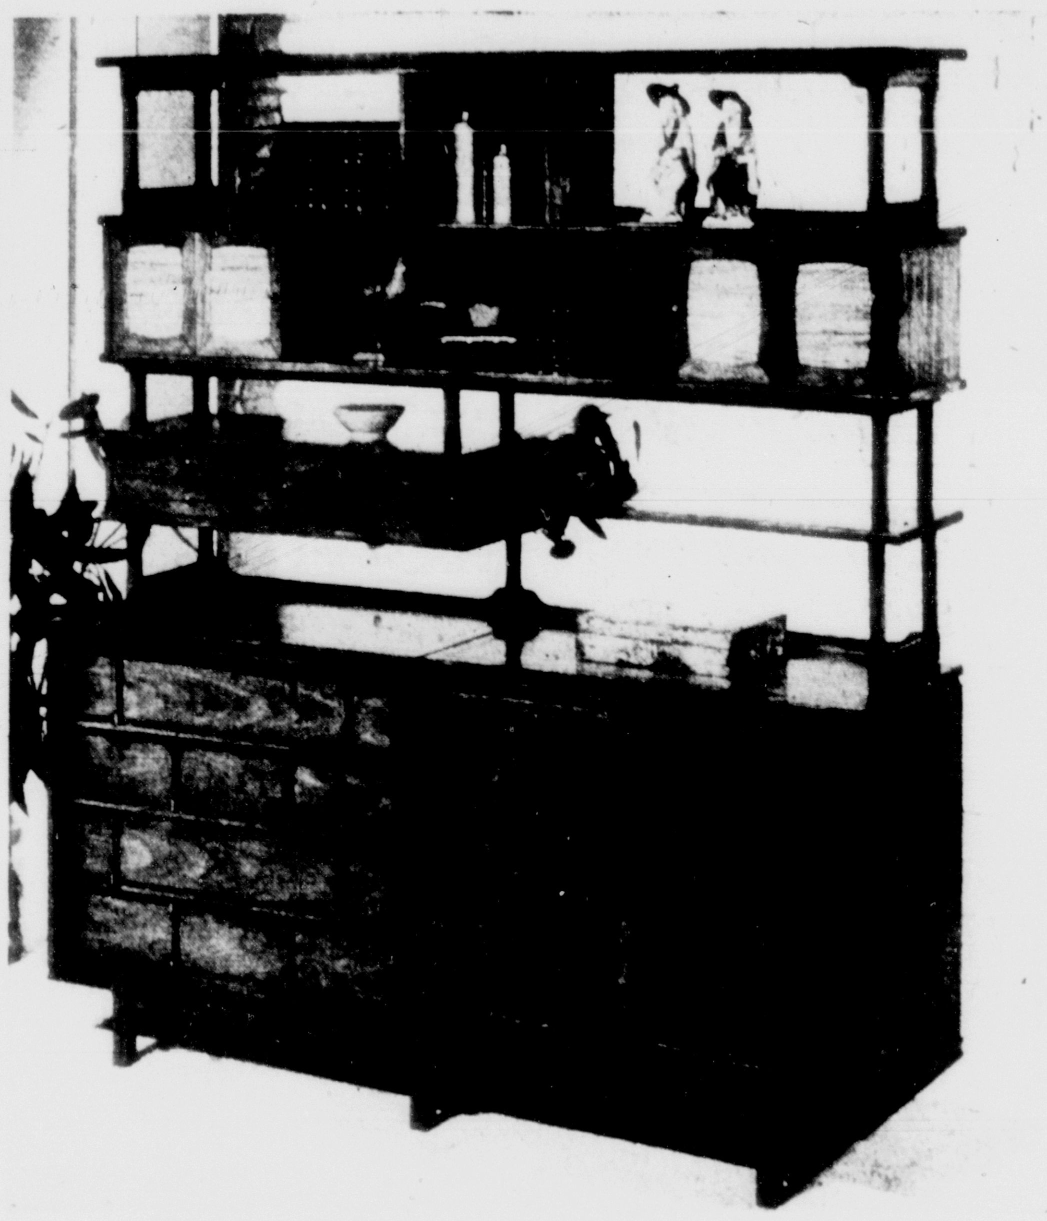
New Storage Units Make It Easier To Be Neat



New Series Of Storage Units Are Made of Pecan Wood
. . . with holly and acacia burl as accent woods



This Room Divider Is Organized for Easier Living
. . . it saves space in small quarters, too

By KAY MURPHY
Herald Decorating Editor

Organization is probably the most important part of housekeeping. Even furniture designers are beginning to realize this and are helping the job.

Organization in the home can be achieved by providing a place for everything, then putting everything in its place. When space is limited—and it is in the average home—storage units are the answer to the organization problem.

They're the answer if the storage units are not just a series of shelves and drawers but are compartmentalized, instead, to accomodate specific items. Like a woman's gloves and handbags, a man's shirts, cufflinks and tieclasps.

A new collection of furniture now available locally features all sorts of compartmentalized interiors. Bedroom chests have at least one drawer with shirt dividers in it. A tray for such miscellany as missing buttons, too.

There are deep, narrow drawers for lingerie and the multitude of accessories a woman accumulates to go with her wardrobe. One bedroom chest has a drop-down mirror behind a drawerfront.

Tarnish-resistant cloth lines the silver drawers in buffets and sideboards. A bar unit has bottle holders attached to the inside of its doors, a place to store bar equipment and a pullout serving shelf.

Where To Buy?

Call FR 9-3826 after 9:30 a.m. today. After 24 hours, write to The Miami Herald Shopping Service, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Storage is not the only story in the new collection. It includes seating pieces, tables and several types of bed headboards. There's a hint of the Oriental in the styling but essentially it can be classified as "contemporary functional."

Breakfronts have a pagoda lift to their tops. Drawer pulls are arranged to form a fretwork pattern on the front of chests and cabinets. A few chairs are reminiscent of rickshaw seats.

All the furniture has pecan as its basic wood. Oriental holly and acacia burl provide the decorative detail—in the form of parquetry or inlays.

The woods have a teak-like finish, which heightens the Oriental illusion. And the Oriental styling is more an illusion than it is stark reality. The influence is as subtle as incense.

The shapes of individual pieces have been borrowed from many cultures but they retain the curvilinear look of Oriental design.

If you would like to know where you may purchase the furniture described, call The Herald Shopping Service.

Maternity Home Group Gets National Approval

By ELEANOR DIXON
Herald Club Editor

Dade County is one step closer to having a maternity home now that the national Florence Crittenton Homes Association has approved the affiliation of the local committee working toward this goal.

Michael Shores, president of the local committee, announced the "official" affiliation with the national association Tuesday at a luncheon in the Pub Restaurant for some 80 community leaders.

Speaker at this event was Mrs. W. Boyce Hunter, Charlotte, N. C., president of the national board of Florence Crittenton Homes Association (a network of more than 50 member agencies furnishing care and-or services to unwed mothers and their babies).

Mrs. Hunter, who has worked with the Florence Crittenton movement for 20 years, explained the need for maternity home care and told what services are given to the girls who are "illegitimately pregnant."

"Latest figures show that there are 193,500 illegitimate births each year," said Mrs. Hunter. "And these are only the registered births. There must actually be twice that number."

"What disturbs us most," she continued, "is that in the past ten years, there has been a 40 per cent increase in illegitimate births among the girls under 18."

And she pointed out that Florence Crittenton member agencies serve girls "of all ages, regardless of ability to pay. We have an 'open door' policy."

Mrs. Hunter summarized the needs of unwed mothers, filled by Crittenton agencies, as: Protected living environment. Early and sustained medical care. Companionship. Skilled and sympathetic counseling. Referral (if desired by the girl) to a licensed child placing agency.

* * *

HER TALK was followed by a tape recording of an anonymous girl who had had her baby through a Florence Crittenton agency's help and had returned, after professional counseling and guidance, to everyday life.

The luncheon's guest list read like a "who's who" in organizations in Dade County. Purpose of the event was to acquaint these men and women with the needs and plans of the local committee.

"We will need your organization's help financially and as volunteers," said Staples Pierce, a vice president of the committee, to the representatives of men's and women's service and civic clubs.

"We hope you will interest your members in serving on our committees, and in helping us obtain annual subscriptions."

Mr. Pierce added that the local association also hopes to become a member of the United Fund.

Newly named directors of the committee were introduced by Mr. Shores. They are: Anthony Abraham, S. K. Bronstein, Edward Christiansen, Mrs. Connie Gee, Dr. Leon Greene, Mrs. Raymond Jenkins, the Rev. E. O. Krug, Miss Sara MacNamara, Mrs. W. L. Mussett, Miss Helen Parades, Dr. Hunter Rogers, and Mrs. John D. Simmons.

Mrs. March Dickins, a vice president, introduced Mrs. Hunter, who came to Miami especially for this luncheon and other conferences with the local committee.

Dag Disappoints Women

By Herald Wire Services

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The commission on the status of women has ended its discussion of the "lamentably small" role of women in the United Nations. Several women delegates expressed regret that Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold had not placed more women on the secretariat.

Their concern was summed up by Miss Ruth Tomlinson of Britain, who reminded the commission delegates that each year they have attacked the problem and considered it from practically every angle.

"Even so," she said, "we do not seem to have made a great impression on the powers that be."

This Cure Didn't Work

PARIS — Mrs. Rene Louis Lafforgue, wife of the French author, was expecting a baby, a situation which put her husband on edge.

So, she sent him to the French Alps to do some hard skiing and to get his mind off the subject. Mr. Lafforgue quickly returned to Paris with a broken leg he received on the ski slopes.

He and Mrs. Lafforgue shared the same hospital suite.

Cheery Gifts Win Friends

NEW YORK — Turning out baskets of cheer has turned into a tidy business for a couple of fortyish New York women.

"We wanted something to do in our old age," said Mrs. Ethel Aaron.

The two women started their custom-gift business originally for the hospitalized, and fittingly called their firm "Bedside Manna." But since they opened shop in January, they've branched out.

The World Was a Garden

NEW YORK — Britain's Lady Astor, looking over the confused international situation, yearns wistfully for the good old days.

"When I was a child in Virginia," she observed, "all one thought about was the garden and one didn't trouble about the rest of the world."

No 'Honky Tonk'

Oceanfront Zone Change Bid Denied

By NORVAN ROGGEN
Herald Staff Writer

PALM BEACH—Any major transition which would change the oceanfront in this resort town from a residential area to a "honky tonk" strip came to an abrupt halt Friday.

The town council, acting on the recommendations of the Zoning Commission, denied a request which could have opened up the oceanfront for more hotels and apartments.

Indications are the denial will be appealed to Circuit Court unless some compromise is reached.

Speaking for five firms and three individuals requesting a zoning change on seven tracts of land along the ocean, Frank Hart told the council his group would do anything to compromise on this "sore" subject before it lands in court.

The group wants property between Root Trail and Wells Rd. changed from single family to multiple dwelling property. They are Charles Shapiro and Associates; D. and F. Corp.; Maylake Inc.; Roberts-McNab Florida Hotel Co.; San Carlos Ranch Inc.; Ethel Fein; Paul F. Mausz, and Hart.

* * *

Owners Don't Want to Wait

UNDER THE TOWN'S zoning ordinance, the group could again bring its request before the zoning commission after a year has elapsed from the time it was turned down, but Hart indicated the owners won't wait that long.

At an earlier hearing in February on the zoning requests, Hart indicated the fight would be carried to court if the town denied the petition.

Friday's council meeting was an anti-climax to the February hearing when a capacity crowd jammed Town Hall to protest the proposed changes, which, it was said, would give the resort a "honky tonk" atmosphere.

Hart told the council Friday no immediate plans had been made to change the property under dispute.

He said, however, the Mayflower Hotel wants to build a beach club on one of the tracts adjoining the hotel.

* * *

Stewart Warns of Congestion

REPRESENTING THE RESORT property owners, Attorney Harry Stewart Jr. said any move to make the area a busy tourist resort would create innumerable problems for the town.

It would create congestion on streets and in schools, and, once started, would spread through the north part of the town and even to the south, he said.

Stewart said any person who speculates by buying property along the oceanfront hoping for a zoning change to increase the property's value has a "self-imposed hardship."

He urged the council to maintain the desire of residents to keep the resort "residential" and not a congested tourist attraction.

The council also denied a request by the First National Bank of Palm Beach to have six lots north of Bradley Park rezoned for business and denied a request by J. E. Craft to rezone his property to build a larger home than present zoning allows for single dwellings.

Board at Odds on Relief Measures

Stranded Workers' Fate Still Undecided

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — A decision on what to do about over 100 imported gas line conversion workers stranded here without jobs was set back Tuesday for another 24 hours to permit further discussions.

A City Commission meeting scheduled for 4 p.m. to hear a report on the situation from City Manager James J. Mott was cancelled.

Representatives of the stranded men, their attorneys conferred Tuesday with E. P. Wood, president of Conversions and Surveys, Inc., New York firm doing gas line conversions here for Florida Public Utilities.

The jobless men claim they were lured here the week preceding Easter by promises of work but only part of them were hired Monday morning. Conversion officials said many more showed up than were needed.

The Tuesday morning meeting failed to reach any agreement on relief measures for the jobless workmen.

The workers themselves said they rejected a tentative offer from the company of $50 each to provide them with fare back to their homes in various parts of the country. One said, "That wouldn't even get our baggage out of hock."

But Henry Jewett, counsel for the men, said an agreement had been reached to hold another meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday after the men make "a count of noses" requested by Wood to determine exactly how many are out of work.

The men also said Wood had agreed to take care of any in the group who had no funds for food or shelter.

There appeared to be a general feeling that an agreement will be worked out between the men and the company that will solve the emergency situation.

Jewett said whether or not an agreement is reached at the Wednesday morning meeting a report will be made to the City Commission when it meets to certify the vote in the municipal election Wednesday afternoon.

The jobless workers tossed their problem into the lap of the City Commission Monday when they failed to get work with Conversions and Surveys.

The concerned commission — confronted with the prospect of having over 100 jobless added to the rolls here —called a special meeting for Monday night to consider what could be done.

But the board took no action when it was advised Wood was flying in from New York for the Tuesday morning conference.

During the day the men continued to congregate around the Alma Hotel at Datura St. and Florida Ave. where they were quartered and where Conversions and Surveys maintain offices.

Pike Authority OKs Cloverleaf For Lake Worth

Outlet To Be 4th For County

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A $750,000 turnpike interchange will be constructed at Lake Worth within a year, County Commissioner Roy Michael Jr. announced Tuesday.

This will make the fourth outlet from the Sunshine Parkway in Palm Beach County, putting it on a par with neighboring Broward.

Michael said the long-sought cloverleaf will be constructed at Lake Worth Rd. west of the city and will be in operation "by this time next year."

He was informed by Thomas Manuel, parkway director, that the Turnpike Authority had approved the new interchange. Palm Beach County now has access to the four-lane pike at Jupiter, West Palm Beach and Delray Beach.

The new interchange will serve southern West Palm Beach, Lake Worth, Lantana, Hypoluxo and Boynton Beach. Traffic from and to these areas are now forced to use the Delray and West Palm Beach exits.

Palm Beach County commissioners have already acquired rights-of-way for the cloverleaf.

The Turnpike Authority conducted a feasibility survey last April, after county commissioners asked for the extra interchange.

The county has about 40 miles of the pike in its boundaries.

Also, plans to four-lane Lake Worth Rd., now a bumpy, narrow strip running west out of Lake Worth, are speeding ahead in cooperation with the State Road Dept.

The county is footing half the bill for the 3½-mile improvement.

So's Pensacola

Boca Seeking House Caucus

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

BOCA RATON — Pensacola and Boca Raton, two communities that would both like to be known as "university towns," are vying to see which will play host to a caucus of the State House of Representatives Nov. 18-20, it was disclosed here Tuesday.

City Commissioner Harold Dane revealed that invitations to legislators to hold their annual three-day huddle in Palm Beach County were mailed out Tuesday.

Dane admitted that Pensacola had a head start in issuing an invitation, and that a number of lawmakers were already pledged to caucus in the North Florida city.

The commissioner said he was banking on the lure of entertainment at the plush Boca Raton Hotel and the prospect of a University of Miami football game to bring some 260 of the state's top politicians to Palm Beach County.

Dane explained that it was customary for the governor, Cabinet, State Senate and other top officials to accompany the House of representatives.

Pensacola, like Boca Raton, is bidding for a four-year state university, and also like Boca Raton, it has a defunct air base which it is willing to donate as a site.

A number of North Florida legislators have recently declared they will fight any move to locate a university here.

Dane's remarks came at Tuesday's City Commission meeting. The commission also took under consideration recommendations by Mayor Joe DeLong calling for an anti-noise ordinance, use of more women on city boards and committees and a request to the Chamber of Commerce that it organize a Better Business Bureau.

He Wants Lien on City Hall

Herald Bureau

BOYNTON BEACH — A Miami architect isn't fighting city hall. More than that, he's trying to foreclose it.

J. Richard Ogden Jr. is apparently out to prove wrong the old saying "you can't fight city hall."

He asked Circuit Court in West Palm Beach Tuesday to slap a lien against the brand new Boynton Beach City Hall and to foreclose it.

Ogden claimed the city still owed him $3,429 of his $14,811 fee for architectural services rendered under his contract to design city hall, the police station, and the firehouse.

The Miami architect charged the city has refused to pay him. The figure allegedly due, he said, covers extra work on the building plus extra time, traveling and office expense occasioned by the "delinquency" of the contractor for the job.

'Columbine' Grounded

PB Weather Misbehaves For Ike's Aerial Chariot

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — The Florida weather forgot its manners and kept the presidential plane Columbine waiting on the ground.

Palm Beach Air Force Base reported Tuesday that the Columbine was grounded for several hours late Monday by an electrical thunderstorm.

The weather had a polite sunny face when the Columbine arrived at 2:17 p.m. with its distinguished passenger, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

The ailing high government official was whisked off to Hobe Sound, his own face as cheerful as the weather. And the Columbine, piloted by Lt. Col. William Thomas, prepared for its return trip to Washington.

That's when the weather misbehaved and grounded the president's aerial chariot until 6 p.m., when the dark storm clouds finally lifted.

The four-motor Super Constellation, with its long needle nose, was a striking slender contrast to the squat, stubby Air Force transports that roar in and out of Palm Beach AFB.

The blue columbine flower — for which the plane is named — was painted on both sides of the nose and underneath the rear door. The flower is dove-like, and symbolically the plane is a "dove of peace."

Columbine is not only a flower and a plane. It's a gal — the sweetheart of a stock character in early Italian comedy.

The chipper Dulles got the full VIP treatment, which meant, among other things, you could not touch him with a 12-foot pole.

The second the plane touched down, Secret Service, Air Police, and Floriday Highway Patrol closed in. A ramp was pushed up to the plane and the smiling Dulles emerged while military police formed a semi-circle around him.

The ring around Dulles was intended to keep all comers 12 feet away. And for the most part, it succeeded, except once when the semi-circle shrunk to six feet.

Mundt Calls Labor Strongest 3rd Party

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — U.S. Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R., S.D.) Friday blasted organized labor and described Walter Reuther's committee on political education as a third party more powerful than the two now in existence.

"COPE has twice as much money available to elect candidates in the 1960 campaign than either the Democrats or Republicans" he said.

Mundt claimed a new concept — compulsory monopolistic unionism — has hit the American political scene and threatens the welfare of every citizen.

Speaking before the executives club of the Palm Beaches at the George Washington Hotel, Mundt said COPE has the solidarity to win a national election, and, although the Democrats are now in power, they are actually a minority party compared to organized labor.

Mundt also hit at the movement to put the control of atomic energy for commercial purposes in the hands of the government, indicating that such a move would drive all private utilities out of business.

Watch Your Step, It's April 1

Herald Bureau

THE PALM BEACHES — Careful now. Don't eat the cream puff. It's probably soap bubbles. Don't pick up that purse under the palms. It will mysteriously move away. That box of candy may contain a coiled up paper snake that will jump at you.

This is Aprils Fool's Day.

In English speaking countries the victim of an April 1 joke is called an April Fool; in France, an April Fish; and in Scotland an April Gowk.

Origin of the day is lost in smog. Some blame the French.

At any rate March has made its lamb chop exit and the poet tells us that "April's coming up the hill." What hill?

April comes from a Latin word meaning to open. Not your bank book to pay the Easter bills, but buds opening.

And April, in case you've forgotten has just 30 days.

Final Tribute Paid Patrolman Killed on Funeral Escort Duty

By ED PFISTER
Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Peace officers from throughout the area joined Tuesday with West Palm Beach police in final tribute to motorcycle Patrolman F. Alvah Tatum, who was killed in the line of duty Saturday.

Virtually the entire West Palm Beach Police Department attended services at the Vogel Chapel, at First Baptist Church and at Hillcrest Cemetery.

White-gloved colleagues of the dead officer, who served in the police motorcycle division provided the escort for the funeral — the same type of duty which cost Tatum his life.

Rev. Allan Watson conducted the funeral rites.

The elite squad of the department acted as honorary pallbearers at the funeral, which was heavily attended.

Other agencies cooperated to make it possible for members of the West Palm Beach Department to leave their posts.

Tatum lost his life Saturday while escorting a 40-car funeral cortege to Hillcrest Cemetery when a motorscooter cut through the procession and collided with the motorcycle Tatum was riding.

Tatum, who was 35, joined the local department in [illegible] and was assigned to the motorcycle division a year later. He was a former semi-pro baseball player in Wilmington, N.C. and was active here in youth recreation groups, such as Little League baseball.

Harry F. Waechter

WEST PALM BEACH — Services for Harry F. Waechter, 51, of 4681 Evans Lane, who died Tuesday, will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in [illegible] Chapel. A resident here for seven years, he is survived by his wife, Mary, a daughter, Patricia Patterson, and a son, Peter.

Mrs. Aimee J. Dunbar

LAKE WORTH — Services for Mrs. Aimee J. Dunbar, 58, wife of a former Lantana mayor, will be at 9:15 a.m. Thursday at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Burial will be in Pinecrest Cemetery. Mrs. Dunbar died Monday at a Lake Worth hospital. Survivors include her husband, Paul, former mayor and a restaurant owner in Lantana for 26 years, and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Thomas.

Don Lester Puellen

CLEWISTON — Don Lester Puellen, aged 73, died Sunday in a Lantana hospital. A native of Georgia, he is a long time resident of South Clewiston, where he conducted a sign painting business. Survivors include his wife, Lula; 4 sons, D. L. and Curtiss, both of Clewiston, John, Air Force, French Morocco; Paul, Navy, Boston; 2 daughters, Mrs. George Campbell, Miami, and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, Arcadia; one brother, a sister and 12 grandchildren. Services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Assembly of God Church. Interment will be at Ortona Cemetery with Futch Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Katherine Wilson

DELRAY BEACH — Mrs. Katherine Wilson, 79, a winter visitor from Atlantic City, died Monday in a Boynton Beach Hospital. Survivors include a son, Robert, and a sister. Services and burial will take place in Atlantic City. Scobee Funeral Home is in charge locally.

Gregg Got 'em, Horace Disowns 'em

'Mr. Tennis' in Jam Over Dodge Gems

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

A Miami Beach tennis promoter Tuesday found himself in the middle of a $19,050 Federal Court suit filed by a French jewel firm against Millon-heir Horace Dodge, II. The suit demands payment for trinkets which Dodge claims his wife and the promoter ordered behind his back.

The jewelry dealers, Van Cleef & Arpel of Paris, Cannes, and points west claimed that the 58-year-old Dodge owes them the money for a pile of baubles billed to him in 1957.

They say Dodge's fifth wife, former showgirl Gregg Sherwood, 34, and Eddie Herr, Miami Beach's "Mr. Tennis," picked out the jewelry during a 10-day summer sojourn in the Dodges' villa on the French Riviera.

The jewelers' suit maintains that Herr, acting as Dodge's "secretary," ordered the rings, wristwatches, earrings and pins sent to the villa and the bill sent to Dodge's office in Detroit.

Gregg Dodge
. . . her 'luxury' debt

Eddie Herr
. . . named in suit

Dodge, who answered the suit from Palm Beach where he is now living, contends that 1 — Herr was not his secretary. 2 — He never authorized purchase of the jewelry. 3 — He is not responsible for Gregg's "luxury" debts.

As for paying for the gems, Dodge insists that his income is doled out by his 88-year-old mother — at her discretion.

The Van Cleef and Arpel people say that payment is now 19 months overdue.

If the Dodges don't want to make good on the debt, the suit suggests, there's always Eddie Herr, who signed Horace's name on a receipt.

Herr, who lives with his wife at 1649 Bay Dr., Miami Beach, says: "I was only acting as a messenger — I'm an innocent bystander."

"Mrs. Dodge and I are just real, real good friends — I've always remained in the background. At her invitation, I accompanied them to Europe in 1957 and went to Cannes with her, her mother, and her son, when Horace stayed over in England.

"Horace called from London and promised her everything under the sun — including the jewelry. He knew she was getting it. He's not paying for it just to be spiteful," said Herry.

Tuesday, the blonde Mrs. Dodge said in Palm Beach: "My husband can't possibly say he doesn't know about the jewelry — he's wearing one of the watches."

"And, besides," she said, "I'm sure that it will all be settled without any of this legal business."

Gregg is probably right. More than $100,000 in previous Dodge debts have been paid out of court — but not before suits were filed.

Florida Derby Gains Class In Short Time at Gulfstream

NORMALLY IT requires years of tradition for a racing feature to acquire class. This is not true of the $100,000 Florida Derby, which will have its eighth running at Gulfstream Saturday.

The feature inaugurated by President Jimmy Donn has in its brief existence produced upsets, thrills and human interest stories.

FITZSIMMONS

Under the latter heading there is none to top the 1955 Derby. The track was deluged by rain and its muddy condition led many to believe Nashua, the juvenile champion of the past year, would be scratched.

The late William Woodward Jr., owner of Nashua, was aware that thousands had come to see his horse run. He called Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons in New York and seeking his advice, added, "I don't want to disappoint them even if it snows."

Confident of Nashua's ability to handle any kind of footing, Fitzsimmons told Woodward to go ahead and race the horse. It was a tough assignment for Nashua, but he won by a neck.

* * *

LETS BACK TRACK to the inaugural of the Florida Derby:

1952—A field of 18 entered and three horses charged through the stretch to produce a photo finish. The film revealed Brookemeade Stable's Sky Ship had won over Handsome Teddy and Sandtop. Jampol, the favorite, finished fourth.

1953—The Derby was put in the class of other big features when Donn made it a $100,000 added event.

Money Broker was flown here from Orleans—he refused to enter the plane twice—and won. He was not so shy on the track, outrunning such contenders as Dark Star, Jamie K., Dr. Stanley and Matagorda.

1954—It began to appear a plane trip was the proper way to tune a Florida Derby winner. Correlation was flown here from California and Florida fans had their first view of Jockey Willie Shoemaker as his mount beat Goyamo, Next Page, Sea O'Erin and others.

* * *

Air Invaders Halted

1956—They flew in Terrang, Like Magic and Count Chic from California, but Needles, the Florida bred, came from far behind to beat Count Chic by three-quarters of a length. Suspense was rough for fans waiting for Jockey Dave Erb to get Needles moving.

1957—The scant field of five had class. Calumet's General Duke not only beat Bold Ruler, odds-on favorite, but equalled a world's record of 1:46 4-5 for the nine furlongs under 122 pounds. Trainer Fitzsimmons, who watched the race from the rail, murmured, "Bold Ruler was not good enough" and walked calmly away.

JONES

1958—Calumet won again, but Tim Tam, bet down to 35 cents on the dollar, had to give his all in a stretch run to beat Lincoln Road. The finish brought the fans to their feet screaming. Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, but a broken leg bone in the Belmont ended his racing career. This was a shocking disappointment to Trainer Jimmy Jones.

* * *

Heading for Augusta

YOUR REPORTER'S only regret in heading for Augusta, Ga., to see The Masters golf tournament is in missing the Florida Derby . . . It's quite a show and there'll be tuneful music and pageantry in the infield lake—provided by the water skiiers from Dick Pope's Cypress Gardens . . . And it would have been interesting to chat with Stan Musial, who'll be in Miami Saturday night and Sunday with the Cardinals for their exhibitions with Paul Richards' Orioles . . . The latter play three games here prior to the windup series . . . Danny Murtaugh is bringing his Pirates back tonight for a single game . . . The Phillies, who include several former Marlins on their roster, play here Thursday and Friday nights . . . Ed Bouchee, who did so well with the Marlins, is at first base . . . Dick Farrell, 1956 Marlin, now considered one of the best relief pitchers in the National, is on their staff . . . The Phillies have another attraction in Richie Ashburn, the National's leading hitter of last year.

MUSIAL

* * *

Why Hollywood Succeeded

THE HOLLYWOOD KENNEL CLUB is ending its second best season tonight . . . The track will show a gain of almost $3,000,000 over last season . . . President William Syms and General Manager Tommy Lynch think part of their success was in giving the fans more marathon races, which seems to be what the greyhound followers want . . . Next year they plan to add even more marathons to the program . . . If Bud Jack, the great distance runner, wins the Derby he'll tie the record of 16 triumphs registered by the famed Neshoba three years ago . . . They say that Mar Dilly has the best chance of beating Bud Jack . . . Hollywood this past season broke individual mutuel and attendance records . . . The largest crowd was 9,059 and these fans wagered $319,150.

Rosewood, Big Effort Go in Suwannee Today

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Calumet Farm's Rosewood and Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort — two of the country's top distaff runners — clash today in the 12th running of the Suwannee River Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

A field of 10 fillies and mares was entered in the mile-and-one-sixteenth test which carries a purse of $15,000 added.

Charlie Burr, who guided Rosewood to victory in last year's Suwannee River, will attempt to make it two in a row and the Calumet mare is the likely choice today under top weight of 120 pounds. She won Hialeah's Black Helen Handicap in her last outing.

Big Effort, with Bill Hartack in the irons, looms as the main threat. The Brookmeade filly will carry 114 pounds and comes off an impressive distance race last Saturday in which she was beaten only a neck by the good colt, Day Court.

Others starters in the Suwannee River are Searching Wind, 102 pounds and William Cook; Water-Sparrow, 104 pounds and Calvin Stone; Tara Tella, 109 pounds and Jimmy Combest; Quick Wit, 104 pounds and Bill Harmatz; Oil Rich, 108 pounds and John Sellers; Sabena 2nd, 106 pounds and Lois Cook; Happy Princess, 112 pounds and Walter Blum, and Edna Allen, 109 pounds and John Choquette.

Happy Princess was second to Rosewood in the Black Helen but "retired early" in her last outing. Edna Allen and Quick Wit have been showing speed at the Hallandale oval and could be dangerous at the weights.

If all 10 go postward, the Suwannee River will gross $16,825 and net the winner $9,700.

Tuesday's crowd of 10,817 wagered $946,307. On the corresponding day last year 11,266 bet $1,006,476.

Jim Martenhoff Joins Herald As Outdoor Coverage Grows

Jim Martenhoff, master of everything from a dinghy to a schooner, has joined The Herald as boating editor.

The combination of Martenhoff and Vic Dunaway, who'll concentrate exclusively on his duties as fishing editor, gives The Herald a crack one-two punch in the outdoor field.

Martenhoff, 39, joins The Herald after serving as outdoor editor of the Miami News for two years.

Addition of the Brooklyn-born newspaperman marks the start of expanded boating coverage by The Herald. Martenhoff's comprehensive stories will appear both in the sports section and the Fun in Florida Sunday magazine section.

Such things as tips to boaters on care and maintenance of their craft will be featured regularly.

Martenhoff's interest in boating dates back to his youth. Raised on Long Island, he began sailing a beat-up Sharpie around the twisting channels of the south shore as soon as he could get out of his parents' sight.

Jim's first job was in a boatyard. "A man handed me a stack of sandpaper," he recalls, "and pointed to a boat. I spent a week sanding it."

After working up to boatyard foreman, Martenhoff decided to take a crack at journalism. He was first employed by the now defunct Review Star on Long Island and later moved to Newsday, where he was chief photographer.

Martenhoff was newsphoto editor of the Associated Press for 12 years, acting in a supervisory capacity in New York, Boston and Miami. He took a turn at pure camera work in Raleigh, N.C., setting up a photo bureau, and in Tokyo, from where he worked in covering the Korean war for seven months.

"During this time I never got over a basic liking for the outdoors," says Martenhoff. "I spent summers in New England (1945 to 1958)—camping, mountain climbing and winter skiing. I fished everywhere from Martha's Vineyard to Key West."

In boating, Martenhoff studied naval architecture. He learned navigation, piloting, boat handling and seamanship.

"When I was 17," says Martenhoff, "my father permitted me to take the family cruiser on a coastal trip with only my brother — no sailor — along."

Jim has sailed virtually every type of craft. He once had 10 minutes at the wheel of an ocean-going coastal freighter several hundred feet long.

Lopata to Milwaukee

Phils Get Braves' Conley In Three-for-Three Swap

CLEARWATER —(AP)— The Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night traded Catcher Stan Lopata and infielders Ted Kazanski and Johnny O'Brien to the Milwaukee Braves for Pitcher Gene Conley, Shortstop Joe Koppe and Infielder-Outfielder Harry Hannebrink.

Philadelphia General Manager John Quinn announced the trade at the Phils' training camp here.

"I think the deal will help both clubs," he said.

Asked about Conley, who hasn't reported to the Braves for spring training because he is playing professional basketball with the Boston Celtics, Quinn said:

"We don't know Conley's committments. If he's committed to play with the Celtics, we'll have to go along with that committment."

He said he felt Conley "looked better last year with an 0-6 record than he did the previous year."

John McHale, Milwaukee vice president, said he hopes the acquisition of O'Brien will settle their second base problem.

"Johnny will be given every opportunity to play second base," he said. "Manager Fred Haney had him in Pittsburgh and he's quite high on the lad."

Milwaukee has been trying to plug its second base gap since the loss of Red Schoendienst, who is undergoing treatment for tuberculosis.

Lopata will add depth to the Braves' catching staff and as pinch-hitter. McHale said Kazanski would be sent to Louisville.

"I've had my eye on Ted for a long time," McHale said. "I always felt he was brought up too fast. We'll see if he can't find himself at Louisville."

As for Conley, McHale said:

"Apparently Gene has made up his mind that he won't play baseball with Milwaukee. I hope he can help John Quinn at Philadelphia."

Meet Pirates Tonight

O's Back for 5 Games

The Baltimore Orioles return to their home base tonight for a rematch with Pittsburgh's Pirates at Miami Stadium. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Orioles conclude their Florida exhibition schedule with five games in succession at the Stadium. Philadelphia follows the Pirates in for Thursday and Friday night games, and the St. Louis Cardinals wind up the local schedule with a night game Saturday and afternoon contest Sunday.

Rookie Jerry Walker, Baltimore's most outstanding spring pitcher until the Miami Marlins belted him around last Saturday night, is slated to start tonight. Walker has tossed 20 1-3 innings, allowing seven runs (three by Miami) and 16 hits.

Billy Loes (seven innings, seven hits, five runs) and Skinny Brown (five innings, six hits, four runs) will follow Walker.

Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh will send two of his top hurlers, Vern Law and George Witt, against the Orioles.

The veteran Law was a 14-game winner in 1958 while Witt was the rookie sensation of the National League, winning nine of 11 decisions after being recalled from Columbus in June. The 25-year-old right-hander posted a phenomenal 1.61 earned run average.

Don Hoak's eighth-inning homer broke a 4-4 tie and propelled the Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday at Lakeland.

The victory was Pittsburgh's 11th against as many losses in the Grapefruit League season.

At Orlando, meanwhile, the Orioles scored twice in the 11th inning, then blunted a Washington comeback to win, 9-8. It was Baltimore's 12th victory in 18 games.

Odds 7-1 He'll Be Traveling Soon

Paul Richards Not Long for Orioles–Furlong

By BILL FURLONG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Service

CHICAGO — Whose neck is best tailored for the executioner's block?

What major league managers will not be in their present jobs in 1960?

This season at least three or four will depart. My guess is that they will include Cookie Lavagetto of Washington, Harry Craft of Kansas City, Walt Alston of Los Angeles, and Paul Richards of Baltimore.

The odds of the 16 managers leaving their jobs are offered in a separate tabulation. They indicate the relative security of the managers as much as their current chances of getting the ax.

The odds were based on the past records of the manager, the inclination of his owner to fire managers, and the chances of his survival should his team do more poorly than expected.

It also includes a highly elliptical and mysterious element called the Furlong Factor. Just what constitutes the Furlong Factor is a mystery — even to Furlong.

But it does include some personal convictions — that the longer a manager pilots a mediocre club, the nearer he is to extinction, and that most clubs will not fire a manager in his first season, for instance.

That means at least five pilots are fairly safe, simply because this is their first full season in their current jobs.

The analysis of the American League (with years in the present job in parenthesis).

COOKIE LAVAGETTO, Washington (1½): Destined for another last-place finish, will probably fall prey to Owner Calvin Griffith's need to make a show of "doing something."

HARRY CRAFT, Kansas City (1½): The easiest way to appease Kansas City fans for a poor ball club is to change managers . . . there is little likelihood that Kansas City will rise to a higher standing.

PAUL RICHARDS, Baltimore (4): Club is improving but will not hit its stride for several years. Richards himself has suggested simply that he won't be around to enjoy it.

But if he leaves Baltimore, again because the owners must show the fans some "action," he'll almost certainly land with another club. In fact, he might do what he did with the White Sox—leave voluntarily for a different job.

JOE GORDON, Cleveland, (½): Faces the disappointment of a club that has been overbuilt in the press. The Indians will probably finish lower than the second predicted for them. Most people feel that, under Frank Lane, his job is very uncertain . . . Actually Lane's history is to fire the manager he inherits and to stand by the one he appoints. It would be very out of character for Lane to fire "his man" in his first full season.

AL LOPEZ, Chicago White Sox (2): Club due to falter, but he has done a brilliant job in keeping it in second place for two years. If Bill Veeck wants to give the Sox a "new look," Lopez might go. But not during the season.

BILL NORMAN, Detroit (½): Pulled the Tigers together in the last half of '58, has a much-improved club that might finish second—if it didn't lack power hitting. Unlikely to be fired in his first full season in the majors.

MIKE HIGGINS, Boston (4): Club will again be fairly unspectacular but his boss, Owner Tom Yawkey, changes managers as often as he cuts an artery. Higgins seems most secure among managers of "Seven Dwarfs" of American League.

CASEY STENGEL, New York (10): So who's gonna fire Santa Claus.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

WALT ALSTON, Los Angeles (5): The hounds were crying for him last year. This year the Dodgers should do better, but if they continue to falter, Alston will be replaced by a more dynamic, controversial manager.

BILL RIGNEY, San Francisco, (3): Owner, Horace Stoneham, is reluctant to fire managers but usually does. So if the Giants don't plunge into pennant contention, Rigney will be in trouble . . . but the Giants should very much be in contention.

DANNY MURTAUGH, (2): Team built up from a likely second - division club into a likely pennant winner — If it isn't in the pennant race—zzt.

SOLLY HEMUS, St. Louis, (0): He's Augie Busch's "man" and he's in his first year on the job . . . This should protect Hemus from jeopardy despite a potentially poor team and the pressures from above.

MAYO SMITH, Cincinnati, (0): Powerful team coming along that may be in contention all the way. Had a mediocre record at Philadelphia but it's unlikely that, even if the Reds tumble, Smith will be axed in his first year.

EDDIE SAWYER, Philadelphia (½): Brought back by popular demand of the Phils' owner last year — Not expected to do much this year — but neither is he expected to suffer for it.

BOB SCHEFFING, Chicago Cubs, (2): Even if Cubs skid, will probably survive on the prestige of getting them into a fifth-place tie last year.

FRED HANEY, Milwaukee, (2½): Even if Milwaukee loses the pennant, it's unlikely the Braves would fire a manager who has won two pennants in two years.

But Can He Hold It?

Burke Has Masters Course by the Tail

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — Jackie Burke has the tough Augusta National Golf Course by the tail. The question is, can he hold it when they start playing for keeps in the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday?

The 36-year-old Houston professional, winner of the Masters in 1956, shot a practice round 64, eight under par, Tuesday following a spectacular 66 Monday. The competitive course record is 64, set in 1940.

"This is just shadow boxing," Burke apologized uncomfortably, as if a little embarrassed at winning the annual warmup derby. "But I must say I don't know when I have played better."

None of the other contestants in the star-spangled international field have approached Burke's proficiency over the 6,980-yard, par 36-36—72 layout which is lush and green and playing extremely long.

Jackie attributes his flashy form to two things: (1) an operation on his right hand a year ago; (2) a set of new clubs with broader faces such as those he used to win four winter tournaments in a row in 1952.

"A year ago I had a cyst on my hand," Burke said. "It pained me terrifically. I couldn't practice without the hand getting very sore. I had the cyst cut off. Now everything is fine.

"Also I am using a different set of clubs. The trend has been toward a smaller faced club. I've gone back to the big faces. I have much more confidence."

For the second straight day the course basked under a warm sun, raising hope of a bright, clear weekend.

Predictions were that, if this kind of weather prevails, a score of 282 or possibly even 280 may be needed to win.

MERRY CARY Middlecoff, boning up for Thursday's opening round of the Masters, does a gleeful jig after sinking a long putt on the 18th hole at Augusta.

Homko Quits At Columbus

John Homko has resigned as head football coach at the new Christopher Columbus High School.

Homko became the Catholic school's first football coach when it opened last September. He previously coached 14 years at now defunct St. Theresa High.

Pete Aiello, now serving at Sparta, N.C., will replace Homko as football coach. Dick Pollock will move up to Homko's athletic director status. Pollock, also will continue as basketball coach.

Homko was noted for getting the most from the least at St. Theresa. He took a squad of 25 and annually molded it into a solid small school team.

Lack of practice facilities (no football practice field) apparently prompted Homko's decision to leave football and Columbus.

Metzger 'Bowler of Week' After 697 in Masters League

By DICK EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

John Metzger ignited a late-season spurt by pacing The Herald's Bowler of the Week contest Tuesday.

Metzger, The Herald's scratch Bowler of the Year in 1958, earned his first weekly certificate off a 236-225-246—697 in the Masters League at Bowling Palace.

Joining him as certificate winners are Pat Temple (women's scratch), Muriel Lawrence (women's handicap) and Harry Hagens (men's handicap). Several other outstanding scores — like Clarence Donaldson's 625 and Tim McCarthy's 643 — were ineligible for handicap honors because their averages were unlisted.

Perhaps the week's biggest feat was Pat Temple's 275 game in the Teachers League at Bowlerama. It won the 146 averager a dollar a pin. Her other less lofty games, (121-137) gave her a 533 set.

Muriel Lawrence, a 147 averager in Hialeah Lanes' Pinpoppers League, bowled a 189-172-207—568. That gives her a 637 handicap set.

Hagens rolled a 225-194-246—665 in the Southwest Handicap League at Bird Bowl. With handicap, he figures up to 716.

The week's nominees:

BOWLERAMA: Pat Kasmarek (549 scratch), Mary Verrillo (616 handicap), Peggy Wortman (551 scratch), Amy Nelson (506 scratch), Maizie Lakosky (551 scratch), Julia McGlothlin (499 scratch), Phyllis Todd (584 scratch), Patricia Temple (275 scratch), Tex Manning (700 handicap).

PLAYDIUM: Clarence Donaldson (625 scratch), Dick Kramer (634 handicap).

CLOVERLEAF: Noralee Morris (494 scratch).

TROPICAL: Dot Bange (610 handicap), Floyd Reid (253 scratch).

PALACE: John Metzger (697 scratch), Tim McCarthy (643 scratch), Thelma Cuozzo (564 scratch), Rose Ortega (579 scratch).

HIALEAH: Muriel Lawrence (637 handicap), Mike Connor (543 scratch), Frank McDonald (597 scratch), Carl Gustafson (547 scratch), Bette Fetterman (526 scratch).

COLISEUM: Leo Demorese (662 scratch).

Opposition Breaking Up

Universal State Sales Tax Movement Gaining Support

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — A movement to apply the state sales tax to all items appeared to pick up steam Tuesday in the face of what had seemed to be an almost solid wall of opposition.

Rep. John Shipp of Jackson, an influential House member, said he doesn't think the coming Legislature can adequately finance state needs without voting new taxes.

But House Speaker-Designate Thomas D. Beasley of Walton said again he was confident the Legislature could hold the line on any new taxes and still take care of all state needs.

Shipp, however, hinted strongly that he has up his sleeve a bill that would broaden Florida's three per cent sales tax to hit every item, including groceries and drugs which are now exempt from the tax.

Gov. LeRoy Collins is pledged against any new general taxes and both House and Senate leaders have stated flatly that the Legislature can get by without major tax boosts.

However, they concede that if this is done it will mean making some budget cuts.

The chairmen of the Senate and House appropriations committees announced after a closed meeting two weeks ago that heads of the various sub-committees under them agreed to an arbitrary budget cut to 685 million dollars.

This would amount to about 40 million dollars under recommended spending by the Cabinet Budget Commission. Shipp said Tuesday he did not attend that meeting, has made no such agreement and does not intend to.

"I am willing to vote whatever taxes it takes to finance a growing state, and I frankly feel that some new taxes will be needed," Shipp said.

He offered a three per cent across-the-board sales tax bill in 1957, but it was rejected.

Shipp is chairman of the powerful House Education Committee and also heads the subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee responsible for determining spending for public schools and universities during the next two years.

Agencies under Shipp's subcommittee account for about 65 per cent of total state spending.

Finds Her in Hospital Bed

Kansas Sets It Right, Picks ONE '59 Mom

WICHITA, Kan.—(AP)—A 67-year-old woman, recuperating in a hospital from injuries received in a fall, was notified Tuesday that she has been selected—officially—as Kansas Mother of the Year.

She is Mrs. Irene Henderson Kelley of Atwood, mother of three daughters and onetime president of the Kansas Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Announcement of the award, by Mrs. John Selfridge of Wichita, state chairman for the American Mothers Committee, ended a period of confusion touched off by erroneous mailing from its New York headquarters of selection letters to 40 Kansas women.

Three of those erroneous notices of selection were received by members of her selection committee, Mrs. Selfridge said.

She said Mrs. Kelley's physician reported she would be out of the hospital in a few days. She was injured in a fall a week ago.

As Kansas nominee for American Mother of the Year, Mrs. Kelley will go to New York City in May.

Mrs. Kelley's selection Monday—not made public until she was notified Tuesday—ended a period of acute embarrassment for the American Mothers Committee.

Committee officials in New York City reported they had discovered that through error by volunteer workers at national headquarters 40 Kansas women had been mailed "dear mother" letters when they should have had "dear member" letters inviting them to the May 4-8 convention in New York City.

They Admit Revolt Still Boiling

Chinese Reds Warn: 'Hands Off' in Tibet

India Main Target of Broadcast

Massive Hunt On For Dalai Lama

NEW DELHI, India — (UPI) — Communist China Tuesday warned foreign nations against interfering in Tibet where it admitted the anti-Communist revolt still boiled.

The warning was directed chiefly to India. It coincided with reports that the Dalai Lama had eluded a massive air-ground hunt and was nearing the Indian border, possibly to seek asylum in India.

These reports said the Chinese Reds were using planes in the attempt to spot the Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet who is revered as a living Buddha. There were reports also that the Reds had dropped paratroops south of the Brahmaputra River to try to cut off the Dalai Lama's escape.

The Reds deposed the Dalai Lama following the open rebellion in Lhasa and replaced him with the puppet Panchen Lama.

Moscow Radio Tuesday accused the U.S. and Great Britain of sparking the "reactionary" rebellion in the ancient Himalayan kingdom. It said "imperialist circles of the U.S.A. and Britain have long hankered after the territory of Tibet (and) 10 years ago they grew up a plan for seizing this territory and turning it into their colony."

The Communist Chinese however, appeared more concerned over the Indians. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday expressed sympathy for the Tibetans and rejected Chinese warnings that the Indian Parliament should not discuss China's internal affairs.

The official Peiping People's Daily Tuesday followed up Nehru's statement with a thinly-cloaked warning that he mind his own business. The warning was broadcast by Radio Peiping.

In one breath, the official Communist Chinese newspaper called India "China's great, friendly neighbor" and in the next accused it of acting as a springboard for the revolt.

The People's Daily said India and Tibet's other neighbors in the Himalayas were serving as "props" for the rebellion and that Tibetan insurgents were using the Indian border town of Kalimpong as a "center for collusion with imperialism, the Chiang Kai-shek clique and foreign reactionaries." Nehru already had rejected similar earlier charges.

"The rebellion in Tibet and its supression are entirely internal affairs of China," the newspaper asserted. "No foreign country should interfere in the rebellion."

Two groups of Tibetan exiles and refugees called on Nehru Tuesday to appeal to him to take the Tibetan issue before the U.N.

Former Tibetan Prime Minister Lu Kang Wa, leader of one delegation, said Nehru told them it would not be possible "to send the army to help" the Tibetan rebels but that he would try to assist them through diplomatic means. He did not elaborate.

MIG Jets Harass U.S. Plane

Berlin Incident Protest Lodged

BONN, Germany — (UPI) — Soviet MIG jet fighters buzzed a giant U.S. Air Force C130 transport making a round-trip flight to Berlin last Friday.

The buzzing incident was reported as the Soviet sought to clamp a "ceiling blockade" on the vital air corriders to West Berlin, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The incident, involving the U.S. Air Force's biggest airlift transport plane, was the first major interference with Western rights in Berlin since Moscow agreed to negotiate the future of the isolated city at a May 11 foreign ministers conference.

Authoritative quarters said the U.S. protested to the Russians against the buzzing and rejected a Soviet move to limit the altitude of Western flights in the three corridors to Berlin to a ceiling of 10,000 feet. The big U.S. plane was flying at 25,000 feet.

Informed sources said the Good Friday buzzing incident occurred during the first of a series of supply flights to the U.S. garrison in West Berlin by the C130 turbo-prop transport aircraft.

Three Soviet MIGs buzzed the plane — coming within five to 10 feet of the American transport — both on the flight to West Berlin and on the return flight to the West, the source said. The harassing took place despite the fact that the U.S. aircraft was within the regular "South Corridor" to Berlin.

The C130 was flying at 25,000 feet both on the in and outbound flights. The transport, also known as the Hercules, is a giant craft with pressurized cabin and operates most efficiently at high altitudes.

The Soviets later formally protested the C130 flight and declared that no American or other Allied plane may fly above 10,000 feet when crossing East Germany.

The U.S., however, already had protested the Soviet buzzing, arguing that the Russian MIGs endangered air safety with their harassing maneuvers.

The U.S. representative at the four-power Berlin Air Safety Center had filed the normal flight plan with the Soviet controller before the Friday flight and the Soviet officer protested against the planned altitude at the time, it was learned.

But the U.S., which does not recognize any limit on altitude within the three air corridors over Communist East Germany to West Berlin, ordered the flight should be made nevertheless.

Cuban Boats Stir Keys Protest

More State News, P. 17A, 1C, 2B

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — The Key West Charter Boatman's Association has complained to the office of U.S. Sen. George Smathers about Cuban commercial boats fishing near here.

Curtis Ryan, chairman of the board and vice president of the association, said Tuesday Cuban smacks have moved into U.S. territorial waters off to Key West to catch fish in quantity.

Ryan said he talked long distance Tuesday with Smathers' Washington office. He said Scotty Peak, Smathers administrative assistance, promised the matter would be looked into.

"There were eight smacks, 40 to 60 feet long, plus some 20 skiffs, fishing out there Monday," Ryan said. He estimated that over 100 men were involved in the operation and that "thousands of pounds of kingfish are being hauled in. "Those kingfish around the reef provide our bread and butter," explained Ryan, who operates a charter boat himself.

"Once they've cleaned out the kingfish they'll start pulling out everything that moves," Ryan predicted.

Ryan said the Cuban vessels are fishing in waters along the reef from Sand Key westward towards Key West. Capt. Johnny West, president of the association, said the boats have been there for about 10 days.

West added that commercial fisherman from this area, as well as the charter boatmen, are also becoming upset by the Cubans' presence.

Ryan cautioned that if the Cubans continued to exploit local waters, fisherman from Key West may attempt to use force to keep them out.

"Then we'll have an international incident on our hands," Ryan said.

Dulles Basks In the Sun

Herald Service

JUPITER ISLAND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported enjoying Florida's sunshine Tuesday at the Hobe Sound estate of C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state.

Dulles spent considerable time outdoors, and took a swim in the estate's big pool, according to Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Green said Dulles has not talked by telephone with the President since his arrival. But Green said he had relayed to Washington information after talking with Dulles himself.

Fighting against cancer Dulles is expected t decide here whether to return to his job as secretary of state.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said in Washington he understands Dulles will decide in Florida whether he feels well enough to step once again into the job as this country's foreign policy chief.

Dulles will not return to Washington for further medical tests, White said.

Capt. Edward J. Kamin II, an Army internal medicine specialist, accompanied Dulles to Florida along with Dulles' wife and other members of the Dulles party.

On Proposals to Reds

West's Ministers Reconcile Rifts

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Western foreign ministers Tuesday resolved some of their differences over proposals they will offer Russia on Germany and Berlin.

At the same time, the foreign ministers of Britain, France and the U.S. reemphasized that they want progress at a foreign ministers' conference on Germany before they agree to summit meeting this summer.

This insistence on advance diplomatic spadework may be spelled out anew in another note to Russia.

Shortly before the foreign policy chiefs held their first session, the U.S. cautioned Russia against interfering with Allied plane flights into West Berlin.

Acting U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter joined with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville in discussing the note Russia sent Monday agreeing to a foreign ministers' parley starting May 11.

The three Allied foreign policy chiefs met in a second session later with West Germany's foreign minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

A spokesman for Herter told newsmen afterward "a couple of differences were resolved and a couple require more discussion." The spokesman did not identify the differences. But in advance of the meeting a British-U.S. split was evident on what concessions, if any, to

Today's Forecast: Cloudy, Warm

Farewell, March, You Drip

March went out of Florida like a lamb all right Tuesday, but like a thoroughly drenched and bedraggled lamb.

Miami Weather Bureau figures showed 4.82 inches of rain for the month up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, more than double the "normal" amount for March. And it was still raining in Southeast Florida.

But Forecaster Leonard Pardue said that although daily temperatures had not been totaled, the average for the month would be "almost exactly normal" — which is a mild 71.3 degrees.

For today — if forecasters don't get fooled — partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures were predicted all over the state, with a chance of more scattered showers in South Florida.

Pardue said that March set no records of any kind, rainwise or temperature-wise.

Although rainfall was well over the 2.25 inch "normal," this March couldn't touch the record 7.22-inch high of 1949, or the record low of .02 inches in 1956.

The highest temperature recorded at Miami during the month was 87 on several days, three degrees off the record March high of 90 degrees in 1952. The 1959 low was 47, on March 13, compared to a low of 30 degrees on one of the days in March, 1941.

Pardue blamed the wetness for the month on the unusual number of cold fronts that stalled over Florida, keeping skies overcast and drizzly until they finally moved on.

"A wet March may mean a wet April, based on past performance," Pardue said. "But there's really no way of telling."

Mayor Wagner Hooted By Picketing Employes

New York Hit by Budget Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Municipal employes picketed City Hall Tuesday and booed Mayor Robert F. Wagner for budget cutbacks that hit their pocketbooks. City services were not seriously affected by the demonstration.

"Bermuda Bob, Do Your Job," read pickets' placards, in reference to Wagner vacationing in Bermuda at the height of the city's fiscal crisis. He returned only Monday night. Some of the pickets wore Bermuda shorts.

Police estimated that 2,600 persons picketed beneath gray and drizzling skies. However, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes set the figure at 8,000.

In either case, the number of marchers was far below the 30,000 the union had hoped to enlist in the demonstration for higher wages. City Hall sources said many of them picketed between shifts to avoid losing a day's pay.

Nevertheless, the threat of the demonstration was enough to close the Bronx Zoo, the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art in advance. All are popular targets at this time of year for school children on Easter vacation.

Wagner originally outlined a record city budget for the coming fiscal year of over two billion dollars. But the Republican-controlled State Legislature turned thumbs down on some of the tax measures by which the Democratic mayor hoped to meet expenses.

The legislative action, Wagner claimed, forced the city to tighten its belt at the expense of needed services and salary increases.

Wagner Tuesday outlined a so-called economy program which he maintained would save the city 17½ million dollars in the coming year. Much of the savings, however, were on paper.

He proposed to save 10 million dollars by reducing the salaries of vacant jobs to their starting rates. But normal practice is to hire new employes at starting rates.

Wagner also said he had eliminated 1,300 city jobs—including 1,000 chauffeurs of city vehicles. The rest were vacant jobs or those filled by provisional employes.

City Hall previously had announced that uniformed policemen, firemen and sanitation employes would have to be satisfied with pay raises of $200 a year, instead of the $300 they had been led to expect. Other city employes, including school teachers, also faced reduced wage raises or none at all.

Official Resigns

Financial Writer Is Threatened

NEW YORK — (AP) — A series of threatening telephone calls has been received within the past 10 days by William Bloeth, financial news writer for The World-Telegram and Sun, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The calls began coming after publication of articles written by Bloeth about the General Development and Universal Controls firms.

In each case a deep-voiced male caller demanded that Bloeth cease writing about the companies and then hung up quickly.

A similar telephoned warning was received by Louis W. Herman, specialist in Universal Controls stock on the American Stock Exchange. He said the call came Monday from a man with the same sort of voice, who said:

"Unless you move the stock to 80 by the end of the week your life won't be worth a quarter."

(Stock in the two firms has risen sharply on the American Stock Exchange in recent weeks.

(Bloeth articles dealt with the growth of the two firms and pointed out that "insiders" hold options to buy large blocks of stock in both firms at preferred prices.

(He told The Herald his caller seemed to be an investor in Universal Controls, a New York firm, rather than in General Development, which has its headquarters in Miami.)

Louis A. Chesler, Canadian financier and a resident of Great Neck, N.Y., is chairman of the board of both concerns. He said he was mystified and joined the newspaper in urging that every effort be made to apprehend the caller.

General Development is a community building and developing firm with extensive holdings in Florida. Universal Controls makes electronic devices for the armed forces plus race-track signboards.

SPORTS Car Club of America, Florida region, has scheduled a big two-day race program at Master Field, Opa-locka, May 16-17. Three members have guaranteed $12,000 necessary to set up the show. The events will be just about the same as the Orange Bowl show two years ago. Ken Coleman of Palm Beach, regional executive, will be in charge of the show. The racing program will be directed by Lucky Casner of Miami.

The show, although all amateur, will attract dozens of well-known and capable drivers. In Florida there are many skilled pilots, with cars equal to anything the professionals drive. Profits will be divided equally between Variety Children's Hospital and Miami Police Benevolent Association.

Food Available

At least a dozen requests have come to me: "Start a countywide food collection to send to those starving in Haiti." Each request was followed by an offer of "A few cans of food. Just come and pick it up."

Such a campaign wouldn't be easy. I don't have trucks. I don't have the money to pay freight charges. The hungry thousands would die before we could get food over to Haiti.

There's a much better way. In this nation millions of tons of good food is in storage. A freighter should be on its way even now, to save human lives.

Mayor Kenneth Oka, president of the orchestra association, will preside.

28 Escape Flames in Haiti Crash

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti — (AP) — Twenty-eight persons escaped serious injury Tuesday when a Haitian Airlines DC3 made a belly landing in a field outside the capital. Six American tourists were aboard.

The twin-engine craft caught fire after the emergency landing and the passengers and crew raced out through a sheet of flame. Some suffered superficial cuts and burns but none was hospitalized.

The pilot lost his port engine shortly after the plane took off on a flight from Port au Prince to Cap Haitien in the northern part of Haiti.

The Americans are Mr. and Mrs. Max Holzman and their daughter, Susan, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene S. Goodwin of Los Angeles, and Miss Alix Causse, Wilton, Conn.

Two Canadians were also aboard. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stefanovich, Hamilton.

Racists March on Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. —(UPI)— Virginia segregationists, 5,000 strong, marched on the State Capitol Tuesday demanding that Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and the Legislature adopt an unyielding stand against further school integration.

The marchers urged that Virginia, as a sovereign state, attempt to interpose its power to nullify Federal Court rulings which result in mixing of the races in classrooms. The plan of so-called "interposition" or nullification has been talked about in Virginia for several years.

The crowd, drawn mostly from rural southern Virginia which has the state's heaviest Negro population, was orderly. It thronged the capitol grounds as the Legislature met in special session to take up a new anti-integration program believed based on local option.

Almond himself ignored the demonstrators. He invited the leaders to meet with him in his office, but they declined.

The demonstrators attacked Almond for the integration of schools in Norfolk, Alexandria, and Arlington following the collapse of the state's so-called "massive resistance" laws.

The Legislature officially snubbed the protest march by the self-styled Bill of Rights Crusade although a majority of its members sat on the capitol steps to hear Almond denounced.

"You must snatch up the torch of liberty from where the executive branch has let it fall," they were told by Edward J. Silverman, a Blackstone newspaperman and executive director of the crusade.

Fire Report Preceded Fatal Crash

A pilot's report that his plane was afire was the only clue Tuesday to the Georgia crash of a Riddle Airlines cargo plane which killed both crewmembers.

The plane was on a funeral mission, returning three bodies for burial in the North.

Prevented from making an emergency landing at Alma, Ga., because of dense ground fog, the C46 piloted by Capt. Eugene Nesselhaus and Robert H. Gillespie crashed into a field 10 miles west of the airport.

No passengers were aboard the plane. It carried the bodies of three men in caskets, one of them Henry Ford's one-time personal attorney, shipments of flowers, baby chicks and a dog.

Wreckage was strewn over a wide area when the plane exploded on contact with the ground Monday night.

Nesselhaus, 39, lived at 5348 E. Sixth Ave., Hialeah, with his wife and two children. He had been flying for Riddle since January, 1952. Gillespie, 36 and unmarried, lived with his mother at 8210 SW 31st St. With Riddle since February, 1956, he had been flying commercially for the past eight years.

The Atlanta-bound flight left Miami Monday and had stopped at Tampa and Orlando before crashing at Alma.

The three bodies aboard included that of Louis J. Colombo, 75, of Detroit who was attorney for the late auto magnate Henry Ford for many years. He died at Melbourne Sunday and the body was being sent to Detroit for burial. Colombo is survived by his wife, Jane, of Indiatlantic and Detroit.

The other two bodies aboard were those of Jasper B. Darliner, 89, of Flint, Mich., and Edward W. Milhizer, 73, of Detroit.

A control tower radio operator at Alma said he was in contact with Riddle's flight 402 briefly after the pilot gave the "Mayday" emergency call. The operator said Nesselhaus reported he had a "fire out of control," and was unable to land because of the fog. There was no other communication, he said, before the crash.

He climaxed his spree by setting one blaze in front of the Central Fire Station.

Farm Bloc Adamant

House Rejects Farmers Aid Cut

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower's hope of cutting federal spending suffered a new jolt Tuesday. House farm bloc leaders rejected his proposals to curtail water and conservation programs.

Opposition to the reductions was voiced by the Democratic chairman and the senior Republican member of the House agriculture appropriations subcommittee at closed-door hearings on the farm budget.

A transcript of the hearings published Tuesday indicated that the subcommittee was almost certain to recommend that Congress reject Eisenhower's plea for less spending on conservation and water programs.

He had asked that the 250 million dollars-a-year agricultural conservation program be trimmed to 100 million next year and that outlays for watershed protection be cut by 5.5 million.

Subcommittee Chairman Jamie L. Whitten (D., Miss.) angrily told witnesses from the Agriculture Department that the reduction in conservation payments would "for all practical purposes . . . eliminate any chance of any real success of this program."

Rep. H. Carl Andresen of Minnesota, senior Republican member, complained that the administration's proposal would take close to 150 million dollars in cash "directly out of the pocketbooks of the farmers . . . I personally won't agree to it and . . . I don't think that the Congress will ever agree to it."

Under the agricultural conservation program, cash subsidies are paid to farmers to reimburse part of the out-of-pocket expenses of approved conservation practices. The theory is that these practices benefit the entire nation.

offer the Soviets in new diplomatic talks.

The four top Allied diplomats scheduled two meetings for today to continue their attempt to forge a united front on all proposals involving Germany and Berlin's future. Results are to be reported to a full meeting of the 15-nation North Atlantic Pact Council which opens here Thursday.

A report on Tuesday's talks was given reporters by Andrew H. Berding, assistant secretary of state.

In discussing a possible new Allied note to Moscow, Berding said "we may have to send another note to straighten out a couple of points." He said these points were:

1—That a summit conference "should be predicated on some progress at a foreign ministers level." Berding said the Allies "speak as one" on this despite differences in wording in their last notes to Moscow.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was quoted Tuesday as saying that he believed a summit meeting should be held, preferably in San Francisco, even if a meeting of foreign ministers flops.

Newsweek magazine said Macmillan expressed this view during conversations at the Washington home of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"There must be a summit or there may be war tomorrow," he was quoted as saying. "I cannot go to the queen and ask for . . . the evacuation of millions, many of them children, to far places of the commonwealth, until I have exhausted every other possibility.

2—That West German as well as East German Communist representatives could be invited to a foreign ministers meeting as advisers, but not as full participants, in all phases of the meeting. The Soviet note agreed only that the Germans should be represented at a conference of foreign ministers.

A British spokesman who also briefed reporters sought to minimize U.S.-British differences on how to handle the German problem. He emphasized all four nations are agreed on principles they will follow in seeking to maintain the objectives of German unity and the Allied right to remain in Berlin.

The two foreign ministers conferences Tuesday lasted nearly 3½ hours.

Two Killed

This three-car crash on the heavily traveled Trout River Bridge north of Jacksonville late Monday killed two Jacksonville women and critically injured seven other persons. Dead were Elizabeth Virginia Fuller, 47, and Mattie Mae de Brown, 58. Police said a car headed south in the northbound lane rammed headon into a second vehicle. The third auto was unable to stop and piled into the wreckage.

Proposed Building Code Bill Stirs Most Fire at Taxpayers Meeting

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — Proposed legislation enabling the Indian River County Commission to adopt a building code provoked the most discussion at a public meeting sponsored by the County Taxpayers Association on local bills being considered.

Rep. L. B. (Buck) Vocelle, County Commission Chairman Robert Graves and County and City Attorney Sherman Smith led the discussion Monday night at the Community Building.

Art Karst, Taxpayers Association president, introduced J. B. Egan, first vice president, as moderator and spokesman for the association's legislative committee which had studied the proposed bills. Vocelle outlined and explained the bills.

Regarding the building code, Smith explained that a permissive bill is being asked, that the county commission may not necessarily exercise the power to adopt a building code as soon as it receives it.

In expressing the views of the legislative committee Egan said, "We don't want to have hanging over our heads the chance that we might have to get permission to repair a leaky faucet."

"It strikes me as a very good bill," commented Jack Finnegan of the Mackle Bros. Sebastian office.

Tracy Turner, president of the local Realty Board, told the group, "I would think most thinking people . . . would want their county commissioners to have the authority to enact a building code."

Joe Roschach, president of Tropicolony, Inc., objected to a building code on the basis that waiting for building inspectors to make their inspections before work could proceed could add too much to the cost of building homes.

"There is no such thing as a simple building code or a simple way to enforce it," Roschach said. "I do not approve of the city building code. It is restrictive, arbitrary and overdesigned."

Joe Michael, president of the Indian River County Farm Bureau, reported that his organization had reaffirmed its opposition to a building code if it could not be made to apply only to subdivisions or developments.

After the discussion members of the Taxpayers Association voted to oppose the building code bill as written.

The Taxpayers affirmed bills releasing certain funds for maintenance of public health units and enabling the county to perform certain public services including garbage collection.

The Taxpayers suggested mail notices and legal advertisements to promulgate a bill to permit special police and street lighting districts.

Naples Shriners Will See Game

NAPLES — Members of the Naples Shrine Club will travel to Fort Myers Sunday to see the Pittsburgh Pirates play Philadelphia. Following the game the club will have a get-together with Fort Myers Shriners.

2 Believed Dead on Gulf Boat

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — A Coast Guard plane located the missing 35-foot pleasure cruiser, Miss Bonnie, Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico.

A helicopter picked up one of three men who went out on the vessel Saturday. The other two were believed dead.

Lt. Roger Frawley, helicopter pilot from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station, said he took Virgil Garrison of Crystal River off an unidentified vessel at the scene and flew him to Crystal River.

Garrison was taken to a hospital at Inverness.

The Coast Guard said a Martin Marlin seaplane spotted the Miss Bonnie awash and under tow of the unidentified craft about 17 miles out in the gulf and 10 miles south of Cedar Key. The helicopter was summoned to get Garrison.

Garrison went into the gulf with Randall Maruska of Crystal River and Andy Strange of Jacksonville on a fishing trip Saturday. A search was launched when the three, employes of a fishing concern at Crystal River, failed to return Sunday.

The helicopter pilot said he spotted the body of one man aboard the floundering Miss Bonnie. He quoted Garrison as saying the third man jumped overboard with two life jackets Sunday night. Garrison didn't identify the men by name.

The tow vessel cut the pleasure craft loose and headed for port shortly after the Coast Guard reached the scene, apparently because of a shortage of fuel.

Raiford's 'Little Blast' Pinned Down

RAIFORD — (AP) — The prisoner who made a tiny bomb which blew a little hole in a wall Sunday was located Tuesday but Superintendent DeWitt Sinclair said "we can't prove it."

The superintendent would not identify the man by name but said he had been in several prisons and had admitted "majoring in chemistry" in one federal prison.

Sinclair said guards found a chemistry book — stolen from the prison library — in the cell along with some barbide, flint, acid and zinc, all hidden in various parts.

"Prisoners have been making little ones and shooting them like firecrackers for a long time," Sinclair said. "You can make a bomb out of 10,000 things if you know how—a pack of cards, toothbrush handle, soap, paint.

"We don't know what this one was made of but it blew a small hole in a thin wall between a shower and an alleyway. There was no security involved.

Phone Talks Cut Short

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — An overzealous post hole digger knocked out telephone and teletype service in the downtown business section here Tuesday.

He dug five holes for posts and cut a cable carrying 202 circuits at five places.

Phone company officials said he couldn't have done a better job if he used a transit.

The cuttings interrupted all telephone and teletype service at The News-Journal—64 phones and six teletype machines—and phones to the city's main fire station and Chamber of Commerce.

Electricity Fails As Strike Goes On

By Herald Wire Services

PENSACOLA—New power interruptions were reported by the strike-bound Gulf Power Co. Tuesday.

A company spokesman said an estimated 400 residential customers around Milton were without electricity throughout the night. H. W. Olcott said a roll of barbed wire was thrown over one power line and the circuit was out of operation from 10:15 p.m. until 8:40 Tuesday.

Service also was disrupted on two other lines in the Milton area throughout the night. Olcott said it was not yet determined what caused those failures.

A spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has denied its members were involved in a series of power failures. The company said the incidents were the work of vandals.

Approximately 240 union employes struck March 23 in a contract dispute.

A federal mediator, Sloan Springfield of New Orleans, said no joint negotiations are scheduled at present. The last was held on Sunday. Springfield said he was continuing to confer with the opposing sides in an effort to seek a solution.

Snark Readied

TAMPA — The commanding general of the Strategic Air Command's Eighth Air Force said Tuesday the Snark intercontinental missile unit "will be in position to reach any target in the world" within a few months.

The unit, currently a part of the test center at Patrick Air Force Base, will transfer to Perque Isle AFB, Maine, as soon as it becomes "operational," Maj Gen Walter C. Sweeney Jr. said.

Sweeney, in Tampa for an informal visit at MacDill AFB, declined to discuss national defense policies with newsmen but said "SAC at present can carry out its mission . . . in a matter of minutes."

Added Power

WASHINGTON—The Rural Electrification Administration said Tuesday it has approved a one million dollar loan to build a power station on Pine Island and extend electricity in Southwest Florida.

The loan will go to the Lee County Electric Cooperative of Fort Myers.

The administration said the money plus funds from prior loans will go toward the construction of the 5,000 kilovolt-ampere substation and building 100 miles of new distribution line to bring power to 1,300 rural consumers in Lee, Charlotte, Collier and Hendry Counties.

Senator Is 78

MONTICELLO — The dean of the Florida Senate, S. D. Clarke, observed his 78th birthday Tuesday with a little fellowship and a little politics.

Sen. Clarke spent the day as usual looking after the affairs of his bank.

This evening a group of his longtime friends and legislative cronies visited his home to toast the birthday.

Clarke has served continuously in the Florida Senate since 1930. He was senate president in 1947.

Gas Cable

ST. PETERSBURG — The Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corp. said Tuesday it has asked permission to lay an eight-inch pipeline across Old Tampa Bay.

The company, building the pipeline to bring natural gas to Florida this year, asked the Army Corps of Engineers for approval to place the submarine pipeline loosely on the bottom of the bay across South Gandy Channel.

A ruling on the request will come after the engineers study the proposal.

School 'Deduction' Plan Hit

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — House Speaker-Designate Thomas Beasley took issue Tuesday with a proposal that the Legislature adopt a "tax credit" plan to insure private schooling for children whose parents won't send them to integrated schools.

Beasley said the proposal, advanced by Rep. William Chappell of Marion, could destroy public school financing and the state's overall economy by funneling off substantial income.

He disagreed with Chappell that the Ervin-Bailey private school tuition plan is unconstitutional.

Beasley, who will run the House with an iron hand if his previous term as speaker in 1947 is any indication, said the Legislature will be flooded with segregation bills.

But he said he does not think more than two major bills in this field will actually be voted into law.

One, he said, will be some form of tuition plan. The other will broaden the existing pupil placement act to provide additional criteria for determining admission of students to a specific school and permitting school boards to segregate students by sex.

The parent option tuition plan, which is expected to be introduced with enough co-sponsors to insure it's passage, would let parents withdraw children from integrated schools and draw a state subsidy of about $250 a year to educate them privately.

Beasley, a lawyer, said this plan will meet legal tests as long as the money is made available on an equal basis to white and Negro students.

Chappell, also an attorney, said federal courts will rule out any direct payment of state tax funds to private schools. There also is a danger, he said, that private schools accepting a state subsidy could be brought under court-enforced orders to integrate their classrooms.

Under his substitute proposal, no money would change hands. The parents would pay for a private education from their own pockets, but deduct the amount from their share of taxes for support of the public schools.

Russia Repatriates Last Poles

The New York Times Service

WARSAW — The last trainloads of Poles returning to their homeland from the Soviet Union crossed the Bug River into eastern Poland Tuesday.

Just across the border the trains pulled into the bleak repatriation center where every day for more than two years hundreds of exiles have had their first glimpse of Poland.

Officially, the last trains marked the end of a repatriation agreement signed between Poland and the Soviet Union Nov. 18, 1956. Under that agreement about 250,000 Poles have returned to Poland—from labor camps deep in the Soviet interior.

For Poland, the last trains were a chapter in a story of conquest, deportation and exile that stretches back 20 years.

The story is one that affects almost every family in Poland. It began in September, 1939, when thousands of Poles—particularly Jews—fled eastward before the German armies.

The Russians moved forward and the refugees, and millions of Poles in Eastern Poland, found themselves no longer in Poland but in Soviet territory.

That was the "first phase" of the exile, as the diplomatic historians put it. The second phase began when the Russians, in their zone of Poland, began deporting Poles to Siberia and other reaches of the Soviet Union—Poles who were politically "unreliable" or Poles who simply would make good laborers.

When the war ended and the Soviet occupation of Eastern Poland became internationally recognized, there were millions of Poles cut off from their homeland.

At first the Soviet Union allowed a flow of repatriates, Poles taking up the homes and farmlands left by the Germans in the western territories taken over by Poland. Then the flow became a trickle.

The political upheaval of 1956 forced the Russians to sign an agreement giving Poles greater economic, political and military independence.

$9 Million Given for Teachers

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The Ford Foundation announced Tuesday it is giving away $9,161,210 to stimulate a "breakthrough" in efforts to improve the quality of America's teachers.

In addition, the foundation announced another $2,282,800 in education grants, including studies in the use of television as a classroom aide.

The foundation said the grants for improving the quality of teachers form the "First Phase" in a "concerted new effort." Another series of grants is expected to be announced later this year, the foundation added.

Named as recipients in the teacher - improvement grants are Barnard College, New York; Brown University, Providence, R. I.; the University of Chicago; Claremont (Calif.) Graduate School; Duke University Durham N. C.; George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn.; Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif.; and the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

They Go to School 'for Kicks', 'for Hobby'

This is the second in a two-part series on adult education courses. A move has been launched to cut funds for these classes during the coming session of the legislature. The series will attempt to present the pros and cons of the issue.

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — A preliminary blast which may turn into a full scale attack in the upcoming Legislature, has been launched against the Adult Education and summer enrichment programs of the state. They've been called "frills".

A cross-section survey of the adult education in St. Lucie County, showed that:

Geared to the high school level, 67 St. Lucie County adults have earned diplomas or State High School equivalency Diplomas, as of Jan. 31, 1959. They did this by taking night courses.

Presumably these adults have been severely handicapped by lack of a completed high school education.

In checking who takes such courses as higher math, general education, business Spanish and auto mechanics, the Herald reporter found many students who were working to improve or keep their jobs, got better ones, or improve their business prospects.

Among them were a generous sprinkling of retirees, and people who take the courses for such reasons as: "to broaden my knowledge," "for kicks," "for a hobby."

Some are high school students taking extra courses.

Students pay only a $1 registration fee for an eight weeks' semester for each course. That's the only charge.

The balance of the cost comes out of the state's Minimum Foundation funds. According to Department of Education figures, this amounted to .95 of 1 per cent or $1,914,000, statewide last year.

In addition to these courses which have a direct relation to jobs and income are the craft and culture courses.

Here, the "who and why" changes considerably.

Under the night lights at Dan McCarty High School, the adult education woodworking and ceramics classes were going full tilt when a Herald reporter stopped in.

Ten eager students were pursuing craft knowledge.

Mrs. Lewis Raulerson, service representative for the Telephone Co. was cutting lumber to make a bookcase for her son's room.

Mrs. Roman Dennis, housewife, was framing up a ceramic-coffee-table-to-be, designed by her four children and for which she would do the glazing.

Bill McKenna, sewing machine salesman, was building Japanese-style furniture for his new Japanese-style house.

Nearby, three little matrons in school, whose husbands are stationed elsewhere in the Air Force, were shaping wet, grey clay into leaf-shaped ash trays.

Mrs. Helen Campbell, Mrs. Phyllis Whitehead and Mrs. Sybil Osteen were obviously enjoying their artistic endeavors, while parents baby-sat their children.

Across the room two other housewives were painting their ash trays while husbands did the baby-sitting.

A couple of corridors away, song, issuing from approximately 35 throats, drew the Herald reporter to the Singers' Seminar, under the direction of Mrs. Laura Hewitt Whipple. This group has impressed itself more on the consciousness of the community than any of the other single classes, by putting on a civic Christmas carol program, and taking part in several of the events of the Chamber of Commerce Sandy Shoes Festival.

The students of song are a real cross-section of the community. A quick check revealed a carpenter, library assistant, electrician, surveyor, insurance salesman, printer, restaurant proprietor, nurse, artist, secretary, and the usual sprinkling of retirees.

The classes in water color painting show as diversified a group of students who enjoy the pursuit of culture just as much, the Herald was told.

EDITOR'S NOTE. — This survey does not attempt to make any comparison of the relative value of "practical" education and "cultural" education. It was felt, however, that information on who takes the courses and why is pertinent to the controversy over whether the Minimum Foundation school funds should be used to support them.

In defending the craft and culture aspects of the program, Bernard Paulmer, Director of the St. Lucie County Education Program points out that, while some of the classes might be termed recreational, recreation is something that is needed for the enrichment of life.

"Particularly here in Florida," he said" where we have many retirees with not another thing to do."

"Besides," he added" it helps to prevent delinquency."

Since he was discussing adult education, it was presumed he referred to adult delinquency.

He also pointed out that the school plant and facilities are already in existence and the textbooks furnished by the school are also used by day students. Other textbooks, he explained, are paid for by the students.

In assessing the whole program, the State Department of Education, says:

"The public schools are the instrument which our society has created and charged with the responsibility of assuring that its citizens shall be provided with the education they need . . . We have come to recognize . . . that education can no longer be regarded as a PACKAGE exclusively for youth, but, rather, as a PROCESS which necessarily continues throughout life."

Which is fine, but some members of the Legislature are going to question whether these advantages should be made available to some of these adults for only a buck a class for a semester.

Bomarc Sent Aloft For 'Kill'

CAPE CANAVERAL —(AP)— A roaring Bomarc interceptor missile shot through the clouds Tuesday, aiming for a simulated enemy attack plane cruising in from the Atlantic.

The sleek Boeing missile, which soon will be operational at 14 strategic launching sites throughout the country, blazed aloft on the trail of a pilotless World War II vintage B17 bomber.

If all went well, the 47-foot missile would streak in at twice the speed of sound and execute a theoretical kill on the target.

For test purposes, however, the Bomarc usually veers away from the target in the last split second.

The Bomarc, being tested at a new range stretching south from Santa Rosa Island on the Florida gulf coast, uses a high thrust booster rocket to take off and twin ramjet engines for sustained flight.

A new version, called Bomarc B, soon will be tested by Boeing.

Spelling Finals Set In Ft. Pierce

Herald Service

FORT PIERCE — The finals of the Miami Herald Spelling Bee in St. Lucie County will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Fort Pierce Elementary School Auditorium.

Contestants are Timothy Thomas and Elizabeth Anne Nourse of Fort Pierce Elementary, Terry Young and Linda Faye Fussell of Fairlawn, Janet Shrein and Christina Fulp of White City, Nancy Woodruff and Nancy Coleman of the St. Lucie County Junior High, and Robert Welch and Patricia Stern of St. Anastasia's Catholic School.

Bert A. Bittan, Jr., county prosecuting attorney, will be the official pronouncer. Judges will be members of the County PTA Council: James Kinsey, Mrs. Jack P. Harton and Earl Crittenden. Mrs. J. A. Bond is alternate.

Jensen Beach Zoning Unit Rejects Warehouse Bid

JENSEN BEACH — The Jensen Beach Zoning Committee, by unanimous vote, turned down a request for a builder's supply warehouse and office on the Cutoff Rd., following a public hearing Monday night at the community center.

Nearly 100 attended the meeting, which was sparked by accusations that "land on that road isn't fit for anything else," "you're being unfair to the little people who have small lots," and "houses that are on the road now are but chicken coops."

Thomas Thurlow, Stuart attorney, appeared in behalf of John H. Hendry, who had the opportunity of selling the 75-by-200-ft. lot if the Zoning Committee agreed to let a warehouse be built in the area.

Thurlow pointed out that the Jensen Beach area provided very little zoning for commercial businesses, and added that the Cutoff Rd. which leads from U.S. 1 to the center of Jensen Beach was an approach road, and as such would naturally be suitable for commercial building.

Also speaking in behalf of revising the zoning regulations so that the type of business proposed by Henry would be acceptable, were Mrs. Richard Gideon, daughter-in-law of County Commissioner Seynour Gideon, and A. A. Hendry Jr., father of John Hendry.

Statement Disputes Figures

LP Gas Dealers Blast Municipal Distribution

Herald Service

FORT PIERCE — The Fort Pierce Liquified Petroleum Dealers Association, in a statement issued Tuesday morning by Buddy Pitts, one of the LP gas dealers, took issue with the Fort Pierce City commission for its Monday night action in reaffirming its decision to have municipal distribution of natural gas.

The city commissioners, who visited 11 towns at the request of the bottled gas dealers, reported that the municipal distribution systems in these towns were profitable and beneficial. On this basis, the commission voted unanimously to continue with its plan for municipal distribution.

The LP dealers took sharp issue with the commission's findings, and with their conclusions. They issued a statement which said in part:

"The Fort Pierce Liquified Petroleum Dealers Association regrets the hasty action taken by the city commission with regard to municipal natural gas. Their reported information on their recent junket does not correspond to the facts and information we gained from most of the same towns.

"The prices previously published by the city are not found to be realistic. They do not conform to other proposed natural gas rates in the state. The fact that no private enterprise proposal was offered for the natural gas franchise, other than a 3 per cent on the gross receipts offered by Houston Gas & Oil Company which is bringing the gas into the state by pipe line, clearly indicates it is not profitable for private enterprise. Therefore it is not a wise venture for the city.

"It is our belief that the public does not favor the action taken by the commission. It was our understanding, and the public's, that the city commission would hold a public hearing prior to its action. To rush headlong into the venture without a public hearing is to take action without consideration of the public."

School Bid OKd At Cocoa

Herald Bureau

TITUSVILLE — The Brevard County School Board Tuesday accepted the low bid of $415,900 by United Builders, Orlando, for construction of the new Pineridge Elementary School at Cocoa.

Another bid of $206,613 by Roemer Construction Co. Belle Glade, was accepted for construction of 10 classroom additions to Melbourne High School and other facilities.

The 26-classroom Pineridge School, which includes a cafetorium and administrative suite, will be located in northwest Cocoa, in an area recently annexed into the city. Construction time was given as 210 calendar days.

The Melbourne addition also includes a library, choir room, drafting room and television repair shop. Construction time is 175 days.

The highest bid of seven bidders on the Pineridge School was by Thomas Pagan, Inc., Pompano Beach, at $538,038.

Volusia to Vote On County Seat

DELAND — (UPI) — A citizens advisory committee voted Tuesday to let the people of Volusia County decide if they want to move the county seat from here to Daytona Beach.

The question came up recently when a group of Daytona Beach attorneys proposed that the weather-worn jail here be built in the more populous resort area.

But Attorney General Richard Ervin ruled that a proposed new jail must be built within the corporate limits of the county seat.

No Record of Cases

Constable's $241 Fees Questioned

Excess Charges Also Cited

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— A Martin County constable, J. A. Dease of Indiantown, collected $241 from the county in arrest and mileage fees in cases in which there were no records, State Auditor Bryan Willis reported Tuesday.

Dease also overcharged the county in fees for transporting prisoners and received fees for arrests made in Okeechobee County by the Okeechobee County Sheriff's office, the state auditor said.

He reported Dease had failed to produce his official records, although requested orally and by registered letter.

Willis said he was unable to trace what had happened to $70 which had been posted as bond for two men charged with reckless driving after it had been deposited in Dease's personal bank account.

Dease told the auditor he had received receipts from the sheriff's office for the $70 and mailed the receipts to the defendants. But there were no records to support this, Willis said.

"Cost bills to the county and district 4 justice of the peace docket and memoranda indicated that other criminal cases and bond funds may not have been accounted for," Willis said.

The auditor reported that justice of the peace W. C. Caveny of Indiantown failed to keep required records, made improper reports and had inadequate criminal procedures.

Willis said Justice of the Peace James Pegram of Stuart had overcharged the county $893 in cost bills between Jan. 8, 1957 and Aug. 31, 1958.

Pegram's predecessor, Harry C. Beckman, received $641 in excessive costs before leaving office Jan. 1, 1957, the auditor reported.

The accounts of sheriff Roy C. Baker showed a $404 deficit on June 30, 1957. The sheriff made up the shortage when it was called to his attention.

Willis said the deficit apparently resulted from bookkeeping errors made when the office assistant who handled cash was absent for several weeks because of illness.

Laboratory Hopes Rise In County

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE—"Highly encouraging" was the report brought back Tuesday afternoon by five Indian river area leaders, who conferred with Governor LeRoy Collins on chances of getting an allocated $48,000 released for a much needed laboratory at the Indian River agricultural experiment station here.

Senator Harry Kicliter said the governor was sympathetic and encouraging, and was in agreement as to the need for the laboratory.

He told the delegation he will take the matter up at the Wednesday cabinet meeting. He also called in budget Director Harry Smith for a conference.

Meeting with Governor Collins were Senator Kickliter, J. R. Graves of Vero Beach, chairman of the Florida Citrus Commission; county agent Jimmy Oxford of Brevard County; Rudolph Mattson of Fort Pierce, chairman of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association; and Cornelius Van Derlugt, president of the North St. Lucie River drainage district.

Van Derlugst said he was particularly impressed with the information the governor had on the situation. The group received an extremely warm welcome from the governor who greeted them with the comment "it is going to be hard to say no to this group."

The money for the new laboratory was earmarked several years ago, but the allocation has never been translated into construction.

The work of the laboratory is highly important to the Indian River area, since it deals with citrus and vegetable problems and projects especially for this area.

Martin Asks Ban On Guns in Boats

Herald Service

STUART—The Martin County Commission in a special meeting Tuesday acted on a complaint by Commissioner Guy F. Boyd, and voted to instruct County Attorney William R. Scott to prepare a local bill outlawing guns in boats in the South Fork of the St. Lucie River.

Boyd said several fishermen recently nearly got "peppered" with gunshot from a boat in that area. He added that there were no ducks in that part of the river.

The commission also agreed to adopt a plan, already in effect in Palm Beach County, whereby the commission is granted power to make improvements on roads and streets in old subdivisions and assess abutting property owners.

The commission will set up a one mill levy as a revolving fund and lend the money out with approval of at least 75 per cent of the property owners concerned.

It was also agreed that in the event the commission differs with the sheriff's budget, that the commission retain the power to go to Tallahassee and appeal the budget before the comptroller's committee.

That procedure is in effect now. At the recent meeting of county officials in Jacksonville, that group advocated that the sheriff must appeal if the County Commission objects to his budget.

In other actions the commission:

DECIDED to meet every Tuesday at 9 a.m. instead of holding bimonthly meetings.

GAVE Al Keaton, director of Civil Defense, authority to set up necessary procedure for the April 17 "Operation Alert Day."

NAMED, by Chairman Marvin H. Rowell were two other commissioners, E. J. Arnold and Guy F. Boyd to serve as a committee to investigate the handling of property purchased from government surplus, as well as to make a complete inventory of property already purchased and delivered in the county.

OFFERED to purchase the building occupied by the A&P from A. Huntsinger for $100,000, on a lease-purchase arrangement at $5,000 a year at 5 per cent. It was also agreed that the county will not release any part of the parking lot, but will offer Huntsinger two lots in Golden Gate Subdivision.

The building is adjacent to the court house and would be used for necessary space.

Egg Hunt Draws 200

JENSEN BEACH — The fourth annual Easter Egg Hunt, brought out nearly 200 children seeking 92 dozen eggs, 25 of which were "lucky" eggs, entitling the finders to a silver dollar.

The event was Saturday. Al Walker of Rio was emcee, aided by committees from the Rio Civic Club, Jensen Beach American Legion Post and Auxiliary, the Jensen Beach Lions' Club, the Jensen Shell Shop, and the Jensen Beach Community Center.

Prize winners were Timmy Lorenz, Betsy Poux, Abe Hilliard, Dianne Talbert, Brenda Pauly, Cathy Pauly, Allen Scranton, S. Means, Skippy Shipes, Jeanette Olney, Warner Wacha, Frank Wacha Jr., Brenda Olney, Paula Hite, James McCherchen, Loren Foster, Charles Shaw, Pat Jones, Allen Lesson, Dan Jones, Carolyn Jarvis, and Susan Albert.

Youths Held For Theft

MELBOURNE — Police rounded up a trio of juveniles ranging from 10 to 15 years old, and charged them with breaking and entering.

Police Chief John D. Thomas said Tuesday the three boys have been turned over to juvenile authorities, and are scheduled to appear before Juvenile Judge Virgil Conklin on March 15.

The chief said they "broke into two businesses and walked into two others." Only things found missing were a pistol and supply of ammunition.

Senator Favors Bay, Monroe

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Sen. Bart Knight of Blountstown said Tuesday he will urge the Legislature to restrict reapportionment this year to providing separate senators for Bay and Monroe Counties.

Gov. LeRoy Collins has stated repeatedly that he will not accept a bill that goes no further than taking care of Bay and Monroe Counties. He insists that any reapportionment also provide separate senators for Manatee, Sarasota, Brevard and Seminole Counties.

Florida Derby Gains Class In Short Time at Gulfstream

NORMALLY IT requires years of tradition for a racing feature to acquire class. This is not true of the $100,000 Florida Derby, which will have its eighth running at Gulfstream Saturday.

The feature inaugurated by President Jimmy Donn has in its brief existence produced upsets, thrills and human interest stories.

FITZSIMMONS

Under the latter heading there is none to top the 1955 Derby. The track was deluged by rain and its muddy condition led many to believe Nashua, the juvenile champion of the past year, would be scratched.

The late William Woodward Jr., owner of Nashua, was aware that thousands had come to see his horse run. He called Trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons in New York and seeking his advice, added, "I don't want to disappoint them even if it snows."

Confident of Nashua's ability to handle any kind of footing, Fitzsimmons told Woodward to go ahead and race the horse. It was a tough assignment for Nashua, but he won by a neck.

Started with a Photo Finish

LETS BACK TRACK to the inaugural of the Florida Derby:

1952—A field of 18 entered and three horses charged through the stretch to produce a photo finish. The film revealed Brookemeade Stable's Sky Ship had won over Handsome Teddy and Sandtop. Jampol, the favorite, finished fourth.

1953—The Derby was put in the class of other big features when Donn made it a $100,000 added event.

Money Broker was flown here from Orleans—he refused to enter the plane twice—and won. He was not so shy on the track, outrunning such contenders as Dark Star, Jamie K., Dr. Stanley and Matagorda.

1954—It began to appear a plane trip was the proper way to tune a Florida Derby winner. Correlation was flown here from California and Florida fans had their first view of Jockey Willie Shoemaker as his mount beat Goyamo, Next Page, Sea O'Erin and others.

* * *

Air Invaders Halted

1956—They flew in Terrang, Like Magic and Count Chic from California, but Needles, the Florida bred, came from far behind to beat Count Chic by three-quarters of a length. Suspense was rough for fans waiting for Jockey Dave Erb to get Needles moving.

1957—The scant field of five had class. Calumet's General Duke not only beat Bold Ruler, odds-on favorite, but equalled a world's record of 1:46 4-5 for the nine furlongs under 122 pounds. Trainer Fitzsimmons, who watched the race from the rail, murmured, "Bold Ruler was not good enough" and walked calmly away.

JONES

1958—Calumet won again, but Tim Tam, bet down to 35 cents on the dollar, had to give his all in a stretch run to beat Lincoln Road. The Finish brought the fans to their feet screaming. Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, but a broken leg bone in the Belmont ended his racing career. This was a shocking disappointment to Trainer Jimmy Jones.

Heading for Augusta

YOUR REPORTER'S only regret in heading for Augusta, Ga., to see The Masters golf tournament is in missing the Florida Derby . . . It's quite a show and there'll be tuneful music and pageantry in the infield lake—provided by the water skiers from Dick Pope's Cypress Gardens . . . And it would have been interesting to chat with Stan Musial, who'll be in Miami Saturday night and Sunday with the Cardinals for their exhibitions with Paul Richards' Orioles . . . The latter play three games here prior to the windup series . . . Danny Murtaugh is bringing his Pirates back tonight for a single game . . . The Phillies, who include several former Marlins on their roster, play here Thursday and Friday nights . . . Ed Bouchee, who did so well with the Marlins, is at first base . . . Dick Farrell, 1956 Marlin, now considered one of the best relief pitchers in the National, is on their staff . . . The Phillies have another attraction in Richie Ashburn, the National's leading hitter of last year.

Why Hollywood Succeeded

THE HOLLYWOOD KENNEL CLUB is ending its second best season tonight . . . The track will show a gain of almost $3,000,000 over last season . . . President William Syms and General Manager Tommy Lynch think part of their success was in giving the fans more marathon races, which seems to be what the greyhound followers want . . . Next year they plan to add even more marathons to the program . . . if Bud Jack, the great distance runner, wins the Derby he'll tie the record of 16 triumphs registered by the famed Neshoba three years ago . . . They say that Mar Dilly has the best chance of beating Bud Jack . . . Hollywood this past season broke individual mutuel and attendance records . . . The largest crowd was 9,059 and these fans wagered $319,150.

Joins Herald as Part of Expanded Coverage

Jim Martenhoff Named Boating Editor

Jim Martenhoff, master of every thing from a dinghy to a schooner, has joined The Herald as boating editor.

The combination of Martenhoff and Vic Dunaway, who'll concentrate exclusively in his duties as fishing editor, gives The Herald a crack one-two punch in the outdoor field.

Martenhoff, 39, joins The Herald after serving as outdoor editor of the Miami News for two years.

Addition of the Brooklyn-born newspaperman marks the start of expanded boating coverage by The Herald. Martenhoff's comprehensive stories will appear both in the sports section and the Fun in Florida Sunday magazine section.

Such things as tips to boaters on care and maintenance of their craft will be featured regularly.

Martenhoff's interest in boating dates back to his youth. Raised on Long Island, he began sailing a beat-up Sharpie around the twisting channels of the south shore as soon as he could get out of his parents' sight.

Jim's first job was in a boatyeard. "A man handed me a stack of sandpaper," he recalls, "and pointed to a boat. I spent a week sanding it."

After working up to boatyard foreman, Martenhoff decided to take a crack at journalism. He was first employed by the now defunct Review Star and later moved to Newsday, where he was chief photographer.

Martenhoff was newsphoto editor of the Associated Press for 12 years, acting in a supervisory capacity in New York, Boston and Miami. He took a turn at pure camera work in Raleigh, N.C., setting up a photo bureau, and in Tokyo, from where he worked in covering the Korean war for seven months...

"During this time I never got over a basic liking for the outdoors," says Martenhoff. "I spent summers in New England (1945 to 1958)—camping, mountain climbing and winter skiing. I fished everywhere from Martha's Vineyard to Key West."

In boating, Martenhoff studied naval architecture. He learned navigation, piloting, boat handling and seamanship.

"When I was 17," says Martenhoff, "my father permitted me to take the family cruiser on a coastal trip with only my brother — no sailor — along."

Jim has sailed virtually every type of craft. He once had 10 minutes at the wheel of an ocean-going coastal freighter several hundred feet long.

X-Rays Encourage Williams

BOSTON—(AP)—Ted Williams was encouraged Tuesday with a report that X-rays showed he apparently has no broken or dislocated bones and evidently is not suffering arthritis.

However, the hospitalized Boston Red Sox slugger continued to have pain in his neck and right shoulder. Williams has been affected for more than two weeks.

Tuesday's hospital bulletin said symptomatic treatments continued, an indication the 40-year-old batting expert was undergoing traction for what he himself described as a kink in his neck.

On his arrival he vowed he'd be ready to open the season April 10. Doctors neither encouraged nor discouraged Williams but many observers think Williams is too optimistic.

A NEW TWIST—As Jockey Larney Hansman looks on with more than some amazement, Jockey Willie Harmatz shapes up for Saturday's Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park with a simple little exercise. Actually, the feet tucked under Harmatz' chin belong to Apprentice Jockey John Block. And a happy April's Fool to you, too.

O's, Pirates Clash Tonight At Stadium

The Baltimore Orioles return to their home base tonight for a rematch with Pittsburgh's Pirates at Miami Stadium. Game time is 8 o'clock.

The Orioles conclude their Florida exhibition schedule with five games in succession at the Stadium. Philadelphia follows the Pirates in for Thursday and Friday night games, and the St. Louis Cardinals wind up the local schedule with a night game Saturday and afternoon contest Sunday.

Rookie Jerry Walker, Baltimore's most outstanding spring pitcher until the Miami Marlins belted him around last Saturday night, is slated to start tonight. Walker has tossed 20 1-3 innings, allowing seven runs (three by Miami) and 16 hits.

Billy Loes (seven innings, seven hits, five runs) and Skinny Brown (five innings, six hits, four runs) will follow Walker.

Pittsburgh's Danny Murtaugh will send two of his top hurlers, Vern Law and George Witt, against the Orioles.

The veteran Law was a 14-game winner in 1958 while Witt was the rookie sensation of the National League, winning nine of 11 decisions after being recalled from Columbus in June. The 25-year-old right-hander posted a phenomenal 1.61 earned run average.

Don Hoak's eighth-inning homer broke a 4-4 tie and propelled the Pirates to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday at Lakeland.

The victory was Pittsburgh's 11th against as many losses in the Grapefruit League season.

At Orlando, meanwhile, the Orioles scored twice in the 11th inning, then blunted a Washington comeback to win, 9-8. It was Baltimore's 12th victory in 18 games.

Ten Bid for $15,000 Purse

Rosewood, Big Effort Go in Suwannee Today

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Calumet Farm's Rosewood and Brookmeade Stable's Big Effort — two of the country's top distaff runners — clash today in the 12th running of the Suwannee River Handicap at Gulfstream Park.

A field of 10 fillies and mares was entered in the mile-and-one-sixteenth test which carries a purse of $15,000 added.

Charlie Burr, who guided Rosewood to victory in last year's Suwannee River, will attempt to make it two in a row and the Calumet mare is the likely choice today under top weight of 120 pounds. She won Hialeah's Black Helen Handicap in her last outing.

Big Effort, with Bill Hartack in the irons, looms as the main threat. The Brookmeade filly will carry 114 pounds and comes off an impressive distance race last Saturday in which she was beaten only a neck by the good colt, Day Court.

Behind Big Effort in that event were such good male horses as Belleau Chief and Noureddin.

Others starters in the Suwannee River are Searching Wind, 102 pounds and William Cook, Water-Sparrow, 104 pounds and Calvin Stone; Tara Tella, 109 pounds and Jimmy Combest; Quick Wit, 104 pounds and Bill Harmatz; Oil Rich, 108 pounds and John Sellers; Sabena 2nd, 106 pounds and Lois Cook; Happy Princess, 112 pounds and Walter Blum, and Edna Allen, 109 pounds and John Choquette.

Happy Princess was second to Rosewood in the Black Helen but "retired early" in her last outing. Edna Allen and Quick Wit have been showing speed at the Hallandale oval and could be dangerous at the weights.

If all 10 go postward, the Suwannee River will gross $16,825 and net the winner $9,700. Time mark for the event is 1:42 2, set by Estacion in 1957.

Choquette's The Story

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

Sweet Error, a filly, and the colt Matthias, both ridden by Johnny Choquette, won the two divisions of Gulfstream Park's Dinner Stakes for juveniles Tuesday.

Sweet Error stepped the three furlongs of the second division in 33 1-5 seconds to beat Our Jody, under Buck Thornburg, by two lengths and pay $17.10. Ednez, ridden by Bill Hartack, was third.

Matthias, in the first division, beat Benell, the Florida Futurity winner, with Harrel Bolin, astride, by 2½ lengths. Third was Andale under Hartack.

The conditions of the race called for all owners to be residents of Florida and following the races they took part in a dinner-dance in the clubhouse.

Bell Rings Twice As Reds Rock Robin

CLEARWATER —(AP)— Two home runs by Gus Bell and one by Ed Bailey led the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 exhibition-victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and Pitcher Robin Roberts here Tuesday.

Despite the barrage, Roberts went the full nine innings for the second time this spring.

Southpaw Jim O'Toole continued as the Reds' rookie pitching sensation, going four innings without yielding a hit or run. Willard Schmidt and Charley Rabe finished up on the mound for the Reds, allowing three hits between them.

ST. PETERSBURGH —(AP)— Kansas City knocked off the New York Yankees for the third straight time Tuesday, scoring twice in the ninth for a 4-2 victory. The result pushed records of both teams to 10-10.

Rookie Right-hander John Gabler was clipped in the final inning after Art Ditmar went eight good rounds. Veteran Art Houtteman, trying for a comeback, was the winner although scored upon for the first time this spring.

Houtteman had a string of 10 scoreless frames before a triple by Deron Johnson and Bill Skowron's pinch sacrifice fly got the tieing run in the eighth.

Odds 7-1 He'll Be Traveling Soon

Paul Richards Not Long for Orioles–Furlong

By BILL FURLONG
Miami Herald-Chicago News Service

CHICAGO — Whose neck is best tailored for the executioner's block?

What major league managers will not be in their present jobs in 1960?

This season at lease three or four will depart. My guess is that they will include Cookie Lavagetto of Washington, Harry Craft of Kansas City, Walt Alston of Los Angeles, and Paul Richards of Baltimore.

The odds of the 16 managers leaving their jobs are offered in a separate tabulation. They indicate the relative security of the managers as much as their current chances of getting the ax.

The odds were based on the past records of the manager, the inclination of his owner to fire managers, and the chances of his survival should his team do more poorly than expected.

It also includes a highly elliptical and mysterious element called the Furlong Factor. Just what constitutes the Furlong Factor is a mystery — even to Furlong.

But it does include some personal convictions — that the longer a manager pilots a mediocre club, the nearer he is to extinction and that most clubs will not fire a manager in his first season, for instance.

That means at least five pilots are fairly safe, simply because this is their first full season in their current jobs.

The analysis of the American League (with years in the present job in parenthesis):

COOKIE LAVAGETTO, Washington (1½): Destined for another last-place finish, will probably fall prey to owner Calvin Griffith's need to make a show of "doing something."

HARRY CRAFT, Kansas City, (1½): The easiest way to appease Kansas City fans for a poor ball club is to change managers . . . there is little likelihood that Kansas City will rise to a higher standing.

PAUL RICHARDS, Baltimore (4): Club is improving but will not hit its stride for several years. Richards himself has suggested simply that he won't be around to enjoy it.

But if he leaves Baltimore, again because the owners must show the fans some "action," he'll almost certainly land with another club. In fact, he might do what he did with the Sox — leave voluntarily for a different job.

JOE GORDON, Cleveland, (½): Faces the disappointment of a club that has been overbuilt in the press. The Indians will probably finish lower than the second predicted for them. Most people feel that, under Frank Lane, his job is very uncertain . . . Actually Lane's history is to fire the manager he inherits and to stand by the one he appoints. It would be very out of character for Lane to fire "his man" in his first full season.

AL LOPEZ, Chicago White Sox (2): Club due to falter, but he has done a brilliant job in keeping it in second place for two years. If Bill Veeck wants to give the Sox a "new look," Lopez might go. But not during the season.

BILL NORMAN, Detroit (½): Pulled the Tigers together in the last half of '58, has a much-improved club that might finish second—if it didn't lack power hitting. Unlikely to be fired in his first full season in the majors.

MIKE HIGGINS, Boston (4): Club will again be fairly unspectacular but his boss, Owner Tom Yawkey, changes managers as often as he cuts an artery. Higgins seems most secure among managers of "Seven Dwarfs" of American League.

CASEY STENGEL, New York (10): So who's gonna fire Santa Claus.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

WALT ALSTON, Los Angeles (5): The hounds were crying for him last year. This year Dodgers should do better, but if they continue to falter, Alston will be replaced by a more dynamic, controversial manager.

BILL RIGNEY, San Francisco, (3): Owner, Horace Stoneham, is reluctant to fire managers but usually does. So if the Giants don't plunge into pennant contention, Rigney will be in trouble . . . but the Giants should very much be in contention.

DANNY MURTAUGH, (2): Team built up from a likely second - division club into a likely pennant winner — If it isn't in the pennant race—zzt.

SOLLY HEMUS, St. Louis, (0): He's Augie Busch's "man" and he's in his first year on the job . . . This should protect Hemus from jeopardy despite a potentially poor team and the pressures from above.

MAYO SMITH, Cincinnati, (0): Powerful team coming along that may be in contention all the way. Had a mediocre record at Philadelphia but it's unlikely that, even if the Reds tumble, Smith will be axed in his first year.

EDDIE SAWYER, Philadelphia (½): Brought back by popular demand of the Phils' owner last year — Not expected to do much this year — but neither is he expected to suffer for it.

BOB SCHEFFING, Chicago Cubs, (2): Even if Cubs skid, will probably survive on the prestige of getting them into a fifth-place tie last year.

FRED HANEY, Milwaukee, (2½): Even if Milwaukee loses the pennant, it's unlikely the Braves would fire a manager who has won two pennants in two years.

Clewiston Golf Team Wins Four-Team Meet

Special To The Herald

CLEWISTON — Clewiston swept a Suncoast Conference four-team golf tournament here Tuesday, defeating Seacrest of Delray, Stuart and Belle Glade.

Stuart's Volney Stuart was medalist with a superb 75 over the fast Clewiston Country Club Course.

Clewiston defeated Stuart, 7½-4½; Seacrest, 8-4; and Belle Glade, 12-0.

Runner-up Seacrest beat Belle Glade, 8-4, and upset Stuart, 7-5. Stuart topped winless Belle Glade, 8½-3½.

The Suncoast Conference golf tournament, originally scheduled here April 6 and 7, has been postponed to April 10-11. Lafayette Golden, executive secretary of the Florida High School Activities Association, ruled the tourney should be on a weekend to prevent players missing two days of school.

Melbourne's Lazenby Two-Hits Winter Park

Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE — Righthander Bob Lazenby kept Melbourne's five-game slate clean with a two-hit, 10-3 triumph over Winter Park here Monday.

Lazenby permitted a fifth-inning infield singles in the fifth and sixth innings, but otherwise had the game under control.

Melbourne bats pounded 11 hits, including three doubles, against three Parker hurlers to hand the visitors their first setback in three starts.

Bill Hammond and Dennis Morawski each got two hits and every other Bulldog, with two exceptions, joined the hitting bandwagon.

It was the first local win over Winter Park in several years. The Bulldogs scored three runs in each of three innings — the first, fourth and sixth.

It was the third game in a row that a Melbourne hurler has gone the seven-inning distance to win.

The Bulldogs have four home games this week, Friday meeting Daytona Mainland and Saturday afternoon Orlando Boone.

Forest Hill Game Canceled

Herald Service

WEST PALM BEACH — The baseball game between Clewiston and Forest Hill was canceled by mutual agreement Tuesday, according to Forest Hill Coach Bobby Riggs.

Riggs was to serve as a pallbearer at the funeral of Al Tatum, West Palm Beach policeman who was killed Saturday in an accident, and many of the Falcon players planned to attend the funeral for their former coach in the Pony and Prep Leagues.

Burke Has Masters Course by the Tail

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — Jackie Burke has the tough Augusta National Golf Course by the tail. The question is, can he hold it when they start playing for keeps in the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday?

The 36-year-old Houston professional, winner of the Masters in 1956, shot a practice round 64, eight under par, Tuesday following a spectacular 66 Monday. The competitive course record is 64, set in 1940.

"This is just shadow boxing," Burke apologized uncomfortably, as if a little embarrassed at winning the annual warmup derby. "But I must say I don't know when I have played better."

None of the other contestants in the star-spangled international field have approached Burke's proficiency over the 6,980-yard, par 36-36—72 layout which is lush and green and playing extremely long.

Jackie attributes his flashy form to two things: (1) an operation on his right hand a year ago; (2) a set of new clubs with broader faces such as those he used to win four winter tournaments in a row in 1952.

"A year ago I had a cyst on my hand," Burke said. "It pained me terrifically. I couldn't practice without the hand getting very sore. I had the cyst cut off. Now everything is fine.

"Also I am using a different set of clubs. The trend has been toward a smaller faced club. I've gone back to the big faces. I have much more confidence."

For the second straight day the course basked under a warm sun, raising hope of a bright, clear weekend.

Predictions were that, if this kind of weather prevails, a score of 282 or possibly even 280 may be needed to win.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Boy of 6 Gave Signal

I HAD TO give a talk to the assembly at Jackson High School the other morning and I got out of the car across the street from the school.

There was a crosswalk there, and a lighted sign on the other side saying, "Don't Walk."

We have those signals at several interesections down town, so I knew what to do. I waited for the sign to change to "Walk."

They have assemblies very early in high schools and I was late, so I was anxious to get across the street, but that sign remained the same.

Every time I looked at my watch and thought I should make a desperate dash to my appointment, I'd look up and that "Don't Walk" warning was staring at me.

I stood there and I stood there and my watch kept ticking off the minutes, and I was being later and later for the assembly.

I was thinking of the letter I would write to the city manager, the mayor, the police chief and my congressman. I was going to tell them that it was a fine state of affairs to have a traffic signal that was stuck on "Don't Walk" so that decent, law-abiding citizens couldn't cross the street when they had to make a talk.

Just then, about 10 minutes after I had begun my vigil, a youngster of about six years stopped beside me, pushed a button on the telephone pole, and walked across the street. Cars stopped to let him by.

To my amazement, the sign had changed to "Walk."

I looked at the telephone pole, and there was a sign saying to push the button when you wanted to cross the street.

But how was I supposed to know that I was supposed to look on the pole for directions? If that kid hadn't come along, I'd have stood there the rest of my life.

CUTE POEM, written by Mary Louise Woodall, 12100 NW 19th Ave.:

Babies I love, all kinds by the score,
Puppies I love and kittens galore.
Baby rabbits and chicks give my heart a tug.
But why can't I love a baby bug?

THE NEXT TIME I VISIT Crandon Park Zoo, I'm going to arrange to be at the cage of the jaguar at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Helen Mack, 1157 SW Fifth St., tells me that this beautiful animal puts on quite a show every day at feeding time, and she sent some photographs to prove it.

"About 3:45 p.m., she comes down from her high platform where she has been resting," Mrs. Mack says. "The nearer it gets to 4 o'clock, the more restless she becomes.

"Finally, she stands up, her front paws on the bars, and stares down the path on which she knows the blue truck with chunks of meat and big bones soon will appear.

"When the keeper gets to her, she puts on her act for her supper. He holds the chunk of meat, impaled on a hook on a long pole, and will say to her: 'Roll over.' Down she goes, without hesitation, and rolls over.

"Then the keeper will say, 'Do it again' and she does. Then he says, 'Now once more and you can have it.' She repeats her roll, then stands up straight and reaches for her reward."

Maybe they ought to organize a circus, starring the jaguar.

SIGN SEEN in West Miami: "No Truspassing."

* * *

WITHOUT RESERVATIONS, I indorse this heated letter from Mrs. Ernest J. Smith, 1100 NE 131st St., North Miami:

"Have you ever spent the day at home, firmly resolved to get at least five million things done, or felt horrible enough that you have a good excuse for curling up and reading a good book, or perhaps just crave 15 minutes oblivion in the form of an afternoon nap?

"Ah, but that telephone rings! You rush to its side, only to find its so-and-so awning company, or drapery store, or dance studio. By golly, I've had it! Even tranquilizers won't soothe me at this point!

"Isn't there something that can be done to eradicate this form of solicitation? It is truly an invasion of privacy and I resent it and am certain there are others who join me.

"I am convinced we have enough laws and ordinances to last several generations after us, but believe me I'd be first in line to help pass a law prohibiting this misuse of an otherwise beneficent invention."

* * *

MRS. EDNA L. HUGHES, New Smyrna, who is a young girl of 76, is keeping a scrap book on the camel family at the Crandon zoo. It should be a fat book, if it starts back in the days when Cecil was a lonesome bachelor.

Per Capita Taxation Really Skyrocketing

In 1913, when the first income tax was levied, per capita income in this country was $358. The tax fattened our government's coffers by 80 millions (not billions) of dollars.

To break the statistics down still more, this meant an average of 82 cents for each man, woman and child. Since personal exemption was $3,000, only a relative few paid any tax at all.

Things edge up on us . . . little by little, until we suddenly awaken with a startled yelp, and find we've been had. In 1958, income tax, personal and corporation, totaled 58 billions (not millions.)

Our exemption now is only $600, though income has risen to $1,650. So, instead of 82 cents each, the tax chisels $390 out of each pocketbook.

You don't have to be a mathematician to figure this out. During 45 years income has risen four and a half times; income tax 474 times! Sets you back on your heels, doesn't it? Makes you wonder how much more we can take.

THIS IS A commendation for the Florida Highway Patrol in general, and Trooper Robert Thompson in particular. I was barreling up the Sunshine State Parkway the other day when, about 15 miles from Palm Beach, the crank shaft of my car went kaput with metallic moanings and grindings.

I thumbed passing motorists, hoping to get a lift to the nearest service station. The little boys and girls sailed past, with no more response than a few dirty looks. Then, heaven be praised, Trooper Thompson stopped to see what was wrong.

He radioed for a two truck and drove me into town to an automobile agency where repairs were to be made. Then, since my crate would be in the hospital for several days, Thompson took me to a rental agency.

He was not only helpful, but courteous, friendly and very proud of being a Florida Highway patrolman.

There must be thousands of people, like me, who don't know what service these men render to the motoring public day after day. It took me quite awhile to find out, but it's worth remembering.

THE FORUM of the 12 Caesars in New York is one of the world's finest restaurants. They offer extraordinary dishes like mushrooms stuffed with snails, marinated wild boar and ringneck pheasant baked in clay. But, there is one dish I'll never order, no matter how often I go back. That's baked peacock, which requires three days advance notice and costs $160.

IN THE DAYS when George III was putting the squeeze on American colonists, some of the boys were whooping it up in a swanky London Club. The subject of their conversation was horses. They planned a mile-and-a-half race for three-year-olds, and the question was whether it should honor Col. St. Leger or the Twelfth Earl of Derby.

Both possessed great knowledge of horse flesh and were fast hands with pounds, shillings and pence. They flipped a coin, and the Earl won. If he hadn't, I wonder what Jimmy Donn would call the Florida Derby, which will be run at Gulfstream next Saturday.

Not only in seeing general manager Jim Kirkland, publicist Tom Williams and players' manager Kiki Valenzuela, but old friends Charlie Gonzales and "Mickey Mouse" Equibar, who were visiting from Tampa. And, among the pelotaris whom I knew when they played in Miami and Dania were Cahcon, Angel, Colineau, Aldecoa, Urrutia, Carlito and Lorenzo. The fronton, incidentally, is beautiful.

JAKE KAPLAN is a Providence, R.I., business man, with a lust for speed. Each year he travels to Sebring to race his Ferrari and risk his neck. This year Jake won in his class and received a prize of $500. Afterward he dropped into the Bonfire to see Radio Winer.

Mr. Kaplan said he intended giving the money to charity, since he was an amateur, technically, if not in skill, behind the wheel of a racing car.

Radio insisted the Lend-a-Hand Fund's summer camp share in the gift, so Jake sent along $250. This will assure six kids of two weeks vacation, so our thanks, and theirs, go to the Providence man, and the heavy foot he kept on the accelerator.

What Rambler's Success Means to Every Motorist

Rambler Success Sparks

The Biggest Explosion in Automotive History

–and Rambler is Ready for it!

Successful revolutions do not happen overnight—especially great industrial upheavals like the public's dramatic swing to Rambler and the new concept of the modern compact car.

Suddenly the news erupts in a blaze of headlines: "Public Rebels at Big, Overweight Cars" . . . "Rambler Sales Up 167% for 1959" . . . "Market for 2,000,000 Compact Cars Predicted By 1961."

Actually, this biggest explosion in automotive history comes as the climax to two decades of need by motorists for a new kind of car.

SIZE-POWER RACE WAS ON

Since World War II, you have seen it coming. Most cars got longer and heavier year after year. Manufacturers indulged in an all-out horsepower race and succeeded in outrunning only one thing—the family's budget.

Cars were loaded down with excess outside sheet metal and bulk, but grew more cramped inside . . . harder to get in and out of . . . harder to park, garage and maneuver.

Meanwhile, gasoline taxes spurted ever upward, further increasing the economic strain on the motorist. Parking lots and garages began bursting at the seams. Bumper-to-bumper traffic made travel a hazardous nuisance.

THE CONSUMER REBELLED

The motorist became fed up! He suddenly turned to the most practical answer. He put his faith in Rambler, the car that met his needs.

The rest is history. The market revolution sparked by the compact car now finds Rambler outselling not only most big cars, but all six of the largest-selling foreign cars combined.

Yes, the market is big—and growing bigger. And Rambler is ready for it.

Rambler alone is backed by 20 years of experience in building more than 2,000,000 cars by a new method—aircraft-type Single Unit Construction. That experience cannot be acquired overnight. Just one example:

Traditionally, one group of men engineered bodies and a separate group engineered the chassis. Often these departments were even in separate cities. Manufacturing of these vital components was divided the same way.

So, to engineer and build more modern single unit cars we had to develop a whole new breed of engineers and production men, who thought not in terms of "chassis" alone or "body" alone, but in terms of a car in which chassis and body are a single unit for greater strength, less weight, greater room and greater durability. This took, not months, but years.

Now these years of experience are paying off in quality second to none.

IT'S THE CAR YOU ASKED FOR

When you buy a Rambler, you buy something no other manufacturer can give you. You buy 20 years of hard work and development. You buy nationwide availability at more than 2800 dealers and their service departments—thoroughly trained in caring for these different, more modern Compact Cars.

Yes, Rambler is ready with the modern compact car you asked for. The car that is making automotive history is waiting for you at your Rambler dealer. See and drive it today—because Rambler advantages are basic.

What Rambler's Success Means to You

1. Twenty years of experience in building truly modern cars with single unit aircraft engineering.
2. Modern compact cars that avoid excess bulk, weight and cost.
3. A greater and better choice in cars to meet your family's needs.
4. Superior standards of quality in workmanship and design.
5. Billions of dollars in savings for American motorists.

Oriole Chief Likes Miami

DESPITE CRITICISM of Miami voiced by Baltimore writers, President Jim Keelty of the Orioles likes this spot for spring training. He thinks the team is in top physical condition, having missed only one day here because of rain.

If the Orioles return, Keelty said the exhibition game schedule will undergo revisions. The Orioles would try to book box-office attractive teams like the Yankees, Braves and White Sox for weekends.

It strikes me that it would be a good idea for a club training in Miami and other Florida cities, too, to admit youngsters free of charge. There are plenty of seats and the Marlins found last season's free Saturday afternoons for young folks helpful.

A Reformed Trumpet Player

TROILUS' TRAINER, Charlie Peoples, is a man with a musical background. Charlie is a reformed trumpet player who hopes he will have something to toot about when the $100,000 Florida Derby is finished at Gulfstream Saturday.

Peoples

Peoples was outstanding as a trumpet player during his high school days at Oxford, Pa., where he was president of the senior class. He seriously considered accepting the offer of a band leader to become a musician, but the lure of racing was greater. He became a steeplechase jockey and rode for 16 years.

It was a hazardous life and, when Peoples quit riding, he became trainer for Bayard Sharp. When Troilus won the $100,000 Flamingo at Hialeah, Peoples had saddled his first stakes winner.

Peoples is the only trainer in the Florida limelight with a musical background. However, he is not the only turfman associated with music. In California, Harry James, an extraordinary trumpeteer, is a stable owner and breeder. Frank Fiore, Atlantic City track official, is a genuine "hep" bull fiddler.

* * *

Hopes Troilus Is in Tune

CURRENTLY, PEOPLES is more interested in tuning Troilus for the Derby, than in blowing a trumpet. He concedes that Troilus was "short," or under trained, for the recent Fountain of Youth Stakes in which Sharp's horse was beaten by eight lengths by Easy Spur.

"Troilus is at peak form now," Peoples insists. "All we have to do is keep him at that point."

Troilus is getting long gallops and will get his toughest workout the morning before the Derby.

"Troilus never needed much work, although he did get fat on me after the Flamingo," Peoples explained. "He has responded well to the morning trials and we'll have no excuses if he is beaten."

For Marlins' Harry Byrd: A Warm Success

. . . after five scoreless innings . . . a forehead-swiping rest

Byrd-Boosted Marlins Coop Chicks, 3 to 2

By EDDIE STORIN
Herald Sports Writer

Here's a tip: Look for Hulking Harry Byrd to be tapped for the opening night pitching assignment when the Miami Marlins blast off the 1959 baseball season two weeks from tonight against Montreal.

Pepper Martin, the crafty gentleman who manages the Marlins, claims he isn't ready to do any finger-pointing yet.

However, Pepper does admit he's doing "some contemplating about the situation." And, after Byrd tossed five near-perfect innings in Miami's 3-2 victory over Memphis Monday night, Martin went so far as to say that Harry was high among the "contemplatees."

The former Yankee right-hander moved down the Chicks on three singles — one a bad hopper — while facing only 18 batsmen. Not a runner got past first base as Byrd displayed mid-summer control.

I felt good, real good," Harry huffed later. "I can't remember when I felt better this early in training. But don't forget it is only spring training and I've got a way to go yet."

The 34-year-old South Carolinian has a strong yen to pitch his way back to the big time, and he's been training hard. "I've lost about 12 pounds so far," said Byrd, "and I plan to drop a few more."

"Yes sir," said Martin, "he sure looked good tonight. I like the determined way he's been going about his job. Let's hope he keeps it up."

Byrd now has tossed 12 innings in three exhibitions, allowing only two earned runs. And he hasn't issued a single base on balls.

Monday night it looked like Harry's effort was going to waste as late as the ninth inning.

Memphis jumped on Byrd's relief, Mel Held, for two runs in the sixth inning on a pair of walks and two singles.

Right-hander Rodger Aldridge and Lefty All Weed had the Marlins blanked on five hits until the ninth.

Then with one out, a walk, George Wehmeyer's single and another walk loaded the bases.

Rookie Fred Valentine tied the count with a two-run double to center. The winning run zipped home on Foster Castleman's slow hopper to second base.

Valentine's hit was his second of the night and hiked his club leading total to 12. He's also tops in runs batted in with 10 — a mighty fine start for this 23-year-old out of Class B.

Two Marlins came off the sick list. Castleman, playing only his second game, managed one hit in five at bats while Third Baseman Loren Babe went none for three in his first start.

* * *

FISH TALES: The Marlins get their last crack at Dallas tonight in the Marlins farewell appearance at Falmingo Park. Game time is 8 o'clock . . . Rolf Scheel, who didn't allow a run in eight innings with Baltimore this spring, will pitch for the Marlins. "He can go all the way if he wants to," said Martin. "I'll try," replied Scheel . . . Woody Smith was given the night off . . . Jerry Snyder got a good report on his injured right knee Monday when Dr. Charles Burbacher said the injury was nothing more than a strained tendon. Snyder should be ready to take some hitting later in the week and probably will return to the lineup early next week . . . Bert Hamric is nursing a sore knee while Johnny Bucha's throwing arm is bothering him. Both are minor ailments, however, and they are being rested for precautionary reasons .

Maiden Colt Sights On Florida Derby

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

At the races the term "maiden" applies to colts and geldings as well as fillies. It means a horse which has never reached the winner's circle, and railbirds from coast to coast are inclined to look with a bit of contempt upon maidens.

Yet out at Gulfstream Park, Trainer Norman Haymaker is preparing The Chosen One, a maiden colt to take on Easy Spur, Troilus and the rest in Saturday's $100,000 added Florida Derby.

Haymaker is the perfect trainer for such a task. A no more opitimistic man ever graced Jimmy Donn's horse palace than this amiable and knowledgeable Virginian.

Punters who like "inside information" on the bangtails long ago learned to by-pass Haymaker when seeking tips. Haymaker always thinks he has a chance to win; if he didn't, his horse wouldn't be in the entries.

Don't get the idea that The Chosen One is strictly small change. He may not have won a race yet but he's been chasing top-notch rivals and he hasn't been far behind either.

There's method in the Haymaker "madness." The Chosen One could easily have won two or three races this winter had his trainer entered him against ordinary horses. However, by remaining a maiden, The Chosen One gets an eight-pound concession in the weights for the Florida Derby. That may not be enough to get him past Easy Spur or Troilus but, on the other hand, it won't hurt his chances any.

The Chosen One is owned by Mrs. S. Helene Sadacca of Miami Shores and is a half-brother to her top runner, A Dragon Killer.

It may well be that The Chosen One is "in too deep" in the Florida Derby. However, before you dismiss his chances, remember the Kentucky Derbies of 1919 and 1933. They were won by Sir Barton and Brokers Tip — and both were maidens.

J. W. KANE'S Revolutionist came from well off the pace to score a nose victory over Lake Erie Monday at Gulfstream Park in the final prep race for Saturday's $100,000-added Florida Derby.

First National was a length farther back in third position at the finish, with favored Noble Sel winding up fourth.

Five of the eight starters in Monday's feature—Revolutionist, Lake Erie, Rico Tesio, Wheatley Road and Capetian—are eligible for the Florida Derby.

Both Revolutionist and Lake Erie appeared to have displayed enough to merit a chance in Saturday's Derby.

Monday's 12,412 patrons bet a total of $1,096,034. On the comparable day a year ago, a crowd of 11,017 wagered $988,124.

Worried Looking Ted Arrives

. . . in Boston to enter hospital

Despite 'Kink' in Neck

'I'll Play in Opener,' Ted Williams Predicts

BOSTON — (AP) — Ted Williams, a strained expression on his face, entered New England Baptist Hospital Monday for treatment of what he called "a kink in my neck."

The Boston slugger vowed, however, he'd open the season patroling left field for the Red Sox. There was no encouragement from doctors.

Neither did the medicos say immediately that the 40-year-old batting artist wouldn't be on hand when the American League opens its season April 10.

A medical bulletin said Williams would begin traction treatments to relieve the pain, and that orthopedic consultations would be planned in a day or two.

Williams obviously was a disappointed man when he arrived at the hospital for the X-rays which were the basis for the decision that he be admitted as a patient.

"I was just getting into shape," he lamented.

Williams ,who can point to almost as many injuries as batting titles, thinks "I evidently twisted my neck in such a way I pinched a nerve."

Williams has appeared in only three pre-season baseball exhibitions with the Red Sox.

Olson Wins On Decision

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Former middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson won a unanimous decision over Rory Calhoun Monday night in his toughest test thus far in a comeback as a light heavyweight.

Olson weighed 174¼; Calhoun, 168¼.

Olson, now 30, scored the only knockdown in the 10-round fight with a short left in the seventh. He also withstood a savage body attack.

Amick Boosts Daytona Mark To 176.88 MPH

DAYTONA BEACH — (AP) — George Amick of Rhinelander, Wis., boosted the record for speedway cars to 176.88 miles an hour Monday, three miles better than the previous mark at Daytona International Speedway.

In a change of plans, officials threw the 2½-mile track open for qualifying rounds for Saturday's two 100-mile races for Speedway cars. Only eight drivers qualified Saturday and the trials were called off Sunday because of a wet track.

Amick, who finished second at Indianapolis last year in the annual 500-mile Memorial Day event, drove a Bowes Seal Fast Special in his record shattering run.

The previous mark here was 173.21 set by Dick Rathman of Speedway, Ind., last Saturday when he won pole position in the USAC sponsored event in a Sumar Special.

Amick's time approached the 177.03 world record for a single lap around a race track established at Monza, Italy, last June by Tony Bettenhausen in a Novi Special.

Other drivers qualifying Monday were Bill Cheesbourg, Tucson, Ariz., Hardwood Door Special, 166.85 miles an hour; and Jud Larson, Tampa, Bowes Seal Special, 163.57 mph.

McFarland, Vejar Win

PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(AP)— Chico Vejar, 155, scored a technical knockout over Sergio Rios, 151½, Havana, in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-rounder here Monday night.

* * *

NEW YORK — (AP) — Marvin (Candy) McFarland of Philadelphia scored four knockdowns en route to a close but unanimous decision over Samuel (Chico) Rollins of New York in the 10-round feature bout at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

McFarland dropped Rollins once in the fifth and seventh rounds and wound up matters with a flourish, flooring Chico twice in the 10th. Both weighed 135½.

Braves Sock 15 Hits, Lambast Cards, 12-2

By the Associated Press

Fifteen hits rattled off Milwaukee bats Monday as the National League champions answered Manager Fred Haney's charges of complacency.

AARON

Hank Aaron's three-run homer, his fifth of the exhibition season, was the big blow as the Braves thumped St. Louis, 12-2.

The victory was only the Braves' sixth in 19 games and ended a three-game losing streak.

In other games played in Florida, New York defeated Cincinnati, 4-0; Detroit subdued Los Angeles, 8-4; Philadelphia beat Washington, 11-7; Chicago's White Sox edged Kansas City, 5-4, and Pittsburgh knocked off Baltimore, 8-4.

Gary Geiger joined the crew of Boston outfield wounded as the Red Sox defeated Cleveland, 6-5. Chicago's Cubs outslugged San Francisco, 10-8, in the other Arizona game.

Aaron's homer came in the second inning as Milwaukee blasted Redbird Pitcher Ernie Broglio for seven runs.

Veterans Bobby Shantz and Virgil Trucks checked the Reds with eight hits as Cincinnati was shut out for the first time.

Al Kaline drove in five runs for Detroit in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was rained out.

Washington picked up five runs off Phils' Starter Don Cardwell in the first, but couldn't hold the lead. Philadelphia scored six times in the sixth with the aid of an error.

Geiger was knocked cold for 20 minutes and suffered painful bruises on his neck and right leg when he collided with Shortstop Don Buddin while chasing a fly ball.

Hockey Rivals Hunt Plugs for Injury Gaps

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks took brisk, hour-long practice turns on the Chicago Stadium ice Monday, trying to plug holes created by injuries.

Skating with the Hawks in drills was Ron Ingram, 26-year-old defenseman called up from Buffalo to replace the injured Elmer Vasko. Vasko reinjured his shoulder in Saturday's bruising battle.

Montreal's talented, high-scoring center Jean Beliveau also was injured Saturday. Ken Modell, 36-year-old winger, was brought in from the Montreal Royals.

TORONTO — (AP) — Lynn Patrick, Boston Bruins general manager, must have been psychic last fall when he traded Allan Stanley to the Toronto Maple Leafs for Jim Morrison.

The Bruins were knee-deep in defensemen at the time, but they had only one good rushing defenseman, Doug Mohns. If anything happened to "The Diesel," the Bruins would be in trouble.

Something happened to Mohns. He twisted his right knee in Saturday's Stanley Cup semifinal playoff game with Toronto, and will miss tonight's contest.

Blair Heads Record-Hunters In Gables Invitational Friday

Winter Haven High distance star Jack Blair shoots for a new Coral Gables Ivitational mile record in the track meet at University of Miami Friday.

Blair ran a 4:39 mile in the Florida Relays last week. The Gables record is 4:40.3, set in 1955 by Jerry Christman of Gables.

Alan Wright of South Broward is almost certain to smash the 100-yard dash standard of 10.1. Wright, also a record threat in the 200 dash and the board jump, consistently breaks 10 seconds in the century.

Gene Lunsford, Fort Lauderdale's Bumper Watson and Jackson's Chapman share the 10.1 record.

On their previous outputs Frank Lasky of Coral Gables or Tom Campbell of North Miami should establish a new shot put record.

MIAMI JACKSON visits Miami High today in the top prep baseball game on a heavy schedule.

Other Miami area games put Curley at South Dade (night), Tech at Coral Gables, Norland at St. Patrick's, Hialeah at Southwest, Miami Beach at Key West and Stranahan at North Miami.

St. Ann's of West Palm Beach goes to McArthur, Clewiston travels to Forest Hills and Belle Glade visits Delray Beach Seacrest. Lake Worth plays at Pompano, Vero Beach at Fort Pierce, and Titusville at Cocoa.

A scheduled track meet between Jackson and Miami High at Moore Park has been canceled.

Pot Bubbles as Sugar Stirs Up . . .

. . . Title-Stripping Threat From NBA

MILWAUKEE —(AP)— An official of the National Boxing Association said Monday it looks as though the NBA will withdraw its recognition of Ray Robinson as middleweight champion unless he signs for a title defense by April 25.

Ratings Committee Chairman Fred Saddy said a poll of the NBA's executive members "appears to be overwhelmingly against Robinson." Results of the poll have not been announced as yet.

Sugar Ray first won the middleweight title from Miami's Jake Lamotta on Feb. 14, 1951. He then lost the crown three times and retired once, only to bounce back each time to recapture it.

Robinson hasn't defended his title since March 25, 1958, when he won it back from Carmen Basilio. The NBA requires champions to defend their titles at least once every six months.

"He owes it to boxing and to us to get into action," Saddy said. "Boxing has been very good to him. And we were instrumental in getting him the shot at Lamotta originally.

"It's about time he did something. "Everybody's been too good to him. He's just too cute for his own good."

. . . $100,000 Offer To Tackle Pender

BOSTON —(AP)— Sugar Ray Robinson has been offered a $100,000 guarantee to defend his middleweight championship against Paul Pender of Brookline in a June 15-rounder here, the Sharkey Athletic Association announced Monday.

Promoters Johnny Buckley and Sam Silverman said Robinson is now considering the offer of a flat guarantee, plus 40 per cent of all other revenues from television, radio, movies, etc.

Pender, on a leave of absence from the Brookline Fire Department, has won seven straight bouts, including a 10-round decision over Veteran Ralph (Tiger) Jones, in the ring comeback he launched last November.

UM Netters Win; Moss Streak Ends

Jerry Moss, U-Miami's No. 1 tennis star, took his first singles beating in three years of college team competition Monday, but bounced back to help win the doubles match that squeezed the Hurricanes by Presbyterian College, 5-4.

MOSS

The straining victory gave UM a perfect day in Sports Carnival competition, which ended Monday. The Hurricane baseballers nailed Yale, 11-9, in the day's only other contest.

Moss, grounded 6-4, 10-8 by PC's Harry Hoffman in the singles, teamed with John Capell to beat Hoffman and Jim Shakespeare, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, for the match that locked UM's tennis win.

It was Miami's 42nd straight court triumph. Presbyterian, last team to beat the Hurricanes, gunned down a 72-match UM streak in 1957.

Capell, UM's No. 2 man, also lost his singles match, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2, to Shakespeare as Presbyterian gained a 3-3 tie in the singles.

Quick Repair Job Gives Moss Victory

GOODWOOD, England —(AP)— Stirling Moss Monday drove a Cooper-Climax to victory in the 100-mile auto race for grand prix cars at the tricky Goodwood circuit. He won only 48 hours after crashing in the same car.

Jack Brabham of Australia was second in another Cooper and Harry Schell, an American living in Paris, third in a BRM.

Moss, runner-up to the late Mike Hawthorn in last year's world racing drivers championship, crashed into a fence during trials Saturday when his Cooper's steering failed.

He escaped unhurt, the car was repaired and he took it back on the track Monday to win.

Moss' time was one hour, six minutes and 58 seconds. His average speed was 90.31 miles per hour.

Brabham trailed by 14 seconds with Shell just a second behind in third place. In turn the American was only three-fifths of a second ahead of fourth place Joakim Bonnier of Sweden who also drove a BRM.

Levenson Advances, 3-2

Medalist Mrs. Al Levenson defeated Mrs. Jack Ablin, 3-2, Monday in the first round of the Westview Women's Golf Association championship tournament.

Closest match of the day was the duel between Mrs. Stephen Leifert and Mrs. C. Spitz, won by Mrs. Leifert's par on the 18th hole.

Results:

Art Wall's 73-282 Snares Azalea Golf

WILMINGTON, N.C. — (AP) — Art Wall Jr. slid a stroke over par Monday but his closing 73 for a 282 total was good enough to win the $15,000 Azalea Open golf tournament by three shots.

The 35-year-old professional from Pocono Manor, Pa., won $2,000 to boost his total for the year to $18,814, tops on the tour. Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., Wall's former Duke golf teammate, finished second on a closing 71 for a 285 total, worth $1,500.

Wall's closing round marked only the seventh time in 44 rounds this year that he went over par. It was the fifth such slip in the closing round of a tournament.

"I scored as well as I had hoped Monday, but I didn't play very well," he said after holding out the final short putt.

'Chases' Stan the Man to Outfield

Musial's 'Caddie' Cunningham May Be Cards' Key

By ARTHUR DALEY

Copyright, The NY Times Company

ST. PETERSBURG — Almost before the ink had dried on his credentials as Cardinal manager, Solly Hemus rocked the baseball world with a pronouncement.

"I intend to use Stan Musial in the outfield," he declared, "in order to save his legs and prolong his career. By moving Joe Cunningham to first base, we'll also strengthen our defense."

If the underlying philosophy of this switch seems fuzzy, that's because Musial was shifted from the outfield to first base a few years ago "to save his legs and prolong his career." However, the news did jolt those baseball fans who had been dozing in the back of the room and not paying too much attention to what had been going on of late.

"Who in the world is Joe Cunningham?" they asked.

It was not too stupid a question, though. A casual follower of the game would not necessarily have been aware of the existance of Joe Cunningham. He's a big, flippant bachelor of 27 from Saddle Brook, N.J., who has been—more or less, anyway—Musial's caddie.

Hutchinson

Tebbetts

Stanky

Joe got his start filling in for the aging wonder in late innings or when Stan was tired or ailing or just unable to stand the gaff.

But Cunningham became so good as a part-time employe that a spot in the regular lineup had to be found for him. It was found in the outfield. There he remained until he nudged Musial off first base between seasons last autumn.

However, the trade last week between the Giants and the Cardinals has clouded up the situtation somewhat. The Redbirds got the distance slugger they were after in Bill White. Like Musial and Cunningham, he's also a first baseman-outfielder with his preference being the infield.

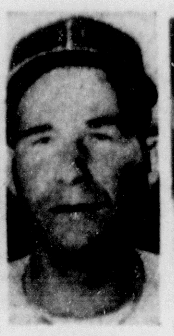
Maybe Cunningham's sojourn as the undisputed holder of the job at first won't endure. He may land back in the outfield after all.

But at least Cunningham holds the distinction of being the only ball player who showed enough class to force the juggling of Musial, hitherto an untouchable. When Joe chased Stan to the outfield, he could not have been criticized if he had cracked: "So what, buddy boy? You once chased me farther." Musial, you see, once sent Cunningham all the way to Rochester.

When Manager Eddie Stanky brought Cunningham up from the minors to be the St. Louis first baseman in mid-season of 1954, Joe celebrated his release from serfdom by hitting a home run in his first time at bat. In his second game he hit two.

Joe finished the campaign with a respectable .284 average and seemed set for years to come. But spring training of 1955 was not yet over when Stanky summoned Cunningham to his office.

MUSIAL



HEMUS

Cunningham

"Joe," he said, "I've decided to switch Musial to first base. I'm sorry but you'll be going back to Rochester."

There Joe stayed for two seasons, performing only at first base. By spring training of 1957, however, an idea had begun gathering force in the mind of Fred Hutchinson, then the Cardinal manager.

In the opening game of the Grapefruit League season he unexpectedly stuck Cunningham in right field, a position the young man had never before played. Joe responded with a spectacular backhanded catch of a scorching drive off the bat of Enos Slaughter of the Yankees. This and other displays of competence in the outfield impelled Hutch to keep him on the varsity roster. He never regretted it.

Hutch's pal, Birdie Tebbetts, regretted it, however.

Birdie brought his Reds into St. Louis in first place in mid-season of 1957. Cunningham knocked them out of it. He beat them with a pinch hit on Friday; with three hits on Saturday and with six hits in Sunday's doubleheader. He wound up with a .318 batting mark and was in the big time for keeps. A .312 last year merely emphasized the situation.

Joe is a lot smarter these days, too. In his freshman year with the Cards, Jersey Joe was playing first when the batter hit sharply to the outfield with a couple of runners on base. True to his trust, Cunningham moved out on the diamond as the perfect throw came winging in to the plate.

"Cut it off!" screamed a voice back of him.

Joe reached up his glove and deftly cut off the throw. Not until then, though, did he discover who had screamed the order. It was Dick Cole of Pittsburgh, the base runner.

Tasby Homers Again, Orioles Still Lose, 8-4

FORT MYERS —(AP)— The Baltimore Orioles out-hit the Pirates, 14-8, Monday but lost the game, 8-4.

Ronnie Kline, despite the Oriole hitting spree, became the second Pirate pitcher to toil nine full innings. He drove in three of the Pirates' runs.

The Pirates' eight hits, coupled with five walks and three Baltimore errors, made the difference.

Kline gave up a home run ball to Willie Tasby. He also yielded a pair of doubles and a triple, but left 11 Baltimore base runners stranded.

Jack Harshman and Chuck Estrada did the pitching for Baltimore. Harshman, who gave up seven of Pittsburgh's runs, was charged with the loss. Five of the runs off Harshman were unearned.

Ted Kluszewski collected three singles and drove across one run.

NBA Draft Opens Today

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The National Basketball Association will go again next season with a 72-game schedule and if Chicago gets a franchise it won't be before the 1960-61 season.

The club bosses will make their draft selections from college seniors this morning.

The idea that the NBA might move into Chicago again has been reported recently. League President Maurice Podoloff told loop directors he had informed Max Winter, the interested Chicago promoter, of the league's needs and requirements.

OIL OPERATOR sprinted to fore at once, swerved over while clear on leaving chute and was hard ridden to hold OFFICIAL SEAL safe. OIL OPERATOR survived a claim of foul lodged by rider of MADISON AVENUE when it was determined that JOHN'S QUEST was the offending animal. OFFICIAL SEAL raced along inner rail in an even effort. MADISON AVENUE was bumped about on leaving chute and appeared to have "bucked" during the running.

New Papa Wins With 'Longies'

Buck Thornburg: Business Picks Up

Buck Thornburg became a father for the first time Sunday night — it was a boy and his name is James William. The new poppa celebrated the occasion by booting home consecutive winners in the third and fourth events at Gulfstream Park.

Thornburg

Thornburg, leading rider on the Ohio circuit for two straight years, won with D. E. Loveman's Oil Operator at $20.50 and C. L. Cray's Dalsax at $7.90.

Dalsax cut out the pace until headed in the stretch as the 40-1 Mi Manada made what appeared to be a winning surge. But Dalsax came on again along the rail under Thornburg's urging to score by a neck.

Dalsax was the Ohioan's third straight score. He won Saturday's ninth race with Mielleux at $59.40.

Thornburg's agent is Al Hudson, the former University of Miami football star who has been trying all season to convince Florida horsemen that Thornburg's a winner.

All they have to do is look at the record. The Ohio lad has won 10 races in his last 57 mounts and he has been riding mostly run-of-the-mill horses at the Gulfstream meeting. — RUSS HARRIS.

2 Divisions

24 Battle Today In Dinner Stakes

A bumper crop of 24 two-year-olds was named for Gulfstream Park's Dinner Stakes today, forcing division of the event into two 3-furlong races with each carrying a purse of $10,000-added.

The Dinner Stakes will be the fourth and fifth events on the program and the lineups, in post position order, are as follows:

First division — Carrollton, Cape Canaveral, Benell, Andale, Sandys Sis W., Mickey's Bolero, Phildel, Sayasea, Pampagent, Skilligolee, Algenib and Matthias.

Second division — Biddy Will, Rough Fellow, Missus Beau, Sweet Error, Adolph W., Kwai, Ednez, Our Jody, Jet Fox, Chuckabuck, Ouija Board and Gallant Guy.

There will be considerable support for Matthias in the first division with Benell, Carrollton and Andale among the chief contenders. Matthias was a sparkling winner in his last outing at Gulfstream while Benell won the Florida Breeders Futurity at Sunshine Park.

Ouija Board, victor in the Hialeah Juvenile, heads the second division with Ednez and Our Jody among his top rivals. Ednez was a 40-1 upset winner at Gulfstream in one of the fastest three furlongs of the season.

This will be the seventh running of the Dinner Stakes and it will mark the third time it has been divided. That was the case in both 1953 and 1954. The field will be shooting at a time mark of 32 4-5 seconds which was set in 1956 by King Hairan.

Bonefish After Dark? Certainly (Sometimes)

FISHING
...with Vic Dunaway

DUNAWAY

Few people would think of fishing for bonefish after dark. I can go a step farther and say that NOBODY would plan to do it.

But this was one of those days when plans just don't work out. On such days the methodic angler gives up and goes home — while the gambling angler simply ignores the book and fishes the best way he can. It's a good gamble because you can't lose. You may not win, but you can't lose.

Jack Primack is one of the few bonefish guides who ply their trade in Biscayne Bay. In addition to being a guide, he is a dyed-in-the-wool fisherman, which is the only reason he even considered stopping on that particular flat with daylight almost gone.

So far our bonefishing plans had been thoroughly busted up by showers, high winds and dark clouds. It was time, Jack thought, to abandon plans and just start fishing and hoping.

"I'd bet there are plenty of bonefish on this flat," Jack said, "if we only had a little light to see them."

In support of this observation, there suddenly was a huge boiling swirl at the side of the boat as a bonefish shifted into flushing gear. As we drifted farther, more bonefish fled from the boat in regular order.

* * *

THIS WAS A sight no angler could resist. Despite the odds and despite the darkness, the three of us flipped live shrimp over the side.

Scarcely a minute later, Jack's dad, Louis Primack, whispered that something was taking his bait. He hesitated a moment, then struck. At once his reel drag began to sing a steady song. Line stripped off to the speed and distance that could mean only a bonefish—and a big one.

Eventually the fish ran out of his first breath. Louis cranked back a good bit of line before the bone recovered and set forth once more, this time on a course parallel to the boat. With light completely gone now, we could not follow its runs well, so Jack and I had no choice but to wind in our lines and help Louis along with a little back-seat advice.

Louis ignored our heckling and continued to play his fish in business-like fashion. There was a spray of silver as the bonefish rolled at the surface about 10 yards from the boat. Jack picked up the net and waited. Louis cranked carefully, ready for another run, but an accurate sweep of the net ended the battle.

* * *

EVEN WITHOUT light it was apparent that the sleek, thick-bodied fish would push the 8-lb. mark — a real husky in any area at any time.

To many people it would be a staggering surprise that such a beauty could come from Biscayne Bay, within easy rowing distance of the Crandon Park launching ramp.

And if you happen to find this story tough to believe, all you have to do is go out to the west shore of Key Biscayne and catch the same fish yourself. When Louis released him, he looked like he was ready for battle immediately.

For an extra thrill, try it after dark.

UM's Nelson Makes Swim All-America

Jack Nelson, University of Miami's Olympic swimmer, has been named to the All-America College swimming team. The team is selected by the college swimming coaches of America.

NELSON

The UM aquatic ace won the award because of his brilliance in the butterfly division. He has been undefeated for the past two years in the 200-yard butterfly in team competition.

UM swimming coach Lloyd Bennett said Monday that Nelson could make the coming American Olympic swimming team.

Nelson was a junior on the Hurricane team this past season. His home is Fort Lauderdale.

Tampa, Rollins Crews Triumph

TAMPA — (AP) — The University of Tampa crew won its third straight victory Monday in a three-length triumph over American International of Springfield, Mass.

The Tampa team covered the one mile course on the Hillsborough River in six minutes, two seconds.

'I'm Not Playing For Fun'

Deadly Serious Ben Hogan Tunes Up for Masters Golf

AUGUSTA —(AP)— Ben Hogan checked in at Augusta National Monday and gave the jitters to about 90 other golfers who have hopes of winning the 25th anniversary Masters tournament.

Hogan has won the Masters twice — in 1951 and 1953. He has been runner-up four times and he's a player who must be reckoned with every time this tradition-loaded tournament is played.

Hogan knows every blade of grass, every flowering shrub and tree on the 6,980-yard Augusta National Course and every dip and roll on the big greens.

Now virtually retired from tournament golf, which he dominated in the early 1950s, he comes back a few times each year after intensive preparation to play in a few events which have meaning to him. The Masters is one.

"I don't play businessman golf," he said before going out to whack about 100 balls from the practice tee. "I'm still interested in competitive golf. I don't play just for fun."

HOGAN

SNEAD

Hogan has been tuning up for about a month for this tournament which starts Thursday. He admits he wouldn't even be playing if he didn't think he had a chance to win. He holds the 72-hole record of 274 for the tournament and there's every indication that this year's winner will have to come close to that figure.

Along with Hogan, the golfers who have been winners or contenders in the Masters in recent years all are on hand ready to give a bad time to the ones who have been picking up top money on the winter tour.

Sam Snead, one of two players who have won the Masters three times, Cary Middlecoff, Masters winner in 1955 and Open champion in 1949 and 1956, and Jack Burke, the 1956 Masters champion, all have been taking dead aim at this tournament. They seldom play in the run-of-mill tournaments.

Busso-Lane Bout Listed

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Johnny Busso will fight Kenny Lane here April 17 in "more or less of an elimination" to see which gets another crack at Joe Brown's lightweight championship, Hollywood Legion Stadium officials announced Monday.

Busso, 23, New York City, decisioned Brown in a non-title scrap last Nov. 5 at Miami, then lost a decision to him in a Houston title match in February.

Lane, 25, lost a 15-round decision to Brown last July 23 in Houston.

Bugs Couldn't Stop Mary Martin and Co.

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK — (UPI) — The show, of course, must go on — though why I couldn't say.

Sunday, Mary Martin, who has been virus-bugged and abroil with 103-degree fever since Thursday, bounced on with not one, but count 'em, two NBC-TV specials.

To complicate matters, 36 members of her cast and crew also were be-bugged and the situation was so serious that:

1. NBC WAS spending $60 a day on medicine for the afflicted.
2. MISS Martin's understudy, Beryl Tobin, was standing by at showtime.
3. DIRECTOR Vincent Donehue had to work in a facial mask to ward off the assembled diseases.

The trouble was well worth it.

* * *

BOTH SPECIALS — the daytime "Magic With Mary Martin" and the nighttime "Music With Mary Martin"—were slickly packaged and were, I'm sure, a joy to all of Miss Martin's fans.

Miss Martin, I must admit, is one of my lesser enthusiasms. Her excessive coyness and continual cheer erode my nerve ends — but she has reached holy status by now and along with mother, flag and Albert Schweitzer is invulnerable to criticism.

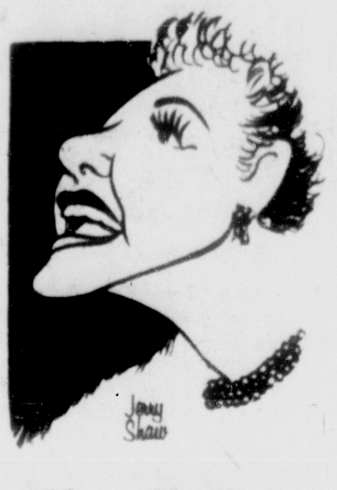
However, I can sense her attraction for others. She has vast resources of energy, tries hard to please and goes to some pains to honeycomb her Mainbocher elegance with Sears Roebuck homespuness.

* * *

HER DAYTIME show — pitched at those who are too old for Captain Kangaroo and too young for Dick Clark — was an attempt to feed youngsters the sort of fantasy in which they had to work a little themselves.

Imagine a prince, a chimney corner, a ball.

The postulate was that the audience is just as much a part of a show as the performer, a rather agreeable premise and the kids seemed to enjoy their work no end.



Jerry Shaw

Mary Martin
. . . always tries hard

* * *

THE NIGHTTIME show was a production beauty, uncluttered and a traveler.

It was afflicted a bit too heavily with pre-fab glee, but then so are almost all of TV's variety shows.

Miss Martin is really not much of a pop singer. She flats, her voice cracks and she lacks swing.

But she is fiercely amiable, very much of a pro and equipped with sure-fire material.

All in all, a double triumph, despite my sourpuss reservations.

"THE HUMAN COMEDY, presented Saturday on CBS-TV's Du Pont Show of the Month, was standard William Saroyan — an unsettling mixture of the charming and the banal.

Some of its parts had glisten: The exchanges between Thomas Grogan, the telegrapher, and Michael Pollard, the boy; a scene in a schoolroom; a scene in which the boy receives a letter from his soldier-brother.

But an uncomfortable amount of ooze also sluiced through the show: Jo Van Fleet, a fine actress, was saddled with some incredibly trite lines. So was Burgess Meredith, who acted as narrator, a tedious device in itself.

Civil War's Not Over by A Long Shot

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. James M. Quigley (D., Pa.) has carried to the Senate his fight for more money to clear junkyards and beer parlors off two Civil War battlefields.

Quigley's appeal called on the Senate to restore $1,250,000 chopped out of the 1960 budget by the House.

The money would have been earmarked for further land purchases at the sites of the Battle of Gettysburg, in Quigley's district, and the two battles of Bull Run, or Manassas, near Manassas, Va., among others.

The Pennsylvania congressman said in a statement that Southerners in particular should be interested in preserving more Gettysburg areas, some of them adjoining President Eisenhower's farm, for historical parks.

"In one section, land occupied and fought over by men of Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and Virginia units is now occupied by a line of souvenir shops, garages, beer parlors and trailer courts," the congressman said.

Persons and Programs

NBC-TV is knocking off Jefferson Drum on April 30 and replacing it with a rodeo show out of Texas.

A. C. Alexander's Court of Human Relations, scheduled for a daytime berth on NBC-TV, starts taping its shows April 6.

CBS-TV's Invisible Man, scheduled to return to CBS-TV May 1, has been postponed until July.

Claudette Colbert is under consideration for the emcee spot on CBS-TV's new special daytime series, Woman. CBS-TV's G.E. Theater will go with re-runs from May 24 through September 14.

Avoid Argument

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Tuesday, March 31, 1959

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Steer clear of arguing with a powerful person this A.M. Later you will have an opportunity to have a fine time at the outlets which most please you. Get your special abilities before the right people and commercialize on them. Be mundane.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Do not take any risks where financial position or important emotional ties are concerned in A.M. Later in the day there is an opportunity to delve into new and interesting outlets.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An associate may give you a bit of a rough time this A.M., but do not let it disturb you. Have conferences with authorities who understand your problem and know how to adjust them quickly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do your regular work in a most painstaking manner this A.M. so that you save basic security and safeguard real estate, other holdings. Be good with fellow workers, too.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) See that you dress yourself in excellent taste in early A.M. and raise prestige. Then you can go about meeting obligations and fulfilling contracts with perfect ease and adroitness. FOR YOUR COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for April send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895, Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Just ignore that difficult situation at home and all will peter out quite normally. You can then go out socially or at the sports you most enjoy and have a most enjoyable time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take care that all in your abode is in A-1 condition, but do not be forceful with ideas regarding family ties. P.M. have guests in who will be profitable to you in near future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) This is a day when you can look into government records, legal documents, statements, Etc. and make adjustments quickly. Also fine for travel, shopping, etc.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate exclusively on affairs that deal with your holdings, real estate in particular. P.M. see about recordings or whatever is phonetic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Pay no attention to irate family tie. Work industriously and all will blow over soon. Latter part of day you can then go about socially and have a most enjoyable time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Secret outside angling will be most productive of good today. However, be very careful while driving or in motion, but don't permit anything to distract you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 March 20) Fine day for beginning to work harmoniously with those persons you wish to have as associates in the future. But be certain you understand the real goals that are to be reached.

Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: Is worsen all right for get worse? M. A. A.

ANSWER: Yes — though there was a period when it wasn't. Worsen was standard literary English until about three hundred years ago ("Times are changed and men are worsened" → 1450). Then the word fell into disuse among the educated, though the uneducated kept on using it. And it might very well have disappeared had not the romantic poets, seeking for effective, homely words, revived it.

But they were too successful. The public, reminded of what a good old word it was (compared to deteriorate, which had replaced it), took it up again. It was a good opposite to bettered. It soon lost its quaint earthiness and became a sensible, everyday word again. It is listed as standard by all dictionaries today.

Many people — I among them — find "get worse" more natural English. But worsen may very well make "get worse" seem quaint or awkward within a few years.

Slit Gowns Go

TAIPEI — (AP) — By police order, barmaids and waitresses in restaurants serving wine and liquor here must swap their form-fitting, long-slitted Chinese gowns for special uniforms of less allure. The change must be made by mid-April.

Details, Previews of Tonight's TV

These symbols indicate program was previewed by T.V. Ted, The Herald's Scout

7 P.M.

2 — EVERYDAY SPANISH — "The Laundry" is tonight's lesson.

4 — SILENT SERVICE—The USS Swordfish is ordered to locate and destroy hidden anchorage where Japanese received supplies for their air bases.

7 — WOODY WOODPECKER — Woody has a dream in which he confuses himself with a wolf.

10 — A MILLION—Deep sea diver Driscoll volunteers for the most dangerous of assignments.

7:30

2 — POSTAL PARADE—Tonight we visit behind the windows of the Miami Post Office.

4 — I LOVE LUCY — John Wayne guests, but Lucy and Ethel hit the panic button when a search is on for who stole a certain slab of cement with certain footprints in it.

7 — DANGER IS MY BUSINESS—The story of volunteer pilots in Alaska's Civil Air Patrol who fight the elements to safeguard the lives of their fellow man.

10 — SUGARFOOT — Indian voodoo and white man's bullets dog Sugarfoot when he tries to help an escaped man.

8

2 — LEARN TO TYPE — Progressing to actual typing, there are one minute time writings tonight.

4 — FLIGHT—"Enemy Agent" is tonight's Air Force story.

7 — STEVE CANYON—film.

8:30

2 — SECRET OF FLIGHT — First in a series of shows about the basic problems of flight.

4 — TO TELL THE TRUTH —live.

7 — JIMMIE RODGERS —

Best Bet

Filling half the old Fisher-Gobel hour starting tonight is this new musical half-hour starring a young guitar-plucking folk singer with a lot of charm and talent. Jimmie says what he's aiming for is a "happy" show, and he'll only use his guitar when he sings folk songs ("I don't want them to think I'm a rock and roller.") Tonight Jimmy sings some of his big hits, ditto songstress Connie Francis and the Kirby Stone Four.

10 — WYATT EARP — in "The Judas Goat," Wyatt trails a crooked Marshal from Kansas City who has teamed up with bandits to get a Wells Fargo reward.

9

2—LAW AND GOVERNMENT —Duties, Responsibilities of the Circuit Court.

4 — ARTHUR GODFREY — Art has shot back a half-hour of tape from Hawaii, which makes the show kind of interesting tonight. Most of this was taped on the grounds of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, and you'll see what makes a luau. There'll be entertainment by a singing trio and three hula girls.

View of Diamond Head off Waikiki
. . . On Arthur Godfrey show at 9 on 4

7 — GEORGE BURNS—George is forced to resort to underhanded methods to keep Ronnie and Judy Meredith from "Breaking up the Team."

10 — RIFLEMAN—A lawman known for his gunslinging rides into North Fork looking for an outlaw. Young McCain gives him the lead he is looking for.

9:30

2 — SOCRATES — Socrates, believed by some to be the wisest man in the world, ended his life by drinking hemlock. This is the story of how and why he was condemned to death.

4 — RED SKELTON—Mickey Rooney and Mary Beth Hughes guest when George and Clara Appleby decide to rent a room in their home and their first boarder is a bop band leader.

7 — BOB CUMMINGS—Taken to the hospital for observation on the eve of a deer hunting trip, decides "dear" hunting among the nurses would be more fun.

10 — NAKED CITY—Robert Alda plays Jess Burton, a former All-American football star who witnesses a homicide during a card-game argument and is himself suspected, in "Fallen Star."

10

4 — GARRY MOORE—Singer Jane Morgan, comedian Morey Amsterdam and playwright Meredith Willson guest tonight.

7 — CALIFORNIANS—A sidewalk photographer comes up with startling evidence concerning the case Marshal Wayne is investigating for a defrauded insurance company.

10 — ALUMINUM PRESENTS — Although there are some scenes of preparations for a hanging that are a little too chillingly graphic, the story tonight builds up considerable suspense. It tells of a 19th Century British killer, terribly afraid of his imminent hanging, who sees a vision of the way in which he'll die. It isn't on the gallows. The case, thoroughly researched by British authorities at the time, is believed to be authentic.

10:30

7 — MIKE HAMMER—Mike is hired to find a girlfriend; at the same time, another detective is following the client.

11:10

10 — MOVIE — "Radio City Revels," (1938), Jack Oakie, Milton Berle, Anne Miller. A pair of tuned-out songwriters discover hillbilly who can turn out hits by the dozen.

11:25

4 — MOVIE—"Crime Against Joe," (1956), John Bromfield, Julie London. This story concerns an artist who is accused of murdering a night-club singer.

11:30

7 — JACK PAAR — Kyle MacDonnell, one of the most active performers in the early days of TV, will guest, along with Cliff Arquette.

U.S. Public Would Let U.N. Mediate Dispute Over Berlin

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Although willing, if necessary, to risk war in Berlin, many Americans are aware that neither side may be able to back down in the present dispute and thus would welcome the impartial presence of the U.N. as a mediator.

A clear majority of Americans who are familiar with the Berlin crisis, in fact, feel that the problem should be turned over to the U.N. This is seen in the public's replies to the following Gallup Poll question:

"Should this Berlin problem be turned over to the United Nations, or can it be handled better outside the U.N.?"

TURN BERLIN OVER TO U.N.

United Nations	53%
Outside U.N.	29
No opinion	18

A desire to turn the Berlin question over to the U.N. does not mean that Americans wish to "wash their hands" of the matter of the two million citizens of West Berlin.

What it does highlight, however, is a long-term U.S. belief that the world forum is the best place to discuss—as calmly and peacefully as possible—an issue with the dangerous potential of the Berlin crisis.

In the case of the dispute last fall, for example, over the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, the public evinced an even more overwhelming desire to have the U.N. try to work for a solution.

Fearing that war was the only other alternative to U.N. mediation, here is how the public voted then:

U.N. HANDLE QUEMOY-MATSU?

Yes, should	91%
No, should not	6
No opinion	3

Approval of the U.N. moving into the Berlin dispute is registered in all parts of the country and in all segments of the population.

Rank-and-file Democrats — some of whose leaders have critized the U.S. policy on Berlin as "too vague"—are slightly more in favor than are GOP voters, but majorities of both groups feel U.N. arbitration is definitely preferable to handling something as explosive as the Berlin question outside of the world government organization.

Here is the vote by political affiliation:

TURN BERLIN OVER TO U.N.?

	Reps.	Dems.	Inds.
United Nat.	52%	55%	51%
Outside U.N.	33	27	32
No opinion	15	18	17

In the final analysis, the typical American's attitude about the whole Berlin question may be summed up as follows:

Until a better alternative is offered, the U.S. and her allies have no other choice but to stand fast in Berlin and gamble that the Russians will back down rather than go to war, with the odds on the former course. The U.N. stepping in, many voters feel, may be that better alternative to risking war.

Chess Going '3-Dimensional'

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—(AP) — A three-dimensional chess game utilizing 128 pieces has been developed by J. David Marks—who says he wants to provide amusement for anyone fascinated by space relations.

Some additions have been made to the chess board, such as the space knight, the hippogriff (a mythological crossbreed of an eagle, lion and horse), the fool, the favorite and the archbishop.

Jailed for Taxes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(UPI)—Neil W. Ashe, 61, president of a hosiery mill here, was sentenced to 18 months in jail for evading $50,000 in federal income taxes between 1950 and 1952. No fine was levied.

A SALESMAN'S KIND OF WORK IS Tough on his Car!

Start-and-stop driving is the biggest cause of engine wear. That's why his car needs the extra protection of Phillips 66 Trop-Artic* Motor Oil.

Making calls around town, this man uses his car mostly on short trips. In fact, most of us use our cars mainly for short trips. And that's when corrosive wear poses its biggest threat to smooth engine performance.

To preserve and protect a motor under such driving conditions requires a very special motor oil. Phillips 66 Trop-Artic has the special ability to flow fast even when the engine is relatively "cold," as on short trips. Yet, on long hard drives, it keeps on protecting.

To keep your car running better longer . . . change oil regularly and insist on Trop-Artic All-Season Motor Oil at your Phillips 66 Station.

TROP-ARTIC IS GUARANTEED! Change to Trop-Artic Motor Oil and use it for ten days or up to 1,000 miles. If you aren't completely satisfied that Trop-Artic lives up to every claim made for it, any Phillips 66 Dealer will gladly replace it with any other available oil you prefer, at no additional expense. Could anything be fairer?

Low Pay May Dig Pitfall

Fidel Crushes Bribery--But Danger Lurks

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

By JOHN B. McDERMITT
Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA — Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official—they all are underpaid—to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero-Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of these young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could quickly become a rich man," one official commented. "Bribery was one of the wrongs in the Batista dictatorship which we fought to correct. So none of us takes bribes anymore."

Then he grinned.

"This is the only kind of a 'bribe' I will take," he declared, cutting a steak as we talked in a Havana restaurant.

The low salaries are not the fault of Castro. Salaries are decreed by the Cuban constitution or by law.

The amounts paid invite corruption. The Prime Minister himself makes only $360 per month. Last month Castro turned his over to charity.

Raul Castro, the Premier's brother who heads the rebel army, draws $125 monthly plus some military benefits. The secretary general of the Prime Ministry makes only $260 and his immediate department heads get $118 before retirement deductions.

Castro has an organization of honest, inexperienced youths running many government offices today. He needs stability and sound planning.

It is touch-and-go now as to whether he will succeed or collapse.

Castro's A Symbol To Masses

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA — It's ironic but Fidel Castro possesses more power today than any dictator in Cuban history, including Fulgencio Batista, the "strong man" he booted out of office.

Whether Cuba comes out of the revolution for better or worse depends on how the bearded liberator uses this power.

Unknown is whether he intends to follow through with some of the wild schemes he has advanced in mob-appeal speeches, or whether he is merely boasting while still flushed with victory.

Thus far, Castro has made a series of blunders, political and economic, which would have been fatal to any government with less mass appeal.

His hold on the people lies in the symbol of honesty, freedom and democracy he represents.

There is more devotion to the spirit of the revolution and what it symbolizes than to Castro himself.

And under no circumstances do the Cuban people want to go back to the bribery, corruption, human indignities and totalitarianism of the Batista era.

There is an undercurrent of fear that if Castro is pushed from his perch the result would be chaos and confusion and, perhaps, a return to life as known under Batista.

Also beneath the surface is the feeling that the rantings of Castro are not to be taken at face value.

There is tremendous publicity value in standing before the Presidential Palace and telling the crowds how he is going to bring about the downfall of Caribbean despots, nationalize industry in Cuba, and increase the welfare of the workers.

But most U.S. businessmen here and intelligent Cubans do not believe these plans will get beyond the talking stage—unless provoked by unforeseen developments.

Actually, in one of his most recent speeches, Castro told Cubans they must be patient before all the past ills and injustices are to be corrected.

This is interpreted as a healthy sign, perhaps the turning point from the radical and irrational to the realistic business of running a democratic government.

Nevertheless, Cuba is riding on the back of Castro. The way he goes, Cuba goes.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA —(UPI)— The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

TOKYO — (AP) — The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's postwar constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the state and defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

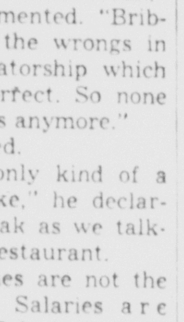
Princess Grace Faces Appendectomy Today

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Princess Grace of Monaco will undergo surgery today at Lausanne, Switzerland, for the removal of her appendix, it was learned Monday.



GRACE

The impending operation was kept secret from her subjects in the tiny Mediterranean municipality so as not to alarm. There was no emergency involved and the operation was not regarded as serious.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kelly, of Philadelphia, parents of the princess, onetime American movie queen — are in Europe with Dr. James A. Lehman, a Philadelphia surgeon who will perform the operation.

Mrs. Donald C. LeVine of suburban Bryn Mawr, sister of Princess Grace, said "Grace had a couple of attacks of appendicitis recently . . . it was nothing serious.

"She finally decided to have the appendix taken out before it did get serious."

Mrs. LeVine denied reports Princess Grace was complaining of other ailments.

Two Trials for Same Offense Upheld

Double Jeopardy Rule Upset by High Court

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

Humphrey Stand Firm, Bids West

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

Sen. Hubert Humphrey predicted in Miami Monday that a firm Allied stand at the Summit will force Russia to back down without a shooting war ther gains for the Soviets.

But he warned that what he called continued mis-handling by President Eisenhower and the State Department of American foreign policy in the Cold War can only mean further gains for the Soviets.

"The weakness in our foreign policy is our treatment of each crisis, each problem, as something separate," he said. "Each should be a part of the world problem . . . which is a totalitarian issue."

"We are in a life-and-death world series," the senator told a jampacked luncheon meeting of the Dade County Bar Association.

"It's a world series without the benefit of spring training . . . on a winner-take-all basis."

The Minnesota Democrat, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, discussed his recent eight-hour interview with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow, and his on-the-spot inspection of Berlin.

Humphrey said the Cold War is a global war—that the problems of the Middle East, Berlin, China and even Latin America are closely tied in and should be treated that way.

"If free West Berlin falls, it is not inconceivable that West Germany would eventually follow, and if West Germany falls, the nightmare of a new tyranny would sweep over all Europe," he said.

The senator said the State Department urgently needs "somebody in charge" now.

"I have the highest regard for the secretary," he said. "May his health be restored . . . but we cannot have sentimentality in our foreign policy now . . . We need people in charge 24 hours a day."

(Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived in Florida Monday to start convalescing from recent cancer treatments.)

Humphrey proposed that the U.S. ask for inclusion of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold at the big-power summit conference on Berlin.

"The presence of the secretary general would mean the symbolic representation of all members of the U.N. who may object to four powers presuming to settle an issue which can mean peace or war for the entire world," he declared.

The Minnesotan also sug-

U.S. Can 'Destroy The Soviet'

Military Sure Of Atom Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines—is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brush-fire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testified the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Chicago to Coast

Four Hour Record Set

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — American Airlines said its Chicago-to-San Francisco Boeing 707 jetliner has made the flight in four hours flat, setting a new passenger plane record.

The old record was four hours and nine minutes set a week ago when jet service was started.

The big plane left Chicago at 9:54 a.m. and arrived here at 11:54 a.m., a spokesman said. With the two hour time differential, that made four hours even of flight time.

EGGS-ASPERATING FACT is that the traditional Easter Monday egg-rolling on the White House lawn was rained out. The fact is eggs-actly mirrored in the faces of Darlene Johansen, four, and her three-year-old brother Skippy of Silver Spring, Md. The bunny-costumed kids came to Washington especially for the event. But President and Mrs. Eisenhower decided youngsters might come down with colds if they frolicked on the soggy lawn.

Hagerty Indicates Georgia

Ike Told To Take Warm Vacation

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and other White House staff members have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy filed, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President usually goes to Augusta each year just after the Masters' Golf Tournament ends at the Augusta National Golf Club. This year's tournament is scheduled to end Sunday.

"I sincerely hope he can go and I think he'd like to go," Hagerty told reporters. "He needs some warm climate and some exercise which he has not been able to get. Dr. Snyder thinks so, too."

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being. With the President's fondness for the greens and fairways, Dr. Snyder has little trouble having his orders followed.

Mystery Disease Puzzles Doctors

'The Laughing Death' Killing New Guineans

HONOLULU —(AP)— A disease called "the laughing death" is mysteriously destroying islanders in New Guinea, a missionary reported here.

Evelyn Muhlenhard, a lay missionary from Cincinnati, said doctors have been unable to determine the cause of the deaths. They have found no disease organisms in the victims.

Miss Muhlenhard said the affliction has hit mainly women of the Okapa tribe. They suddenly take sick and waste away, she said, with their faces contorted in a grin.

She said there has been no indication of witchcraft.

Miss Muhlenhard is going home on furlough after serving at the Lutheran mission headquarters at Lae, New Guinea. She sailed for Vancouver, B.C., on the liner Himalaya.

Nehru Spurns 'Gag' Yoke Demanded by Red China

He Claims Sympathy For Tibet

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawahanlal Nehru declared India's sympathy for Tibetan rebels Monday. He spurned Red China's attempt to smother Indian parliamentary discussion of the rebellion.

But he held to his hands-off policy toward the revolt, and turned down demands in parliament that India promise to admit all Tibetan refugees, as Austria did in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

"There are many vast differences in this situation," Nehru said when asked about following the Austrian example. "Obviously I cannot say that if large crowds come we will automatically admit them all. I tell you we would not admit them. No country could or should say it will admit everybody that comes."

Nehru faced a barrage of questions as parliament met for the first time since the Red Chinese government announced Saturday it had suppressed a major revolt in Lhasa, capital of the isolated mountain land, thrown out the government of the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, and elevated in his place his rival, the Panchen Lama.

The event has stirred widespread feeling in India because of long nurtured trade and religious links with the Tibetans.

For the first time since 1951 Indian demonstrators marched in the Chinese Communist embassy here Monday, shouting "Chinese bandits quit Tibet."

Thousands of Buddhists in Ladakh, a province of Kashmir, adopted a resolution asking India to intervene to "save the Buddhist religion and shrines in Tibet."

In Bombay, a crowd of 200 marched on the Red Chinese consulate shouting "death to Communist dictatorship."

In Agra, the site of the famous Taj Mahal, another crowd protested the "rapine of peaceful, autonomous Tibet."

Peiping has said 4,000 rebels were captured, and Tibetan sources have reported 5,000 were killed in a bloody two-days in the lofty capital behind the Himalayas.

But fighting was reported continuing in the windswept mountains and valleys. Authorities on Tibetan life expressed doubt that the Tibetans would ever accept the Panchen Lama as their leader.

Silun Lukwanga, a former member of the Dalai Lama's government who is in New Delhi, has predicted a "fight to the finish."

Nehru was cheered loudly when he declared India's sympathies "go out to the Tibetans."

He denied Red China's charge that the command center of the rebellion was in Kalimpong, an Indian town near the border.

As to a statement by the Red Chinese embassy that discussion of the rebellion by the Indian parliament would be "impolite and improper," he declared:

"It should be perfectly clear that his parliament is not going to be limited in its discussions by any source — internal or external."

15 Convicts Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. — (AP) — Fifteen state prisoners overpowered their two guards, took their guns and sped off in a prison camp bus Monday. They left the guards tied to a tree.

The prisoners, assigned to a work detail from the Ware County road camp, later changed to a dump truck after proceeding a short distance in the bus, patrolmen reported.

The convicts chose a day on which the state patrol and county officers are busy issuing drivers' licenses and state automobile tags.

First reports indicated they headed southeasterly toward Waverly in Camden County.

The Brunswick post of the state patrol said nine patrol cars and seven to eight sheriffs cars from nearby counties set up road blocks.

The prisoners obtained shotguns and pistols after overpowering their guards.

The guards were released shortly afterward.

The 15 men fled in a bus built to carry prisoners. It resembles a school bus with a cage built in the rear.

Identity of the prisoners was not immediately available.

Warden: 'A Real Stinker'

Ex-Con Commands Cuba Executions

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, for that matter of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office shows the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

New-Style Lottery

Cuba Draws First 'No-Losers' Bonds

The New York Times Service

HAVANA — The first drawing of Cuba's new-type lottery in which no one can lose was held by the Institute of Savings and Housing, which was created to substitute for the traditional Cuban National Lottery.

The one large prize offered of $100,000 was won by Marcos Mesa of Santiago de Cuba. One thousand prizes of $100 each are also offered.

The issue, now called bonds instead of tickets, was 40,000 with each having 100 fractions. Each fraction sold to the public at 25 cents and the seller, who according to law must be an individual and purchase directly from the institute, earned three cents on each fraction which he purchased for 22 cents. The bonds which do not win prizes will be redeemed at the end of one year at 40 per cent of their value and during the next 10 years in a rising scale to 125.4 per cent of their value.

According to Senorita Pastorita Nunez, director of the institute, all the issue was sold, netting the government $618,400 after deducting expenses of seven per cent. This money will be used to redeem the bonds and to build houses for workers in the lower bracket incomes. The first group of the 100 million-dollars worth of homes has been started on land across the bay from Havana now reached through a tunnel under the bay built by the Batista regime.

Santa Rosa Didn't Slow For Fog

NEW YORK — (AP) — The master of the cruise liner Santa Rosa told a Coast Guard hearing Monday he did not reduce the ship's speed as fog closed in minutes before collision with the tanker Valchem.

Capt. Frank S. Siwik was the first witness as the three-man panel opened inquiry into the crash last Thursday 23 miles off Atlantic City. Four members of the Valchem crew were lost. Both ships were badly damaged.

Siwik testified visibility through the mist was cut to a mile and a quarter as his vessel continued on at 21.5 knots, its normal speed.

He said that he did notify the engine room the Santa Rosa had entered fog — a signal to alert the engine room staff.

Siwik told the board that as the fog began his second officer, Walt Welles, reported radar equipment showed the Valchem to be 4.9 miles away, and to the right. The time was 2:54 a.m.

Three minutes later the distance was three miles, the witness continued, and Welles estimated the ships would pass about three-tenths of a mile apart.

This Siwik described as "too close for me," and he ordered a 10 degree turn to the left.

After inspecting the radar himself, "I saw it was going to be a little closer than three-tenths of a mile, so I ordered a hard left turn to get away from the fellow on my starboard (right).

"I figured that with my speed I would be able to get away."

This was at 2:58 a.m.

Suddenly Siwik said he saw the other ship's lights directly ahead.

"I ran into the wheelhouse and hollered for a hard right turn," the captain continued, "I ordered hard right but before the rudder took over we collided."

Continuing his testimony, Siwik said that he first heard the Valchem's foghorn about a half minute before seeing the tanker's lights directly ahead, between a quarter and a half-mile off.

The Santa Rosa's log, he said, showed that a minute before the crash he had ordered both a right turn and full speed reversal of the engines.

The captain expressed doubt that either order had taken effect at the moment of collision.

Siwik said he believed the Valchem "must have been under way" a contradiction of a statement last week by Capt. Louis E. Murphy of the tanker that his ship had come to a full stop.

gested that the summit conference be held within the framework of the U.N., and that the U.N. have permanent representation in the divided German city.

Russia, he said, wants three things in Europe, and has manufactured the Berlin crisis in a bid to get them.

1—The Soviet Union wants the Western Powers to get out of Berlin. It ultimately wants the entire city under complete Communist control.

2—Russia wants to force the Western powers to negotiate an all-German settlement favorable to the Soviet Union, preferring a united Germany closely tied to the Communist bloc.

But he believes the Soviets would settle for two Germanies with East Germany solidified under Communist control by the elimination of the Berlin oasis.

3—The U.S.S.R. hopes through the threat of war over Berlin to split the Western allies, undermine NATO and neutralize West Germany.

"We cannot permit any of these Soviet objectives to be fulfilled," said Humphrey. "It is inconceivable that we would retreat from West Berlin."

He said that, based on his talk with Khrushchev and his studies of the international situation, "I am convinced that the Soviet Union prefers to gain its political objectives in Europe without nuclear war.

"I am convinced that Russia needs peace . . . that she is economically not geared for war."

He said the U.S.S.R is relatively happy with her success in "operation nibble" and will continue to "nibble and pick up the pieces of the world bit by bit" as long as the Western powers allow.

Humphrey called for the U.S. and her allies to "do our homework as never before" in preparation for a long and arduous battle over the conference tables at the summit.

"The Russians always come prepared," he said. "This time we must."

Jim Riley, advance man for the Holiday show which opened at Beach Exhibition hall Monday night, says the Russain tour will cost owner Morris Chalfen $50,000, even with sellouts all the way. European Holiday shows in the past have used European skaters in all except the leading roles. But the troupe in Russia is 100 per cent American. Furthermore, it's far more elaborate than usual, with a cast of 90.

Chalfin figures it's well worth the financial loss, just to be first in Moscow with a huge ice show.

National Summary

Cloudiness blanketed most of the eastern half of the nation from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during mid day with occasional rain from Illinois into the northern plains associated with a low pressure area center over North Dakota. A disturbance near the entrance to Chesapeake Bay resulted in rain from North Carolina mixed with rain from New York into Southern New England. Cloudy to partly cloudy weather will prevail from the Rockies to the Atlantic through tomorrow with periods of rain from the North and Central plains to the East Coast excepting the extreme northeast during the same period. Scattered thunderstorms are forecast from Kansas and Oklahoma into the Ohio and Tennessee Valleys through Tuesday.

Temperatures in the north and central plains states were mostly in the 40s and 50s with reading in the 60s and 70s reported over the southern plains while the thermometer registered the 30s and 40s in the Great Lakes region where Cleveland observed a 45 with a 76 in Abilene, Texas. Along the East Coast temperatures varied from the 30s and 40s in New England and as far south as Virginia to the 80s in Southern Florida where West Palm Beach reported a 83 while the nations capital had a 41 and Portland, Maine observed a 45.

Florida Law Blocks Needed Aid

2 Cities Ready to End Slums, But Can't

Slums are spreading in Florida while their growth is being halted by Urban Renewal in other states.

Here is another of a series of reports by David Kraslow and Juanita Greene of the Herald Staff on Florida's blight and what can be done to cure it.

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Two large Florida cities have prepared plans and are ready, now, to obtain help from two powerful allies in solving their slum problems. But they are blocked from obtaining that aid by Florida law.

The two cities are Jacksonville and Tampa. Both cities want the help of the Federal government and private enterprise to fight the blight of slums.

The plans have been drawn.

Red lines on big maps block out the worst slum sections in both cities. The shacks within these red lines are doomed to domolition.

Pretty pictures have been drawn of the houses, apartments and commercial buildings that would take their place.

But the bulldozers haven't started moving. The eager allies haven't signed the pact. And the two cities fight frustration — one actively, one passively.

Standing in their way is a Florida law.

The State Supreme Court has interpreted it to mean no city can sell to private enterprise any land it has acquired by condemnation — not even if the condemnation was for slum clearance.

The result is that Florida is virtually cut off from the big flow of federal funds available under Urban Renewal. The program pays two thirds the city's loss in buying and clearing slum land and re-selling to private owners.

Tampa thinks it has found a legal loophole through which it may siphon some of Uncle Sam's millions into its blight areas. The city's Urban Renewal agency has gone ahead and applied for the funds, hoping a special law allowing it to do so will hold up in court.

But city officials admit, off the record, they might not get away with it. The best, and perhaps the only solution, they say, is a constitutional amendment.

Jacksonville has simply put its big plans back in the files until such time as the state law is changed.

Its mayor, Hayden Burns, has lush hopes the Florida League of Municipalities will succeed in persuading the State Legislature to offer the amendment to the people of Florida.

"We've got a lot of problems we simply can't handle under present law," said Burns. "But they could be solved by private enterprise, if given the help available under Urban Renewal."

By putting public buildings and parking lots on land once covered by dilapidated buildings, both Jacksonville and Tampa have improved downtown riverfronts.

But Jacksonville hasn't been able to do anything about "Black Bottom," its worst slum.

And Tampa is having to maneuver through tricky legal waters to get at the frayed edge of Ybor City.

Here's how the city, the federal government, and private enterprise would attack, if Florida law allowed:

JACKSONVILLE

The 25 square blocks in the darkest part of Black Bottom would be condemed, and cleared by the city. It would fill the land, now so low it frequently floods, and build new streets and utilities.

It would keep wide strips along two busy streets—Park and Riverside — as parking lots for nearby business areas. The rest of the land would be sold to private developers, who would build apartment houses and a small shopping center on it.

Tampa

The 21 square block Maryland Ave. project would include all phases of Urban Renewal—redevelopment for residential, commercial and industrial use.

A strip along a railroad would be sold to someone who wanted to put light industry there. It would be separated from the rest of the tract by a wide street.

A small part of the remaining land would be set aside for stores and other commercial buildings.

The city would keep plots for a park and a playground. A new junior high school and several church buildings, now in the area would remain.

All the rest of the tract would be sold to a developer, who would put up houses and apartment buildings. The new community would be all Negro, as the old one is now.

Then, between downtown Tampa and Ybor City, the famous Latin community, would be, in the words of A. R. Ragsdale, Tampa's Urban Renewal Chairman, "a nice area for Negroes."

Many of the 420 displaced families could move back in, buying the new homes under that part of the Urban Renewal program which gives them 100 per cent FHA insurance on no-down-payment, 40-year mortgages.

And the builders of the apartment houses would get federal insurance that would make it easy to obtain financing.

Blotting out 33 acres of its worst slums, said Ragsdale, would benefit everybody in Tampa.

"We would be getting rid of a bad cancer that is threatening everything around it," said Ragsdale.

Sheriffs' Fees on Way Out

Trend Is Seen Toward Salaries

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The president of the Florida Sheriffs Association predicted Monday that more sheriffs would go off the "antiquated fee system" this year and go on a budget and salary.

Writing in the 1959 association yearbook distributed Monday, sheriff Ross E. Boyer of Sarasota County said the budget-salary system for operating sheriffs departments would itself be improved this year.

All but a handful of sheriffs were transferred from the fee system to the budget-salary system in 1957.

Boyer also said the Florida Sheriffs Bureau after three formative years would reach maturity and fulfill its intended scope.

The yearbook contains pictures and brief biographical sketches of the 1959 legislators and sheriffs. It also carried layouts on the sheriffs bureau and boys ranch, a home for underprivileged boys sponsored by the association.

Among the 26 persons listed as honorary lifetime members of the association because they contributed $1,000 to the boys ranch was Charles Rosenberg, Tallahassee printer who conducted the sheriffs' fund-raising campaign in 1957 that led to establishment of Boys Ranch.

Neither the association nor Rosenberg has made public the full financial details of their fund-raising agreement.

Rosenberg, head of Rose Printing Co., still prints the yearbook but the association itself now conducts the $10 honorary membership campaign for raising funds for boys ranch and its other projects.

Income Gains Top Southeast

ATLANTA —(UPI)— Four southeastern states topped the national average during 10 post-war years in the rate of increase in personal income in operation of all major forms of non-farm industrial activities, it was disclosed Monday.

The Atlanta field office of the U.S. Department of Commerce said Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and Alabama, were above the national average, and Tennessee and North Carolina equalled the nation's average.

Florida showed the highest increase, 164 per cent, fourth greatest in the nation. The Sunshine State was followed by Georgia's 96 per cent, Alabama's 90 per cent and South Carolina's 89 per cent. Tennessee and North Carolina each scored an 88 per cent rise.

MAINLY SPANISH was the conversation of these two sailors and the beauty who welcomed them to Pensacola. The midshipmen were aboard the Juan Sebastian Elcano, Spanish training ship which took part in the city's first event of Florida's Quadricentennial year. First up the gangplank was Arlene Lessig, Miss Dreamboat of 1959. It created some excitement, sailors being sailors in all languages.

Non-Farm Up 9,900

State Employment Hits Record High

TALLAHASSEE—(UPI)—Employment in Florida continued its month-to-month record breaking climb during February to a high of 1,272,300, Industrial Commission Chairman James T. Vocelle said Monday.

A PEACH from Georgia has been selected by Daytona Beach Jaycees as a contestant in the Miss Dixie competition during the city's 14th annual Dixie Frolics, June 29 to July 5. She's 19-year-old Jeannette Arlene Ardell of Marietta.

Vocelle said non-farm employment jumped 9,900 during the month, which was a greater than average seasonal gain.

In two months, he said, the gain has been three points better than was expected from normal seasonal winter tourist season peak expansion.

The February mark was 8,200 above last February, Vocelle reported, when the state's economy was at a low ebb caused by the recession, freezes and curtailed business in the tourist dominated trade and services industries.

He noted that the present month-to-month gains would slow up during the summer season.

Unemployment rose from January by 700 to the February estimate of 83,900, he said. This February's estimate was only eight-tenths of one per cent above last year's figure.

House To Meet First

Segregation A Top Issue

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Legislative leaders set up shop Monday for the 1959 session and agreed that segregation, money and reapportionment would be the big issues.

On hand to direct pre-session arrangements for the Legislature opening April 7 were House Speaker Designate Thomas D. Beasley and Senate President Designate Dewey M. Johnson.

Beasley announced the House will convene at 10 a.m. Tuesday, April 7, earliest ever for that body. The Senate will come in at noon. At 3 p.m. the two houses will go into joint session to hear Gov. LeRoy Collins' address.

The early convening of the House was arranged because about an hour's time will be required for a special ceremony of unveiling portraits of 14 former House speakers. The portraits were painted during the past two years under a special commission set up by the 1957 House.

In 1957 the House convened at 11 a.m. The earlier convening time was arranged because the House with 95 members requires more time for organizing than the 38-man Senate.

Beasley said the 1959 session would be one of the most conservative in Florida's history. He forecast the big battles would be fought over segregation, economy and finances.

Johnson added reapportionment and constitutional revision to the list.

Beasley said he would be in his office here from now on through the 60-day 1959 session. Johnson said he would drive over from Quincy each day from now on.

First order of business when the House and Senate convene will be the swearing in of new members. Then comes the election of permanent officers.

Beasley will be serving his second term as speaker, and Johnson will be serving his first term as Senate president.

Sen. W. Randolph Hodges of Cedar Key will be president pro tem of the senate and Rep. James N. Beck of Putnam has been agreed upon for speaker pro tem of the House.

Bob Davis will serve again as Senate president and Leroy Adkisson will be sergeant at arms of the Senate. Mrs. Lamar Bledsoe again will be clerk of the House and Amos Davis will return as sergeant at arms.

Smiling Dulles Arrives for Rest

Ex-Stetson Dean Kills Self at Jax

DELAND —(UPI)— Dr. Benson W. Davis, 52, former Stetson University professor, shot himself to death with a revolver at the Municipal Airport here Monday.

Davis, who was object of a two-state search last summer before turning up in Jacksonville, died at Fish Memorial Hospital three hours after shooting himself in the mouth, sheriff's officers said.

Sheriff Rodney B. Thursby said Davis left a suicide note, but contents of the message were not available immediately. The victim's wife, Mary Payne Davis, was notified of the shooting at Daytona Beach, where she was visiting friends during the Easter weekend.

Davis, associated with Stetson University since 1938, was reported missing by his wife at the close of the summer session.

He had sent her a wire, advising her not to meet him at their summer home at Boone, N.C., as he had asked earlier. But Mrs. Davis went to Boone anyway, and conducted a search of her own.

For a time there was speculation Davis met with foul play, and authorities made fingerprints of a body found floating in a river at Jacksonville to determine if it was that of Davis.

More than three weeks after his disappearance, police closed the case when Davis went to a Jacksonville shipping dock Aug. 24 and claimed his car and luggage, shipped there from Puerto Rico.

The educator did not return to his position as dean of the Stetson philosophy department this fall, but continued to live at his home here.

Sheriff Thursby said Davis drove to the airport about 9:45 a.m. and stopped in front of a manufacturing firm. He got out of the car, lay down on the ground, and shot himself in the mouth.

Davis started his tenure at Stetson in 1938 as instructor of classical languages. He served as dean of that department in 1940-41 and then left the campus temporarily.

He returned in 1945 and was appointed dean of men in 1946. He served in that capacity until 1950, when he was named head of the philosophy department.

Children Die In Accidents

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Death came from a plastic dry cleaner's bag to one child in Florida last year.

It was one of 258 accidental deaths of children under five in 1958, Dr. L. L. Parks, director of the Bureau of Special Health Services of the State Board of Health said Monday.

He said a mother spread out the thin plastic bag as a mattress protector. In some way, the child's breath drew the film across its mouth where it clung and caused suffocation.

Another became entangled in a web strap on a playpen and strangled, he said.

Dulles' Familiar Hat Wave at Air Base
. . . ailing secretary arrives at Palm Beach

Secretary Looks Fit After Trip

By ED PFISTER and ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Staff Writers

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was down the ramp and on the ground chatting with officers when Mrs. Dulles and State Department aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

The homes, richly furnished but not overly pretentious, are set back from a lonely highway in jungle-like undergrowth that hides the view of prying eyes. There is a championship golf course and country club on the island.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

In Legislature

Bill Would Plug 'Leader Loophole'

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— Sen. Dewey Johnson Monday proposed a law that would plug the loophole which allows the legislature to operate without leaders from election day until the session opens four months later.

Johnson is operating as Senate president designate now, but will have no real power until April 7 when the 1959 session opens. House Speaker Designate Thomas D. Beasley is in the same position.

Johnson will recommend a law under which the legislature would caucus within 10 days after the November election and the designated presiding officers would go immediately to the secretary of state and take the official oath.

Under present custom, the speaker is selected two years in advance of each session, the president at a caucus right after the November election.

But the positions have no official standing in law until the legislature convenes the following April. This creates a four-months hiatus, with the old ones going out in November and the new ones not coming in until April.

It also operates during these four months every two years to knock the Senate president and house speaker out of their places as first and second in line for succession to a governor who dies or is unable to serve.

But Johnson said this factor has nothing to do with his proposal. He said he has found it a handicap in signing bills for pre-legislative expenses and setting up committees.

"Nobody has ever challenged these actions, but they are not official," he said.

Abandoned, Charge 150 Jobless Men

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — More than 150 milling men, who claim they were brought here for jobs and then didn't get them, created an uproar at a meeting of the City Commission Monday.

They were from all parts of the U. S. and came here to work for Conversions and Survey, Inc., which is converting plants in Florida to the new piped in natural gas.

Commissioners threatened to stop Conversions from going on with its job here unless something is done to take care of the men.

Members of the board accused the company of dumping unemployed on the city with no provision to feed them.

Floyd Dunn, superintendent for Conversions, which has offices in the Alma, said in the firm's 13 years "nothing like this ever happened before."

He said many more men responded to letters there would be work than ever before — "Probably because the work is in Florida."

City Tallies Up After Invasion

Collegians Leave Lauderdale 'Spent'

FORT LAUDERDALE — (UPI) — The quiet that follows a storm settled over Fort Lauderdale Monday as a mass invasion of college students on Easter vacation melted away.

Police, who made 71 arrests of students in nine days, said the crowd which hit an estimated 20,000 during the weekend was dwindling rapidly.

Police Chief J. Lester Holt guessed that almost all would be gone by Wednesday.

The students gather here annually from collegs all over the country.

Residents and police counted up the toll Monday.

Holt said the 71 arrests broke down this way: drinking in public, 33; public intoxication, 11; failure to obey an officer, 1; showing false identification, 3; false information given to an officer, 1; minor in possession of liquor, 1; indecent behavior, 7; and disorderly conduct, 20.

Most were fined or reprimanded.

"None of them was really bad," Holt said.

Villanova Student James G. Cleary, 20, of Little Neck, N.Y., was particularly embarrassed by his arrest. He was the son of a deputy inspector for the New York City Police Department, he said. Cleary was fined $25 for public intoxication and $50 for carrying false identification.

Holt said there was no serious damage. Someone stole several laundry baskets from an automatic laundry. A hotel reported several students ran away with two fire extinguishers, dropping one in their flight. There were minor incidents of vandalism.

Police were still laughing Monday over the practical joke someone played on three University of Maryland co-eds.

Police Sgt. Thomas Randel said the three girls came to the station Saturday night and said they wanted to rent three bunks for the night. Randel explained to the girls the jail had bunks, but not for rent.

He said the disappointed girls told him that some boys at the university told them if they could not find a place to stay, they could rent bunks for $1 a night at the jail.

Randel explained it was only a joke and the girls left crestfallen.

Lewis Displays Rare Knack--Skims Blue Area Without Offense

WITH THE EXCEPTIONS of Holiday on Ice at the Exhibition Hall, Donald O'Connor at the Fontainebleau, and Jean Carroll at the Diplomat there isn't much evidence on the "live" Class AA after-dark scene this week that would indicate that our impresarios anticipated a heavy family trade in this Easter Week-school recess season.

Jack Carter, Buddy Hackett and Joe E. But, judging from the reception given Joe E. at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii where he is coupled with Eartha Kitt, and Jack Carter at the Americana where he shares billing with Dorothy Sarnoff, the type of joke which might get a frigid look or a stony silence if told by a husband at home in the presence of his children is now acceptable as "family" fun with the same young audience in the togetherness of a tightly packed night club.

We detail all this not in a criticism of the night club show format nor in implication that the expensively decored spots are cesspools of evil but merely to deliver a well-intentioned caution that the Buddy Hackett at the Deauville is not the Hackett of the TV "Stanley" series, nor is Carter the Carter of past television experiments or of the Broadway theater.

Carter Talent Tops Blue Routine

THERE IS NO caution needed for Joe E. Lewis — on two counts. Joe has made very infrequent excursions into media other than cafes in recent years and those who know the name know it not from the other-side-of-the-coin areas of television or the legit stage but from its significance as the easily definable label of the likeable pixie who is a font of ultra-sophisticated parody and a genial gentleman who is undeniably blue but who doesn't have to beat his material black and blue.

Errol Flynn
. . . sold?

Rosalind Russell
. . . writes?

Eartha Kitt
. . . torrid

What we mean is that Carter, for instance, comes on stage at the Americana Bal Masque Room and for the first 15 minutes of his act recites a brilliant new routine which leads off with a "76 Trombones" parody, sparkling with such newies as a reference to the Belle Moskowitz Room and the acknowledgment of an unusual number of kiddies in the audience by advising them "I'll lay 'em (meaning an egg) and you color them." The appreciative applause on these was near deafening.

Then the hard-sell Carter of old comes out. He harangues and then burlesques in belittling manner the Harry Belafontes, the Jose Grecos, whom he exposes as a name-changer, and the Lauritz Melchiors and he reports that an act which had previously played this same Americana stage used "smelly and moldy" costumes.

But he impeaches his own right to such a complaint against uncleanliness by immediately diving into a couple of pretty "sick" routines about a gynecologist and a psychiatrist and at least one scatological reference.

And do you know what happened then? The applause was near deafening! So who can blame him? Why should he knock himself out with the fine talent for mimicry and for dancing which he possesses when a reach into the "blue" yonder can come up with a handful of laugh-rewarding shockers.

Joe E. Uses Skill, Not Kill

BUT, GETTING BACK to Joe E. Lewis, at Eden Roc with his accompanist Austin Mack (which immediately gives added class and pseudo-concert status to the proceedings), Joe's voice has the endearing qualities of a family heirloom piece of sandpaper. But the manner to match has no rancor in it and is friendly not frantic as it, too, relates or sings of situations which are concerned with the devious ways of a man with a maid, also-ran maidens (equine), and sour mash and its spirit cousins.

He has a lot of new parodies, the one on "Suzie Wong" taking all the variant tangents you'd expect of it, and the inevitable one on "79 Hormones" covering every angle of ribaldry in the book.

But not once does Lewis grimace evilly or—as we said before—see the necessity for pounding his blue material until it is both black and blue. It may seem a unique simile in view of some of the things Joe E. Lewis, a man who drinks for himself, says—but HIS saving quality is that he's as cute as a little red label. He uses "skill" instead of "kill."

Golda Meir Speaks

Israel Sees U.S. Chill to Nasser

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir said in Parliament Monday President Nasser of the United Arab Republic is an ambitious dictator aiming to subjugate other countries in the Middle East.

She said latest developments between Baghdad and Cairo "might induce some Western circles to wish again to strengthen the Egyptian dictator and increase his power out of false hope that in this manner there is a prospect of attracting him to the West.

"We have no doubt such hopes are utterly without foundation and it seems to me there are more people who agree with us than otherwise."

In specific reference to U.S.-Israeli relations, she said:

"Since the end of the Sinai operation there has been a rapid and complete return to the previously existing cordial relationship, and the past year has seen further development, events of the year having resulted in a more complete identity of views between the two countries concerning problems of the area.

"American opinion now approaches Israel's own evaluation of Nasserism and its subversive tendencies."

Arms Ban Marchers In London

LONDON — (AP) — A five-mile column filed into Central London Monday with jazz bands blaring and banners demanding an end to all nuclear weapons.

Nearly 15,000 singing demonstrators snarled traffic around Trafalgar Square at the climax of a 53-mile march to the capital from Britain's nuclear arms factory at Aldermaston.

Leaders of the march went to No. 10 Downing St. Prime Minister Macmillan's official residence. They delivered a written appeal denouncing nuclear arms as "wholly evil" and calling on Britain to scrap them even if the U.S. and the Soviet Union won't.

A policeman answered the door and took their appeal.

The procession began at Aldermaston Friday with about 4,000 demonstrators trudging through heavy rain.

Roomy Homes: Skeleton Outside

NEW YORK — (AP) — Five apartment buildings will be erected by the City Housing Authority with their skeletons on the outside.

By putting the supporting columns on the outside of the buildings, wall space in the rooms will not be broken by the uprights.

The reinforced concrete columns will be sprayed a light gray to form a part of the buildings' exterior design. The building facades will be aluminum panels and light red brick.

Policy Maker Visits

British 'Equality' Hinted for Africa

LONDON — (AP) — The Earl of Home, secretary for commonwealth relations, flew to Southern Rhodesia Monday for a four-day visit.

"Something entirely new in the commonwealth story is needed in the federation of Nyasaland and the Rhodesias," he told reporters.

He said he will discuss in Africa plans for the preparation of the future stages of the federation's constitutional development.

"Our principal purpose," he added, "is to build the machinery toward establishing a full equal partnership between the two races who rightly claim to have a home in Africa."

'Fix' Cuts Fine

TOLEDO, Ohio—(AP)—In municipal court on a charge of driving an unsafe automobile, 19-year-old Harold Hedges produced snapshots showing his car had been reconditioned from grill to back bumper since his arrest. He got off with $13 in court costs and a compliment from the judge on a "minor miracle" in repair work.

Free Berlin—Hope of Red-Ruled Germans

By DAVID M. NICHOL
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NICHOL

BERLIN — The Easter season with its message of hope was an unusual poignance this year for Free Berlin and the surrounding Communist-held areas.

For a week now people have been arriving from West Germany by car, train, and aircraft. Hotels are filled and many are staying with relatives.

If numbers less readily apparent they have been coming as well from the German democratic republic, as East Germany is called by the Communists.

Family reunions and meetings with old friends are gay. Yet over them hangs a largely unspoken fear they may be the last such meetings, or at the very best they may be much more difficult in the future.

If Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has his way in this summer's negotiations, East Germany will be recognized officially as a separate country, and Free Berlin's ties with the West — which have maintained it as an island of liberty since the end of World War II — will be cut.

The western allies have said they will not retreat an inch from their position in the western sectors of the city. It is the nearly unanimous and heartfelt prayer of the West Berliners and of a majority of the East Germans that this is true, and will continue to be true.

Testing public opinion in West Berlin is not difficult. Shortly before Christmas there was a completely free election in the western sectors of the city. The Soviet demands had been stated plainly. In a population of more than 2.2 million the Communists won less than 32,000 votes.

Sampling the views of the East Germans with any reliability is a much more complicated process. There has been no free press or radio since the Soviets entered the city early in May 1945, but this is only part of the story. There was none for 12 years before that under the Nazis.

Will Light Go Out?

Thousands of West Germans have visited Berlin for the Easter season and while gaiety has been the rule, an underlying current of apprehension has tempered its expression. The Russian demand that the Allies quit the city has stirred fear that this year's visit may be the last.

For the millions of Germans in the Communist-controlled sector of Germany, the former capital stands as a beacon of hope and a refuge from oppression. Thousands have fled in recent years to its shelter. It is this role, this symbol the Reds want most to destroy.

East Germany is the area roughly between the Elbe and the Oder Rivers that was assigned to Soviet occupation by the allied agreements. It has an area of somewhat less than 42,000 square miles, about that of Tennessee, and a present population, including East Berlin, of 17.4 millions.

At the very beginning of the occupation the Soviets and their East Germans Communist followers laid the basis for the creation of a new Soviet "satellite." Since 1949 East Germany and East Berlin have existed as a separate entity with their own Communist government and currency and a social system that approaches more closely each day to that in the Soviet Union.

In this confusing situation West Berlin has played a part of great importance. The Communists have done almost everything they could to cut it off completely from the surrounding regions, but they have hesitated before the final step. They have been reluctant to give up their own claim to the territory by excluding it.

One result has been that no matter how tough and arbitrary the Communist controls may be on the border between East and West Germany 110 miles west of here, it has been possible most of the time for a desperate or a determined person to slip into West Berlin from the surrounding Communist territory. While the air corridors remain under western control it is possible for these refugees to fly to West Germany without falling into Communist hands en route.

For many of these people this is not an easy decision. It means abandoning homes and farms and relatives, often even families. It means hazards, for many have been arrested before they reach West Berlin. Yet the city has always been there, a beacon of liberty, and a last resort for the oppressed.

In this capacity West Berlin has served a dual function.

As long as he knows the avenue of escape still is open, the individual in East Germany can be just a little more resistent to Communist propaganda and pressures. He feels if they become unbearable he can always leave, however reluctantly.

Formal recognition of East Germany is a lesser matter so far as most of them are concerned, for they already are living under its rule. It is West Berlin's continued freedom and its uninterrupted airlines for which they care most.

How many of the 17.4 millions in East Germany would act freely for Communist rule is a question of a considerable debate. There is a hard core of party members and a larger group of those who owe their present well-being and any potential future in the army, the state-owned industries, and the government, to continued Communist control.

At the outside, it is believed, these might account for one-quarter of the population. Five years ago the experts believed the Communists would poll no more than 10 per cent in a free vote.

The best yardstick for the rest are the number of those who already have "voted with their feet," as West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt describes it.

From 1949 when the East German government was established until the end of 1958 about 2.2 million persons have passed through the camps and asked asylum in West Germany. In 1958 alone the figure exceeded 204,000.

Others who could go directly to jobs or to relatives in the west have not been registered in this fashion, and the total may be as many as three millions.

Expressed in other terms, the Communist-controlled region of Germany, including East Berlin, has had a net loss of about 1.1 million persons since the first postwar census in 1946 despite births and the return of war prisoners.

West Germany, by contrast, in the same period shows a net increase of more than 5.4 million, not including the population of the Saar. If the Saar is included West Germany's net gain is 6.5 million.

Ernst Lemmer, West Germany's minister for all-German affairs, said in a radio broadcast last year that the Communist zone "is bleeding to death."

Roughly half of those who "voted with their feet" in recent months are under 25 and the great majority still are useful, productive citizens.

If 75 per cent of the people of East Germany still are opposed to Soviet rule, it doesn't by any means follow that they are agreed on what should happen in the unlikely event of unification with West Germany.

The small farmers, for example, have little liking for the collectives into which they are being forced, but they would be just as bitterly opposed to the return of their lands to the big landholders of the prewar period.

Among students in particular there seem to be leanings towards a system like that in Tito's Yugoslavia — Marxist in principle but freed from Moscow's control. The East German Communists do their best to wipe these heresies away.

Students generally agree with the program of free university training, but they would like to have some freedom of thought and research along with it.

To restore the state-owned industries to their original owners would be a nearly impossible job. West Germany, for all its fiercely free economy, is having the utmost difficulty shedding itself of industries it owns or shares.

Men and women feel that the health services, when there are doctors, are better in East Germany than in the west for they are more inclusive. This, and the abnormally low rents are always cited by East Germans as an offset to the admitted lower purchasing power of their wages.

At the moment these differences of opinion are mostly academic, for no one sees much hope of unification. In any case they pale before the much more general yearnings to be rid of Soviet rule.

Ruhr Police Study Accident Reasons

Streets Empty, Drivers Full And Up Go Hit and Run Cases

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

BONN, Germany — Police in the industrial Ruhr region which includes West Germany's capital of Bonn are concerned about a steady increase in the number of hit-run drivers.

In a careful study of this type of accident, the police have made some interesting discoveries.

Proportionately the number of those who leave the scene of an accident without waiting for the police or identifying themselves is highest between 3 and 6 a.m. When, as one expert explained, the streets are empty and the drivers are full.

In one accident in every six during these early morning hours the driver flees the scene. Most of the accidents involve only property damage, the striking of a parked automobile, or a lamp post or a tree.

As for Sunday drivers, one in every eight accidents is a hit-run affair. Police believe that the week-day driver who depends on driving for his living is more aware that to be caught leaving the scene might mean the end of his means of supporting himself and his family.

The most frequent type of accident from which the offending driver flees is damage to a parked automobile. In one in five of these the driver tries to escape.

Drivers left the scene in 2.5 per cent of the reported accidents in 1955 in the populous Ruhr area. In 1957, the last year in which figures are available, the share of these had risen to 3.5.

German law provides prison sentences up to two years or a fine or both in the event of a conviction.

U.S.-Japan Trade Study Launched

TOKYO — (AP) — Joseph A. Mack, head of a five-member U.S. trade mission, has arrived for a six-week stay to promote trade between Japan and the U.S.

Four other members, all private businessmen, will join Mack later. He is deputy director of the U.S. Commerce Department's office of field services.

During their stay they will offer suggestions as to the best methods to use in buying and selling in the American market, and in turn will seek the advice of Japanese officials and businessmen.

The other four are George D. Bryson, vice president, international development planning, General Foods Corp, New York; Charles R. Curry, executive director, California Fish Canners Association, Terminal Island, Calif.; Richard H. Henry, manager, Travel Sales, American Express Co., New York; James S. Schramm, executive vice president, J. S. Schramm Co., Burlington, Iowa.

Attorney Welch Is Apt Actor

MARQUETTE, Mich.—(UPI)—Famed Boston Attorney Joseph N. Welch is filling the robe of a judge and the shoes of a movie actor as if he had worn them all of his 68 years.

Welch said on the set he found the first week of filming "Anatomy of a Murder" easier than many trials and more relaxing than his appearance before TV cameras during the Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954.

And the fees are better.

"If I fluff here, they just yell 'cut' and we do it again," Welch said as he was interviewed on location at the county courthouse in this northern Michigan mining center.

Welch, in his first and probably only movie role, has won respect from such old pros as James Stewart and Eve Arden for the way he runs this famed courtroom that was the scene of the 1952 murder trial upon which the movie is based.

The Boston attorney said the movie is "hardly the start of an acting career. It's the beginning of an adventure and it's probably the closest I'll ever come to being a judge." Welch is pampered by Director-Producer Otto Preminger, who barks at his production crew like a top sergeant.

'Boppers' Class To Behave Now

GROVE HILL, Ala. —(AP)— With a promise there would be no further trouble from a "Big Boppers" club, the last 10 members of a Negro high school senior class were reinstated.

The other 36 members of the class were reinstated March 18 on a similar promise. The entire class had been suspended for what school officials said was a concerted effort to disrupt classroom activities.

The students sat with arms folded and ignored questions by the teachers.

Buckley Named To Space Job

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The National Aeronautics and Space Administration named Edmond C. (Collins) Buckley as its assistant director for space flight operations.

Buckley, 55, has been with NASA's predecessor agency, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, since 1930. He was most recently chief of the instrument research division at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.

Dulles Arrives For Florida Rest

More State News, 19A, 2B, 1C, 6C

By ED PFISTER and ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Staff Writers

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was down the ramp and on the ground chatting with officers when Mrs. Dulles and State Department aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dulles arrived here during a lull between two thunderstorms. Only a few servants were on hand to greet the party as it drove up a long roadway circling through dense woods to a moderately large white two-story home.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

U.S. Can 'Destroy Soviet'

Military Sure Of A-Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines — is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brushfire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testified the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Take Warm Vacation, Ike Told

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and other White House staff members have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy field, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA — (UPI) — The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

Government Hopes:

Killer Ghost Ship Finally Destroyed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government hopes it has finally laid to rest the ghost of a once-proud battleship that has haunted Chesapeake Bay for nearly half a century.

Intentionally sunk in shallow water in 1911, the old USS Texas has since snared seven other ships in her superstructure. To her credit, she helped the late Billy Mitchell demonstrate the might of air power in 1921.

The Navy worked most of last winter to blow the top off the ghost ship. Officials hope she will no longer be a menace to navigation. Just to make sure, the coast and geodetic survey is sending a special expedition to chart the wreckage.

The job was an important one because the federal courts have ruled the government was at fault in several sinkings at the site.

One court dubbed the old Texas "a pile of junk." The battleship, launched in 1892, was a veteran of the Spanish American war and is perhaps the only dreadnaught that can claim to have sunk more ships as a wreck than when afloat.

The hulk had her greatest moment of glory when Billy Mitchell's primitive bombers pounded her for days on end in 1921. The airmen were practicing for a dramatic and successful "attack" later on a captured German battleship floating off the Virginia capes.

The bombing of the German war prize captured worldwide attention, for Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels had offered to stand bareheaded at the wheel of the battleship Mitchell proposed to bomb. Daniels was at a safe distance, however, when Mitchell sank his target.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

Court Rules Them Violation

TOKYO — (AP) — The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's postwar constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

Boys Die Inside Oven

ANTIGO, Wis. — (AP) — Two boys suffocated in a charcoal oven Sunday while their woodsman father thought they were at a movie with neighbors. The bodies were found Monday after a search that started when the neighbors returned without the youngsters.

Dead were Larry Kalkofen, 13, and his six-year-old brother Wayne. They were found by their father, Evan, and Langlade County deputies who were called in to help look for the two.

Authorities said that Wayne apparently had climbed a ladder to the top of the six-foot kiln and squeezed through a small trap door in the top. His brother was believed to have entered in an effort to rescue the younger child. Although there had been no fire in the oven for 36 hours, it still was filled with fumes.

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

Capt. Herman Marks

Castro's 'Headsman' Is Ex-Con

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, or, for that matter, of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office show the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

Clears Votes

Wealth Told By Senator

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) voluntarily reported his stock holdings Monday to the Senate. They are valued on the current market at $270,000.

Young said he took this rare step so "anyone interested may judge in the future whether there is any conflict in interest influencing my action and votes as U.S. Senator."

In a report to Felton M. Johnston, secretary of the Senate, Young also announced he will sell stock he holds in two sugar concerns.

He is doing this, he said, because the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is a member, will be considering legislation concerning sugar imports.

It'll Be Fair For Most Part

Fair and warm is Florida's weather outlook for today but there'll be a few showers over the Gold Coast, the weatherman said.

The sun should poke through much of the day — and gusty southerly winds will diminish to about 10 to 15 miles an hour, he added.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same — in the mid-70s to low 80s — throughout the state.

Fidel Has Official Corruption Under Control

Take Him to Lunch; That's 'Bribe' for Cuban

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

* * *

Low Pay a Danger

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

* * *

HAVANA—Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official — they all are underpaid — to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero-Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of these young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could

Nehru Spurns 'Gag' Yoke Demanded by Red China

Prime Minister Voices Sympathy For Tibet Rebels

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru declared India's sympathy for Tibetan rebels Monday. He spurned Red China's attempt to smother Indian parliamentary discussion of the rebellion.

But he held to his hands-off policy toward the revolt, and turned down demands in parliament that India promise to admit all Tibetan refugees, as Austria did in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

"There are many vast differences in this situation," Nehru said when asked about following the Austrian example. "Obviously I cannot say that if large crowds come we will automatically admit them all. I tell you we would not admit them. No country could or should say it will admit everybody that comes."

Nehru faced a barrage of questions as parliament met for the first time since the Red Chinese government announced Saturday it had suppressed a major revolt in Lhasa, capital of the isolated mountain land, thrown out the government of the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, and elevated in his place his rival, the Panchen Lama.

The event has stirred widespread feeling in India because of long nurtured trade and religious links with the Tibetans.

For the first time since 1951 Indian demonstrators marched on the Chinese Communist embassy here Monday, shouting "Chinese bandits quit Tibet."

Thousands of Buddhists in Ladakh, a province of Kashmir, adopted a resolution asking India to intervene to "save the Buddhist religion and shrines in Tibet."

In Bombay, a crowd of 200 marched on the Red Chinese consulate shouting "death to Communist dictatorship."

In Agra, the site of the famous Taj Mahal, another crowd protested the "rapine of peaceful, autonomous Tibet."

Peiping has said 4,000 rebels were captured, and Tibetan sources have reported 5,000 were killed in a bloody two days in the lofty capital behind the Himalayas.

But fighting was reported continuing in the windswept mountains and valleys. Authorities on Tibetan life expressed doubt that the Tibetans would ever accept the Panchen Lama as their leader.

Silun Lukwanga, a former member of the Dalai Lama's government who is in New Delhi, has predicted a "fight to the finish."

Nehru was cheered loudly when he declared India's sympathies "go out to the Tibetans."

He denied Red China's charge that the command center of the rebellion was in Kalimpong, an Indian town near the border.

As to a statement by the Red Chinese embassy that discussion of the rebellion by the Indian parliament would be "impolite and improper," he declared:

"It should be perfectly clear that this parliament is not going to be limited in its discussions by any source — internal or external."

'No-Loser' Lottery In Cuba

The New York Times Service

HAVANA — The first drawing of Cuba's new-type lottery in which no one can lose was held by the Institute of Savings and Housing, which was created to substitute for the traditional Cuban National Lottery.

The one large prize offered of $100,000, was won by Marcos Mesa of Santiago de Cuba. One thousand prizes of $100 each are also offered.

The issue, now called bonds instead of tickets, was 40,000 with each having 100 fractions. Each fraction sold to the public at 25 cents and the seller, who according to law must be an individual and purchase directly from the institute, earned three cents on each fraction which he purchased for 22 cents. The bonds which do not win prizes will be redeemed at the end of one year at 40 per cent of their value and during the next 10 years in a rising scale to 125.4 per cent of their value.

According to Senorita Pastorita Nunez, director of the institute, all the issue was sold, netting the government $618,400 after deducting expenses of seven per cent. This money will be used to redeem the bonds and to build houses for workers in the lower bracket incomes. The first group of the 100 million dollars worth of homes has been started on land across the bay from Havana now reached through an under-bay tunnel built by the Batista regime.

Pawns in Miami Divorce

3 Boys Guarded After Plot Fails

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Three boys, pawns in a four-year-old Miami divorce suit, were placed under guard by their wealthy father in Palm Springs, Calif., Monday after police said an Easter Sunday attempt to abduct them failed.

One of the boys, David Raese, six, escaped by jumping into a swimming pool. His brothers, Richard, 10, and John, eight, were pulled screaming into a station wagon which took off with a car posse of horn-holking nieghbors in pursuit.

Blocked at an accident scene four miles down the road in the plush desert resort city, Richard Moulton, San Jose private detective, and Charles Lewis, San Jose railroad conductor, told police they had been offered $5,000 to get the boys for their mother, Mrs. Jane Raese Kelly, of Palm Beach, Fla.

They were jailed for investigation of child stealing.

The boys and their father, Richard Raese, executive vice-president of Greer Steel Co., Morgantown, W. Va., had been visiting in Palm Springs.

Police Lt. Robert White said Mrs. Kelly, who has a home in Palm Beach, is known to have been in Palm Springs Sunday, but could not be located immediately.

She sued for divorce in Miami Jan. 18, 1955, charging Raese with jealousy. His counter suit charged her with extreme cruelty and adultery, naming Horace Brenton Kelly, a dancing instructor, also known as Lee Taylor, whom she married.

He said they started taking dancing lessons together after their Aug. 3, 1943 marriage in Morgantown, but when he left town on business, she started taking two dancing lessons daily.

Circuit Judge George E. Holt's divorce decree on May 3, 1955, gave the mother custody during school terms with permission for the father to take them out of the state during Christmas, Easter and summer vacations.

Judge Holt sentenced Raese to six months and a $1,500 fine on Jan. 4, 1957, for contempt after complaints that he failed to repay her $50,000 and return the three boys to a Palm Beach private school.

She showed Judge Holt a letter in which Raese told her he could not justify surrender of his children to Kelly's influence.

Removal To Be OKd Appealed

A Pompano Beach man lost a round Monday in his lengthy fight against extradition to California, where the FBI says he's wanted as a suspect in a Beverly Hills jewel robbery.

Federal Judge Emett Choate said he will sign extradition papers Friday on which Donald Jay O'Brien, 36, can be returned.

Meanwhile, O'Brien's lawyers indicated they will appeal to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to prevent it.

O'Brien, a Pompano Beach contractor, is an identical twin to Robert O'Brien, of Ft. Lauderdale. Robert walked into an FBI trap at West Palm Beach last December when officers accused him of trying to rob a jewelry salesman.

Twin Donald was arrested earlier on a warrant charging he was a fugitive from California.

Argentines Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (AP) — Workers in the Buenos Aires port area Monday went on strike for 48 hours for more pay. Loading and unloading operations on more than 200 ships were at a standstill.

Santa Rosa Didn't Slow For Fog

NEW YORK — (AP) — The master of the cruise liner Santa Rosa told a Coast Guard hearing Monday he did not reduce the ship's speed as fog closed in minutes before collision with the tanker Valchem.

Capt. Frank S. Siwik was the first witness as the three-man panel opened inquiry into the crash last Thursday 23 miles off Atlantic City. Four members of the Valchem crew were lost. Both ships were badly damaged.

Siwik testified visibility through the mist was cut to a mile and a quarter as his vessel continued on at 21.5 knots, its normal speed.

He said that he did notify the engine room the Santa Rosa had entered fog — a signal to alert the engine room staff.

Siwik told the board that as the fog began his second officer, Walt Welles, reported radar equipment showed the Valchem to be 4.9 miles away, and to the right. The time was 2:54 a.m.

Three minutes later the distance was three miles, the witness continued, and Welles estimated the ships would pass about three-tenths of a mile apart.

This Siwik described as "too close for me," and he ordered a 10 degree turn to the left.

After inspecting the radar himself, "I saw it was going to be a little closer than three-tenths of a mile, so I ordered a hard left turn to get away from the fellow on my starboard (right).

"I figured that with my speed I would be able to get away."

This was at 2:58 a.m.

Suddenly Siwik said he saw the other ship's lights directly ahead.

"I ran into the wheelhouse and hollered for a hard right turn," the captain continued, "I ordered hard right but before the rudder took over we collided."

Continuing his testimony, Siwik said that he first heard the Valchem's foghorn about a half minute before seeing the tanker's lights directly ahead, between a quarter and a half-mile off.

The Santa Rosa's log, he said, showed that a minute before the crash he had ordered both a right turn and full speed reversal of the engines.

The captain expressed doubt that either order had taken effect at the moment of collision.

Siwik said he believed the Valchem "must have been under way" a contradiction of a statement last week by Capt. Louis E. Murphy of the tanker that his ship had come to a full stop.

quickly become a rich man," one official commented. "Bribery was one of the wrongs in the Batista dictatorship which we fought to correct. So none of us takes bribes anymore."

Then he grinned.

"This is the only kind of a 'bribe' I will take," he declared, cutting a steak as we talked in a Havana restaurant.

The low salaries are not the fault of Castro. Salaries are decreed by the Cuban constitution or by law.

The amounts paid invite corruption. The Prime Minister himself makes only $360 per month. Last month Castro turned his over to charity.

Raul Castro, the Premier's brother who heads the rebel army, draws $125 monthly plus some military benefits. The secretary general of the Prime Ministry makes only $260 and his immediate department heads get $118 before retirement deductions.

Castro has an organization of honest, inexperienced youths running many government offices today. He needs stability and sound planning.

It is touch-and-go now as to whether he will succeed or collapse.

15 Convicts Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. — (AP) — Fifteen state prisoners overpowered their two guards, took their guns and sped off in a prison camp bus Monday. They left the guards tied to a tree.

The prisoners, assigned to a work detail from the Ware County road camp, later changed to a dump truck after proceeding a short distance in the bus, patrolmen reported.

The convicts chose a day on which the state patrol and county officers are busy issuing drivers' licenses and state automobile tags.

First reports indicated they headed southeast toward Waverly in Camden County.

The Brunswick post of the state patrol said nine patrol cars and seven to eight sheriffs cars from nearby counties set up road blocks.

The prisoners obtained shotguns and pistols after overpowering their guards.

The guards were released shortly afterward.

The 15 men fled in a bus built to carry prisoners. It resembles a school bus with a cage built in the rear.

Identity of the prisoners was not immediately available.

Judge Seizes Trial Pictures

APPLING, Ga. — (AP) — Film used by a news photographer to take pictures at a murder trial were ordered destroyed by Superior judge F. Frederick Kennedy.

Vernon Gould, on assignment for The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Herald, had made two time exposures without Kennedy's permission.

Kennedy observed the action, called Gould before him, and ordered a sheriff to seize the film. He then decreed that the film be destroyed.

Castro's A Symbol To Masses

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA — It's ironic but Fidel Castro possesses more power today than any dictator in Cuban history, including Fulgencio Batista, the "strong man" he booted out of office.

Whether Cuba comes out of the revolution for better or worse depends on how the bearded liberator uses this power.

Unknown is whether he intends to follow through with some of the wild schemes he has advanced in mob-appeal speeches, or whether he is merely boasting while still flushed with victory.

Thus far, Castro has made a series of blunders, political and economic, which would have been fatal to any government with less mass appeal.

His hold on the people lies in the symbol of honesty, freedom and democracy he represents.

There is more devotion to the spirit of the revolution and what it symbolizes than to Castro himself.

And under no circumstances do the Cuban people want to go back to the bribery, corruption, human indignities and totalitarianism of the Batista era.

There is an undercurrent of fear that if Castro is pushed from his perch the result would be chaos and confusion and, perhaps, a return to life as known under Batista.

Also beneath the surface is the feeling that the rantings of Castro are not to be taken at face value.

There is tremendous publicity value in standing before the Presidential Palace and telling the crowds how he is going to bring about the downfall of Caribbean despots, nationalize industry in Cuba, and increase the welfare of the workers.

But most U.S. businessmen here and intelligent Cubans do not believe these plans will get beyond the talking stage—unless provoked by unforeseen developments.

Actually, in one of his most recent speeches, Castro told Cubans they must be patient before all the past ills and injustices are to be corrected.

This is interpreted as a healthy sign, perhaps the turning point from the radical and irrational to the realistic business of running a democratic government.

Nevertheless, Cuba is riding on the back of Castro. The way he goes, Cuba goes.

City Plans To Run Gas Business

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — The Fort Pierce city commission Monday night voted unanimously to put the city into the natural gas distributing business — when it becomes available on the Texas pipeline.

For several months a controversy has raged over whether gas distribution should be a municipal utility or whether it should be handled by private business.

All five city commissioners recently completed investigative trips to cities in Florida and other states that have municipal gas systems.

Mayor James L. Howe said Monday "In every city we visited, and we looked at all we were asked to, natural gas as a city-operated venture gas was successful.

"We also learned that this will not put the bottled gas dealers out of business. In Tallahassee, for instance, not only their city gas but the private dealers' business is also increasing.

"Most of the evidence clearly indicates it is to the best interests of the people of Fort Pierce that this city go into the gas business as a public utility."

In Florida, the city fathers visited Tallahassee, Quincy, Pensacola and Milton.

They also went to Thomasville, Ga., Fairhope, Ala., Shelby, N.C., and Greenwood, and other cities in South Carolina.

Ralph Galvin Dies in Vero

VERO BEACH — Ralph M. Galvin, 69, died Monday at a hospital here. Mr. Galvin moved to Vero Beach 22 years ago from New Brighton, Pa.

He was owner and manager of a guest house, a charter member of the First Presbyterian Church of Vero Beach, World War I veteran, a life member of the Masonic Lodge at New Brighton, and a member of Rotary, VFW and of the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife Wilma. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Floyd Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Dr. Harold S. Faust officiating. Burial will follow at Crestlawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Polley, 72, Ft. Pierce, Dies

FORT PIERCE—Mrs. Altha R. Polley, 72, of Fort Pierce died Monday after a long illness. She came here in 1945 from Pikeville, Ky.

Survivors include two sons, Ernest of Fort Pierce, and Elster of Pikeville, four grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. The Baird Funeral Home is in charge.

On Three Charges

Airman Is Given Year in Prison

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — Airman Thurman Byrd has been sentenced to a year in prison after being found guilty of three charges filed in connection with a July, 1958, assault on a Melbourne civilian, the Air Force said Monday.

A general court martial found Byrd guilty of assault, theft of several personal items, and wrongful appropriation of an automobile.

In the July assault, Kenneth Trumbull, an architectural designer, was beaten and left unconscious on a deserted beach by two Air Force men who stole his car.

In addition to the year in prison, the court martial ruled that Byrd be given a bad conduct discharge and forfeit all his pay.

Airman Third Class Jose Sisneros was sent to prison for 18 months on Feb. 26 after conviction on similar charges which were also filed in connection with the Trumbull beating.

All Fixed

State Rep. James H. Pruitt disclosed in Melbourne that an oversight in connection with funds for the proposed Brevard Junior College has been corrected.

During the argument over where the new college should be located it was learned that the state government had not earmarked funds for the institution.

Rep. Pruitt says that has been taken care of, however. He said money for operating the college during the first two years has been included in the new budget.

Both construction and operating estimates are included in the budget to be considered soon by the subcommittee on appropriations.

Office Set Up

"The mayor of EAU GALLIE no longer is required to conduct city business in the local coffee shop, drug store or bakery," reports Mayor Milton McGrath.

McGrath says the recent enlargement of city hall office space by using an upstairs portion of the building has allowed the mayor to set up a private office.

"But I don't plan to stay in there all day," commented McGrath. The mayor's job is a part-time activity here and in other Brevard County municipalities.

Children Die In Accidents

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Death came from a plastic dry cleaner's bag to one child in Florida last year.

It was one of 258 accidental deaths of children under five in 1958, Dr. L. L. Parks, director of the Bureau of Special Health Services of the State Board of Health said Monday.

He said a mother spread out the thin plastic bag as a mattress protector. In some way, the child's breath drew the film across its mouth where it clung and caused suffocation.

Another became entangled in a web strap on a playpen and strangled, he said.

Experiment Farm Cash Requested

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE—Five Indian River area leaders, representing four counties, will fly to Tallahassee early this morning to make a personal appeal to Governor LeRoy Collins to release $48,000 to build a much-needed laboratory for the State Agricultural Experiment Station here.

They are J. R. Graves of Vero Beach, chairman of the Florida Citrus Commission; State Senator Harry J. Kicliter, representing St. Lucie, Indian River and Martin Counties; County Agent Jimmy Oxford of Brevard County; Rudolph Mattson of Fort Pierce, chairman of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association, and Corny Van Der Lugt of Fort Pierce, president of the North St. Lucie County Drainage District.

St. Lucie County Agricultural Agent Charles D. Kime told The Herald that this is not just a local, one-county matter, but that it involves the entire tier of Indian River area counties from Brevard to Martin.

He said, "This money, this $48,000 for a new laboratory was allocated several years ago and we have been put off and put off. It's needed to help improve the breed, to enable the growers around here to produce better and better Indian River citrus fruit which for years has commanded premium prices and which is the biggest business in this part of the state.

"Incidentally this agricultural experiment station near Fort Pierce has always been a going business as well as a scientific laboratory. During the last six or seven years, through the sale of fruit in its grove, it's put $114,000 into the state's general fund. That's just another reason we feel it's entitled to more financial recognition from the state."

Police Hit Blind Alley In Slaying

SARASOTA — (AP) — Officers Monday sought a way out of the blind alley they've reached in their investigation of the slaying of Mrs. William Woodard.

State Atty. W. Mack Smiley said Sunday police had reached an impasse.

"We've questioned dozens of persons," he said, "and we're back just where we started. I see no immediate solution to the case."

He said, however, police will continue to probe every possible angle.

Mrs. Woodard, 51, wife of a former Sarasota County Commissioner, was fatally shot in the living room of her home at nearby Laurel Friday night. A .22 calibre bullet fired through her screen door hit her between the eyes.

Her 55-year-old husband said he was painting a sign in his garage at the time of the shooting.

He was one of four or five persons given lie detector tests.

A spent .22 cartridge and one that apparently misfired were found outside the Woodard house, about five feet from the screen door.

Smiley described Mrs. Woodard a retired school teacher, as a woman who "led an excellent life" and "hadn't an enemy in the world."

THE MOSQUITO PROBLEM won't be too bad this year in Brevard County, according to Harvey J. Crawford, entomologist for Patrick AFB. He says the Air Force and the Brevard's Mosquito fighters should be able to put up a "good fight" although there may be enough rainfall for a lot of breeding. Crawford is one of only four civilian entomologists employed by the Air Force. He was stationed at Patrick because mosquitoes were annoying missilemen.

Accused Forger Implicates Atlantan

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

MELBOURNE — The interstate bogus check case involving City of Melbourne payroll checks thickened Monday when a key suspect being held in a Wichita, Kan., jail implicated an Atlanta man.

William J. Olson, alias William J. Cos, nabbed recently in a Wichita hotel with hundreds of blank Melbourne checks, told police there Monday that he got them from an Atlanta used-car salesman named Cunningham.

Melbourne Police Chief John D. Thomas, after contacting Wichita police, said Olson claimed that he passed "Only five checks." Thomas said the Federal Bureau of Investigation is checking this new angle.

However, Thomas said it could be "a bum steer because Olson claims Cunningham said he found the blank checks along a railroad track."

Olson, previously reported to be tight-lipped about the case, "Now is talking his head off," Thomas was told by Wichita police.

The key suspect is an ex-convict from Abilene, Tex., who says he was released from a federal prison in Atlanta in January. He is charged with forgery in this case.

Chief Thomas said phony checks passed in Macon, Birmingham and Atlanta turned up at the Bank of Melbourne and Trust Co. during the last two weeks and were returned to the last endorsor. The latest check, he said, was received by the local bank Monday. It was written March 14 in Dallas.

The Melbourne Bank, spotting the checks because of phony signatures, tipped off city officials and police and the investigation started. The forgers did not use the names of City Manager Tevis Huguely and City Clerk Mary Lous Knecht but made up false names for officials.

City officials and investigators still do not know how the checks, believed to total 1,000, were obtained by the forgers. The city, however, is insured against such a loss.

Police said that Olsen might have headed a ring because the checks received thus far have turned up from different sections of the country. "There's no telling how many more will turn up," said Thomas.

U.S. Agent Acts To Prevent Tieup

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — About 100 construction workers walked off their jobs Monday as a federal mediator began a last minute effort to head off a full-scale strike of construction workers here and at Cape Canaveral.

The 100 settled their dispute after a six-hour walkout, but they and 1,400 other construction workers are ready to strike at midnight tonight if 11th hour contract negotiations fail, union sources said.

The men — who are represented by three unions — and their employers have been unable to agree in 30 days of negotiations, and their contracts expire at midnight.

Federal Mediator William McAlister, seasoned in earlier Cape Canaveral labor disputes, will open the 11th hour negotiations this morning.

In the negotiations, the men's unions — the ironworkers, the millwrights and the carpenters — are seeking a 5-cent-an-hour pay boost, a 10-cent-an-hour "welfare fund," and a one-year pact.

The Patrick Air Force Base Contractors Association—bargaining agent for the nearly 200 contractors who do construction work here — has offered a 2½-cent pay hike and a two-year pact.

If the men walk out tonight, construction will halt on nearly 60 million dollars worth of work.

Prominent among the work are three launching pads for the Titan ICBM and a modification of existing launching facilities for the Atlas ICBM which will allow missilemen to use the Atlas in space probes.

In the Monday dispute, the 100 workers charged their employer had been using unfair hiring practices and also objected to a policy about reporting times.

McAlister got the men and their employer, the Bell Construction Co., together, and the men agreed to return to work today.

TWU Asks Missile Base Probe

Cocoa Bureau

CAPE CANAVERAL — A Transport Workers Union officer demanded Monday that Congress investigate the administration of the Atlantic missile range and the pay of range employes.

Jack Flaherty, president of the Cape TWU Local, charged that Pan American World Airways has allowed government equipment to "rust," that the firm has "misused" government funds and that it is violating several Federal pay acts.

Officials of PAA — which runs Cape Canaveral and the 6,000-mile range under an Air Force contract — had no comment, but sources said they would welcome an investigation.

Flaherty said he has asked the Military Appropriations Committee to look into his charges, and that the charges will be before the committee soon.

The union officer admitted the investigation demand is connected with a multi-million-dollar lawsuit he and 466 other PAA employes brought against PAA last year.

The suit is pending in Federal District Court, Orlando. Judge George Whitehurst has denied a PAA motion to quash the action.

In the suit, Flaherty and his co-plaintiffs contend that PAA is not paying them in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act, a Federal law which sets up pay scales for all government contracts of more than $2,000.

They say their pay is as much as $1 per hour below Davis-Bacon standards.

The suit also charged PAA with violation of the eight-hour work law and the Fair Labor Standards Act and asks that PAA's Cape Canaveral employes be given portal-to-portal pay.

Estimated pay involved is 6.5 to 10 million dollars. The suit asks that pay be adjusted as far back as June 24, 1956, two years before the action was brought.

Flaherty and his 466 co-plaintiffs brought the action as individuals. The TWU has not entered it.

Melbourne Bank Spotted Check

MELBOURNE — The tip-off that city of Melbourne checks were being used by an interstate bogus check ring came "the minute the first phony one reached the Bank of Melbourne and Trust Co.," City Clerk Mary Lou Knecht said Monday.

The city clerk said that "bank employes noticed that something was amiss when the checks, bearing phony signatures and carrying incorrect serial numbers, came through."

Bank officials called Miss Knecht and the investigation started. An earlier Herald story incorrectly said that the bank had honored the worthless checks and the city had uncovered the plot.

The discovery and following investigation led to the arrest of William J. Olson, alias William J. Cox, in a Wichita, Kan., hotel.

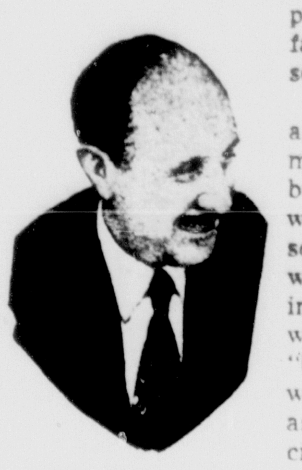
Lewis Displays Rare Knack--Skims Blue Area Without Offense



WITH THE EXCEPTIONS of Holiday on Ice at the Exhibition Hall, Donald O'Connor at the Fontainebleau, and Jean Carroll at the Diplomat there isn't much evidence on the "live" Class AA after-dark scene this week that would indicate that our impresarios anticipated a heavy family trade in this Easter Week-school recess season.

Jack Carter, Buddy Hackett and Joe E. Lewis are all fine funmakers on the supper club circuit but each of them purveys comedy which demands a high degree of sophistication or a familiarity with what used to be called smoking car humor back in the days when off-color (we call them "blue" in the cafe trade) stories were restricted to magazines such as Whizbang or to the closed precincts of the stag party.

But, judging from the reception given Joe E. at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii where he is coupled with Eartha Kitt, and Jack Carter at the Americana where he shares billing with Dorothy Sarnoff, the type of joke which might get a frigid look or a stony silence if told by a husband at home in the presence of his children is now acceptable as "family" fun with the same young audience in the togetherness of a tightly packed night club.

We detail all this not in a criticism of the night club show format nor in implication that the expensively decored spots are cesspools of evil but merely to deliver a well-intentioned caution that the Buddy Hackett at the Deauville is not the Hackett of the TV "Stanley" series, nor is Carter the Carter of past television experiments or of the Broadway theater.

Carter Talent Tops Blue Routine

THERE IS NO caution needed for Joe E. Lewis — on two counts. Joe has made very infrequent excursions into media other than cafes in recent years and those who know the name know it not from the other-side-of-the-coin areas of television or the legit stage but from its significance as the easily definable label of the likeable pixie who is a font of ultra-sophisticated parody and a genial gentleman who is undeniably blue but who doesn't have to beat his material black and blue.

Errol Flynn
. . . sold?

Rosalind Russell
. . . writes?

Eartha Kitt
. . . torrid

What we mean is that Carter, for instance, comes on stage at the Americana Bal Masque Room and for the first 15 minutes of his act recites a brilliant new routine which leads off with a "76 Trombones" parody, sparkling with such newies as a reference to the Belle Moskowitz Room and the acknowledgment of an unusual number of kiddies in the audience by advising them "I'll lay 'em (meaning an egg) and you color them." The appreciative applause on these was near deafening.

Then the hard-sell Carter of old comes out. He harangues and then burlesques in belittling manner the Harry Belafontes, the Jose Grecos, whom he exposes as a name-changer, and the Lauritz Melchiors and he reports that an act which had previously played this same Americana stage used "smelly and moldy" costumes.

But he impeaches his own right to such a complaint against uncleanliness by immediately diving into a couple of pretty "sick" routines about a gynecologist and a psychiatrist and at least one scatological reference.

And do you know what happened then? The applause was near deafening! So who can blame him? Why should he knock himself out with the fine talent for mimicry and for dancing which he possesses when a reach into the "blue" yonder can come up with a handful of laugh-rewarding shockers.

* * *

Joe E. Uses Skill, Not Kill

BUT, GETTING BACK to Joe E. Lewis, at Eden Roc with his accompanist Austin Mack (which immediately gives added class and pseudo-concert status to the proceedings), Joe's voice has the endearing qualities of a family heirloom piece of sandpaper. But the manner to match has no rancor in it and is friendly not frantic as it, too, relates or sings of situations which are concerned with the devious ways of a man with a maid, also-ran maidens (equine), and sour mash and its spirit cousins.

He has a lot of new parodies, the one on "Suzie Wong" taking all the variant tangents you'd expect of it, and the inevitable one on "79 Hormones" covering every angle of ribaldry in the book.

But not once does Lewis grimace evilly or—as we said before—see the necessity for pounding his blue material until it is both black and blue. It may seem a unique simile in view of some of the things Joe E. Lewis, a man who drinks for himself, says—but HIS saving quality is that he's as cute as a little red label. He uses "skill" instead of "kill."

Ex-Stetson Dean Kills Self at Jax

DELAND — (UPI) — Dr. Benson W. Davis, 52, former Stetson University professor, shot himself to death with a revolver at the Municipal Airport here Monday.

Davis, who was object of a two-state search last summer before turning up in Jacksonville, died at Fish Memorial Hospital three hours after shooting himself in the mouth, sheriff's officers said.

Sheriff Rodney B. Thursby said Davis left a suicide note, but contents of the message were not available immediately. The victim's wife, Mary Payne Davis, was notified of the shooting at Daytona Beach, where she was visiting friends during the Easter weekend.

Davis, associated with Stetson University since 1938, was reported missing by his wife at the close of the summer session.

He had sent her a wire advising her not to meet him at their summer home at Boone, N.C., as he had asked earlier. But Mrs. Davis went to Boone anyway, and conducted a search of her own.

For a time there was speculation Davis met with foul play, and authorities made fingerprints of a body found floating in a river at Jacksonville to determine if it was that of Davis.

More than three weeks after his disappearance, police closed the case when Davis went to a Jacksonville shipping dock Aug. 24 and claimed his car and luggage, shipped there from Puerto Rico.

The educator did not return to his position as dean of the Stetson philosophy department this fall, but continued to live at his home here.

Sheriff Thursby said Davis drove to the airport about 9:45 a.m. and stopped in front of a manufacturing firm. He got out of the car, lay down on the ground, and shot himself in the mouth.

Davis started his tenure at Stetson in 1938 as instructor of classical languages. He served as dean of that department in 1940-41 and then left the campus temporarily.

He returned in 1945 and was appointed dean of men in 1946. He served in that capacity until 1950, when he was named head of the philosophy department.

GREENWICH, R. I. —(UPI) — Ralph Walker, 21, picked the right day to get a flat tire. He was returning from a roller skating rink with his wife at the time. So he skated a mile to a filling station and back, rolling the patched tire in front of him.

In Legislature

Bill Would Plug 'Leader Loophole'

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— Sen. Dewey Johnson Monday proposed a law that would plug the loophole which allows the legislature to operate without leaders from election day until the session opens four months later.

Johnson is operating as Senate president designate now, but will have no real power until April 7 when the 1959 session opens. House Speaker Designate Thomas D. Beasley is in the same position.

Johnson will recommend a law under which the legislature would caucus within 10 days after the November election and the designated presiding officers would go immediately to the secretary of state and take the official oath.

Under present custom, the speaker is selected two years in advance of each session, the president at a caucus right after the November election.

But the positions have no official standing in law until the legislature convenes the following April. This creates a four-months hiatus, with the old ones going out in November and the new ones not coming in until April.

It also operates during these four months every two years to knock the Senate president and house speaker out of their places as first and second in line for succession to a governor who dies or is unable to serve.

But Johnson said this factor has nothing to do with his proposal. He said he has found it a handicap in signing bills for pre-legislative expenses and setting up committees.

"Nobody has ever challenged these actions, but they are not official," he said.

Dickinson Named to Rules Group

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Sen. Fred O. Dickinson Monday became the only South Florida legislator to land on the all-important Rules Committee.

The Palm Beach County Senator was notified of his appointment to the Senate's most powerful committee by telegram. The group controls placing of bills on the Senate calendar.

Dickinson was also handed nine other committee spots, including chairmanship of Judiciary B Committee, which handles civil legislation.

He was appointed to the committee which will cope with the reapportionment issue — the committee on Constitional Amendments and Government Reorganization.

His other appointments include the committees on Agriculture, Building and Loans, Corporations, Drainage, Insurance, and Legislative Management.

Dickinson will leave with his family for Tallahassee Saturday. He will open his office at the capitol Monday morning.

Sheriffs' Fees on Way Out

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The president of the Florida Sheriffs Association predicted Monday that more sheriffs would go off the "antiquated fee system" this year and go on a budget and salary.

Writing in the 1959 association yearbook distributed Monday, sheriff Ross E. Boyer of Sarasota County said the budget-salary system for operating sheriffs departments would itself be improved this year.

All but a handful of sheriffs were transferred from the fee system to the budget-salary system in 1957.

Boyer also said the Florida Sheriffs Bureau after three formative years would reach maturity and fulfill its intended scope.

The yearbook contains pictures, and brief biographical sketches of the 1959 legislators and sheriffs. It also carried layouts on the sheriffs bureau and boys ranch, a home for underprivileged boys sponsored by the association.

Among the 26 persons listed as honorary lifetime members of the association because they contributed $1,000 to the boys ranch was Charles Rosenberg, Tallahassee printer who conducted the sheriffs' fund-raising campaign in 1957 that led to establishment of Boys Ranch.

Neither the association nor Rosenberg has made public the full financial details of their fund-raising agreement.

Rosenberg, head of Rose Printing Co., still prints the yearbook but the association itself now conducts the $10 honorary membership campaign for raising funds for boys ranch and its other projects.

Charlotte Dolomite Mine Set

Herald Service

PUNTA GORDA — Rich and extensive deposits of dolomite have been discovered in central Charlotte County and preparations were underway Monday for mining and processing this mineral, important as a fertilizer.

The discovery was made by L. D. Gleason, wealthy Greensburg, Ind., farmer, in digging of drainage canals on a 3,000 acre tract he is developing for farming at Bermont in wilderness area of Charlotte County.

Gleason will mine and process the dolomite on his own, it was reported by Francis Garrison, his agent here. Garrison said the deposits have been tested and approved by scientists at Purdue University and University of Florida.

Florida Home, Business Loans Increase 17 Pct.

JACKSONVILLE—(AP)—Florida loans for homes and small business financing climbed to $1,363,452,000 in 1958, the Florida Chamber of Commerce said. The total was 17 per cent above 1957.

The national gain was 13 per cent.

Savings and loan associations handled 35 per cent of the loan volume, up 12 per cent from a year ago, the chamber said. Individuals advanced 24 per cent of the business loans and government agencies provided 29 per cent.

Commercial banks loaned eight per cent and insurance companies four.

Three counties accounted for 39 per cent of the volume in loans. They were: Dade $408,807,700; Duval $102,506,000; and Lake $12,479,900.

Retired railroader finds you can take it with you!

When Harry V. Handley, 715 Ridge Rd., West Palm Beach recently retired from the F. E. C. Railway, he wrote "... grateful thanks for your wonderful help. Aside from the protection you offer, I would like to remain a member in order to pay back in small measure some of the money you so generously paid out for my benefit."

Our one and only job is helping people like Mr. and Mrs. Handley. In less than a year, they had hospital and doctor bills totaling $1,788.25. Of this, Blue Cross-Blue Shield paid $1,310.45. The Handleys are now protected under the Type J direct-pay family contract. Yes, you can take this protection with you when you retire!

HOW TO JOIN

1. NON-GROUP: You can apply for a contract with the same benefits as Mr. Handley's if you are in good health. No age limit. Medical information required on application. Both single and family protection.

2. GROUP: If you work where there are 5 or more people, including the boss, a group can be formed. No age limit. No medical information required on application.

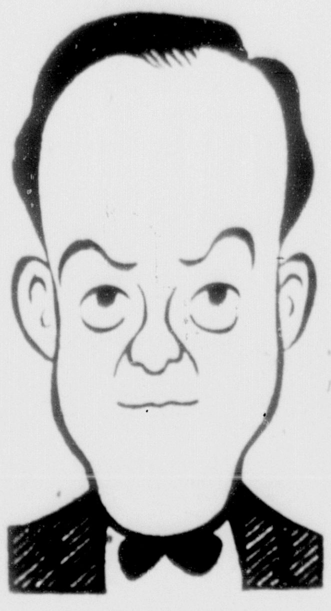
Humphrey: 'Crisis' Approach Aids Reds



Sen. Humphrey
. . . no spring training

Sen. Hubert Humphrey predicted in Miami Monday that a firm Allied stand at the Summit will force Russia to back down without a shooting war over the Berlin crisis.

But he warned that what he called continued mishandling by President Eisenhower and the State Department of American foreign policy in the Cold War can only mean further gains for the Soviets.

"The weakness in our foreign policy is our treatment of each crisis, each problem, as something separate," he said. "Each should be a part of the world problem . . . which is a totalitarian issue."

"We are in a life-and-death world series," the senator told a jam-packed luncheon meeting of the Dade County Bar Association.

"It's a world series without the benefit of spring training . . . on a winner-take-all basis."

The Minnesota Democrat, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, discussed his recent eight-hour interview with Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev in Moscow, and his on-the-spot inspection of Berlin.

Humphrey said the Cold War is a global war—that the problems of the Middle East, Berlin, China and even Latin America are closely tied in and should be treated that way.

"If free West Berlin falls, it is not inconceivable that West Germany would eventually follow, and if West Germany falls, the nightmare of a new tyranny would sweep over all Europe," he said.

The senator said the State Department urgently needs "somebody in charge" now.

"I have the highest regard for the secretary," he said. "May his health be restored but we cannot have sentimentality in our foreign policy now . . . We need people in charge 24 hours a day."

(Ailing Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived in Florida Monday to start convalescing from recent cancer treatments.)

Humphrey proposed that the U.S. ask for inclusion of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold at the big-power summit conference on Berlin.

"The presence of the secretary general would mean the symbolic representation of all members of the U.N. who may object to four powers presuming to settle an issue which can mean peace or war for the entire world," he declared.

The Minnesotan also suggested that the summit conference be held within the framework of the U.N., and that the U.N. have permanent representation in the divided German city.

Russia, he said, wants three things in Europe, and has manufactured the Berlin crisis in a bid to get them.

1—The Soviet Union wants the Western Powers to get out of Berlin. It ultimately wants the entire city under complete Communist control.

2—Russia wants to force the Western powers to negotiate an all-German settlement favorable to the Soviet Union, preferring a united Germany closely tied to the Communist bloc.

But he believes the Soviets would settle for two Germanies with East Germany solidified under Communist control by the elimination of the Berlin oasis.

3—The U.S.S.R. hopes through the threat of war over Berlin to split the Western allies, undermine NATO and neutralize West Germany.

"We cannot permit any of these Soviet objectives to be fulfilled," said Humphrey. "It is inconceivable that we would retreat from West Berlin."

He said that, based on his talk with Khrushchev and his studies of the international situation, "I am convinced that the Soviet Union prefers to gain its political objectives in Europe without nuclear war.

"I am convinced that Russia needs peace . . . that she is economically not geared for war."

He said the U.S.S.R is relatively happy with her success in "operation nibble" and will continue to "nibble and pick up the pieces of the world bit by bit" as long as the Western powers allow.

Humphrey called for the U.S. and her allies to "do our homework as never before" in preparation for a long and arduous battle over the conference tables at the summit.

"The Russians always come prepared," he said. "This time we must."

Nehru Invited To Visit Soviet

NEW DELHI — (AP) — The Times of India said Prime Minister Nehru has been invited by Nikita Khrushchev to visit the Soviet Union. The newspaper said the invitation was brought to New Delhi by Ambassador K. P. S. Menon and the reply will be conveyed on Menon's return to Moscow in mid-April.

We Were There . . . At Fine Arts Breakfast

FLOWERED BONNETS, such as these worn by four club leaders, gave a spring-time atmosphere to Coral Gables Woman's Club's fine arts breakfast Monday. Mrs. M. Lewis Hall, left, member of the club and first vice president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, wore deep pink. Mrs. Raymond Burr, fine arts chairman of the club, was in daffodil yellow. White was the color choice of Mrs. Lloyd Rees, standing, who was chairman of the breakfast. Mrs. Winston W. Wynne, right, president of the club, wore powder blue.

MUSIC AND DRAMA were represented at the party by Mrs. Clifton Muir, southeastern regional vice president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and Owen Phillips, director of the Coconut Grove Playhouse. Both spoke briefly on the progress of music and drama in Greater Miami. More than 200 members of the club attended the program.

NOVELIST, POET AND MUSEUM director were other honor guests at the party. They are, left to right, Mrs. Raymond (Carol) Brink, Newberry prize winning novelist, Mrs. Joseph (Audrey Wurdemann) Auslander, Pulitzer prize winning poet, and E. Robert Hunter, director of Vizcaya, Dade County's art museum. Veronica and James McCormick presented the musical program, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. James J. McCormick. Miss McCormick wore the white bouffant gown she wore at the Stephen Foster "Jeanie Ball" when she won the Jeanie contest.

'Should My Boy Friend Attend This Wedding Without Me?'

Column with a Heart

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I am 19 and have been going steady with a boy two years. He and I love each other and have made plans for the future. Because we are both still going to school, we have not announced these plans to anyone.

Recently a close friend of my boy friend asked him to be an usher at his wedding.

Although we have double dated with this couple on many occasions, and they know how my boy friend and I feel about each other, I was not invited to the wedding.

Do you think my boy friend should go to the wedding even though I was not invited? He says he has to go because they are such close friends. I am anxious to know what is right.

ANXIOUS

Your lack of invitation could be an oversight, so let's give the couple the benefit of the doubt and assume that it is.

It would be entirely proper, under the circumstances, for your boy friend to mention to his friend, the fact that you have not yet received your invitation to the wedding.

That should take care of the situation, nicely.

* * *

There's Nothing Like Children

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

After my baby was born, I resented the role of mother — the sleepless nights and the extra work, which were so new to me.

But, gradually, as my baby grew older and became a little person so easy to love, I discovered there was nothing more rewarding in this world for a woman than the experience of having and loving children, and being able to give a little of herself for them.

Now I want more children but seem unable to have them. This, sometimes, is the sad twist of fate.

I just wish those mothers who are so blessed with children would appreciate them a little more.

WOULD-BE-MOTHER

There Was Love With Each Stroke

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

M. B.'s letter bring to mind an experience I had in a doctor's waiting room. My three small children were sitting quietly looking at books.

There was another woman, quite embarrassed, because her two were behaving badly. Finally she turned to me and asked how I managed to keep my youngsters quiet.

I told her I had promised candy if they were good. She said she had tried that and it didn't work for her. I then added that mine were also promised a spanking if they weren't good.

Her exact words were: "My God, I beat them half to death and it still doesn't help one bit."

Like Contented Mother, I was not referring to brute force. I was speaking of a good-old-fashioned paddling, like my kind and gentle mother gave to me.

I will also add that I have never resented a single paddling, and think there must have been love in each stroke of her hand.

MRS. W. H.

Some Advice To In-Laws

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I would like to write you the words I told my two daughters-in-law, in hope they will promote better understanding among the women of one family.

I am a grandmother by choice—I married a widower with two grown sons, one married and the other single. When the second son married, I took my new daughter to one side and told her what I had told the first daughter-in-law:

"We will argue, we will fight, we will disagree. You are you and I am me. I will respect your right to do what you think best if you will do the same for me. Let me hear from you once a week to assure us you are well.

"There will be times when I'll get angry and so will you, but I'll never stop loving or speaking to you. There is to be no longterm hate in this family. If you are offended, do not carry a grudge. Say what bothers you. If we can help, we will, and we will love you still."

FREDERICKA

The man who carries a grudge just makes his burden a little heavier. Perhaps your words will help, not one family, but many others.

Eleanor Hart.

Column With a Heart welcomes discussion of your problems, and your replies to the problems of others. Write to Eleanor Hart, The Miami Herald, Miami, Fla.

A Woman's Prayer

By Josephine Robertson

O God, in my relations with people around me today give me the power to establish a friendly atmosphere, as fresh and clear as a mountain morning.

If someone is unpleasant, keep me from yielding to any childish reaction of anger to anger, unkindness to unkindness. Teach me rather to sense the cause beneath the word or act that on the surface seems unfriendly, and to see beyond passing moods without being swayed by them.

Help me to dissolve away the clouds of unhappiness and misunderstanding with the sunshine of love and sympathy. Reveal to me the secret of bringing refreshment of spirit to all I meet today. Amen.

AAUW Finds Painless Way To Give Food Sale

Miami Branch of the American Association of University Women has a new wrinkle on fund raising—a foodless food sale.

The sale is going on right now, but nary a pie is being baked. None of the members is slaving over a hot cooky sheet either, because the foodless food sale boils down to two words: "Send Money."

The co-chairmen of the sale, Mrs. John E. Norman and Miss Harriet Wilson, sent out a poem explaining the foodless food sale to the branch's 250 members.

And the members are sending the price of whatever they would bake for a good sale to the chairmen for the building fund of the national association's Educational Center under construction in Washington, D.C.

NEW GADGET IS PATENTED

Now Baby Won't Slip

The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A device for holding a slippery baby in a bathtub has been invented by Mildred O. Ackerson of Upland, Calif. "As generally known," she said in her patent application, "infants are difficult to handle during a bathing operation."

Her apparatus is a plastic base with a large depressiion for the baby's torso and a smaller depression for the head.

Mother can let the baby squirm and use both hands for washing. The raised headrest keeps baby's face out of the water and soap out of his eyes, according to the patent.

CARE OF CLOTHES: Two ways of keeping buttons from coming off work clothes — (1) Have them sewn on with dental floss instead of thread, or (2) Touch thread at center of button with clear nail polish. It will seal the threads and prevent breakage.

Double Duty Party

You can do two things at once at the Tuesday morning party of the Nina Opland Unit, Woman's Corps of the Cancer Institute at Miami: see Vizcaya and its formal gardens and pick out a new spring outfit.

Party is at 10:30 a.m. fashion show of clothes from Beth Eber of South Miami on the terrace at Vizcaya, Dade County's art museum.

Mrs. James F. Moore, 6908 Altimira Ave., Coral Gables, is ticket chairman and Mrs. W. A. Blitch is general chairman of the party.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Easter Bonnets Feature Posies As Chief Decor

By FLORENCE RABON
Herald Correspondent

KEY WEST — The Easter spotlight was on milady's chapeau and a dream of spring beauty burst forth in the hats worn in the Easter parade. One of the lovliest graced the head of Mrs. F. D. McCorkle, first lady of the U. S. Naval Base here. A deep crowned, narrow brimmed, white straw, trimmed with silk flowers of shaded blue, twinining on green stems with leaves peeking through, set off her exuisite blue silk sheath, topped by a white silk jacket.

MRS. RABON

Eva (Mrs. Dan) Navarro chose a tiny close-fitting original fashioned of blue leaves, shaded from dark to light. A whisp of blue veiling and a perky velvet bow in the back completed the picture. She wore a light blue imported cotton, a low cut back with an organdy insert, was dotted with miniature pearls.

A striking picture hat of apricot Milan straw, trimmed with apricot and navy blue roses, adorned the head of Emily (Mrs. Lee) Goddard. This stately lady wore a navy blue, empire style, crepe gown with a shoulder to hem attached drape of self-material.

Sylvia (Mrs. Jeff) Knight was stunning in a white Chinese straw with Beige straw trim in a lacy pattern. Her dress was of aqua silk shantung with handdrawn inserts in front and back.

A perky, cherry-red, straw with matching cherries, tiny white silk blossoms and touches of red ribbon was selected by Mrs. H. R. Wier. With it she wore a smart black linen suit with a Chinese box type jacket.

A beige straw with rippled brim set off by small pink and beige poseys was worn by Marge (Mrs. Joe) Allen. Marge was a symphony in beige in her linen sheath and matching accessories.

Flower bedecked bonnets seemed the choice of the day, as many others seen were gay with colorful blooms.

Convent Class Has Silver Fete

ALUMNI OF THE Convent of Mary Immaculate held their annual banquet at the NCCS on Duval St. Celebrating a silver anniversary were members of the class of 1934. Representing the class were Felicia (Mrs. E. J.) Hernandez, Theresa (Mrs. Arthur) Judge, Leonella (Mrs. F. X.) Delaney, Mary Theresa VanGrieken, Elena (Mrs. Ward) Sawyer, Yolanda (Mrs. W. Curry) Harris, Alice (Mrs. Robert) George, Marie (Mrs. W. P.) Bowden from Miami, and Rose Crusoe Lax, down from Richmond, Va. Other guests were members of the 1959 graduation class.

Past presidents were given pins. The convent seal adorned each pin, which was engraved with the year of office. Alumni honored were Mrs. Gloriana M. Bayly, Caroline (Mrs. Roy) Roberts, Mary (Mrs. Edward) Graham, Angela (Mrs. Thomas) Caro, Eva (Mrs. Paul) Newhouse, and Miriam (Mrs. E. S.) Poliszuk.

Miami's gift to the association was silver candelabra, engraved with the names of the officers who served with her. They were Cleora (Mrs. Francis) Johnson, first vice-president; Eva (Mrs. Paul) Newhouse, second vice-president; Miss Eloina Gato, secretary; Madue (Mrs. Herbert) Reynolds, treasurer; and Mary June (Mrs. Paul) Mesa, reporter.

THE SCHOLARSHIP fund card party, sponsored by Key West City Panhellenic, will be held at the Casa Marina patio April 23, 9:30 A.M. to 11:45 a.m. Shirley (Mrs. Norman) Wood is chairman. Funds raised will assist a student already enrolled in college and a high school senior, graduating in June.

Any woman who is a member of a national college sorority may attend meetings and join Panhellenic. Tickets may be obtained from any member of Panhellenic.

A busy week is planned for the Allied officers attending the U.S. Fleet Sonar School. On Thursday they will visit the Key West High school, and that evening will be guests at the dinner meeting of the Lions Club.

Down from Chicago for a spring visit is Matilda (Mrs. Millard) Johnson. She is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Knight, on Washington St. Millard, who came with her, has returned to Chicago. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kuntavanish
. . . to Bangkok and Europe

Recent Bridal Couple Honored at Reception

PALM BEACH — Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kuntavanish of Boston, on their wedding trip, were honored at a reception at the home of Col. and Mrs. Guy W. McLain, 417 Westwood Rd. Mr. and Mrs. Kuntavish spent 10 days with the McLains.

Mrs. Kuntavanish, the former Anne Ahn, is a native of China. Col. McLain met her family in Korea during World War II, and sponsored her education in the U.S.

She attended colleges in North Carolina and Kentucky and holds an occupational therapy degree from Washington University of St. Louis. She has been on the staff of a Boston hospital.

She spent her vacations with the McLains while attending school and is an American citizen.

Mr. Kuntavanish is a native of Thialand and was educated in Bangkok, Hong Kong and has a master's degree in business administration from Boston U., specializing in acturial fields. He came to the U.S. nine years ago.

He served with the U.S. Army in Germany for two years and is a U.S. citizen.

The couple will go to Bangkok to visit the groom's family and will return to live in the U.S. after a tour of Europe.

This Paint Really Sticks

By JEAN WARDLOW
Herald Staff Writer

Not birds and bees. But birds and flowers are causing Mrs. W. B. D. heartache. They're painted on three of her wood trays and . . . well, let her tell it:

"I have three lovely wood trays which unfortunately are hand painted with birds and flowers. Then there is lacquer or some fixative over the entire tray, so the handpainting won't come off.

"Is it possible to remove the birds and flowers and refinish the trays so that they are just plain wood?"

But that's not all. She has more problems.

The next one concerns place mats.

Mrs. D. says, "I have two kinds and both are dirty. One kind is the woven straw from Nassau. Can these be washed with water and soap?

"The next kind is plastic which has a nubby surface like cloth. These I have scrubbed with soap and water but the stains of french dressing linger on.

"What to do?"

Her Leather Jacket's Torn

You know those pretty leather jackets? Well, MRS. B. B.'s isn't so pretty any more. A tear. Naturally it couldn't be in the seam. It's right out in the open for all the world to see.

How can she repair it?

Making Soap? Here Are Hints

MRS. W. B. who makes her own soap, sent in answers to readers' soap questions:

"1. BACON FAT is one of the best for making soap. Mutton tallow and suet not acceptable. Chicken fat, rancid conoking oils, etc. are all fine.

"2. BORAX, ½ cup, added to soap when making will whiten soap. Mine was yellow too before I used borax. Sift and mix thoroughly into soap." Mrs. C. S. also suggested this.

Mrs. B. also has some recipes which she'll be happy to pass along to the boy from Patrick Air Force Base who requested any tips on homemaking know-how (preparing for his future married life).

Afraid he might be discharged by now. But if he'll write Readers' Exchange and give us his address, we'll pass along Mrs. B.'s letter.

This is a Sunday, Tuesday and Friday column for the Florida homemaker. Hints, questions and answers may be mailed with full name and address to Readers' Exchange, The Miami Herald, Miami, 30. The Herald is not responsible for the safety or efficiency of methods recommended by our readers.

UPPER KEYS

Easter Services Inspire

By CAROLYN V. COHEN
Herald Correspondent

UPPER KEYS — There are few places that have sunrises such as you see in the Florida Keys. That's why an Easter sunrise service is something special and beautiful in the area. It is impossible to attend this ceremony without sensing the power and beauty of nature.

COHEN

This year there were three such services, one each at Key Largo, Tavernier and Islamorada. All were solemn and lovely in the hush before the sun appeared out of the sea.

After visiting these three relatively small groups we wondered why sectionalism could not be erased, at least at this season. Why can't all churches unite in preparing just one large and expanded sunrise program next year?

There is real talent here, and there are those who could produce a pageant about the Easter story. The massed choirs, singing traditional Easter hymns in one of the beauty spots beside the ocean, would increase the inspiration of this observance.

Perhaps we cannot aspire to an Orange Bowl program, but there is little doubt that we could present a service that would greet the day with reverence plus a spirit of good will between all of the congregations. Who knows, perhaps it would be a beginning of greater understanding between the sections during the rest of the year?

* * *

SINCE THE activity of Easter a post-season hush has fallen on the Upper Keys. Coral Shores School enters the final stretch of the year; Easter vacationeers are headed for home; residents are beginning to plan their own vacations; traffic is noticeably thinner; the crawfish closed season is at hand, and mosquitos are a subject of conversation.

Many young people are home for college spring vacations, but will leave soon. Bob McKenzie of Tavernier, who is making quite a reputation as a Miami Herald reporter for FSU was visiting his parents, the H. S. McKenzies. He's enthusiastic about his work as correspondent.

Walter Smith of Key Largo, is looking forward to the arrival of his mother, Mrs. Olive Edwards, for her first visit here. Mrs. Edwards, who admits to 80 years plus, is flying from Los Angeles, with plans to settle in South Florida permanently.

AND THOSE SONGS SPARKLE

'Babes in Arms' Young, Alive

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Correspondent

PALM BEACH — Where are the "Babes in Arms?"

At the Royal Poinciana Playhouse, of course. All week, with matinees not only Wednesday and Saturday, but an extra matinee thrown in Friday for lagniappe.

"Babes in Arms" gives the sparkling champagne Rodgers-Hart songs in a brand new setting. The 1937 version has been replaced by an entirely new play, re-plotted by George Oppenheimer. The songs fit the play like a glove.

This is a history making musical comedy — history making because, as far as anyone seems to know, this is the first time songs have is the suave and sophisticated been used in a play. Star supper club singer, Julie Wilson.

Supporting cast is made up of pretty girls and fine looking young men, who sing and dance like crazy. So young and fresh do they appear that if it were not for the professional verve and finesse you might think you were watching a college play.

The story that serves as a grand excuse for the creamy music concerns the goings on at a summer theater and the ambitions of the apprentices to stage their own show.

Among the girls you will particularly remember Barbara Sharmer, a honey of a redhead wih a built-in sense of comedy; Jean Hovis, whose lovely soprano voice is matched by her ability to dance and act; Janet Pavek, a beautiful brunette with a beautiful voice.

The other youngsters in the chorus are easy to look at, and you will not overlook the little girl with the dark brown braid worn like a pony tail.

Among the men, Harvey Honecker, Brian Davies, Hal England (with the deep southern accent) are aided by the other dancers and by William Lanteau, Milo Boulton, and William Berrian. Mary Cooper is good as a typical stage mother.

It's good to hear those songs again. They have brightened life in these United States for more than 20 years. It is especially fine to hear them sung by young talent and to realize that, when this play has run its course, the songs may again be used "in another part of the dramatic forest."

Peter Howard directs the excellent orchestra. The play is produced by Frank Hale and Paul Crabtree, in association with Lee Guber., Frank Ford, and Shelly Gross. It's going from here to Miami, and then will take to the road.

Miss Cote Is Bride of Mr. Whebby

St. Joseph's Church in Miami Beach was the setting for the wedding Monday of Miss Marie-Paule Cote to William Joseph Whebby.

The bride is the daughter of of the Edmond Cotes of Edmondston, New Brunswick, Canada. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Marneault, were hosts for the reception held at their home, 7452 Harding Ave., Miami Beach.

Mr. Whebby is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whebby of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Both were educated in Canadian schools. Mrs. Whebby is a graduate of the Hotel Dieu Hospital School of Nursing.

Following a Canadian honeymoon, the newlyweds will live in Ontario.

This Unusual Hospital Stresses Prevention As Well as Cures

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

TEL AVIV, Israel — After seeing three beautiful mosques in Isfahan, Iran and the great square, which is next in size to Red Square in Moscow and where polo was played centuries ago, we flew into Teheran.

Mrs. Roosevelt

Representatives of the joint distribution committee took us in tow and we visited one of the most remarkable hospitals I ever have been in. The doctor in charge was proud to show me that the children's wards had only four occupants, whereas his maternity ward was well filled.

This is, of course, one of the basic goals they have been working on. They urge the mothers to come regularly for prenatal care, and they run a clinic for well children as well as for sick children.

They put as much emphasis on prevention as they do on cure. The hospital is used by Moslems as well as Jews, since the community is not exclusively Jewish.

Throughout Iran the problem is to teach whole communities, Moslems and Jews alike, especially among the poorer classes, to clean up the conditions under which they live and to make every effort to feed children properly.

I visited a kindergarten in Teheran, too, and the children looked well and seemed happy. While there was more room for more children there than in Shiraz, there still was not enough space. Everyone told me how much better they could do if they had more money, but I feel that in time, since these people are not living in fear, the communities themselves must provide the wherewithal so long as the leadership is given from such international organizations as the joint distribution committee.

Guidance will have to be provided for a long time, but there is certainly every opportunity for the people to learn to help themselves to a greater extent.

I went to a meeting of the Iran-American Society and found that this group was devoting itself to teaching English to any Iranians who wanted to learn, and there were many. Most of the teachers are Americans living there who volunteer their services, and the society employs only two or three professionals to help in organizing the classes and in giving some basic training to the teachers.

I also attended a tea given by the American Women's Club of Teheran, which had as guests many women in the diplomatic corps as well as Americans and Iranians. At both these meetings I was asked to say a few words of greeting, but I have been grateful that on this trip so far I have not had to make any speeches.

'Too Tiresome,' He Decides

Directing, Acting Tough on Brando

By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Marlon Brando is sorry he took on the added chore of directing a picture in which he also stars.

"I think it's unlikely that I'll direct and act in the same picture again," he says.

"It's too tiresome," the Oscar-winning actor complained. "You have very little time left for your own personal life when you both act and direct.

"I live here in my dressing room," Marlon said, after a long day's work on the set of "One-Eyed Jacks."

Relaxing on a couch in his dressing room suite, which contains living quarters, Marlon cited a back-breaking schedule for the picture, already a couple of months behind in production.

"Some days we work from 8:30 in the morning to 7 at night," he said. "And, then I go back to it in the evening, running some film or working on the script.

"I even have to learn my lines on the run!"

Besides watching over other actors, Marlon keeps an eye on his own performance and directs himself.

"I print up two or three takes of the things I do," he explained. "Then, I select the best one."

On the Western street set earlier, Marlon spent close to half the day directing a scene of less than a minute's duration.

Calling upon infinite patience, Marlon had actor Slim Pickens and the picture's leading lady, Pinar Pellicer, run through the scene numerous times until he got the desired effect.

For his first acting-directing tasks, Marlon took on a Western story. Even though he's never appeared in one, he has no qualms about it.

"I don't separate Westerns from any other kind of motion picture," he said, pointing out that he's not specifically trying to make it any different from other horse operas.

"If you strive for difference as a goal in itself it would be a waste of time," he said. "You should be stimulating and provocative and if, in doing so, you're different, that's fine."

As for the deal in getting the picture out, Marlon said, "I couldn't do it well and properly in the time allotted me.

"I could finish it in a hurry but it would be to no one's advantage," he added. "It would be just a jumble of words.

"The second half will go lots faster though because I spent the first part in school, so to speak."

Now that he's had a good look at a director's problems, Marlon was asked if being one has helped him as an actor.

"No, I don't think so," he replied.

State Employment Hits Record High

TALLAHASSEE—(UPI)—Employment in Florida continued its month-to-month record breaking climb during February to a high of 1,272,300, Industrial Commission Chairman James T. Vocelle said Monday.

Vocelle said non-farm employment jumped 9,900 during the month, which was a greater than average seasonal gain.

In two months, he said, the gain has been three points better than was expected from normal seasonal winter tourist season peak expansion.

The February mark was 8,200 above last February, Vocelle reported, when the state's economy was at a low ebb caused by the recession, freezes and curtailed business in the tourist dominated trade and services industries.

He noted that the present month-to-month gains would slow up during the summer season.

Unemployment rose from January by 700 to the February estimate of 83,900, he said. This February's estimate was only eight-tenths of one per cent above last year's figure.

New Traffic Plan For Belle Glade

Herald Service

BELLE GLADE — One way traffic on several streets will be put in effect as "soon as feasible" as the first phase of a traffic plan recently approved by the Belle Glade City Commission.

The three phase plan was prepared after a study and survey by City Manager C. B. Talmadge and Police Chief Charles Goodlett, with John Klinck, West Palm Beach city traffic engineer, as consultant.

The purpose of the program is to eliminate traffic bottlenecks on W. Ave. A and Main St. The plan was approved by the commission by a 3-2 vote.

Palmer January, R. W. Lanier and Z. T. Ingram approved the plan, with Paul Davidson and William Evans casting the votes against it. Talmadge said the proposal would be placed in use on an experimental basis.

The one way street program of the first phase includes Ave. A west bound from Main St. to SW Fifth St.; Ave. B east bound from SW Fourth St. to Main St.; S. Canal St. eastbound from NW Second St. to Main St., with no left turn at Main St., and SW Fourth St. south bound from Ave. A to Ave. B.

The first phase also provides for parallel parking on both sides of Ave. A, and angle parking on Ave. B.

The second phase of the program is synchronized traffic flights, to permit a free flow of vehicles, at four intersections. The third phase is one way traffic, moving in opposite directions, on N. Canal St. and S. Canal St.

Alumni to Honor St. Leo President

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Dr. John I. Leonard, president of St. Leo College and president emeritus of Palm Beach Junior College, will be honored at a dinner here next Tuesday.

The event is sponsored by alumni and friends of St. Leo preparatory school.

It will mark the first public apparance in the Palm Beaches of Dr. Leonard since his election as president of St. Leo College, which will open in September with an enrollment of 100 freshmen.

Upwards of 110 are expected to attend the dinner at which County Commission Chairman Lake Lytal will act as toastmaster. R. D. Hill, long time trustee of Junior College, will speak on the work done by Dr. Leonard at that institution.

Abbott Marion R. Bowman, OSB, head of St. Leo Abbey and chancellor of the new St. Leo College, will attend the dinner here.

The Abbott said, "I am anxious to meet a large group of Dr. Leonard's friends because I want to tell them that all of us at St. Leo share their affection and enthusiasm for him."

He added, "we Benedictines have planned for many years to open a college at Saint Leo but our starting date was several years away until Dr. Leonard became our counsellor and guide."

Members of the committee arranging the dinner for Dr. Leonard include Phil O'Connell, Thomas O'Gorman, Joseph C. McMullen Sr., Granville A. Motse and Robert Andrew Brown.

The Benedictine fathers now operate a college preparatory school for 250 boys at St. Leo's. The school was founded in 1889.

Dulles Arrives For Florida Rest

More State News, 19A, 2B, 1C, 6C

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was ramp and on the gro ting with officers w Dulles and State De aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dulles arrived here during a lull between two thunderstorms. Only a few servants were on hand to greet the party as it drove up a long roadway circling through dense woods to a moderately large white two-story home.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Take Warm Vacation, Ike Told

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White use physician, Maj. Gen. ard McC. Snyder, and r White House staff mem- s have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy field, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being.

U.S. Can 'Destroy Soviet'

Military Sure Of A-Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines — is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brush-fire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testified the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA —(UPI)— The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

Government Hopes:

Killer Ghost Ship Finally Destroyed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government hopes it has finally laid to rest the ghost of a once-proud battleship that has haunted Chesapeake Bay for nearly half a century.

Intentionally sunk in shallow water in 1911, the old USS Texas has since snared seven other ships in her superstructure. To her credit, she helped the late Billy Mitchell demonstrate the might of air power in 1921.

The Navy worked most of last winter to blow the top off the ghost ship. Officials hope she will no longer be a menace to navigation. Just to make sure, the coast and geodetic survey is sending a special expedition to chart the wreckage.

The job was an important one because the federal courts have ruled the government was at fault in several sinkings at the site.

One court dubbed the old Texas "a pile of junk." The battleship, launched in 1892, was a veteran of the Spanish American war and is perhaps the only dreadnaught that can claim to have sunk more ships as a wreck than when afloat.

The hulk had her greatest moment of glory when Billy Mitchell's primitive bombers pounded her for days on end in 1921. The airmen were practicing for a dramatic and successful "attack" later on a captured German battleship floating off the Virginia capes.

The bombing of the German war prize captured worldwide attention, for Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels had offered to stand bareheaded at the wheel of the battleship Mitchell proposed to bomb. Daniels was at a safe distance, however, when Mitchell sank his target.

U.S. to Bounce Radio Off Moon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Navy will begin sending radio messages between Washington and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, this year by bouncing them off the moon, the publication Washington Science Trends said Monday.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

Court Rules Them Violation

TOKYO — (AP) — The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's post-war constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

Boys Die Inside Oven

ANTIGO, Wis. — (AP) — Two boys suffocated in a charcoal oven Sunday while their woodsman father thought they were at a movie with neighbors. The bodies were found Monday after a search that started when the neighbors returned without the youngsters.

Dead were Larry Kalkofen, 13, and his six-year-old brother Wayne. They were found by their father, Evan, and Langlade County deputies who were called in to help look for the two.

Authorities said that Wayne apparently had climbed a ladder to the top of the six-foot kiln and squeezed through a small trap door in the top. His brother was believed to have entered in an effort to rescue the younger child. Although there had been no fire in the oven for 36 hours, it still was filled with fumes.

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

Capt. Herman Marks

Castro's 'Headsman' Is Ex-Con

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, or, for that matter, of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office show the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

Clears Votes

Wealth Told By Senator

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) voluntarily reported his stock holdings Monday to the Senate. They are valued on the current market at $270,000.

Young said he took this rare step so "anyone interested may judge in the future whether there is any conflict in interest influencing my action and votes as U.S. Senator."

In a report to Felton M. Johnston, secretary of the Senate, Young also announced he will sell stock he holds in two sugar concerns.

He is doing this, he said, because the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is a member, will be considering legislation concerning sugar imports.

Fidel Has Official Corruption Under Control

Take Him to Lunch; That's 'Bribe' for Cuban

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA—Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official — they all are underpaid — to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero-Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of these young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could

Low Pay a Danger

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

It'll Be Fair For Most Part

Fair and warm is Florida's weather outlook for today but there'll be a few showers over the Gold Coast, the weatherman said.

The sun should poke through much of the day — and gusty southerly winds will diminish to about 10 to 15 miles an hour, he added.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same — in the mid-70s to low 80s — throughout the state.

State Employment Hits Record High

TALLAHASSEE—(UPI)—Employment in Florida continued its month-to-month record breaking climb during February to a high of 1,272,300, Industrial Commission Chairman James T. Vocelle said Monday.

Vocelle said non-farm employment jumped 9,900 during the month, which was a greater than average seasonal gain.

In two months, he said, the gain has been three points better than was expected from normal seasonal winter tourist season peak expansion.

The February mark was 8,200 above last February, Vocelle reported, when the state's economy was at a low ebb caused by the recession, freezes and curtailed business in the tourist dominated trade and services industries.

He noted that the present month-to-month gains would slow up during the summer season.

Unemployment rose from January by 700 to the February estimate of 83,900, he said. This February's estimate was only eight-tenths of one per cent above last year's figure.

New Traffic Plan For Belle Glade

Herald Service

BELLE GLADE — One way traffic on several streets will be put in effect as "soon as feasible" as the first phase of a traffic plan recently approved by the Belle Glade City Commission.

The three phase plan was prepared after a study and survey by City Manager C. B. Talmadge and Police Chief Charles Goodlett, with John Klinck, West Palm Beach city traffic engineer, as consultant.

The purpose of the program is to eliminate traffic bottlenecks on W. Ave. A and Main St. The plan was approved by the commission by a 3-2 vote.

Palmer January, R. W. Lanier and Z. T. Ingram approved the plan, with Paul Davidson and William Evans casting the votes against it. Talmadge said the proposal would be placed in use on an experimental basis.

The one way street program of the first phase includes Ave. A west bound from Main St. to SW Fifth St.; Ave. B east bound from SW Fourth St. to Main St.; S. Canal St. eastbound from NW Second St. to Main St., with no left turn at Main St., and SW Fourth St. south bound from Ave. A to Ave. B.

The first phase also provides for parallel parking on both sides of Ave. A, and angle parking on Ave. B.

The second phase of the program is synchronized traffic flights, to permit a free flow of vehicles, at four intersections. The third phase is one way traffic, moving in opposite directions, on N. Canal St. and S. Canal St.

Alumni to Honor St. Leo President

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Dr. John I. Leonard, president of St. Leo College and president emeritus of Palm Beach Junior College, will be honored at a dinner here next Tuesday.

The event is sponsored by alumni and friends of St. Leo preparatory school.

It will mark the first public appearance in the Palm Beaches of Dr. Leonard since his election as president of St. Leo College, which will open in September with an enrollment of 100 freshmen.

Upwards of 110 are expected to attend the dinner at which County Commission Chairman Lake Lytal will act as toastmaster. R. D. Hill, long time trustee of Junior College, will speak on the work done by Dr. Leonard at that institution.

Abbott Marion R. Bowman, OSB, head of St. Leo Abbey and chancellor of the new St. Leo College, will attend the dinner here.

The Abbott said, "I am anxious to meet a large group of Dr. Leonard's friends because I want to tell them that all of us at St. Leo share their affection and enthusiasm for him."

He added, "we Benedictines have planned for many years to open a college at Saint Leo but our starting date was several years away until Dr. Leonard became our counsellor and guide."

Members of the committee arranging the dinner for Dr. Leonard include Phil O'Connell, Thomas O'Gorman, Joseph C. McMullen Sr., Granville A. Motse and Robert Andrew Brown.

The Benedictine fathers now operate a college preparatory school for 250 boys at St. Leo's. The school was founded in 1889.

Dulles Arrives For Florida Rest

More State News, 19A, 2B, 1C, 6C

Herald Staff Writers

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was down the ramp and on the ground chatting with officers when Mrs. Dulles and State Department aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dulles arrived here during a lull between two thunderstorms. Only a few servants were on hand to greet the party as it drove up a long roadway circling through dense woods to a moderately large white two-story home.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Take Warm Vacation, Ike Told

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and other White House staff members have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy field, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being.

U.S. Can 'Destroy Soviet'

Military Sure Of A-Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines—is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brushfire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testified the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA —(UPI)— The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

Two Trials for Same Offense Upheld

Double Jeopardy Rule Upset by High Court

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

Government Hopes:

Killer Ghost Ship Finally Destroyed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government hopes it has finally laid to rest the ghost of a once-proud battleship that has haunted Chesapeake Bay for nearly half a century.

Intentionally sunk in shallow water in 1911, the old USS Texas has since snared seven other ships in her superstructure. To her credit, she helped the late Billy Mitchell demonstrate the might of air power in 1921.

The Navy worked most of last winter to blow the top off the ghost ship. Officials hope she will no longer be a menace to navigation. Just to make sure, the coast and geodetic survey is sending a special expedition to chart the wreckage.

The job was an important one because the federal courts have ruled the government was at fault in several sinkings at the site.

One court dubbed the old Texas "a pile of junk." The battleship, launched in 1892, was a veteran of the Spanish American war and is perhaps the only dreadnaught that can claim to have sunk more ships as a wreck than when afloat.

The hulk had her greatest moment of glory when Billy Mitchell's primitive bombers pounded her for days on end in 1921. The airmen were practicing for a dramatic and successful "attack" later on a captured German battleship floating off the Virginia capes.

The bombing of the German war prize captured worldwide attention, for Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels had offered to stand bareheaded at the wheel of the battleship Mitchell proposed to bomb. Daniels was at a safe distance, however, when Mitchell sank his target.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

Court Rules Them Violation

TOKYO — (AP) — The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's postwar constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

Boys Die Inside Oven

ANTIGO, Wis. — (AP) — Two boys suffocated in a charcoal oven Sunday while their woodsman father thought they were at a movie with neighbors. The bodies were found Monday after a search that started when the neighbors returned without the youngsters.

Dead were Larry Kalkofen, 13, and his six-year-old brother Wayne. They were found by their father, Evan, and Langlade County deputies who were called in to help look for the two.

Authorities said that Wayne apparently had climbed a ladder to the top of the six-foot kiln and squeezed through a small trap door in the top. His brother was believed to have entered in an effort to rescue the younger child. Although there had been no fire in the oven for 36 hours, it still was filled with fumes.

Capt. Herman Marks

Castro's 'Headsman' Is Ex-Con

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, or, for that matter, of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office show the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

Clears Votes

Wealth Told By Senator

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) voluntarily reported his stock holdings Monday to the Senate. They are valued on the current market at $270,000.

Young said he took this rare step so "anyone interested may judge in the future whether there is any conflict in interest influencing my action and votes as U.S. Senator."

In a report to Felton M. Johnston, secretary of the Senate, Young also announced he will sell stock he holds in two sugar concerns.

He is doing this, he said, because the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is a member, will be considering legislation concerning sugar imports.

It'll Be Fair For Most Part

Fair and warm is Florida's weather outlook for today but there'll be a few showers over the Gold Coast, the weatherman said.

The sun should poke through much of the day — and gusty southerly winds will diminish to about 10 to 15 miles an hour, he added.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same — in the mid-70s to low 80s — throughout the state.

Fidel Has Official Corruption Under Control

Take Him to Lunch; That's 'Bribe' for Cuban

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

* * *

Low Pay a Danger

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

* * *

HAVANA—Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official — they all are underpaid — to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero-Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of these young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could

Nehru Spurns 'Gag' Yoke Demanded by Red China

Prime Minister Voices Sympathy For Tibet Rebels

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru declared India's sympathy for Tibetan rebels Monday. He spurned Red China's attempt to smother Indian parliamentary discussion of the rebellion.

But he held to his hands-off policy toward the revolt, and turned down demands in parliament that India promise to admit all Tibetan refugees, as Austria did in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

"There are many vast differences in this situation," Nehru said when asked about following the Austrian example. "Obviously I cannot say that if large crowds come we will automatically admit them all. I tell you we would not admit them. No country could or should say it will admit everybody that comes."

Nehru faced a barrage of questions as parliament met for the first time since the Red Chinese government announced Saturday it had suppressed a major revolt in Lhasa, capital of the isolated mountain land, thrown out the government of the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, and elevated in his place his rival, the Panchen Lama.

The event has stirred widespread feeling in India because of long nurtured trade and religious links with the Tibetans.

For the first time since 1951 Indian demonstrators marched on the Chinese Communist embassy there Monday, shouting "Chinese bandits quit Tibet."

Thousands of Buddhists in Ladakh, a province of Kashmir, adopted a resolution asking India to intervene to "save the Buddhist religion and shrines in Tibet."

In Bombay, a crowd of 200 marched on the Red Chinese consulate shouting "death to Communist dictatorship."

In Agra, the site of the famous Taj Mahal, another crowd protested the "rapine of peaceful, autonomous Tibet."

Peiping has said 4,000 rebels were captured, and Tibetan sources have reported 5,000 were killed in a bloody two days in the lofty capital behind the Himalayas.

But fighting was reported continuing in the windswept mountains and valleys. Authorities on Tibetan life expressed doubt that the Tibetans would ever accept the Panchen Lama as their leader.

Silun Lukwanga, a former member of the Dalai Lama's government who is in New Delhi, has predicted a "fight to the finish."

Nehru was cheered loudly when he declared India's sympathies "go out to the Tibetans."

He denied Red China's charge that the command center of the rebellion was in Kalimpong, an Indian town near the border.

As to a statement by the Red Chinese embassy that discussion of the rebellion by the Indian parliament would be "impolite and improper," he declared:

"It should be perfectly clear that this parliament is not going to be limited in its discussions by any source — internal or external."

'No-Loser' Lottery In Cuba

The New York Times Service

HAVANA — The first drawing of Cuba's new-type lottery in which no one can lose was held by the Institute of Savings and Housing, which was created to substitute for the traditional Cuban National Lottery. The one large prize offered of $100,000 was won by Marcos Mesa of Santiago de Cuba. One thousand prizes of $100 each are also offered.

The issue, now called bonds instead of tickets, was 40,000 with each having 100 fractions. Each fraction sold to the public at 25 cents and the seller, who according to law must be an individual and purchase directly from the institute, earned three cents on each fraction which he purchased for 22 cents. The bonds which do not win prizes will be redeemed at the end of one year at 40 per cent of their value and during the next 10 years in a rising scale to 125.4 per cent of their value.

According to Senorita Pastorita Nunez, director of the institute, all the issue was sold, netting the government $618,400 after deducting expenses of seven per cent. This money will be used to redeem the bonds and to build houses for workers in the lower bracket incomes. The first group of the 100 million dollars worth of homes has been started on land across the bay from Havana now reached through an under-bay tunnel built by the Batista regime.

Pawns in Miami Divorce

3 Boys Guarded After Plot Fails

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Three boys, pawns in a four-year-old Miami divorce suit, were placed under guard by their wealthy father in Palm Springs, Calif., Monday after police said an Easter Sunday attempt to abduct them failed.

One of the boys, David Raese, six, escaped by jumping into a swimming pool. His brothers, Richard, 10, and John, eight, were pulled screaming into a station wagon which took off with a car posse of horn-holking nieghbors in pursuit.

Blocked at an accident scene four miles down the road in the plush desert resort city, Richard Moulton, San Jose private detective, and Charles Lewis, San Jose railroad conductor, told police they had been offered $5,000 to get the boys for their mother, Mrs. Jane Raese Kelly, of Palm Beach, Fla.

They were jailed for investigation of child stealing.

The boys and their father, Richard Raese, executive vice-president of Greer Steel Co., Morgantown, W. Va., had been visiting in Palm Springs.

Police Lt. Robert White said Mrs. Kelly, who has a home in Palm Beach, is known to have been in Palm Springs Sunday, but could not be located immediately.

She sued for divorce in Miami Jan. 18, 1955, charging Raese with jealousy. His counter suit charged her with extreme cruelty and adultery, naming Horace Brenton Kelly, a dancing instructor, also known as Lee Taylor, whom she married.

He said they started taking dancing lessons together after their Aug. 3, 1943 marriage in Morgantown, but when he left town on business, she started taking two dancing lessons daily.

Circuit Judge George E. Holt's divorce decree on May 3, 1955, gave the mother custody during school terms with permission for the father to take them out of the state during Christmas, Easter and summer vacations.

Judge Holt sentenced Raese to six months and a $1,500 fine on Jan. 4, 1957, for contempt after complaints that he failed to repay her $50,000 and return the three boys to a Palm Beach private school.

She showed Judge Holt a letter in which Raese told her he could not justify surrender of his children to Kelly's influence.

Removal To Be OKd Appealed

A Pompano Beach man lost a round Monday in his lengthy fight against extratition to California, where the FBI says he's wanted as a suspect in a Beverly Hills jewel robbery.

Federal Judge Emett Choate said he will sign extradition papers Friday on which Donald Jay O'Brien, 36, can be returned.

Meanwhile, O'Brien's lawyers indicated they will appeal to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to prevent it.

O'Brien, a Pompano Beach contractor, is an identical twin to Robert O'Brien, of Ft. Lauderdale. Robert walked into an FBI trap at West Palm Beach last December when officers accused him of trying to rob a jewelry salesman.

Twin Donald was arrested earlier on a warrant charging he was a fugitive from California.

Argentines Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (AP) — Workers in the Buenos Aires port area Monday went on strike for 48 hours for more pay. Loading and unloading operations on more than 200 ships were at a standstill.

Santa Rosa Didn't Slow For Fog

NEW YORK —(AP)— The master of the cruise liner Santa Rosa told a Coast Guard hearing Monday he did not reduce the ship's speed as fog closed in minutes before collision with the tanker Valchem.

Capt. Frank S. Siwik was the first witness as the three-man panel opened inquiry into the crash last Thursday 23 miles off Atlantic City. Four members of the Valchem crew were lost. Both ships were badly damaged.

Siwik testified visibility through the mist was cut to a mile and a quarter as his vessel continued on at 21.5 knots, its normal speed.

He said that he did notify the engine room the Santa Rosa had entered fog — a signal to alert the engine room staff.

Siwik told the board that as the fog began his second officer, Walt Welles, reported radar equipment showed the Valchem to be 4.9 miles away, and to the right. The time was 2:54 a.m.

Three minutes later the distance was three miles, the witness continued, and Welles estimated the ships would pass about three-tenths of a mile apart.

This Siwik described as "too close for me," and he ordered a 10 degree turn to the left.

After inspecting the radar himself, "I saw it was going to be a little closer than three-tenths of a mile, so I ordered a hard left turn to get away from the fellow on my starboard (right).

"I figured that with my speed I would be able to get away."

This was at 2:58 a.m.

Suddenly Siwik said he saw the other ship's lights directly ahead.

"I ran into the wheelhouse and hollered for a hard right turn," the captain continued, "I ordered hard right but before the rudder took over we collided."

Continuing his testimony, Siwik said that he first heard the Valchem's foghorn about a half minute before seeing the tanker's lights directly ahead, between a quarter and a half-mile off.

The Santa Rosa's log, he said, showed that a minute before the crash he had ordered both a right turn and full speed reversal of the engines.

The captain expressed doubt that either order had taken effect at the moment of collision.

Siwik said he believed the Valchem "must have been under way" a contradiction of a statement last week by Capt. Louis E. Murphy of the tanker that his ship had come to a full stop.

quickly become a rich man," one official commented. "Bribery was one of the wrongs in the Batista dictatorship which we fought to correct. So none of us takes bribes anymore."

Then he grinned.

"This is the only kind of a 'bribe' I will take," he declared, cutting a steak as we talked in a Havana restaurant.

The low salaries are not the fault of Castro. Salaries are decreed by the Cuban constitution or by law.

The amounts paid invite corruption. The Prime Minister himself makes only $360 per month. Last month Castro turned his over to charity.

Raul Castro, the Premier's brother who heads the rebel army, draws $125 monthly plus some military benefits. The secretary general of the Prime Ministry makes only $260 and his immediate department heads get $118 before retirement deductions.

Castro has an organization of honest, inexperienced youths running many government offices today. He needs stability and sound planning.

It is touch-and-go now as to whether he will succeed or collapse.

Castro's A Symbol To Masses

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA — It's ironic but Fidel Castro possesses more power today than any dictator in Cuban history, including Fulgencio Batista, the "strong man" he booted out of office.

Whether Cuba comes out of the revolution for better or worse depends on how the bearded liberator uses this power.

Unknown is whether he intends to follow through with some of the wild schemes he has advanced in mob-appeal speeches, or whether he is merely boasting while still flushed with victory.

Thus far, Castro has made a series of blunders, political and economic, which would have been fatal to any government with less mass appeal.

His hold on the people lies in the symbol of honesty, freedom and democracy he represents.

There is more devotion to the spirit of the revolution and what it symbolizes than to Castro himself.

And under no circumstances do the Cuban people want to go back to the bribery, corruption, human indignities and totalitarianism of the Batista era.

There is an undercurrent of fear that if Castro is pushed from his perch the result would be chaos and confusion and, perhaps, a return to life as known under Batista.

Also beneath the surface is the feeling that the rantings of Castro are not to be taken at face value.

There is tremendous publicity value in standing before the Presidential Palace and telling the crowds how he is going to bring about the downfall of Caribbean despots, nationalize industry in Cuba, and increase the welfare of the workers.

But most U.S. businessmen here and intelligent Cubans do not believe these plans will get beyond the talking stage—unless provoked by unforeseen developments.

Actually, in one of his most recent speeches, Castro told Cubans they must be patient before all the past ills and injustices are to be corrected.

This is interpreted as a healthy sign, perhaps the turning point from the radical and irrational to the realistic business of running a democratic government.

Nevertheless, Cuba is riding on the back of Castro. The way he goes, Cuba goes.

15 Convicts Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. — (AP) — Fifteen state prisoners overpowered their two guards, took their guns and sped off in a prison camp bus Monday. They left the guards tied to a tree.

The prisoners, assigned to a work detail from the Ware County road camp, later changed to a dump truck after proceeding a short distance in the bus, patrolmen reported.

The convicts chose a day on which the state patrol and county officers are busy issuing drivers' licenses and state automobile tags.

First reports indicated they headed southeast toward Waverly in Camden County.

The Brunswick post of the state patrol said nine patrol cars and seven to eight sheriffs cars from nearby counties set up road blocks.

The prisoners obtained shotguns and pistols after overpowering their guards.

The guards were released shortly afterward.

The 15 men fled in a bus built to carry prisoners. It resembles a school bus with a cage built in the rear.

Identity of the prisoners was not immediately available.

Judge Seizes Trial Pictures

APPLING, Ga. —(AP)— Film used by a news photographer to take pictures at a murder trial were ordered destroyed by Superior judge F. Frederick Kennedy.

Vernon Gould, on assignment for The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Herald, had made two time exposures without Kennedy's permission.

Kennedy observed the action, called Gould before him, and ordered a sheriff to seize the film. He then decreed that the film be destroyed.

'Battle of Millionaires'

Zoning Board Due To Hear Dispute Over Beach Club

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — The Battle of the Millionaires, possibly the hardest-fought dispute in the turbulent history of Naples zoning, heads for a decision today at City Hall.

A special 10 a.m. Zoning Board meeting will hear the building permit application for the exclusive $250,000 Port Royal Beach Club — but the zoners will only make a recommendation for the Council meeting Tuesday.

The fuss involves about 250 persons in the Port Royal and Gold Coast section of Gordon Dr. Not all of them are in the millionaire class, although most are at least well-fixed.

The Beach Club has been included in area development plans for over seven years but was never specifically included in overall zoning. Naples' code allows private clubs only in "G-a" multi-family or apartment-hotel areas but says beach clubs, like churches and some other structures, can be built anywhere with a special permit from Council.

Opponents appear to be mostly Gordon Dr. residents, such as industrialist S. F. Briggs, whose estate was there many years before J. G. Sample began filling mangrove swamp to make one of the most outstanding subdivisions in Florida.

These older residents "question the propriety" of any sort of club being built, although Sample announced that "no dances, orchestras, parties or other forms of after-dark entertainment," would be held. Rules apparently will be similar to those of the Sample-inspired Hole-in-the-Wall Golf Club, where even card-playing is reportedly forbidden.

Additionally, beach club rules limit its membership to Port Royal owners, of whom there were 174 in January. These owners "must be congenial as neighbors and fellow-members" before becoming owners and can't resell without club approval.

However, even some of the regular members are against the new club because of its $500 construction assessment and $150 annual dues. They point out the original claim was "No charge is made for membership."

These opponents have an alternative of being "beach members" at only $35 a year and no construction costs — but then they can't use the clubhouse although they are allowed to park in front of it and use a sidewalk past the service entrance to the beach.

With three to six lawyers engaged and a report that last-minute conciliation efforts broke down, it appears today's meeting may be well-attended.

Bitten Boy Won't Lose Use of Leg

Herald Service

MARATHON — Doctors said Monday that 13-year-old Jimmy McKee, apparently attacked by a shark Sunday while swimming in shallow water near Vaca Cut Bridge, will not lose the use of his severely bitten leg.

The boy's entire knee was enveloped by the fish's mouth, severing an artery, muscles and tendons to the bone.

Young McKee remained in the water until a nearby boatman pulled him into his skiff and applied a tourniquet to stop the bleeding. Witnesses said the boy neither cried nor whimpered during and after the attack.)

The boy was rushed by the Marathon Volunteer Ambulance Corps to Monroe General Hospital, Key West, where an emergency operation was performed. Doctors said the leg would probably be all right, but a brace may be necessary for an indefinite period.

He is the son of the E. R. McKees of Marathon.

Osteopath's Trial Begins In Sarasota

SARASOTA — (AP) — A Sarasota osteopath went to trial Monday in Circuit Court on charges of manslaughter in the death of a divorcee whom the state maintains died following an abortion.

State Attorney W. Mack Smiley told the jury the prosecution would prove Dr. Weil S. King performed an operation on Mrs. Caroline Downer last June for the purpose of causing a miscarriage.

The 23-year-old woman died in a Bradenton hospital June 12 of peritonitis, an infection of the abdomen. Smiley said he will prove that King called an ambulance to take Mrs. Downer to the hospital shortly before her death.

King has been free under bond since charges were filed against him nine months ago. The trial was postponed twice at the request of the defense.

NAPLES — Lee County Judge Elmer O. Friday of Fort Myers, has been assigned by the State Supreme Court as a temporary replacement for S. S. Jolley of Naples, Collier County judge. Jolley has been seriously ill in the hospital here for a week.

The hospital has reported no improvement in Jolley's condition.

Collegiate Invaders Leave State 'Spent'

FORT LAUDERDALE — (UPI) — The quiet that follows a storm settled over Fort Lauderdale Monday as a mass invasion of college students on Easter vacation melted away.

Police, who made 71 arrests of students in nine days, said the crowd which hit an estimated 20,000 during the weekend was dwindling rapidly.

Police Chief J. Lester Holt guessed that almost all would be gone by Wednesday.

The students gather here annually from colleges all over the country.

Residents and police counted up the toll Monday.

Holt said the 71 arrests broke down this way: drinking in public, 33; public intoxication, 11; failure to obey an officer, 1; showing false identification, 3; false information given to an officer, 1; minor in possession of liquor, 1; indecent behavior, 7; and disorderly conduct, 20.

Most were fined or reprimanded.

"None of them was really bad," Holt said.

Villanova Student James G. Cleary, 20, of Little Neck, N.Y., was particularly embarrassed by his arrest. He was the son of a deputy inspector for the New York City Police Department, he said. Cleary was fined $25 for public intoxication and $50 for carrying false identification.

Holt said there was no serious damage. Someone stole several laundry baskets from an automatic laundry. A hotel reported several students ran away with two fire extinguishers, dropping one in their flight. There were minor incidents of vandalism.

Police were still laughing Monday over the practical joke someone played on three University of Maryland co-eds.

Police Sgt. Thomas Randel said the three girls came to the station Saturday night and said they wanted to rent three bunks for the night. Randel explained to the girls the jail had bunks, but not for rent.

He said the disappointed girls told him that some boys at the university told them if they could not find a place to stay, they could rent bunks for $1 a night at the jail.

Randel explained it was only a joke and the girls left crestfallen.

MAINLY SPANISH was the conversation of these two sailors and the beauty who welcomed them to Pensacola. The midshipmen were aboard the Juan Sebastian Elcano, Spanish training ship which took part in the city's first event of Florida's Quadricentennial year. First up the gangplank was Arlene Lessig, Miss Dreamboat of 1959. It created some excitement, sailors being sailors in all languages.

Marathon Plan Revived

Incorporation Talk Opens Old Wounds For Keys Pioneers

By CHARLES H. DEAL
Herald Correspondent

MARATHON — "The most vicious fight a town ever wages is that of incorporation."

W. A. Parrish, 73, an early resident of Marathon, speaks from experience. A one-time constable and jailor for the boom town, he has been a part of the growth and development since 1926. Key Vaca, site of Marathon, mustered a total of eight registered voters in those days.

He tried to speed up development in the mid thirties by offering railroad-to-ocean strips of property to homesteaders. These people were required only to build homes on the mangrove.

There were few takers, he recalls.

At about the same period of time he sold what is now downtown Marathon for $1,600. A single 50-foot lot in the same sector sold for $45,000 two years ago.

* * *

NEARLY EIGHT years ago civic leader Parrish was one of a group who hoped to incorporate Marathon into a city. The job didn't at first appear to be one that would erupt into near-war. Helping to found the Chamber of Commerce in 1939 and serving as its first president had been comparatively easy.

Not so incorporation.

After a siege of near-violence, many orations and a flood of anti-incorporation literature, the referendum was voted down by a scant 31-vote margin.

Many residents analyzed the failure as stemming from the proposed bounds of the corporate city, from Seven Mile Bridge through Grassy Key, a stretch of nearly 15 miles.

W. A. Parrish
. . . saw own 'funeral'

* * *

FOLLOWING THE election, Parrish and a group of his supporters had the somewhat bizarre experience of attending their own funerals — in effigy. Five crepe-draped miniature coffins were laid out in front of the Reef Bar and fenced off with fine mesh wire.

An old picture of the scene shows a woman reclining over the coffins, resplendent in mourning clothes and lily.

Since the 1951 referendum the subject has been one of controversy almost every year. Until early January of this year incorporation never proceeded further than just talk.

Then Fred Center, an earlier advocate of city government for the island, made a motion on the floor of the Chamber that incorporation again be studied. The motion was carried and committees appointed to ferret out the advantages of self-government versus county rule.

* * *

ANOTHER COMMITTEE drew up a city charter and bill for the legislature to approve a referendum, in case the city plan earned approval.

Meetings until last Thursday's had all the flavor and zest of a PTA social.

The study group voted unanimously to present a proposed budget, a bill for referendum to the Legislature, and a charter of incorporation to resident freeholders of Marathon in an open meeting April 9, on the local athletic field.

Old campaigners for and against incorporation promises an end to social amenities for the session.

Children Die In Accidents

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — Death came from a plastic dry cleaner's bag to one child in Florida last year.

It was one of 258 accidental deaths of children under five in 1958, Dr. L. L. Parks, director of the Bureau of Special Health Services of the State Board of Health said Monday.

He said a mother spread out the thin plastic bag as a mattress protector. In some way, the child's breath drew the film across its mouth where it clung and caused suffocation.

Another became entangled in a web strap on a playpen and strangled, he said.

Construction May Halt

Cape Strike Looms Over 5-Cent Raise

U.S. Agent Acts To Prevent Tieup

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE — About 100 construction workers walked off their jobs Monday as a federal mediator began a last minute effort to head off a full-scale strike of construction workers here and at Cape Canaveral.

The 100 settled their dispute after a six-hour walkout, but they and 1,400 other construction workers are ready to strike at midnight tonight if 11th hour contract negotiations fail, union sources said.

The men — who are represented by three unions — and their employers have been unable to agree in 30 days of negotiations, and their contracts expire at midnight.

Federal Mediator William McAlister, seasoned in earlier Cape Canaveral labor disputes, will open the 11th hour negotiations this morning.

In the negotiations, the men's unions — the ironworkers, the millwrights and the carpenters — are seeking a 5-cent-an-hour pay boost, a 10-cent-an-hour "welfare fund," and a one-year pact.

The Patrick Air Force Base Contractors Association—bargaining agent for the nearly 200 contractors who do construction work here — has offered a 2½-cent pay hike and a two-year pact.

If the men walk out tonight, construction will halt on nearly 60 million dollars worth of work.

Prominent among the work are three launching pads for the Titan ICBM and a modification of existing launching facilities for the Atlas ICBM which will allow missilemen to use the Atlas in space probes.

In the Monday dispute, the 100 workers charged their employer had been using unfair hiring practices and also objected to a policy about reporting times.

McAlister got the men and their employer, the Bell Construction Co., together, and the men agreed to return to work today.

TWU Asks Missile Base Probe

Cocoa Bureau

CAPE CANAVERAL — A Transport Workers Union officer demanded Monday that Congress investigate the administration of the Atlantic missile range and the pay of range employes.

Jack Flaherty, president of the Cape TWU Local, charged that Pan American World Airways has allowed government equipment to "rust," that the firm has "misused" government funds and that it is violating several Federal pay acts.

Officials of PAA — which runs Cape Canaveral and the 6,000-mile range under an Air Force contract — had no comment, but sources said they would welcome an investigation.

Flaherty said he has asked the Military Appropriations Committee to look into his charges, and that the charges will be before the committee soon.

The union officer admitted the investigation demand is connected with a multi-million-dollar lawsuit he and 466 other PAA employes brought against PAA last year.

The suit is pending in Federal District Court, Orlando. Judge George Whitehurst has denied a PAA motion to quash the action.

In the suit, Flaherty and his co-plaintiffs contend that PAA is not paying them in accordance with the Davis-Bacon Act, a Federal law which sets up pay scales for all government contracts of more than $2,000.

They say their pay is as much as $1 per hour below Davis-Bacon standards.

The suit also charged PAA with violation of the eight-hour work law and the Fair Labor Standards Act and asks that PAA's Cape Canaveral employes be given portal-to-portal pay.

Estimated pay involved is 6.5 to 10 million dollars. The suit asks that pay be adjusted as far back as June 24, 1956, two years before the action was brought.

Flaherty and his 466 co-plaintiffs brought the action as individuals. The TWU has not entered it.

'Red Star' Sub Upsets Fishermen

By CHARLES H. DEAL
Herald Correspondent

MARATHON — A Russian submarine scare about 13 miles off Marathon at 11 a.m. Monday was apparently the USS Chivo, attached to Squadron 12 in Key West.

Charter boats and a shrimper's crewmen said a red star was visible on the submarine's conning tower.

The shrimpboat Wolverine notified the Navy at Key West to investigate when the submarine was spotted on the surface about nine miles off Sombrero Light, between the north and southbound commercial lanes.

Three fishermen agreed that the red star was visible to both the naked eye and through binoculars.

Navy and Coast Guard aircraft and a Navy tanker in the area investigated the reports.

A Navy public relations officer said the fishermen must have confused the Squadron 12 insignia for a red star. The Chivo is commanded by Lt. Cmdr. W. D. Dietrichson.

Two airplanes, a helicopter, destroyer escort and two anti-submarine boats were still combing the area nearly three hours after the Navy's announcement.

Ex-Mayor Of Stuart Dies Sunday

Herald Service

HOMESTEAD—Otto Joseph Matousek, former mayor and councilman of Stuart, died Sunday night at the James Archer Smith Hospital here. He was 60.

A retired mortgage investment broker, Mr. Matousek moved to Key Largo about 18 months ago after living in Stuart for 16 years. He was a native of Chicago and a charter member of the American Federation of Musicians there.

He was also a member of the Elks and a Scottish Rite Mason.

Survivors include his wife, Helen; a son, Ralph, Homestead city attorney, and a daughter, June Matousek of Homestead; three grandchildren and two sisters.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Branam Funeral Chapel, with interment in Woodlawn Park Cemetery, Miami.

Collier Told It May Tax Oil Testing

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Attorney General Richard Ervin held Monday that oil well drilling rigs are subject to county property taxes under certain conditions.

However, he told the Collier County board of commissioners that machinery used in connection with producing oil or gas wells was exempt from county ad valorem taxes.

Ervin also said that county tax assessors are prohibited by law from increasing the assessments on land under which oil and gas may lie or from setting higher valuations on lands in the area of oil or gas producing wells.

The attorney general said the various prohibitions are contained in laws imposing special taxes on oil and gas produced in this state.

The laws, however, do not prohibit ad valorem taxes upon equipment used for drilling test wells and it may be taxed if it "is presently on land employed with a consistent continuity and not spasmodically and temporarily," Ervin said.

Boca University Will See Funds

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County's Boca Raton University committee Monday coordinated steps members hope will obtain a $100,000 appropriation to launch a survey for the four-year college.

The courthouse meeting, a prelude to the session of the legislature which opens April 7, was attended by State Reps. Emmett S. Roberts and Ralph J. Blank Jr., County Commission Chairman Lake Lytal, R. D. Hill, and two Boca Raton members, Thomas Fleming and Hal Dane.

CD Course Winds Into Fifth Week

Herald Service

STUART — The fifth week course on emergency hospital training, conducted under the Civil Defense for emergency planning, will be held tonight at 7:30 to 9:30 at the Martin County High School gym.

Dr. John M. Gunsolus, who is general director of the 13-week course, said the subject of tonight's course will be emergency care and individual training in survival training.

The use of bandages and splints will be taught and demonstrated.

Last Tuesday's lesson was given by Dr. J. F. Henry, who spoke on fractures, lacerations, splints and bandages.

About 75 are enrolled in the course.

3 Students Win Poster Prizes

KEY WEST — Three Memorial Jr. High School students were among winners named Monday in the 45th annual "Animals in Art" poster contest sponsored nationally by the American Humane Association.

Barbara Carabelle was among the fourth-prize winners after judging of 1,714 posters entered from 31 states and Canada.

Honorable mentions were awarded Donna Jo Marty and Mary Rulon of Key West. The only Florida winner announced was Albert Bailey of Tampa.

'Leftover' $325 Taken at Store

NAPLES — Police are investigating theft of $325 in cash from the Johnston of Florida store in the Beach Plaza. Chief S. B. Caruthers said the money was taken some time Friday night by picking a lock and entering the store.

The chief said usually all but small change is removed from the cash drawer but Friday the cash had been left overnight.

2 Police Vehicles Cost City $9,000

Naples Finally Rid of Hot Cars

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — The last lingering echoes of the Archibald "hot car" case have died away after three years.

An insurance company for the City of Naples has agreed to a $200 payment for damages in a collision in which the first of two police cars bought from a Lakeland firm was destroyed.

The cases started when the city "bought" two new Chevrolets from Johnnie B. Archibald, East Naples used car dealer, in April 1956. Archibald got $1,909 in a check which he cashed and received two old police cars and their titles.

One car he sold and the other — the chief's — he used to leave town. Then the suppliers of the new cars, Hammond-Jones of Lakeland, brought suit for payment on the new cars.

Eventually the city lost the case and had to pay. With the trade-ins, legal fees, $1,900 to Archibald and payment to Hammond-Jones the two cars cost the city nearly $9,000.

The first car was destroyed in a rear-end collision in February last year, the same month in which Archibald was arrested in New Orleans. The second was traded in.

The accident brought a damage suit by George Lightsey Poole, driver of the car that hit the police car, against Sgt. Ed Helenek, police driver, and the city. Lamar Rose represented Poole. James A. Franklin and Walter G. Sorokoty represented the city and Helenek for the Great American insurance group which has now settled the case.

Lewis Displays Rare Knack--Skims Blue Area Without Offense

WITH THE EXCEPTIONS of Holiday on Ice at the Exhibition Hall, Donald O'Connor at the Fontainebleau, and Jean Carroll at the Diplomat there isn't much evidence on the "live" Class AA after-dark scene this week that would indicate that our impresarios anticipated a heavy family trade in this Easter Week-school recess season.

Jack Carter, Buddy Hackett and Joe E. Lewis are all fine funmakers on the supper club circuit but each of them purveys comedy which demands a high degree of sophistication or a familiarity with what used to be called smoking car humor back in the days when off-color (we call them "blue" in the cafe trade) stories were restricted to magazines such as Whizbang or to the closed precincts of the stag party.

But, judging from the reception given Joe E. at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii where he is coupled with Eartha Kitt, and Jack Carter at the Americana where he shares billing with Dorothy Sarnoff, the type of joke which might get a frigid look or a stony silence if told by a husband at home in the presence of his children is now acceptable as "family" fun with the same young audience in the togetherness of a tightly packed night club.

We detail all this not in a criticism of the night club show format nor in implication that the expensively decored spots are cesspools of evil but merely to deliver a well-intentioned caution that the Buddy Hackett at the Deauville is not the Hackett of the TV "Stanley" series, nor is Carter the Carter of past television experiments or of the Broadway theater.

Amusements

Confidentially, They're Saying

THAT Errol Flynn has "sold" himself to a corporation which he has organized in the Virgin Islands. It collects on his contracts and pays him a salary. In the judgement of lawyers it's a judgement-proof arrangement . . . THAT the widow of Ernie Hill, Miami Herald-Chicago News London-Moscow correspondent, is writing his biography. Mrs. Hill is living in California . . . THAT April 6 will be Moving Out Day for some folks, moving back for others, at the Sea Isle Hotel . . . THAT actress Rosalind Russell and film scripter "C. A. McKnight" are the same person . . . THAT Alaska Juneau Mining Co. has acquired an option on gold mining claims—in Mexico!

Carter Talent Tops Blue Routine

THERE IS NO caution needed for Joe E. Lewis — on two counts. Joe has made very infrequent excursions into media other than cafes in recent years and those who know the name know it not from the other-side-of-the-coin areas of television or the legit stage but from its significance as the easily definable label of the likeable pixie who is a font of ultra-sophisticated parody and a genial gentleman who is undeniably blue but who doesn't have to beat his material black and blue.

Errol Flynn
. . . sold?

Rosalind Russell
. . . writes?

Eartha Kitt
. . . torrid

What we mean is that Carter, for instance, comes on stage at the Americana Bal Masque Room and for the first 15 minutes of his act recites a brilliant new routine which leads off with a "76 Trombones" parody, sparkling with such newies as a reference to the Belle Moskowitz Room and the acknowledgment of an unusual number of kiddies in the audience by advising them "I'll lay 'em (meaning an egg) and you color them." The appreciative applause on these was near deafening.

Then the hard-sell Carter of old comes out. He harangues and then burlesques in belittling manner the Harry Belafontes, the Jose Grecos, whom he exposes as a name-changer, and the Lauritz Melchiors and he reports that an act which had previously played this same Americana stage used "smelly and moldy" costumes.

But he impeaches his own right to such a complaint against uncleanliness by immediately diving into a couple of pretty "sick" routines about a gynecologist and a psychiatrist and at least one scatological reference.

And do you know what happened then? The applause was near deafening! So who can blame him? Why should he knock himself out with the fine talent for mimicry and for dancing which he possesses when a reach into the "blue" yonder can come up with a handful of laugh-rewarding shockers.

* * *

Joe E. Uses Skill, Not Kill

BUT, GETTING BACK to Joe E. Lewis, at Eden Roc with his accompanist Austin Mack (which immediately gives added class and pseudo-concert status to the proceedings), Joe's voice has the endearing qualities of a family heirloom piece of sandpaper. But the manner to match has no rancor in it and is friendly not frantic as it, too, relates or sings of situations which are concerned with the devious ways of a man with a maid, also-ran maidens (equine), and sour mash and its spirit cousins.

He has a lot of new parodies, the one on "Suzie Wong" taking all the variant tangents you'd expect of it, and the inevitable one on "79 Hormones" covering every angle of ribaldry in the book.

But not once does Lewis grimace evilly or—as we said before—see the necessity for pounding his blue material until it is both black and blue. It may seem a unique simile in view of some of the things Joe E. Lewis, a man who drinks for himself, says—but HIS saving quality is that he's as cute as a little red label. He uses "skill" instead of "kill."

Dulles Arrives For Florida Rest

By ED PFISTER and ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Staff Writers

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was down the ramp and on the ground chatting with officers when Mrs. Dulles and State Department aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dulles arrived here during a lull between two thunderstorms. Only a few servants were on hand to greet the party as it drove up a long roadway circling through dense woods to a moderately large white two-story home.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Take Warm Vacation, Ike Told

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and other White House staff members have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy field, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being.

U.S. Can 'Destroy Soviet'

Military Sure Of A-Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines — is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brushfire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testified the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA —(UPI)— The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

Two Trials for Same Offense Upheld

Double Jeopardy Rule Upset by High Court

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

PRINCESS GRACE of Monaco, seemingly unworried in this picture taken Monday, will enter an operating room in a Lausanne, Switzerland, hospital today for surgery — removal of her appendix. The princess, the former Grace Kelly of U.S. movie fame, decided after an attack of appendicitis to get rid of it before it got serious.

Business Equals '57

South Broward Pockets Bulge

HOLLYWOOD — Money is jingling again in the pockets of South Broward merchants as they prepare to ring down the curtain on a winter season which pulled them out of their 1958 doldrums.

With less than a month remaining in the current season, early reports indicate that business was nearly equal to — and in some instances better than — that of the successful 1957 season.

"I think we've had more people down this year than ever before," said Philip B. Miller, president of the Hollywood Apartment-Hotel Association.

"Of course we haven't turned away as many, because we've had more accommodations."

"It seems business was about equal to 1957, though a little spotty in places. Some people have had their troubles," Miller said.

"The overall comeback has been tremendous, considering the effect of the 1958 season," said S. Lee Crouch, president of the Hallandale Chamber of Commerce.

"It was a little late in coming, and I don't think we fully regained what we had in 1957."

"I think we're way ahead of 1957 even," said Paul Clark, president of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce. "I know my hotel has been filled to capacity all season, and I know what the others are saying."

"The month of March has been twice as good as March of last year and almost equal to March 1957," said W. L. Ringgold, president of the West Hollywood Motel and Restaurant Association.

Ringgold said the months of January and February started fairly slow, but picked up momentum rapidly.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

Court Rules Them Violation

TOKYO — (AP) — The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's postwar constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

Boys Die Inside Oven

ANTIGO, Wis. — (AP) — Two boys suffocated in a charcoal oven Sunday while their woodsman father thought they were at a movie with neighbors. The bodies were found Monday after a search that started when the neighbors returned without the youngsters.

Dead were Larry Kalkofen, 13, and his six-year-old brother Wayne. They were found by their father, Evan, and Langlade County deputies who were called in to help look for the two.

Authorities said that Wayne apparently had climbed a ladder to the top of the six-foot kiln and squeezed through a small trap door in the top. His brother was believed to have entered in an effort to rescue the younger child. Although there had been no fire in the oven for 36 hours, it still was filled with fumes.

Capt. Herman Marks

Castro's 'Headsman' Is Ex-Con

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, or, for that matter, of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office show the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

Clears Votes

Wealth Told By Senator

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) voluntarily reported his stock holdings Monday to the Senate. They are valued on the current market at $270,000.

Young said he took this rare step so "anyone interested may judge in the future whether there is any conflict in interest influencing my action and votes as U.S. Senator."

In a report to Felton M. Johnston, secretary of the Senate, Young also announced he will sell stock he holds in two sugar concerns.

He is doing this, he said, because the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is a member, will be considering legislation concerning sugar imports.

It'll Be Fair For Most Part

Fair and warm is Florida's weather outlook for today but there'll be a few showers over the Gold Coast, the weatherman said.

The sun should poke through much of the day — and gusty southerly winds will diminish to about 10 to 15 miles an hour, he added.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same — in the mid-70s to low 80s — throughout the state.

Fidel Has Official Corruption Under Control

Take Him to Lunch; That's 'Bribe' for Cuban

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

HAVANA—Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official — they all are underpaid — to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

Low Pay a Danger

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

* * *

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of the bearded young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could

Nehru Spurns 'Gag' Yoke Demanded by Red China

Prime Minister Voices Sympathy For Tibet Rebels

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru declared India's sympathy for Tibetan rebels Monday. He spurned Red China's attempt to smother Indian parliamentary discussion of the rebellion.

But he held to his hands-off policy toward the revolt, and turned down demands in parliament that India promise to admit all Tibetan refugees, as Austria did in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

"There are many vast differences in this situation," Nehru said when asked about following the Austrian example. "Obviously I cannot say that if large crowds come we will automatically admit them all. I tell you we would not admit them. No country could or should say it will admit everybody that comes."

Nehru faced a barrage of questions as parliament met for the first time since the Red Chinese government announced Saturday it had suppressed a major revolt in Lhasa, capital of the isolated mountain land, thrown out the government of the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, and elevated in his place his rival, the Panchen Lama.

The event has stirred widespread feeling in India because of long nurtured trade and religious links with the Tibetans.

For the first time since 1951 Indian demonstrators marched on the Chinese Communist embassy here Monday, shouting "Chinese bandits quit Tibet."

Thousands of Buddhists in Ladakh, a province of Kashmir, adopted a resolution asking India to intervene to "save the Buddhist religion and shrines in Tibet."

In Bombay, a crowd of 200 marched on the Red Chinese consulate shouting "death to Communist dictatorship."

In Agra, the site of the famous Taj Mahal, another crowd protested the "rapine of peaceful, autonomous Tibet."

Peiping has said 4,000 rebels were captured, and Tibetan sources have reported 5,000 were killed in a bloody two days in the lofty capital behind the Himalayas.

But fighting was reported continuing in the windswept mountains and valleys. Authorities on Tibetan life expressed doubt that the Tibetans would ever accept the Panchen Lama as their leader.

Silun Lukwanga, a former member of the Dalai Lama's government who is in New Delhi, has predicted a "fight to the finish."

Nehru was cheered loudly when he declared India's sympathies "go out to the Tibetans."

He denied Red China's charge that the command center of the rebellion was in Kalimpong, an Indian town near the border.

As to a statement by the Red Chinese embassy that discussion of the rebellion by the Indian parliament would be "impolite and improper," he declared:

"It should be perfectly clear that this parliament is not going to be limited in its discussions by any source — internal or external."

'No-Loser' Lottery In Cuba

The New York Times Service

HAVANA — The first drawing of Cuba's new-type lottery in which no one can lose was held by the Institute of Savings and Housing, which was created to substitute for the traditional Cuban National Lottery.

The one large prize offered, $100,000, was won by Marcos Mesa of Santiago de Cuba. One thousand prizes of $100 each are also offered.

The issue, now called bonds instead of tickets, was 40,000 with each having 100 fractions. Each fraction sold to the public at 25 cents and the seller, who according to law must be an individual and purchase directly from the institute, earned three cents on each fraction which he purchased for 22 cents. The bonds which do not win prizes will be redeemed at the end of one year at 40 per cent of their value and during the next 10 years in a rising scale to 125.4 per cent of their value.

According to Senorita Pastorita Nunez, director of the institute, all the issue was sold, netting the government $618,400 after deducting expenses of seven per cent. This money will be used to redeem the bonds and to build houses for workers in the lower bracket incomes. The first group of the 100 million dollars worth of homes has been started on land across the bay from Havana now reached through an under-bay tunnel built by the Batista regime.

Pawns in Miami Divorce

3 Boys Guarded After Plot Fails

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Three boys, pawns in a four-year-old Miami divorce suit, were placed under guard by their wealthy father in Palm Springs, Calif., Monday after police said an Easter Sunday attempt to abduct them failed.

One of the boys, David Raese, six, escaped by jumping into a swimming pool. His brothers, Richard, 10, and John, eight, were pulled screaming into a station wagon which took off with a car posse of horn-honking nieghbors in pursuit.

Blocked at an accident scene four miles down the road in the plush desert resort city, Richard Moulton, San Jose private detective, and Charles Lewis, San Jose railroad conductor, told police they had been offered $5,000 to get the boys for their mother, Mrs. Jane Raese Kelly, of Palm Beach, Fla.

They were jailed for investigation of child stealing.

The boys and their father, Richard Raese, executive vice-president of Greer Steel Co., Morgantown, W. Va., had been visiting in Palm Springs.

Police Lt. Robert White said Mrs. Kelly, who has a home in Palm Beach, is known to have been in Palm Springs Sunday, but could not be located immediately.

She sued for divorce in Miami Jan. 18, 1955, charging Raese with jealousy. His counter suit charged her with extreme cruelty and adultery, naming Horace Brenton Kelly, a dancing instructor, also known as Lee Taylor, whom she married.

He said they started taking dancing lessons together after their Aug. 3, 1943, marriage in Morgantown, but when he left town on business, she started taking two dancing lessons daily.

Circuit Judge George E. Holt's divorce decree on May 3, 1955, gave the mother custody during school terms with permission for the father to take them out of the state during Christmas, Easter and summer vacations.

Judge Holt sentenced Raese to six months and a $1,500 fine on Jan. 4, 1957, for contempt after complaints that he failed to repay her $50,000 and return the three boys to a Palm Beach private school.

She showed Judge Holt a letter in which Raese told her he could not justify surrender of his children to Kelly's influence.

Removal Granted, Appealed

A Pompano Beach man lost a round Monday in his lengthy fight against extratition to California, where the FBI says he's wanted as a suspect in a Beverly Hills jewel robbery.

Federal Judge Emett Choate said he will sign extradition papers Friday on which Donald Jay O'Brien, 36, can be returned.

Meanwhile, O'Brien's lawyers indicated they will appeal to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to prevent it.

O'Brien, a Pompano Beach contractor, is an identical twin to Robert O'Brien, of Ft. Lauderdale. Robert walked into an FBI trap at West Palm Beach last December when officers accused him of trying to rob a jewelry salesman.

Twin Donald was arrested earlier on a warrant charging he was a fugitive from California.

Argentines Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (AP) — Workers in the Buenos Aires port area Monday went on strike for 48 hours for more pay. Loading and unloading operations on more than 200 ships were at a standstill.

Santa Rosa Didn't Slow For Fog

NEW YORK — (AP) — The master of the cruise liner Santa Rosa told a Coast Guard hearing Monday he did not reduce the ship's speed as fog closed in minutes before collision with the tanker Valchem.

Capt. Frank S. Siwik was the first witness as the three-man panel opened inquiry into the crash last Thursday 23 miles off Atlantic City. Four members of the Valchem crew were lost. Both ships were badly damaged.

Siwik testified visibility through the mist was cut to a mile and a quarter as his vessel continued on at 21.5 knots, its normal speed.

He said that he did notify the engine room the Santa Rosa had entered fog — a signal to alert the engine room staff.

Siwik told the board that as the fog began his second officer, Walt Welles, reported radar equipment showed the Valchem to be 4.9 miles away, and to the right. The time was 2:54 a.m.

Three minutes later the distance was three miles, the witness continued, and Welles estimated the ships would pass about three-tenths of a mile apart.

This Siwik described as "too close for me," and he ordered a 10 degree turn to the left.

After inspecting the radar himself, "I saw it was going to be a little closer than three-tenths of a mile, so I ordered a hard left turn to get away from the fellow on my starboard (right).

"I figured that with my speed I would be able to get away."

This was at 2:58 a.m.

Suddenly Siwik said he saw the other ship's lights directly ahead.

"I ran into the wheelhouse and hollered for a hard right turn," the captain continued, "I ordered hard right but before the rudder took over we collided."

Continuing his testimony, Siwik said that he first heard the Valchem's foghorn about a half minute before seeing the tanker's lights directly ahead, between a quarter and a half-mile off.

The Santa Rosa's log, he said, showed that a minute before the crash he had ordered both a right turn and full speed reversal of the engines.

The captain expressed doubt that either order had taken effect at the moment of collision.

Siwik said he believed the Valchem "must have been under way" a contradiction of a statement last week by Capt. Louis E. Murphy of the tanker that his ship had come to a full stop.

quickly become a rich man," one official commented. "Bribery was one of the wrongs in the Batista dictatorship which we fought to correct. So none of us takes bribes anymore."

Then he grinned.

"This is the only kind of a 'bribe' I will take," he declared, cutting a steak as we talked in a Havana restaurant.

The low salaries are not the fault of Castro. Salaries are decreed by the Cuban constitution or by law.

The amounts paid invite corruption. The Prime Minister himself makes only $360 per month. Last month Castro turned his over to charity.

Raul Castro, the Premier's brother who heads the rebel army, draws $125 monthly plus some military benefits. The secretary general of the Prime Ministry makes only $260 and his immediate department heads get $118 before retirement deductions.

Castro has an organization of honest, inexperienced youths running many government offices today. He needs stability and sound planning.

It is touch-and-go now as to whether he will succeed or collapse.

15 Convicts Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. — (AP) — Fifteen state prisoners overpowered their two guards, took their guns and sped off in a prison camp bus Monday. They left the guards tied to a tree.

The prisoners, assigned to a work detail from the Ware County road camp, later changed to a dump truck after proceeding a short distance in the bus, patrolmen reported.

The convicts chose a day on which the state patrol and county officers are busy issuing drivers' licenses and state automobile tags.

First reports indicated they headed southeast toward Waverly in Camden County.

The Brunswick post of the state patrol said nine patrol cars and seven to eight sheriffs cars from nearby counties set up road blocks.

The prisoners obtained shotguns and pistols after overpowering their guards.

The guards were released shortly afterward.

The 15 men fled in a bus built to carry prisoners. It resembles a school bus with a cage built in the rear.

Identity of the prisoners was not immediately available.

Judge Seizes Trial Pictures

APPLING, Ga. — (AP) — Film used by a news photographer to take pictures at a murder trial was ordered destroyed by Superior judge F. Frederick Kennedy.

Vernon Gould, on assignment for The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Herald, had made two time exposures without Kennedy's permission.

Kennedy observed the action, called Gould before him, and ordered a sheriff to seize the film. He then decreed that the film be destroyed.

Castro's A Symbol To Masses

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA — It's ironic but Fidel Castro possesses more power today than any dictator in Cuban history, including Fulgencio Batista, the "strong man" he booted out of office.

Whether Cuba comes out of the revolution for better or worse depends on how the bearded liberator uses this power.

Unknown is whether he intends to follow through with some of the wild schemes he has advanced in mob-appeal speeches, or whether he is merely boasting while still flushed with victory.

Thus far, Castro has made a series of blunders, political and economic, which would have been fatal to any government with less mass appeal.

His hold on the people lies in the symbol of honesty, freedom and democracy he represents.

There is more devotion to the spirit of the revolution and what it symbolizes than to Castro himself.

And under no circumstances do the Cuban people want to go back to the bribery, corruption, human indignities and totalitarianism of the Batista era.

There is an undercurrent of fear that if Castro is pushed from his perch the result would be chaos and confusion and, perhaps, a return to life as known under Batista.

Also beneath the surface is the feeling that the rantings of Castro are not to be taken at face value.

There is tremendous publicity value in standing before the Presidential Palace and telling the crowds how he is going to bring about the downfall of Caribbean despots, nationalize industry in Cuba, and increase the welfare of the workers.

But most U.S. businessmen here and intelligent Cubans do not believe these plans will get beyond the talking stage—unless provoked by unforeseen developments.

Actually, in one of his most recent speeches, Castro told Cubans they must be patient before all the past ills and injustices are to be corrected.

This is interpreted as a healthy sign, perhaps the turning point from the radical and irrational to the realistic business of running a democratic government.

Nevertheless, Cuba is riding on the back of Castro. The way he goes, Cuba goes.

City Manager's B-Girl Hunt Ends in Failure

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

DANIA — City Manager Charles Peters Monday gave the Torch Club a clean bill of health and a warning following a personal inspection of the night spot Saturday.

Peters said he didn't find any B-girls at the club, and added: "as long as you fellows keep running those stories, they (the club) would be darn fools to pull anything like that now."

A Herald reporter visited the N. Federal Hwy. club last week and found the gals doubling as drink hussiers and strippers.

Peters reported even the peelers have changed — into a little more clothes. "They didn't strip as far down as I read in the papers."

The city manager called his inspection pretty thorough, saying he visited the club three different times to make sure B-girls weren't around.

Before he left, he said he warned Club Owner Al Gordon: "This business (B-girl) has gone far enough. I don't want any more of it."

Peters said he personally will keep a check on the club's operations from now on. "I guarantee you there won't be anything wrong there as long as I am city manager."

He said Police Chief George Williams has ordered the police night shift to keep an eye on the Torch Club.

The club drew the fire of Commissioner Russell E. Seay Jr. last week. Seay said he would demand action to enforce the city's anti-B-girl ordinance.

They're Still Laughing

ONE OF THE MOST HILARIOUS pranks ever perpetrated by the college students went on for four months and made both the City of Fort Lauderdale and the State Road Department look a little ridiculous.

Out on E. Las Olas Blvd., just west of the avenue that goes over the small bridges to Delmar, Pelican and three other islands, is a speed-limit sign. Under it, until a few days ago, was a smaller sign reading: "Florida State Museum, Seagle Building." Many passers-by no doubt wondered what it meant, since there's no museum or Seagle Building around here.

The sign came from the campus of the University of Florida in Gainesville. Students brought it here last Thanksgiving. It stayed up until just last week . . .

Transit Planner Urges Action

FUTURE SOUTH FLORIDA HIGHWAYS should be planned with adequate lanes for the exclusive use of high speed buses, Clifford Cann says. If needs later call for a rapid transit system, the tracks could be laid on the bus lanes.

The idea seems to make sense. It's sound, logical and obvious. Probably nothing, however, will be done about it.

Cann is the Boston transit expert who watches South Florida's current struggles from his retirement home in Oakland Park. He says other things, too, that make sense, among them this:

"Let us be guided and instructed by the experience of other large metropolitan areas and profit, thereby, from their mistakes as well as their accomplishment. Let us have a transit authority to study this inevitable need (mass transportation). Proceed with care and avoid impulsive decisions. The right sort of long range plan, including the proper type of equipment, should be determined before any piecemeal actions."

Cann thinks that neither the proposed monorail nor railroad commuter trains will be the answer for this area. The monorail would require too much expensive downtown real estate for its numerous ticket offices and stairways, he says. Commuter trains everywhere are consistent money losers and the situation shows no indication of getting any better.

He has a basic thought on the subject of mass transportation that should hang in a frame in the office of every highway planner and engineer in this area. "The purpose is to move PEOPLE, not vehicles. The type of medium is merely the means to accomplish the end." . . .

Plantation Park Needs Trees

PLANTATION FOLK HAVE UNDERTAKEN to create a park on a tract of land at S. Hibiscus Ct. and Bel Air Dr. which includes a lake. Frank Howard and B. P. McDonald are collecting funds for development and landscaping and have been given a big assist by Edward Gerber, the real estate developer. He's offered them as many cabbage palms and melaleuca trees as they can move.

Be nice if each of the county's other communities would give a tree, each one to be designated with a small sign showing which city it came from . . .

Tourists in Fewer Accidents

FLORIDA'S TOURISTS ARE LEARNING to drive more safely even if her residents are not, according to a figure released by J. Edwin Larsen, the state insurance commissioner and head of the citizens advisory committee on highway safety, who spoke here last week.

In 1957, he said, 10 per cent of the accidents in the state were caused by visitors. In 1958 the ratio dropped to 7.6 per cent. Larsen believes it's the result of good safety programs in other states . . .

Hunt On For Dog Poisoner

Sheriff Warns Area Parents

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

WEST HOLLYWOOD—Four dogs were dead Monday as the result of a series of mysterious poisonings.

The Sheriff's Department said the outbreak was under investigation. Deputy Al Topel called the deaths of the animals, all children's pets, a "heinous crime."

"We consider this very dangerous to children in the vicinity," he said.

The poisonings occurred in a concentrated area around the 6400 block from SW 19th to 23rd Sts. Three dogs died within a two hour period.

The rash of poisonings started last Friday morning. It left a trail of mystified pet owners and a number of tear stricken youngsters.

A veterinarian told two women their pets apparently died of fast acting strychnine.

"If the dogs can get the poison, I'm afraid the children might get it too," said Mrs. Allen Whipple, 6429 SW 23rd St.

She said 80 children live within two blocks of her home.

The Whipple family's pet went into convulsions and was dead within 10 minutes, she said.

The dog recently had given birth to seven puppies.

Little, blond haired Donna Higbee, seven, tried hard to conceal the tears when she told about the death of her pet, Skippy. Donna and Skippy, also seven, had been pals since she was a baby.

But when Donna called Skippy before she left for school Friday, the dog suddenly went into convulsions and died.

"It was miserable to see. Anyone who saw Skippy would never want a dog poisoned again," she said.

The pet owners said they had not received any threats against the pooches.

Mrs. Robert D'Amore, 6515 SW 21st St., said she found her pet "dead on the lawn two hours after we let him out of the house." Mrs. Raymond Smith, 6525 SW 23rd St., also reported her dog dead.

The Omelet King Flips

* * *

Cooks 'Em Egg-Zackly Right

By BEVERLY PAULSON
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE—He is loaded with titles, the king of omelets said.

Some people call him Rudolph Stanish, his unglamorous, but rightful, name. Others call him "The Omelet Man."

Last night he reigned in the Governors' Club Hotel kitchen as he whipped up about 200 delicacies for the midnight breakfast at the Broward Heart Association's Debutante Ball.

Keeping four burners going, he served the debs and guests in two hours—from midnight to 2 a.m.

Stanish, member of a White Russian family who came to the U.S. to escape the revolution, started out as butler in Fort Lauderdale.

After serving with the William Kern family from 1936-45, he went to the Cordon Bleu in Paris, where a perfect omelet is a requirement for graduation.

In 1949 he began his omelet career.

His first omelet party was a breakfast Mrs. William Frank gave after a performance of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra at Carnegie Hall.

The success of the party egged him on to seek his undisputed title of America's Omelet King.

Since then he has made omelets at many high society events, including Brenda Frazier's debut in New York. "I've closed many Broadway shows with omelet parties," he reported.

He did one for "Tea and Sympathy" when Deborah Kerr closed and Joan Fontaine took over the lead. His omelets raised $35,000 in 20 minutes for a Bonds for Israel party given by Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein in New York.

In true tradition of producing a masterpiece, Stanish has a nagging problem before each appearance as King.

He has stage fright, he said.

Accused of Receiving Stolen Property

Woman Faces Trial Alone As Police Track Husband

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Deserted by her husband, Mrs. Minnie Lou Dietsch went to trial Monday in Criminal Court on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The 43-year-old woman was arrested Jan. 25 in her home at 1516 Garfield St., Hollywood.

As police swarmed in and around the place, Jack Dietsch left by the side door.

"We're still looking for him," testified Robert Milligan, Hollywood police lieutenant.

He said he saw Dietsch drive up as he staked out the home that Sunday night.

"He carried something in, then came back and picked up some furs from the back seat," Milligan added.

Hollywood Detective Don Amantini, radioed by Milligan, said he arrived with Dade County officers David Helman and James Bergan. They had no warrant, but said they got Dietsch's consent to search the home and car.

Amantini said he was looking through the car when he heard someone cry: "He's gone."

Six off-duty men and five cars were called to search for the 41-year-old suspect, Milligan said.

Police agreed with Defense Attorney Ellis Rubin that Dietsch had the right to leave as he was not arrested. Police had no warrant for his arrest.

There were stolen furs and jewelry in the home, they testified. Helman said he found jewelry in the pocket of a jacket hidden between the sheets of Mrs. Dietsch's bed.

Bergan said he found two furs in closets after threatening to knock the bedroom door down if Mrs. Dietsch, who was inside, didn't open it.

Three women whose homes were robbed Jan. 25 said they saw the missing items that night at the Hollywood police station.

Mrs. Walter L. Jaeckel, 2504 SE 21st St., identified a $3,500 diamond brooch, a $1,000 mink stole, and her wedding and engagement rings.

Mrs. Edna Hudson, 2508 SE 21st St., claimed a $1,500 watch. Mrs. Adelaide Pratt, 1271 S. Ocean Blvd., Pompano Beach, recovered a $925 mink stole.

The charge against Mrs. Dietsch specifies a fur, brooch and earring, all belonging to Mrs. Jaeckel. The trail will resume at 9 a.m. today. Wallace Allbritton, chief assistant county solicitor, is prosecuting.

County Club Wins Award

FORT LAUDERDALE — Kiss and makeup parties at which winning and defeated candidates did just that helped the Young Democratic Club of Broward County win a state award.

Delegates to the state convention of the Young Democrats of Florida Monday brought home the award as the state's outstanding club for 1958.

It was based on two post-election parties to smooth over hurt feelings as well as some other activities—helping candidates to be at the right rallies and holding backyard lawn parties for candidates.

Thomas W. Coker, county solicitor, was elected state secretary. Frank B. Akerman was named vice president for the sixth district. William F. Leonard is Broward president, Jack Lamar, vice president, and Mary Ann Verity, secretary.

Teamster Drive Is Attacked

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — City employes were told Monday night to "ignore" any attempt by the Teamsters Union to organize here.

"They (the Teamsters) will make a lot of rash promises but that's all they'll do," claimed William Weld, Miami organizer for the city's new Municipal Employes Union, AFL-CIO.

Weld predicted the Teamsters "will attempt to move in here soon" and said, "if they ever get a foothold you'll never get any recognition from city officials."

Weld did not say his union will win its fight for better working conditions and increased pay.

"But we're not going to back down," he declared. "It may take us years to win our fight. We've opened a lot of closed doors in the past and we can do it here if we stay united."

He said approximately 450 of the city's eligible 700 employes have joined his group.

"We're going strong but we can't expect victory overnight. We've got a big selling job to do and it's going to take time."

Weld said the union will seek a meeting with city commissioners in the near future, but would not elaborate.

Killer Sought

POMPANO BEACH — Police were searching Monday night for a gunman who fatally wounded a Negro woman in the 100 block of NW 10th Ave. The victim was identified as Rosa Baisden, 32, of 1515 NW Fifth Ave.

Legislators Ready Bill For War on Erosion

Would Let County Foot Cost Unless State Grants Aid

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — The Broward legislative delegation will present a bill permitting the county to act to halt beach erosion if it fails to obtain state funds, members disclosed Monday.

State Sen. George Tedder said the delegation will work for state assistance at the session starting April 8, but will be ready with a bill if no state money is appropriated.

The county bill will permit taxing to provide money to halt erosion, but it hasn't been decided yet who will administer the funds.

"Controlling erosion should be a state function," Tedder said. "It's a critical problem now in some areas in Broward County, such as Deerfield Beach."

It's also serious in Pompano Beach and Hallandale, he noted.

Erosion is one of five major items on which the delegation disclosed agreement. It also will sponsor bills which would:

ESTABLISH a regional planning board for the county.

ESTABLISH a fire control district or districts.

PERMIT voters to decide whether they want their school superintendent elected or appointed.

ENABLE the County Commission to increase annual appropriation to the Broward County Mental Hygiene Clinic to $30,000.

The County Commission is expected to submit 30 or more bills to the delegation. However, the county hasn't yet turned over its first bill.

The delegation will be leaving for Tallahassee at the end of the week.

It is accepting a recommendation from the Broward County League of Municipalities in sponsoring the planning board bill. It will permit the appointment of a board which will administer its own funds.

Undecided as yet is whether the board will have taxing powers. The delegation would like to have money for the board come from fees charged for building permits.

The fire control bill will set up either one or five special taxing districts to provide fire protection in unincorporated areas. A limit of one mill on the levy for fire control will be included in the bill. The delegation is awaiting a recommendation from the County Commission as to whether a special board will be created to levy the tax.

Tedder said the delegation will support a constitutional amendment applying to all counties which would permit voters of each county to decide whether to make the office of school superintendent appointive.

If such an amendment fails, the delegation will submit an amendment of its own applying only to Broward County.

Hope High For 'Pike Extension

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — With new traffic and revenue records being set every month, the possibility of extending the Florida Sunshine Parkway "gets brighter each day," a turnpike official said Monday.

"With each increase we show we're getting closer to the day when we can expand," said Al Hinton, the turnpike's public relations director.

Hinton predicted that this month's traffic and revenue would set an all-time record for the two-year-old turnpike.

Last month's gross revenue, $476,607, was seven per cent above the January total, and 21 per cent higher than the February 1958 figure.

Hinton pointed out that net revenue for the past 11 months, $3,326,293, was 11.8 per cent higher than the corresponding period in 1957-58.

A total of 369,272 vehicles used the turnpike last month, compared to 339,372 in January. Hinton predicted that this month's total would exceed 400,000 cars.

Last month's net revenue, $383,516, was 35 per cent higher than the February 1958 total.

Hinton said cars using the turnpike last month traveled 17,936,782 miles. This was an 8.8 per cent increase over the January total of 16,790,263.

An unfavorable bond market, he added, has prevented turnpike officials from "giving serious thought to expansion plans at this time."

Attorney Lloyd Divorced

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — County Attorney John U. Lloyd was divorced March 6 in Blountstown, in northwest Florida, by his wife of 11 years, records in Circuit Court there disclosed Monday.

Mrs. Virginia G. Lloyd charged him with extreme cruelty. They were married April 23, 1948 in Folkston, Ga. There are no children. The suit was uncontested.

Former State Sen. Ted Cabot signed the complaint as Mrs. Lloyd's attorney in Broward County. It was filed in the Circuit Court at Calhoun County by State Sen. Marion B. Knight of Blountstown.

Nightlife with George Bourke

Lewis Displays Rare Knack--Skims Blue Area Without Offense

WITH THE EXCEPTIONS of Holiday on Ice at the Exhibition Hall, Donald O'Connor at the Fontainebleau, and Jean Carroll at the Diplomat there isn't much evidence on the "live" Class AA after-dark scene this week that would indicate that our impresarios anticipated a heavy family trade in this Easter Week-school recess season.

Jack Carter, Buddy Hackett and Joe E. Lewis are all fine funmakers on the supper club circuit but each of them purveys comedy which demands a high degree of sophistication or a familiarity with what used to be called smoking car humor back in the days when off-color (we call them "blue" in the cafe trade) stories were restricted to magazines such as Whizbang or to the closed precincts of the stag party.

But, judging from the reception given Joe E. at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii where he is coupled with Eartha Kitt, and Jack Carter at the Americana where he shares billing with Dorothy Sarnoff, the type of joke which might get a frigid look or a stony silence if told by a husband at home in the presence of his children is now acceptable as "family" fun with the same young audience in the togetherness of a tightly packed night club.

We detail all this not in a criticism of the night club show format nor in implication that the expensively decored spots are cesspools of evil but merely to deliver a well-intentioned caution that the Buddy Hackett at the Deauville is not the Hackett of the TV "Stanley" series, nor is Carter the Carter of past television experiments or of the Broadway theater.

* * *

Carter Talent Tops Blue Routine

THERE IS NO caution needed for Joe E. Lewis — on two counts. Joe has made very infrequent excursions into media other than cafes in recent years and those who know the name know it not from the other-side-of-the-coin areas of television or the legit stage but from its significance as the easily definable label of the likeable pixie who is a font of ultra-sophisticated parody and a genial gentleman who is undeniably blue but who doesn't have to beat his material black and blue.

What we mean is that Carter, for instance, comes on stage at the Americana Bal Masque Room and for the first 15 minutes of his act recites a brilliant new routine which leads off with a "76 Trombones" parody, sparkling with such newies as a reference to the Belle Moskowitz Room and the acknowledgment of an unusual number of kiddies in the audience by advising them "I'll lay 'em (meaning an egg) and you color them." The appreciative applause on these was near deafening.

Then the hard-sell Carter of old comes out. He harangues and then burlesques in belittling manner the Harry Belafontes, the Jose Grecos, whom he exposes as a name-changer, and the Lauritz Melchiors and he reports that an act which had previously played this same Americana stage used "smelly and moldy" costumes.

But he impeaches his own right to such a complaint against uncleanliness by immediately diving into a couple of pretty "sick" routines about a gynecologist and a psychiatrist and at least one scatological reference.

And do you know what happened then? The applause was near deafening! So who can blame him? Why should he knock himself out with the fine talent for mimicry and for dancing which he possesses when a reach into the "blue" yonder can come up with a handful of laugh-rewarding shockers.

* * *

Joe E. Uses Skill, Not Kill

BUT, GETTING BACK to Joe E. Lewis, at Eden Roc with his accompanist Austin Mack (which immediately gives added class and pseudo-concert status to the proceedings), Joe's voice has the endearing qualities of a family heirloom piece of sandpaper. But the manner to match has no rancor in it and is friendly not frantic as it, too, relates or sings of situations which are concerned with the devious ways of a man with a maid, also-ran maidens (equine), and sour mash and its spirit cousins.

He has a lot of new parodies, the one on "Suzie Wong" taking all the variant tangents you'd expect of it, and the inevitable one on "79 Hormones" covering every angle of ribaldry in the book.

But not once does Lewis grimace evilly or—as we said before—see the necessity for pounding his blue material until it is both black and blue. It may seem a unique simile in view of some of the things Joe E. Lewis, a man who drinks for himself, says—but HIS saving quality is that he's as cute as a little red label. He uses "skill" instead of "kill."

Golda Meir Speaks

Israel Sees U.S. Chill to Nasser

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir said in Parliament Monday President Nasser of the United Arab Republic is an ambitious dictator aiming to subjugate other countries in the Middle East.

She said latest developments between Baghdad and Cairo "might induce some Western circles to wish again to strengthen the Egyptian dictator and increase his power out of false hope that in this manner there is a prospect of attracting him to the West.

"We have no doubt such hopes are utterly without foundation and it seems to me there are more people who agree with us than otherwise."

In specific reference to U.S.-Israeli relations, she said:

"Since the end of the Sinai operation there has been a rapid and complete return to the previously existing cordial relationship, and the past year has seen further development, events of the year having resulted in a more complete identity of views between the two countries concerning problems of the area.

"American opinion now approaches Israel's own evaluation of Nasserism and its subversive tendencies."

Arms Ban Marchers In London

LONDON — (AP) — A five-mile column filed into Central London Monday with jazz bands blaring and banners demanding an end to all nuclear weapons.

Nearly 15,000 singing demonstrators snarled traffic around Trafalgar Square at the climax of a 53-mile march to the capital from Britain's nuclear arms factory at Aldermaston.

Leaders of the march went to No. 10 Downing St. Prime Minister Macmillan's official residence. They delivered a written appeal denouncing nuclear arms as "wholly evil" and calling on Britain to scrap them even if the U.S. and the Soviet Union won't.

A policeman answered the door and took their appeal.

The procession began at Aldermaston Friday with about 4,000 demonstrators trudging through heavy rain.

Roomy Homes; Skeleton Outside

NEW YORK — (AP) — Five apartment buildings will be erected by the City Housing Authority with their skeletons on the outside.

By putting the supporting columns on the outside of the buildings, wall space in the rooms will not be broken by the uprights.

The reinforced concrete columns will be sprayed a light gray to form a part of the buildings' exterior design. The building facades will be aluminum panels and light red brick.

Policy Maker Visits

British 'Equality' Hinted for Africa

LONDON — (AP) — The Earl of Home, secretary for commonwealth relations, flew to Southern Rhodesia Monday for a four-day visit.

"Something entirely new in the commonwealth story is needed in the federation of Nyasaland and the Rhodesias," he told reporters.

He said he will discuss in Africa plans for the preparation of the future stages of the federation's constitutional development.

"Our principal purpose," he added, "is to build the machinery toward establishing a full equal partnership between the two races who rightly claim to have a home in Africa."

Slower Students To Get Help at All School Levels

By GREG TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

(Last of a Series)

FORT LAUDERDALE — Gym classes aren't what they used to be.

Today in Broward County the required physical education course includes instruction in health, safety, hygiene. Students are taught rules of sports from the player and the spectator standpoints.

They take written examinations.

"The purpose of the course is not to make star athletes but to prepare students to take part in modern-day recreation," said Dr. Thord Marshall, assistant superintendent in instruction.

The course still includes organized games and sports.

The curriculum change has another meaning for the fat or awkward student. Such a student won't flunk gym if he can't chin himself 10 times.

"But they have to pass the written tests," said Marshall.

The Broward school system is trying to help slow students in all phases of education.

Slow students take the "solid" or basic courses of mathematics, English, science and social studies. But their achievement standard is different.

"We have a third track or standard for slow students in some schools," Marshall said.

At present there are slow groups in about one-fourth of the elementary schools and about half the junior highs.

"We'll recommend the grouping for all junior highs for next year. The problem is getting enough teachers. The slow groups must be small so the teacher can give students the attention they need."

In ninth grade math, for example, the advanced and average students take courses in algebra. The slow student gets general math.

"Since the time of the one-room school, good teachers have been doing what we're trying to do. But with the students grouped they can do a better job."

Marshall contends special courses for the slow aren't needed in senior high. "Most of the very slow students drop out after the 9th or 10th grade.

The school system is fighting the reading problem through its program in the elementary schools. For the past three years, special teachers have been assigned to work with slow readers to bring them up to their class average.

The results have been more than corrective.

"Last year, 6 per cent of the sixth graders were reading above their grade level, according to the national average," Marshall said.

"This means, if these results continue, we'll almost eliminate the reading problem in the high schools."

Two Held For Illegal 'Tapping'

Herald Bureau

HALLANDALE — Two residents, in arrears on their water bills, were arrested Monday for making connections to water lines after their service was cut off by the city.

Angelina Williams, 59, of 821 NW Third Ave., and Jimmie Lee Evans, 31 of 636 NW Sixth Ct., were jailed under $25 bond.

Water Superintendent Ralph di Cecca said the water meters were yanked out of both locations last Tuesday because water bills were delinquent about two months.

Meter Reader Robert Smith found the illegal connections while making his rounds Friday, de Cecca said.

Mrs. Willams, police said, paid her $11.98 bill early Monday, but was arrested when she showed up at City Hall later to complain that the meter had not been installed.

Evans, $11.40 in arrears, told police he hooked up because he "wasn't getting any water."

Pompano 'Rebels' on Annexation

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The City Commission endorsed "in principle" a 31-point legislative program advocated by the Broward County commission, but rebelled Monday night at a "general feeling" on annexation also mentioned by the commission in the communication transmitting the legislative proposals.

The commission stood opposed to the county board's "feeling" that no area should be annexed to any city, unless approved by a referendum of voters in the area.

The City Commission, meeting in special session, indicated delight in the county's proposal to create special taxing districts to finance street repairs, sidewalk and street light installations, parks and fire protection.

They generally agreed that such action by the county would stimulate annexation by municipalities.

Boy Cuts Leg On Bottle

FORT LAUDERDALE — A boy playing ball on the beach fell on a broken beer bottle Monday and suffered a deep cut in his right leg.

George Hughes, 15, of 2021 SW 42nd Ave., out of school for the long Easter weekend, stepped back to catch a ball near the south beach picnic area and fell on the broken bottle, patrolman William Hilgenfeldt reported.

The boy was treated at the Lauderdale Beach Hospital.

$4.8 Million Outfall Sewer Plan Decided

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
Herald Staff Writer

POMPANO BEACH — In a special session Monday night the City Commission set a May 19 referendum date on a 3.3 million dollar general obligation bond issue which would finance a portion of a proposed 4.8 million dollar sanitary sewer program. Service charges would raise the rest of the money.

The commissioners also approved a 1.5 mill levy and a $2.50 per front foot special assessment to retire the bond issue. They did not change the proposed monthly service charges which would be about $2.75 for the average home.

The 4.8 million project is predicated on using an ocean outfall method of sewerage disposal rather than an activated sludge plant. This was one of the big issues, apart from financing, where the citizens Advisory Committee on Sewers and the commission differed.

Meeting with the committee, the commissioners were told the committee would endorse and support a one-mill levy and a $2.50 special assessment, and a 15 per cent increase in the proposed service charges. Another plan would have reduced the millage to one mill and raised the special assessment to $3.30 per foot, leaving the service charge unchanged.

The total sanitary sewer project will cost 4.8 million dollars and serve about 75 per cent of the residents of Pompano.

Committee Member Boyd H. Armiger cautioned that "We'll have a big selling job to the 25 per cent of the people who'll have to pay taxes for sewers but won't get them at first.

Suspect Powdered

Caught—'Red-Handed'

The suspect was caught red-handed.

Or, hang on to your Dick Tracy crime kit, men, it may solve the crime.

Albert Bernard Johnson, 36, of 924 NW Second St., FORT LAUDERDALE, was charged with grand larceny Monday because "thief detection powder" stuck to his fingers. The powder is red.

It happened like this, according to police.

Milton Tavlin, 39, president of the Reef Restaurant, 2700 S. Andrews Ave., notified police Saturday night that a moneybag had been stolen from a cash register in the restaurant and later found hidden in a storage room.

He believed the thief was an employe who would come back to pick it up before going home for the night.

Police covered the bag with detection powder and staked out Detective George Tanner. His vigil was regarded when Johnson picked up the bag and took it into an employes' dressing room.

He was arrested there red-handed.

Case Dropped

Breaking and entering charges against Guido (Chris) di Bona, 24, OAKLAND PARK cement contractor, were dismissed Monday by Criminal Court Judge Louis Weissing at the request of County Solicitor Thomas M. Coker Jr.

Coker said previously he would ask the burglary charge be dropped because of a fingerprint error. Di Bona was accused of breaking into the home of James Babbitt, FORT LAUDERDALE. De Bona is scheduled to appear in court again next month on a charge of receiving a fur stole.

Loot Found

Some contents of a Post Office safe stolen in POMPANO BEACH Sunday night were discovered along various roads in South Palm Beach County Monday.

Deputy H. L. Conyers found stamps scattered along High Ridge Rd. south of Lantana and a drawer from the safe on Hypoluxo Rd.

Edna R. Anderson, manager of the Post Pffice substation established only two weeks ago at the Wee Moderns Store, 824 N. Federal Hwy., reported the missing 100-pound safe contained $55 to $60 in cash, and about $700 in stamps and money orders.

Barbecue

A benefit barbecue, originally scheduled for two weeks ago, will be held at 6 p.m. today on the Broward Hotel patio, Fort Lauderdale.

The Fellowship Club of the Mental Health Association and the Fraternal Order of Police Associates are sponsoring the event. All proceeds will go to charity.

Boulevard Lighting Completed

Herald Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — The whiteway lighting on Atlantic Blvd. is finally complete, including traffic signals — but the job is three and a half months late.

As a result, the contractor, Florida Electrical Service of Fort Lauderdale, faces payment of $2,200 in penalties.

The contract imposed a $20 per day penalty for each day the job was incomplete after Dec. 1.

Representatives of the firm have asked the City Commission to waive penalties, claiming it was the supplier's fault the light poles were late in arriving.

The firm is expected to repeat the plea at next Tuesday's commission meeting. Total contract price for the lighting job was $26,044.

Eagles to Hear Head of Order

FORT LAUDERDALE — Andrew J. Halloran, national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will speak here at 8 p.m. today.

Halloran, of Framingham, Mass., was honored Monday night at a dinner attended by city and county officials.

Tonight's meeting, at the Eagles Home, 1742 NE Fourth Ave., is open to members and auxiliary members.

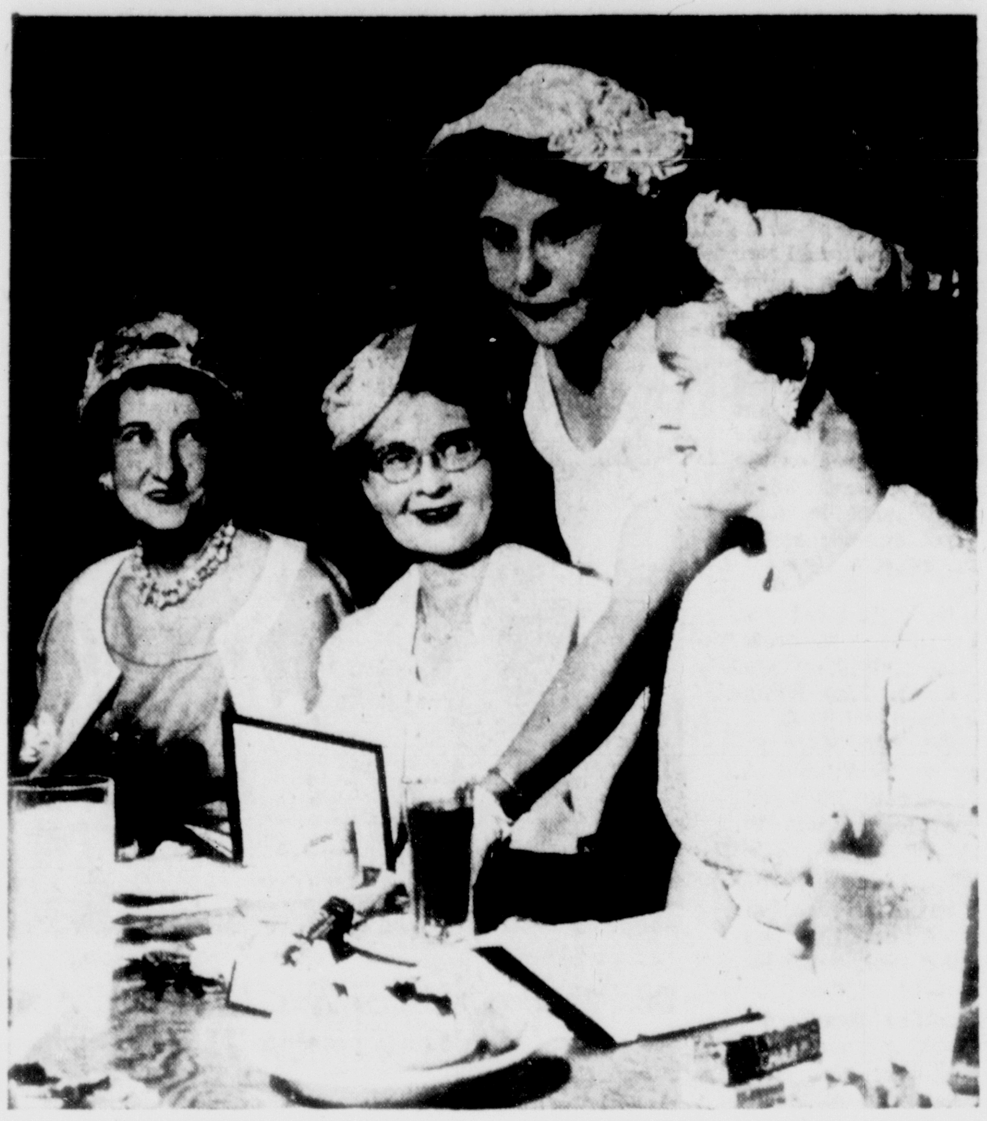
For and about WOMEN

We Were There . . . At Fine Arts Breakfast



FLOWERED BONNETS, such as these worn by four club leaders, gave a spring-time atmosphere to Coral Gables Woman's Club's fine arts breakfast Monday. Mrs. M. Lewis Hall, left, member of the club and first vice president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs, wore deep pink. Mrs. Raymond Burr, fine arts chairman of the club, was in daffodil yellow. White was the color choice of Mrs. Lloyd Rees, standing, who was chairman of the breakfast. Mrs. Winston W. Wynne, right, president of the club, wore powder blue.

MUSIC AND DRAMA were represented at the party by Mrs. Clifton Muir, southeastern regional vice president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and Owen Phillips, director of the Coconut Grove Playhouse. Both spoke briefly on the progress of music and drama in Greater Miami. More than 200 members of the club attended the program.

NOVELIST, POET AND MUSEUM director were other honor guests at the party. They are, left to right, Mrs. Raymond (Carol) Brink, Newberry prize winning novelist, Mrs. Joseph (Audrey Wurdemann) Auslander, Pulitzer prize winning poet, and E. Robert Hunter, director of Vizcaya, Dade County's art museum. Veronica and James McCormick presented the musical program, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. James J. McCormick. Miss McCormick wore the white bouffant gown she wore at the Stephen Foster "Jeanie Ball" when she won the Jeanie contest.

'Should My Boy Friend Attend This Wedding Without Me?'

Column with a Heart

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I am 19 and have been going steady with a boy two years. He and I love each other and have made plans for the future. Because we are both still going to school, we have not announced these plans to anyone.

Recently a close friend of my boy friend asked him to be an usher at his wedding.

Although we have double dated with this couple on many occasions, and they know how my boy friend and I feel about each other, I was not invited to the wedding.

Do you think my boy friend should go to the wedding even though I was not invited? He says he has to go because they are such close friends. I am anxious to know what is right.

ANXIOUS

Your lack of invitation could be an oversight, so let's give the couple the benefit of the doubt and assume that it is.

It would be entirely proper, under the circumstances, for your boy friend to mention to his friend, the fact that you have not yet received your invitation to the wedding.

That should take care of the situation, nicely.

There's Nothing Like Children

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

After my baby was born, I resented the role of mother — the sleepless nights and the extra work, which were so new to me.

But, gradually, as my baby grew older and became a little person so easy to love, I discovered there was nothing more rewarding in this world for a woman than the experience of having and loving children, and being able to give a little of herself for them.

Now I want more children but seem unable to have them. This, sometimes, is the sad twist of fate.

I just wish those mothers who are so blessed with children would appreciate them a little more.

WOULD-BE-MOTHER

A Woman's Prayer

By Josephine Robertson

O God, in my relations with people around me today give me the power to establish a friendly atmosphere, as fresh and clear as a mountain morning.

If someone is unpleasant, keep me from yielding to any childish reaction of anger to anger, unkindness to unkindness. Teach me rather to sense the cause beneath the word or act that on the surface seems unfriendly, and to see beyond passing moods without being swayed by them.

Help me to dissolve away the clouds of unhappiness and misunderstanding with the sunshine of love and sympathy. Reveal to me the secret of bringing refreshment of spirit to all I meet today. Amen.

There Was Love With Each Stroke

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

M. B.'s letter bring to mind an experience I had in a doctor's waiting room. My three small children were sitting quietly looking at books.

There was another woman, quite embarrassed because her two were behaving badly. Finally she turned to me and asked how I managed to keep my youngsters quiet.

I told her I had promised candy if they were good. She said she had tried that and it didn't work for her. I then added that mine were also promised a spanking if they weren't good.

Her exact words were: "My God, I beat them half to death and it still doesn't help one bit."

Like Contented Mother, I was not referring to brute force. I was speaking of a good-old-fashioned paddling, like my kind and gentle mother gave to me.

I will also add that I have never resented a single paddling, and think there must have been love in each stroke of her hand.

MRS. W. H.

Some Advice To In-Laws

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I would like to write you the words I told my two daughters-in-law, in hope they will promote better understanding among the women of one family.

I am a grandmother by choice—I married a widower with two grown sons, one married and the other single. When the second son married, I took my new daughter to one side and told her what I had told the first daughter-in-law:

"We will argue, we will fight, we will disagree. You are you and I am me. I will respect your right to do what you think best if you will do the same for me. Let me hear from you once a week to assure us you are well.

"There will be times when I'll get angry and so will you, but I'll never stop loving or speaking to you. There is to be no longterm hate in this family. If you are offended, do not carry a grudge. Say what bothers you. If we can help, we will, and we will love you still."

FREDERICKA

The man who carries a grudge just makes his burden a little heavier. Perhaps your words will help, not one family, but many others.

Eleanor Hart.

AAUW Finds Painless Way To Give Food Sale

Miami Branch of the American Association of University Women has a new wrinkle on fund raising—a foodless food sale.

The sale is going on right now, but nary a pie is being baked. None of the members is slaving over a hot cooky sheet either, because the foodless food sale boils down to two words: "Send Money."

The co-chairmen of the sale, Mrs. John E. Norman and Miss Harriet Wilson, sent out a poem explaining the foodless food sale to the branch's 250 members.

And the members are sending the price of whatever they would bake for a good sale to the chairmen for the building fund of the national association's Educational Center under construction in Washington, D.C.

NEW GADGET IS PATENTED

Now Baby Won't Slip

The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A device for holding a slippery baby in a bathtub has been invented by Mildred O. Ackerson of Upland, Calif. "As generally known," she said in her patent application, "infants are difficult to handle during a bathing operation."

Her apparatus is a plastic base with a large depressiion for the baby's torso and a smaller depression for the head.

Mother can let the baby squirm and use both hands for washing. The raised headrest keeps baby's face out of the water and soap out of his eyes, according to the patent.

CARE OF CLOTHES: Two ways of keeping buttons from coming off work clothes — (1) Have them sewn on with dental floss instead of thread, or (2) Touch thread at center of button with clear nail polish. It will seal the threads and prevent breakage.

Double Duty Party

You can do two things at once at the Tuesday morning party of the Nina Opland Unit, Woman's Corps of the Cancer Institute at Miami: see Vizcaya and its formal gardens and pick out a new spring outfit.

Party is at 10:30 a.m. fashion show of clothes from Beth Eber of South Miami on the terrace at Vizcaya, Dade County's art museum.

Mrs. James F. Moore, 6908 Altimira Ave., Coral Gables, is ticket chairman and Mrs. W. A. Blitch is general chairman of the party.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Yearling Filly Will Be Prize At Derby Party

By GRIFF PRESTON

Herald Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Want to own a thoroughbred yearling filly? If you're a guest at Indian Creek Country Club Wednesday that's just one of the 105 prizes whipped up by Fort Lauderdale's George A. Cavanaugh, chairman for the club's Gulfstream, Florida Derby party Wednesday.

The filly will be right there at the clubhouse on party night, and if you do win her and haven't a stable handy, she'll be auctioned off to the 350 partygoers.

For this inauguration of Gulfstream, Florida, Derby night at "The Creek" it's going to be a fine and fancy gala with a "film patrol of eight famous Gulfstream Park races being shown." (Coral Ridge Yacht Club ran these last weekend at their Gulfstream, Florida, Derby party and reports them as "terrific.")

Among the Fort Lauderdaleans going down for the party will be Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh, with their dinner guests, the Owen Smiths, the George Mousettes and the Lester Brookers. Other local residents who just might win that thoroughbred Wednesday night are the Don Bathricks and the Ellsworth Augustuses.

Those 'Formidable' Supermarkets!

"FORMIDABLE" is the American supermarket, "mervilleuse!" is the American kitchen's garbage disposal unit and "extraordinaire" is the machine that shoots out the cola bottles.

That's what Jean Lascoumes, pretty young bride from France, says.

M. and Mme. Lascoumes are here visiting the J. Stuart Cromers on their honeymoon, which has included South and Central America, Mexico and Cuba, and now their first look at the U.S.

Mme. Lascoumes was 12-year-old Simone Guttin of Saint Marcellin, France, when Stuart Cromer last saw her during the war years. In Saint Marcellin his billet was the Hotel de France, owned by Simone's parents.

During his leaves, Lt. Cromer went back to visit the Guttin family. Now the lieutenant is playing the host to Simone Guttin Lascoumes and her husband Jean.

After their visit with the Cromers, the young couple go to New York and then home by way of Canada. Home, by the way, is their new house in La Sone which they have designed completely in the round even to the spiral staircase.

'Good Guys, Good Guys'

MR. AND MRS. DAWSON BURNS, just back from Cuba where they visited the Larry Keeshans at their place on Veradero Beach, have good words to say for the bearded ones of Fidel Castro . . . "they're a bunch of grinning kids" and their good manners are outstanding, Mr. Burns reports.

On a trip to the Irenee DuPont estate, he photographed two of these handsome young "barbudos" (they're all keen as movie starlets to have their pictures taken) and was embraced with a "good guy, good guy" by the bearded ones . . . Seemed to be the only American words the boys had learned.

While in Havana they heard Fidel Castro speak," . . . he is a hypnotist, a bearded Billy Sunday . . . a spellbinder," Dawson Burns says. "The island people love him, but the island's peso does not."

They came home just in time to welcome their house guests, Mrs. Thomas Holahan, and her son, who are here from Rochester, N.Y. This weekend there will be another big welcome at the Burns' household when son Denis returns from his three years of duty with the Air Force and SAC, and he'll be enjoying civilian life on Flamingo Dr. until the fall when he will enter Harvard's school of Business Administration.

23 Years in Exile

IT'S THE FIRST VISIT back to the U.S. in 23 years for Mr. and Mrs. Guy Warner, houseguests here of the Pierce Colliers. They were old friends and neighbors of the Colliers when they all lived in Puerto Rico.

Seven of those 23 years away from home were spent in Chile where "the scenery is the most dramatic in the world and the backdrop for their walled garden was the towering Andes, and the roses are the size of peonies."

For the past three years the Warners have been residents of Madrir. There they move in "alta socidad" (at the behest of Standard Oil, of which Mr. W is an executive, alta socidad being literally high society. It meant they attended big diplomatic parties and did lots of VIP entertaining in the very formal Spanish tradition.

In the continental way of chic women, Mrs. Warner's clothes are of major importance to her way of life. She usually buys her own fabrics, collected in her travels, and she has her pet coutourier, the house of Comar in Madrid.

The designer makes preliminary sketches, and five fittings are the rule, Mrs. Warner being a perfectionist pays off too. Several of her things designed a year ago at Comar have the wide collar, off the shoulder detail that is our brand new fashion note.

Now back in the states for a visit, the Warners are traveling around by car with an eye out for their future American home. Asked what had impressed her most since she has been here, Mrs. Warner said, "those wonderful supermarkets. I go in them every chance I get."

Final Move for George I. Reeds

THE GEORGE I. REEDS are right up to their eyebrows in packing crates . . . They're moving this week into their new home in Coral Ridge. "From now on, the Reed address will be 2525 NE 21st St." . . . in the last five years, Mrs. R. ruefully admits to having moved four times . . . not far though all four of those moves were on NE 13th Ave.!

School Set Home . . . And Busy Too

THERE ARE LUNCHEON and pool-side parties going on all around the town these days for the school set home for Easter vacation. Brightening up the local scenery are the Walter Pauleys' daughter, Julie, with her houseguest, Lorna Hansen of Kenilworth, Ill. At the Harry Greeps' Shari Lea is having sun and fun. The Lloyd Lockely household is gladdened by their Carole. Miss Barbara Broadhurst, here from Perryville, Md., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Richard Butler, and at the William Wattses' the two girls from Briarcliff are Joan Watts and her houseguest, Miss Dorie Hubbard of Rye, N.Y.

HEART BALL SET IN FAIRYLAND SCENE

Broward's Debutantes Take Their First Bows

FORT LAUDERDALE — A fairyland scene set a glamorous stage Monday evening for the first Lauderdale Debutante Heart Cotillion sponsored by the Heart Association of Broward County.

The 17 girls who made their bows to society at the Governors' Club Hotel had a ball to remember. They danced to the exciting beat of the Meyer Davis' society orchestra amid a scene of spectacular beauty. Giant white candleabra, interspersed with slivered palms, and chandeliers festooned with light and airy balls of white transformed the ballroom into a scene befitting a debut hall.

Dramatically spotlighted, each debutante stepped through the portals of a giant white heart, escorted by her father. As they paused on the white-carpeted stage, introductions were made by Robert O. Cox, a director of the Heart Association.

First to be introduced was Miss Dani Joan Ambrose, with her father, William Ambrose. Miss Jean Mae Baumgartner entered with E. J. Baumgartner; Miss Mary Ellen Briggs with William A. Briggs, followed by Miss Judith Chapman, with John W. Chapman.

Music played softly as the girls in beautiful bouffant white gowns, carrying bouquets of pale pink camellias, stepped onto the stage.

Miss Dorothea Regina Ettinghaus was presented by Dr. S. J. Wilson; Miss Alice Onen Frazer was escorted by her father, David H. Frazer, and Miss Betty Jean Kassner entered with her brother, Ronald Kassner.

Other debutantes, with their fathers, were Miss Barbara Keffer and Dr. George I. Keffer; Miss Judith Mary Lain and William V. Lain; Miss Christine Ann Matson and William W. Matson, Miss Elizabeth Ann Mayhue and Carl Mayhue.

Miss Jayne Northway was introduced with her father, D. W. Northway of Pompano Beach. Miss Gloria Anne Osborne was escorted by L. Kirts Osborne Jr.; Miss Linda Ridings by John Ridings.

On the arm of her father, Dr. William Schloss, Miss Ann Romayne Schloss entered, followed by Miss Priscilla Anne Tocco, with her father, Benjamin E. Tocco of Pompano Beach.

Miss Elizabeth Carolyn Wright was escorted by her father, Dr. Ernest B. Wright of Gainesville.

Debutante fathers and daughters formed a horseshoe figure as they stepped from the stage. After a grand march they danced a waltz together. As the orchestra struck up a lively dance tune, young escorts of the debs "tagged" for the privilege of the first dance.

Tables with pale pink cards bore the names of each debutante. Crsytal bowls on each table held sprays of baby's breath.

At the entrance to the ballroom were portraits in pastels of each debutante by Charles Allenbrook. Photographs of the portraits adorned the cover of programs presented to each debutante as a memento of the ball.

Breakfast was served from midnight to 2 a.m. Guests dined in private dining rooms opening off the entrance hall.

Miss Cote Is Bride of Mr. Whebby

St. Joseph's Church in Miami Beach was the setting for the wedding Monday of Miss Marie-Paule Cote to William Joseph Whebby.

The bride is the daughter of of the Edmond Cotes of Edmondston, New Brunswick, Canada. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Marneault, were hosts for the reception held at their home, 7452 Harding Ave., Miami Beach.

Mr. Whebby is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whebby of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Both were educated in Canadian schools. Mrs. Whebby is a graduate of the Hotel Dieu Hospital School of Nursing.

Following a Canadian honeymoon, the newlyweds will live in Ontario.

Legal Institute To Hear Talk

Miss Edith Monot, Miami, state president of the Florida Association of Legal Secretaries, has been invited to speak at a legal institute to be held by the Florida Bar Association and the Brevard County Bar Association Friday in Cocoa Beach.

The institute deals with "Law Office Management" and Miss Monot will speak on "What a Lawyer Should expect from his secretary and what a secretary should expect of the lawyer."

Delicate Flavor

The next time you mix up a batch of dumplings for stew or thick vegetable soup, add a little instant minced onion along with some chopped parsley.

Instant minced onion gives a delicate onion flavor that blends well with other seasonings and never is over-powering.

This Unusual Hospital Stresses Prevention As Well as Cures

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

TEL AVIV, Israel — After seeing three beautiful mosques in Isfahan, Iran and the great square, which is next in size to Red Square in Moscow and where polo was played centuries ago, we flew into Teheran.

Mrs. Roosevelt

Representatives of the joint distribution committee took us in tow and we visited one of the most remarkable hospitals I ever have been in. The doctor in charge was proud to show me that the children's wards had only four occupants, whereas his maternity ward was well filled.

This is, of course, one of the basic goals they have been working on. They urge the mothers to come regularly for prenatal care, and they run a clinic for well children as well as for sick children.

They put as much emphasis on prevention as they do on cure. The hospital is used by Moslems as well as Jews, since the community is not exclusively Jewish.

Throughout Iran the problem is to teach whole communities, Moslems and Jews alike, especially among the poorer classes, to clean up the conditions under which they live and to make every effort to feed children properly.

I visited a kindergarten in Teheran, too, and the children looked well and seemed happy. While there was more room for more children there than in Shiraz, there still was not enough space. Everyone told me how much better they could do if they had more money, but I feel that in time, since these people are not living in fear, the communities themselves must provide the wherewithal so long as the leadership is given from such international organizations as the joint distribution committee.

Guidance will have to be provided for a long time, but there is certainly every opportunity for the people to learn to help themselves to a greater extent.

I went to a meeting of the Iran-American Society and found that this group was devoting itself to teaching English to any Iranians who wanted to learn, and there were many. Most of the teachers are Americans living there who volunteer their services, and the society employs only two or three professionals to help in organizing the classes and in giving some basic training to the teachers.

I also attended a tea given by the American Women's Club of Teheran, which had as guests many women in the diplomatic corps as well as Americans and Iranians. At both these meetings I was asked to say a few words of greeting, but I have been grateful that on this trip so far I have not had to make any speeches.

Memo for Men

By BERT BACHARACH

ADVICE TO FELLOW DISHWASHERS: Too-hot water tends to "bake" some food residue onto the dishes. Use medium-hot water for best results. For rinsing, however, the hotter the better.

IT DOESN'T WORK

Searing meat gives good appetizing color, but it does not "seal in" meat juices as was once thought.

Maybe the Pan Is Too Deep

If your cakes are not browning the way they should, it may be you are baking them in pans that are too deep for the amount of batter. Use the liable recipe.

Dulles Arrives For Florida Rest

By ED PFISTER and ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Staff Writers

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was down the ramp and on the ground chatting with officers when Mrs. Dulles and State Department aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dulles arrived here during a lull between two thunderstorms. Only a few servants were on hand to greet the party as it drove up a long roadway circling through dense woods to a moderately large white two-story home.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Take Warm Vacation, Ike Told

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and other White House staff members have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy field, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being.

U.S. Can 'Destroy Soviet'

Military Sure Of A-Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines — is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brushfire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testifie' the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA —(UPI)— The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

Two Seats at Stake

Polls Open Today As Campaign Ends

WEST PALM BEACH — Voters go to the polls today, climaxing a mild city campaign in which only a proposal to abolish elections for police chief stirred controversy.

Downed four times before, the proposal to put the police chief on an appointive instead of elective basis provided some fiery oratory at forums sponsored by non-partisan groups.

But the races for two city commission seats, now held by Mayor Horace E. Miller and Commissioner L. W. Kelloway, have proved quiet with only one hot issue — a proposal to change West Palm Beach's name.

Miller, seeking his fourth consecutive term, faces two opponents — J. H. French, a retired contractor, and C. M. Morris Jr., son of a retired city employe.

Kelloway, out to break a jinx, has never been elected twice in a row. He is confronted with three opponents—Henry R. Antonik, photography supplier; Ralph G. York, barber, and William M. Mitchell, Negro Veterans Service officer. Kelloway has served three nonconsecutive terms on the city commission.

Political observers give the incumbents the edge in today's balloting at 12 city precincts. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

With four in the field for Kelloway's Group D seat, a runoff may develop. It would be held April 7.

The storm raised about the proposed change of the city's name prompted the city commission to back off a decision until after the election.

The proposal to put the police chief on an appointive basis would not affect Police Chief R. W. Milburn's present four-year term. Opponents of the idea charge that it is a power grab by city commissioners. Proponents claim it will lead to better efficiency and more coordination among city departments.

Candidates have generally stumped on promises for more roads, sidewalks and a city auditorium.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

Court Rules Them Violation

TOKYO —(AP)— The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's postwar constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

Boys Die Inside Oven

ANTIGO, Wis. —(AP)— Two boys suffocated in a charcoal oven Sunday while their woodsman father thought they were at a movie with neighbors. The bodies were found Monday after a search that started when the neighbors returned without the youngsters.

Dead were Larry Kalkofen, 13, and his six-year-old brother Wayne. They were found by their father, Evan, and Langlade County deputies who were called in to help look for the two.

Authorities said that Wayne apparently had climbed a ladder to the top of the six-foot kiln and squeezed through a small trap door in the top. His brother was believed to have entered in an effort to rescue the younger child. Although there had been no fire in the oven for 36 hours, it still was filled with fumes.

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

Capt. Herman Marks

Castro's 'Headsman' Is Ex-Con

MILWAUKEE —(AP)— Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, or, for that matter, of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office show the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

Clears Votes

Wealth Told By Senator

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) voluntarily reported his stock holdings Monday to the Senate. They are valued on the current market at $270,000.

Young said he took this rare step so "anyone interested may judge in the future whether there is any conflict in interest influencing my action and votes as U.S. Senator."

In a report to Felton M. Johnston, secretary of the Senate, Young also announced he will sell stock he holds in two sugar concerns.

He is doing this, he said, because the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is a member, will be considering legislation concerning sugar imports.

Fidel Has Official Corruption Under Control

Take Him to Lunch; That's 'Bribe' for Cuban

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

* * *

Low Pay a Danger

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

* * *

HAVANA—Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official — they all are underpaid — to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero-Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of these young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could

It'll Be Fair For Most Part

Fair and warm is Florida's weather outlook for today but there'll be a few showers over the Gold Coast, the weatherman said.

The sun should poke through much of the day — and gusty southerly winds will diminish to about 10 to 15 miles an hour, he added.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same — in the mid-70s to low 80s — throughout the state.

Nehru Spurns 'Gag' Yoke Demanded by Red China

Prime Minister Voices Sympathy For Tibet Rebels

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru declared India's sympathy for Tibetan rebels Monday. He spurned Red China's attempt to smother Indian parliamentary discussion of the rebellion.

But he held to his hands-off policy toward the revolt, and turned down demands in parliament that India promise to admit all Tibetan refugees, as Austria did in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

"There are many vast differences in this situation," Nehru said when asked about following the Austrian example. "Obviously I cannot say that if large crowds come we will automatically admit them all. I tell you we would not admit them. No country could or should say it will admit everybody that comes."

Nehru faced a barrage of questions as parliament met for the first time since the Red Chinese government announced Saturday it had suppressed a major revolt in Lhasa, capital of the isolated mountain land, thrown out the government of the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, and elevated in his place his rival, the Panchen Lama.

The event has stirred widespread feeling in India because of long nurtured trade and religious links with the Tibetans.

For the first time since 1951 Indian demonstrators marched on the Chinese Communist embassy here Monday, shouting "Chinese bandits quit Tibet."

Thousands of Buddhists in Ladakh, a province of Kashmir, adopted a resolution asking India to intervene to "save the Buddhist religion and shrines in Tibet."

In Bombay, a crowd of 200 marched on the Red Chinese consulate shouting "death to Communist dictatorship."

In Agra, the site of the famous Taj Mahal, another crowd protested the "rapine of peaceful, autonomous Tibet."

Peiping has said 4,000 rebels were captured, and Tibetan sources have reported 5,000 were killed in a bloody two days in the lofty capital behind the Himalayas.

But fighting was reported continuing in the windswept mountains and valleys. Authorities on Tibetan life expressed doubt that the Tibetans would ever accept the Panchen Lama as their leader.

Silun Lukwanga, a former member of the Dalai Lama's government who is in New Delhi, has predicted a "fight to the finish."

Nehru was cheered loudly when he declared India's sympathies "go out to the Tibetans."

He denied Red China's charge that the command center of the rebellion was in Kalimpong, an Indian town near the border.

As to a statement by the Red Chinese embassy that discussion of the rebellion by the Indian parliament would be "impolite and improper," he declared:

"It should be perfectly clear that this parliament is not going to be limited in its discussions by any source — internal or external."

'No-Loser' Lottery In Cuba

The New York Times Service

HAVANA — The first drawing of Cuba's new-type lottery in which no one can lose was held by the Institute of Savings and Housing, which was created to substitute for the traditional Cuban National Lottery.

The one large prize offered, $100,000, was won by Marcos Mesa of Santiago de Cuba. One thousand prizes of $100 each are also offered.

The issue, now called bonds instead of tickets, was 40,000 with each having 100 fractions. Each fraction sold to the public at 25 cents and the seller, who according to law must be an individual and purchase directly from the institute, earned three cents on each fraction which he purchased for 22 cents. The bonds which do not win prizes will be redeemed at the end of one year at 40 per cent of their value and during the next 10 years in a rising scale to 125.4 per cent of their value.

According to Senorita Pastorita Nunez, director of the institute, all the issue was sold, netting the government $618,400 after deducting expenses of seven per cent. This money will be used to redeem the bonds and to build houses for workers in the lower bracket incomes. The first group of the 100 million dollars worth of homes has been started on land across the bay from Havana now reached through an under-bay tunnel built by the Batista regime.

Pawns in Miami Divorce

3 Boys Guarded After Plot Fails

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Three boys, pawns in a four-year-old Miami divorce suit, were placed under guard by their wealthy father in Palm Springs, Calif., Monday after police said an Easter Sunday attempt to abduct them failed.

One of the boys, David Raese, six, escaped by jumping into a swimming pool. His brothers, Richard, 10, and John, eight, were pulled screaming into a station wagon which took off with a car posse of horn-honking nieghbors in pursuit.

Blocked at an accident scene four miles down the road in the plush desert resort city, Richard Moulton, San Jose private detective, and Charles Lewis, San Jose railroad conductor, told police they had been offered $5,000 to get the boys for their mother, Mrs. Jane Raese Kelly, of Palm Beach, Fla.

They were jailed for investigation of child stealing.

The boys and their father, Richard Raese, executive vice-president of Greer Steel Co., Morgantown, W. Va., had been visiting in Palm Springs.

Police Lt. Robert White said Mrs. Kelly, who has a home in Palm Beach, is known to have been in Palm Springs Sunday, but could not be located immediately.

She sued for divorce in Miami Jan. 18, 1955, charging Raese with jealousy. His counter suit charged her with extreme cruelty and adultery, naming Horace Brenton Kelly, a dancing instructor, also known as Lee Taylor, whom she married.

He said they started taking dancing lessons together after their Aug. 3, 1943, marriage in Morgantown, but when he left town on business, she started taking two dancing lessons daily.

Circuit Judge George E. Holt's divorce decree on May 3, 1955, gave the mother custody during school terms with permission for the father to take them out of the state during Christmas, Easter and summer vacations.

Judge Holt sentenced Raese to six months and a $1,500 fine on Jan. 4, 1957, for contempt after complaints that he failed to repay her $50,000 and return the three boys to a Palm Beach private school.

She showed Judge Holt a letter in which Raese told her he could not justify surrender of his children to Kelly's influence.

Removal Granted, Appealed

A Pompano Beach man lost a round Monday in his lengthy fight against extradition to California, where the FBI says he's wanted as a suspect in a Beverly Hills jewel robbery.

Federal Judge Emett Choate said he will sign extradition papers Friday on which Donald Jay O'Brien, 36, can be returned.

Meanwhile, O'Brien's lawyers indicated they will appeal to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to prevent it.

O'Brien, a Pompano Beach contractor, is an identical twin to Robert O'Brien, of Ft. Lauderdale. Robert walked into an FBI trap at West Palm Beach last December when officers accused him of trying to rob a jewelry salesman.

Twin Donald was arrested earlier on a warrant charging he was a fugitive from California.

Argentines Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (AP) — Workers in the Buenos Aires port area Monday went on strike for 48 hours for more pay. Loading and unloading operations on more than 200 ships were at a standstill.

Santa Rosa Didn't Slow For Fog

NEW YORK — (AP) — The master of the cruise liner Santa Rosa told a Coast Guard hearing Monday he did not reduce the ship's speed as fog closed in minutes before collision with the tanker Valchem.

Capt. Frank S. Siwik was the first witness as the three-man panel opened inquiry into the crash last Thursday 23 miles off Atlantic City. Four members of the Valchem crew were lost. Both ships were badly damaged.

Siwik testified visibility through the mist was cut to a mile and a quarter as his vessel continued on at 21.5 knots, its normal speed.

He said that he did notify the engine room the Santa Rosa had entered fog — a signal to alert the engine room staff.

Siwik told the board that as the fog began his second officer, Walt Welles, reported radar equipment showed the Valchem to be 4.9 miles away, and to the right. The time was 2:54 a.m.

Three minutes later the distance was three miles, the witness continued, and Welles estimated the ships would pass about three-tenths of a mile apart.

This Siwik described as "too close for me," and he ordered a 10 degree turn to the left.

After inspecting the radar himself, "I saw it was going to be a little closer than three-tenths of a mile, so I ordered a hard left turn to get away from the fellow on my starboard (right).

"I figured that with my speed I would be able to get away."

This was at 2:58 a.m.

Suddenly Siwik said he saw the other ship's lights directly ahead.

"I ran into the wheelhouse and hollered for a hard right turn," the captain continued, "I ordered hard right but before the rudder took over we collided."

Continuing his testimony, Siwik said that he first heard the Valchem's foghorn about a half minute before seeing the tanker's lights directly ahead, between a quarter and a half-mile off.

The Santa Rosa's log, he said, showed that a minute before the crash he had ordered both a right turn and full speed reversal of the engines.

The captain expressed doubt that either order had taken effect at the moment of collision.

Siwik said he believed the Valchem "must have been under way" a contradiction of a statement last week by Capt. Louis E. Murphy of the tanker that his ship had come to a full stop.

quickly become a rich man," one official commented. "Bribery was one of the wrongs in the Batista dictatorship which we fought to correct. So none of us takes bribes anymore."

Then he grinned.

"This is the only kind of a 'bribe' I will take," he declared, cutting a steak as we talked in a Havana restaurant.

The low salaries are not the fault of Castro. Salaries are decreed by the Cuban constitution or by law.

The amounts paid invite corruption. The Prime Minister himself makes only $360 per month. Last month Castro turned his over to charity.

Raul Castro, the Premier's brother who heads the rebel army, draws $125 monthly plus some military benefits. The secretary general of the Prime Ministry makes only $260 and his immediate department heads get $118 before retirement deductions.

Castro has an organization of honest, inexperienced youths running many government offices today. He needs stability and sound planning.

It is touch-and-go now as to whether he will succeed or collapse.

15 Convicts Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. — (AP) — Fifteen state prisoners overpowered their two guards, took their guns and sped off in a prison camp bus Monday. They left the guards tied to a tree.

The prisoners, assigned to a work detail from the Ware County road camp, later changed to a dump truck after proceeding a short distance in the bus, patrolmen reported.

The convicts chose a day on which the state patrol and county officers are busy issuing drivers' licenses and state automobile tags.

First reports indicated they headed southeast toward Waverly in Camden County.

The Brunswick post of the state patrol said nine patrol cars and seven to eight sheriffs cars from nearby counties set up road blocks.

The prisoners obtained shotguns and pistols after overpowering their guards.

The guards were released shortly afterward.

The 15 men fled in a bus built to carry prisoners. It resembles a school bus with a cage built in the rear.

Identity of the prisoners was not immediately available.

Judge Seizes Trial Pictures

APPLING, Ga. — (AP) — Film used by a news photographer to take pictures at a murder trial was ordered destroyed by Superior judge F. Frederick Kennedy.

Vernon Gould, on assignment for The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Herald, had made two time exposures without Kennedy's permission.

Kennedy observed the action, called Gould before him, and ordered a sheriff to seize the film. He then decreed that the film be destroyed.

Castro's A Symbol To Masses

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA — It's ironic but Fidel Castro possesses more power today than any dictator in Cuban history, including Fulgencio Batista, the "strong man" he booted out of office.

Whether Cuba comes out of the revolution for better or worse depends on how the bearded liberator uses this power.

Unknown is whether he intends to follow through with some of the wild schemes he has advanced in mob-appeal speeches, or whether he is merely boasting while still flushed with victory.

Thus far, Castro has made a series of blunders, political and economic, which would have been fatal to any government with less mass appeal.

His hold on the people lies in the symbol of honesty, freedom and democracy he represents.

There is more devotion to the spirit of the revolution and what it symbolizes than to Castro himself.

And under no circumstances do the Cuban people want to go back to the bribery, corruption, human indignities and totalitarianism of the Batista era.

There is an undercurrent of fear that if Castro is pushed from his perch the result would be chaos and confusion and, perhaps, a return to life as known under Batista.

Also beneath the surface is the feeling that the rantings of Castro are not to be taken at face value.

There is tremendous publicity value in standing before the Presidential Palace and telling the crowds how he is going to bring about the downfall of Caribbean despots, nationalize industry in Cuba, and increase the welfare of the workers.

But most U.S. businessmen here and intelligent Cubans do not believe these plans will get beyond the talking stage—unless provoked by unforeseen developments.

Actually, in one of his most recent speeches, Castro told Cubans they must be patient before all the past ills and injustices are to be corrected.

This is interpreted as a healthy sign, perhaps the turning point from the radical and irrational to the realistic business of running a democratic government.

Nevertheless, Cuba is riding on the back of Castro. The way he goes, Cuba goes.

East Gulf: Variable winds at 5 to 15 miles an hour north portion and southerly winds at 5 to 15 miles an hour occasionally to 20 miles an hour south portion through Tuesday. Considerable cloudiness with scattered showers.

WESTERN CARIBBEAN — Southeasterly winds at 10 to 20 miles an hour north portion and east to northeast at 15 to 25 miles an hour south portion through Tuesday.

National Summary

Cloudiness blanketed most of the eastern half of the nation from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic during midday with occasional rain from Illinois into the northern plains associated with a low pressure area center over North Dakota. A disturbance near the entrance to Chesapeake Bay resulted in rain from North Carolina mixed with rain from New York into Southern New England. Cloudy to partly cloudy weather will prevail from the Rockies to the Atlantic through tomorrow with periods of rain from the North and Central plains to the East Coast excepting the extreme northeast during the same period. Scattered thunderstorms are forecast from Kansas and Oklahoma into the Ohio and Tennessee Valleys through Tuesday.

Temperatures in the north and central plains states were mostly in the 40s and 50s with reading in the 60s and 70s reported over the southern plains while the thermometer registered the 30s and 40s in the Great Lakes region where Cleveland observed a 45 with a 76 in Abilene, Texas. Along the East Coast temperatures varied from the 30s and 40s in New England and as far south as Virginia to the 80s in Southern Florida where West Palm Beach reported a 83 while the nations capital had a 41 and Portland, Maine observed a 45.

Third Title Goal Of Allen Kramer

By NORVAN ROGGEN
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — Allan Kramer, a 12-year-old Lantana youth, will defend his two-year championship in Palm Beach County's Miami Herald Spelling Bee Saturday. It starts at 9 a.m. at Lake Worth High School auditorium.

Kramer, who twice before has won the county title as a representative of Lantana school, qualified this week for another try at the crown by winning the Lake Worth Junior High "spell off." He entered the seventh grade there this year.

Sponsored by the Miami Herald, the contest now has 51 qualified entries from county schools. Spell offs to determine school champions were held last week.

The contest will open with a written test. The 25 students with the highest test scores will participate in an oral "spelldown."

The speller with the highest score after 10 rounds of the oral contest will be the 1959 county winner.

The winner and runner-up will enter the district finals at Miami on May 9 to compete against winners from 22 other counties.

Each participant in the county finals, however, will receive a spelling certificate from the Herald.

For the winner, there will be a large Miami Herald trophy, which will be inscribed with his name and retained by his school for a year. A $10 cash award also will go to the county champion, while the runner-up will get $5.

Judges for the county contest are Mrs. Frances Hennessey, Palm Beach High School; Mrs. Alice Duxbury, Seacrest High School; Ward Heberling, Lake Worth High School, and Jim Westbrook, Palm Beach High School.

Joseph Birch, guidance director at Palm Beach High School, is director of the spelling bee, and Miss Elsie Lanier will be the official pronouncer.

WPB Hits Use of PB City Name

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — An attempt to call a proposed development west of here Palm Beach City was branded "completely out of order" Monday and prompted official opposition from city commissioners.

The commission joined the West Palm Beach Chamber of Commerce in fighting the intention of John D. MacArthur, Chicago banker and insurance executive, to name his new development Palm Beach City.

MacArthur is asking the Palm Beach delegation to the Legislature to incorporate the proposed 10,000-home subdivision west of North Palm Beach Village.

City Commissioner L. W. Kelloway claimed the name Palm Beach City would cause "confusion" and "trouble" and declared the step to use it was "completely out of order."

The chamber took the position that the name connotated a metropolitan hub rather than a suburban community. It also claimed West Palm Beach should have first chance to use Palm Beach City as its own name if it wants to.

The proposal to change this city's name will be discussed at a public hearing April 20.

Action to oppose MacArthur's use of Palm Beach City came on a motion by Commissioner W. P. Holland.

Pros, Cons On Fluoride To Be Heard

Herald Bureau

FORT PIERCE — The Fort Pierce City Commission will hold a special meeting Wednesday, to allow proponents and opponents of fluoridation of city water supply to be heard. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall.

The meeting was requested by the Fort Pierce Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has selected controlled flouridation of the water supply as a project. A special meeting was recommended, since regular meeting agendas are crowded.

Mayor James Howe said both sides of the fluoridation matter will be discussed at the meeting. Sam Lawder, president of the Fort Pierce Committee for Facts on Fluoridation, which opposes the project said his organization will be represented.

Both groups have been conducting active campaigns.

National Planes Get WPB Stops

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board Monday granted National Airlines temporary authority to make West Palm Beach an intermediate stop on flights serving Melbourne.

The board said the authority would expire 60 days after it hands down its final decision in the southeastern area local service case, now under consideration. The decision is not expected for several months.

Meet Today Will Plan Help, Jobs

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

WEST PALM BEACH — City officials, a New York corporation, and representatives of 100 unemployed men, lured here by promise of jobs, but left destitute, will try to iron out their problem today.

W. P. Wood, president of Conversions and Surveys, Inc., New York; West Palm Beach City Manager James J. Mott and four spokesmen for the stranded workers will be on the committee that will tackle the job.

The decision was reached at a special city commission meeting Monday night, which was jammed by the men who came from virtually every state in the union.

Many of them were accompanied by their wives. Three were couples with small children. Virtually all of them were hungry. Some had no place to sleep.

The decision by the commission to withhold action, pending the meeting today, apparently stayed a threat by the board to halt conversions of gas lines here until the men were cared for.

The plight of the jobless workers became known Monday morning, when they were unable to find work with Conversions and Surveys, Inc., which has contracted with Florida Public Utilities, the gas company here, to change lines.

The situation was tossed into the lap of the City Commission at its regular Monday afternoon meeting, when more than 100 men descended on the session and created something approaching an uproar about their problem.

The commission, in addition to threatening to halt conversion of the gas lines, charged Conversions and Survey, Inc., had not obtained a city license to operate here.

They blamed the company for dumping more than 100 unemployed on the city.

But they reached no conclusion at the afternoon meeting, recessing until night to go into the problem more intensely.

Meantime, J. K. Roberts, head of Florida Public Utilities, and Floyd Dunn, job superintendent for the contract company, called Wood in New York, and he said he would fly here for the meeting if it could be at the Alma Hotel at 1 p.m. The company has offices at the hotel.

When the night meeting opened, Attorney Henry Jewett explained the plight of the unemployed workers. H. M. Baker, a member of the State Public Utilities Commission, was also at the meeting.

Roberts and Dunn explained Wood would be on hand today, and the commission decided to delay action and meet again this afternoon to learn what steps had been taken to return workers to their homes, or placed on other jobs.

Dunn personally agreed to find shelter for any men needing it. He said "over a period of 13 years, we have employed 35,000 men, and nothing like this happened before. Just too many of the men came to Florida."

Girl Scout Good Act A Big One

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Girl Scouts from Conniston school did their good deed Monday.

Troop No. 250 members, led by Mrs. Joe Mickle, were sitting in to observe the city government in action at Monday's commission meeting.

What they heard was a plea that touched them — a plea by unemployed gas conversion workers for help. The men, about 150 strong, many of them with families, said they had no money in their pockets — and no jobs.

City commissioners, threatening to block conversion to natural gas unless the labor problem was straightened out, recessed the meeting until 8 p.m.

The men were back at City Hall on the stroke of 8 — and so were the 12 and 13-year-old Girl Scouts of Troop 250.

The youngsters brought sandwiches—12 for each jobless men, and doughnuts and crullers. Business and talk on settling the labor problem were suspended while the line formed to the right.

The men, one by one, filed up to get sandwiches and pastry. They were invited back for seconds by the girls, bubbling over with good-deeding.

What was left-over, the girls personally delivered to each row of men seated in the commission chamber.

Mrs. Mickle, said the idea came from the girls themselves, who were moved by the pleas of the workers earlier in the day.

They only had a few hours, too, whip up the mountain of sandwiches.

Scooters Arouse Ire Of Council

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — City commissioners Monday launched a move to clamp down on motor scooters and, in other action, took a stand in favor of increasing the minimum age for driver's licenses in Florida.

Aroused by the death of a policeman in a scooter-motorcycle accident Saturday, officials declared they would take action on a local level if necessary, to control motor scooters within the city limits.

Commissioners also adopted a resolution in memory of the policeman, F. Alvah Tatum, killed while escorting a funeral cortege. Tatum was thrown from his cycle and slammed against a tree when struck by a motor scooter, driven by 15-year-old Elmer J. Lutz Jr.

On motion of City Commissioner L. W. Kelloway, the commission also voted to buy crash helmets for motorcycle officers. Kelloway launched the campaign against motor scooters, commenting, "I realize lads like to run fast, but they've got to be corralled a little bit."

Commissioner W. P. Holland reported the bus drivers have complained to him that "kids on motor scooters give them more trouble than anyone else."

City Attorney Egbert Beall suggested the traffic committee be instructed to include restrictions on motor scooters in the proposed model traffic ordinance.

Commissioner Sylvan Burdick asked if the city could legally regulate the age of drivers of motor scooters.

"We can try," Beall said.

Police Chief R. W. Milburn also advocated setting up inspection stations, when funds were available, to check cars and scooters for safety, to "get these jalopies off the street."

Water Firm Service Out On Pension

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Police Capt. John Alge has requested his pension time begin with his service with the West Palm Beach Water Co. in 1937.

Alge started with the police department in 1942, giving him 17 years with the police only.

If his time with the water company, since purchased by the city, is counted he would have 22 years, or two over the 20-year retirement period.

City Personnel Director Ernest Abel confirmed Alge had applied for the pension time, but had been advised the ordinance specifically excludes members of the police and fire departments.

New Polling Places Planned

Suburban Voting Precinct Needs Will Be Given Study

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach county commissioners Monday ordered a sweeping study, aimed at establishing new voting precincts in rapidly-growing suburban areas.

The decision for a careful study and a meeting with Supervisor of Registration DeWitt Upthegrove came after Commissioner Roy Michael Jr. presented a proposal to form new precincts west of Lake Worth.

Lake Lytal, chairman, said he has also received requests for new precincts in fast-developing suburban areas.

Commissioners decided on a study, plus a meeting with Upthegrove, "to cure the whole thing." The new precincts would be established in January, 1960 — the date proscribed by law.

Ralph Kettler, chairman of the county school board, offered the use of schools as polling places.

Commissioners, at an administrative session Monday, also:

CONSIDERED a proposal to grant a franchise for benches throughout the county. The benches would bear advertising.

DISCUSSED two knotty right-of-way problems, one involving Arthur Vinning Davis' Arvida Corp.

TOOK no action on a renewed request to pay about $500 to the family of the late Thomas K. Evans for the last month he served in a contested constable's post at Lake Worth.

On the bench issue, commissioners decided to find out why Dade County revoked such a franchise before taking further action. Some commissioners expressed concern about having benches cluttering up rights-of-way. The benches were asked along established bus routes.

On right-of-way, it was disclosed M. A. Weaver is holding up extension of Military Tr. to Boca Raton.

Arvida is supposed to turn over the right-of-way and the county will construct the road. It was brought out Monday that Weaver is asking $2,000 an acre for 16 acres included in the right-of-way.

Weaver is also involved in right-of-way for Boynton West Rd. Commissioners have agreed to re-locate the road if property owners donate land. Weaver and one other owner have not done so.

Commissioners said if the right-of-way is not available in 30 days they will repave the old Boynton West Rd., abandoning relocation plans.

Commissioners also decided to negotiate with Palm Beach Aero Corp., to break leases of the firm at the airport. The firm is now getting $8,000 a year from the federal government.

The county offered to pay the same sum after the Palm Beach Air Force Base is deactivated, but the corporation refused.

Electric Rate Cut Is Voted

Herald Bureau

LAKE WORTH — The new municipal electric rates will go into effect April 1 and, to many home consumers, it will mean lower bills.

City commissioners Monday passed a new rate schedule which, in effect, reduces municipal residential rates to those of the Florida Power and Light Co.

The rates for commercial and industrial users are unchanged.

The rate change will cost the city more than $40,000 annually in revenues.

An increase in the number of users has enabled the city to make this reduction, commissioners said.

In other business, commissioners announced ground breaking ceremonies for the 2.5 million dollar sanitary sewer program will be at 4 p.m. Friday on the ocean beach.

The ceremonies will be at the site of an 800-foot pier, part of the sewer outfall. The pier also will serve as a fishing and recreational area.

The project includes sewering a section of the city now served by septic tanks, and will take 18 months to complete.

Expansion Need Moves Phone Firm

Herald Service

BELLE GLADE — Expansion of telephone service in Belle Glade has made necessary moving of the business office to 309 SE First St., Zeke O'Farrel, group manager of the Southern Bell Telephone Co., said.

The traffic division of the telephone company will occupy the former business office at 109 SW Ave. C. Bell now has 50 employes in the exchange which serves Belle Glade, South Bay, Bean City, and Lake Harbor.

Mrs. Ross Bass became the first chief operator here in 1935, handling about 300 telephones in the entire Glades area. There was one additional operator, and a few months later a night operator was added.

Belle Glade became a toll center in 1940 and at that time there were 986 telephones listed. The exchange now lists 2,860 telephones, with Miss Imogene Crews as chief operator and M. E. Ludlow as plant manager.

2 Meetings To Discuss Judge Need

WEST PALM BEACH — Tentative arrangements have been made for meetings, here and in Fort Lauderdale, of a census committee to determine if Palm Beach and Broward Counties are entitled to added circuit judges.

Circuit Judge R. O. Morrow said one meeting of the committee is planned at the courthouse here at 10 a.m. April 16, another at 3 p.m. the same day in Fort Lauderdale.

The two counties from the 15th Judicial Circuit, which now has seven judges. The state constitution provides a judicial circuit with one judge for each "50,000 population, or major fraction thereof."

Boca University Will See Funds

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County's Boca Raton University committee Monday coordinated steps members hope will obtain a $100,000 appropriation to launch a survey for the four-year college.

The courthouse meeting, a prelude to the session of the legislature which opens April 7, was attended by State Reps. Emmett S. Roberts and Ralph J. Blank Jr., County Commission Chairman Lake Lytal, R. D. Hill, and two Boca Raton members, Thomas Fleming and Hal Dane.

Comely Crew

Guy Rotenberger tries out one of the 35 entries in the air boat race which will be a feature of the Seminole Indian Sun Dance at West Palm Beach, April 26. The "crew," from left, are Luann Beckman, Ruth Hollis, and Vicky Yanaway.

Casting Comedy

DELRAY BEACH — "Remains To be Seen," a mystery comedy by Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse, will be the sixth and final play of the season at the Delray Beach Playhouse.

Director J. Stuart Warrington said he is now casting for the play, which will be presented April 14-18.

Poinsettia Widening Top For Next Budget

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A project to widen N. Poinsettia as a main north-south artery will be given top priority in the city's 1959-60 budget.

Mayor Horace E. Miller Monday complained two property owners, who refuse to give right-of-way, are holding up the project.

He asked City Manager James J. Mott to give the project top priority on the next budget. Projects to widen Parker and N. Dixie will also be put high on the list of street improvements in the next budget.

Under the plan, Poinsettia would be widened from 26th St. north.

Miller also asked Mott to investigate the cost and location of a "badly needed" incinerator.

He said hauling trash to a dump — a 13-mile round-trip — was costly. City Commissioner L. W. Kelloway also asked Mott to investigate possibility of garbage land-fill operation on city-owned property.

Postponed was discussion of a proposal to select the red hibiscus as the city flower.

Lewis Displays Rare Knack--Skims Blue Area Without Offense

WITH THE EXCEPTIONS of Holiday on Ice at the Exhibition Hall, Donald O'Connor at the Fontainebleau, and Jean Carroll at the Diplomat there isn't much evidence on the "live" Class AA after-dark scene this week that would indicate that our impresarios anticipated a heavy family trade in this Easter Week-school recess season.

Jack Carter, Buddy Hackett and Joe E. Lewis are all fine funmakers on the supper club circuit but each of them purveys comedy which demands a high degree of sophistication or a familiarity with what used to be called smoking car humor back in the days when off-color (we call them "blue" in the cafe trade) stories were restricted to magazines such as Whizbang or to the closed precincts of the stag party.

But, judging from the reception given Joe E. at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii where he is coupled with Eartha Kitt, and Jack Carter at the Americana where he shares billing with Dorothy Sarnoff, the type of joke which might get a frigid look or a stony silence if told by a husband at home in the presence of his children is now acceptable as "family" fun with the same young audience in the togetherness of a tightly packed night club.

We detail all this not in a criticism of the night club show format nor in implication that the expensively decored spots are cesspools of evil but merely to deliver a well-intentioned caution that the Buddy Hackett at the Deauville is not the Hackett of the TV "Stanley" series, nor is Carter the Carter of past television experiments or of the Broadway theater.

Carter Talent Tops Blue Routine

THERE IS NO caution needed for Joe E. Lewis — on two counts. Joe has made very infrequent excursions into media other than cafes in recent years and those who know the name know it not from the other-side-of-the-coin areas of television or the legit stage but from its significance as the easily definable label of the likeable pixie who is a font of ultra-sophisticated parody and a genial gentleman who is undeniably blue but who doesn't have to beat his material black and blue.

Errol Flynn
. . . sold?

Rosalind Russell
. . . writes?

Eartha Kitt
. . . torrid

What we mean is that Carter, for instance, comes on stage at the Americana Bal Masque Room and for the first 15 minutes of his act recites a brilliant new routine which leads off with a "76 Trombones" parody, sparkling with such newies as a reference to the Belle Moskowitz Room and the acknowledgment of an unusual number of kiddies in the audience by advising them "I'll lay 'em (meaning an egg) and you color them." The appreciative applause on these was near deafening.

Then the hard-sell Carter of old comes out. He harangues and then burlesques in belittling manner the Harry Belafontes, the Jose Grecos, whom he exposes as a name-changer, and the Lauritz Melchiors and he reports that an act which had previously played this same Americana stage used "smelly and moldy" costumes.

But he impeaches his own right to such a complaint against uncleanliness by immediately diving into a couple of pretty "sick" routines about a gynecologist and a psychiatrist and at least one scatological reference.

And do you know what happened then? The applause was near deafening! So who can blame him? Why should he knock himself out with the fine talent for mimicry and for dancing which he possesses when a reach into the "blue" yonder can come up with a handful of laugh-rewarding shockers.

Joe E. Uses Skill, Not Kill

BUT, GETTING BACK to Joe E. Lewis, at Eden Roc with his accompanist Austin Mack (which immediately gives added class and pseudo-concert status to the proceedings), Joe's voice has the endearing qualities of a family heirloom piece of sandpaper. But the manner to match has no rancor in it and is friendly not frantic as it, too, relates or sings of situations which are concerned with the devious ways of a man with a maid, also-ran maidens (equine), and sour mash and its spirit cousins.

He has a lot of new parodies, the one on "Suzie Wong" taking all the variant tangents you'd expect of it, and the inevitable one on "79 Hormones" covering every angle of ribaldry in the book.

But not once does Lewis grimace evilly or—as we said before—see the necessity for pounding his blue material until it is both black and blue. It may seem a unique simile in view of some of the things Joe E. Lewis, a man who drinks for himself, says—but HIS saving quality is that he's as cute as a little red label. He uses "skill" instead of "kill."

Dulles Arrives For Florida Rest

More State News, 19A, 2B, 1C, 6C

By ED PFISTER and ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Staff Writers

HOBE SOUND — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived smiling and cheerful at this millionaires' island retreat Monday, looking like anything but the sick man he is reputed to be.

The 71-year-old diplomat had alighted from the presidential plane Columbine at West Palm Beach, 40 miles south, walking erect and with a brisk step.

He smiled from the moment he stepped out of the door of the big Lockheed and greeted Col. George W. Peterson, commandant of Palm Beach Air Base.

Dulles took immediate note of a crowd of newspaper writers and photographers who, with military personnel and Florida Highway patrolmen, were the only ones on hand to greet him.

He posed obligingly for the cameramen, and when someone shouted "wave a greeting," he took off his gray homburg and waved it several times so all photographers could get pictures.

To the casual observer he looked less than his 71 years and appeared to have a good color. He was clad only in a dark pinstripe suit, obviously anticipating Florida's warm climate.

Dulles himself was down the ramp and on the ground chatting with officers when Mrs. Dulles and State Department aides left the plane.

He and Mrs. Dulles took seats in one Air Force car reserved for them and the State Department officials were put in another. There were no interviews nor did Dulles make any comment except to greet the base commandant.

The cars left immediately for the secluded home here of Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, where Dulles is expected to rest for an indefinite period.

Dulles arrived here during a lull between two thunderstorms. Only a few servants were on hand to greet the party as it drove up a long roadway circling through dense woods to a moderately large white two-story home.

Dillon himself was not with the party. State Department aides said he had returned from Hobe Sound to Washington Sunday.

Accompanying Dulles on the trip is Capt. Edward Kamin, Army specialist in internal medicine and one of Dulles' physicians at Walter Reed Hospital.

Dillon's residence here is on sparsely but richly populated Jupiter Island, bounded by the ocean on the east and the Indian River-Jupiter Inlet on the other.

Late Monday afternoon, a telephone call to the residence brought a report that Dulles was "resting" after having taken the trip "very well." He had no nurses on duty, said Joseph M. Green, Dulles' special assistant.

Take Warm Vacation, Ike Told

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — President Eisenhower returned Monday from a five-day Easter holiday and learned that his doctor wants him to take another in a warm climate where he can get some exercise.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty made known the doctor's advice when he was asked whether the President will make his customary trip to Augusta, Ga., next week.

Hagerty said the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, and other White House staff members have advised the President to take a warm weather break from his official routine.

The President has taken on an increasing work load, especially in the foreign policy field, since Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was hospitalized in early February.

Eisenhower is scheduled to deliver two foreign policy speeches this week — to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to a college convocation.

The President's doctor feels that golf and other exercise is essential to the chief executive's well-being.

U.S. Can 'Destroy Soviet'

Military Sure Of A-Defense

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Russia would be flattened by America's nuclear wallop if the Soviets attacked the Free World now, U.S. military leaders said Monday.

And they said American might — built around long-range bombers, missiles and missile-launching submarines— is growing at a pace to deter any such Soviet military adventure in the future.

This assessment was given by members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in secret testimony made public by the House Appropriations Committee after security censoring. Their views, given in January and February, were supported by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy Monday in a speech to the Economic Club in Detroit.

McElroy said American nuclear striking power is "sufficient to destroy the Soviet Union if it should attack us."

As for the years to come, McElroy said, "We believe that our planned military programs will keep us, as we are now, ahead of the Soviet Union in over-all strength at any projected point in the future."

Counting Allied forces, the defense secretary said the Free World also will continue to have the means to cope with brushfire, or limited type, wars in which Russia might not become directly involved.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, told the House appropriations group he sees slight chance Russia will start general war within five years — unless "they do something wrong over there and get hotheaded."

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, made the statement that "we would break her back" if Russia went to war against the U.S.

"We can destroy her many times over with the weapons we now have in existence," Burke said. "There is no way that she can stop that."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, soon to retire as Army chief of staff, agreed with Burke that the U.S. has overwhelming power to deliver atomic retaliation against an aggressor.

Taylor testified the chiefs have never reached complete agreement on how many Army divisions, Navy ships and Air Force wings will be required.

As a result, Taylor, said, the secretary of defense does the best he can to determine the forces necessary to put into effect the agreed strategy.

This drew the ire of subcommittee Chairman George Mahon (D., Tex.), who accused the joint chiefs of not helping Congress and the defense secretary and of leaving "the American people out on a limb."

Mahon said the chiefs should "keep their feet to the fire" until they reach decisions on such matters as how many divisions the Army should have, whether more B52 jet bombers are needed, and whether another 300-million-dollar supercarrier should be built for the Navy.

Holdout Over For Japanese?

MANILA —(UPI)— The constabulary announced Monday it would launch a full-scale drive Wednesday to capture two Japanese soldiers who have been holding out on tiny Lubang island in the belief that World War II is still going on.

The Japanese have evaded efforts to contact them in the past three years. A Japanese embassy spokesman said a mission from Tokyo would help Philippine authorities coax the holdouts to surrender.

Government Hopes:

Killer Ghost Ship Finally Destroyed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government hopes it has finally laid to rest the ghost of a once-proud battleship that has haunted Chesapeake Bay for nearly half a century.

Intentionally sunk in shallow water in 1911, the old USS Texas has since snared seven other ships in her superstructure. To her credit, she helped the late Billy Mitchell demonstrate the might of air power in 1921.

The Navy worked most of last winter to blow the top off the ghost ship. Officials hope she will no longer be a menace to navigation. Just to make sure, the coast and geodetic survey is sending a special expedition to chart the wreckage.

The job was an important one because the federal courts have ruled the government was at fault in several sinkings at the site.

One court dubbed the old Texas "a pile of junk." The battleship, launched in 1892, was a veteran of the Spanish American war and is perhaps the only dreadnaught that can claim to have sunk more ships as a wreck than when afloat.

The hulk had her greatest moment of glory when Billy Mitchell's primitive bombers pounded her for days on end in 1921. The airmen were practicing for a dramatic and successful "attack" later on a captured German battleship floating off the Virginia capes.

The bombing of the German war prize captured worldwide attention, for Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels had offered to stand bareheaded at the wheel of the battleship Mitchell proposed to bomb. Daniels was at a safe distance, however, when Mitchell sank his target.

U.S. to Bounce Radio Off Moon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Navy will begin sending radio messages between Washington and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, this year by bouncing them off the moon, the publication Washington Science Trends said Monday.

U.S. Bases Held 'Void' In Japan

Court Rules Them Violation

TOKYO — (AP) — The Tokyo district court ruled Monday the presence of U.S. bases and troops here violated the "no war" clause of Japan's constitution.

The court made the decision in acquitting seven men indicted in 1957 after breaking into the U.S. Air Force's Tachikawa base outside Tokyo to protest its expansion.

The men had been accused of violating the special criminal code covering American bases and personnel.

The court, in freeing them, said the Japanese government's agreement to the establishment of American bases violated article nine of the nation's postwar constitution, which was largely written by American occupation officials.

"The fact that American military forces could, if military strategy so necessitated, dispatch its forces in Japan to areas outside our country, and the fact that in view of the nature of the U.S.-Japan security pact, American forces would be likely, if Japan were subjected to attack, to spring into action, mean that American military forces themselves are fulfilling a role prohibited under article 9, clause 2 of the constitution," the court said.

(In Washington, the State and Defense departments took the position that any comment from them would be improper at this time. But U.S. officials said informally that the court ruling has raised an important issue that will have to be clarified.)

The government has 14 days in which to appeal to a higher court.

Boys Die Inside Oven

ANTIGO, Wis. — (AP) — Two boys suffocated in a charcoal oven Sunday while their woodsman father thought they were at a movie with neighbors. The bodies were found Monday after a search that started when the neighbors returned without the youngsters.

Dead were Larry Kalkofen, 13, and his six-year-old brother Wayne. They were found by their father, Evan, and Langlade County deputies who were called in to help look for the two.

Authorities said that Wayne apparently had climbed a ladder to the top of the six-foot kiln and squeezed through a small trap door in the top. His brother was believed to have entered in an effort to rescue the younger child. Although there had been no fire in the oven for 36 hours, it still was filled with fumes.

Decision Expected To Affect South's Civil Rights Cases

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sharply-split Supreme Court ruled Monday that trial for the same offense in both federal and state courts is not offensive to the Constitution.

The question was posed in two separate cases involving interpretations of the double jeopardy clause of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment. The court split 5-4 in one case and 6-3 in the other.

It was an issue involving also some practicalities of the present day, on the one hand, and Western civilization's long-held idea that, as Justice Hugo Black put it, "one trial and one punishment were enough."

One of the practical questions is whether the federal government could enforce civil rights laws in the South if a federal trial was barred by a state trial. A man accused of a civil rights offense might, for instance, be given a quick trial and a small fine in a state court and the federal government be barred from further proceeding against him.

This figured indirectly in the case in which the court ruled 6-3 that the constitutional protection against double jeopardy was not violated by federal prosecution of two men on charges of criminal conspiracy after they pleaded guilty to similar charges in an Illinois state court.

Government counsel argued in this case that if federal prosecution were barred a result could be a hobbling of federal law enforcement in areas "where particular federal laws may be locally unpopular."

The double jeopardy clause, a part of the Fifth Amendment, says "nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

It was cited by Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone in asking the high court to set aside federal court convictions. They had pleaded guilty in Cook County (Chicago) Criminal Court to charges of conspiracy to destroy facilities belonging to two telephone companies, and had each received 90-day sentences.

Later, they were brought to trial in U.S. District Court in Biloxi, Miss., on charges of conspiring to destroy telephone circuits operated or controlled by the federal government. On conviction, Abbate was sentenced to three years and $1,000 fine and Falcone to a year in prison.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. delivered the court's 6-3 decision in this case. Justice Black wrote a dissent in which Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas joined.

The other case also came from Chicago. In it, the high court upheld 5-4 the state court conviction of Alfonse Bartkus, accused of driving the get-away car in a $3,750 robbery of a savings and loan association. In Cicero, Ill. Bartkus, who had been similarly accused and acquitted in an earlier federal trial, was given life imprisonment as a habitual criminal by the state court.

Capt. Herman Marks

Castro's 'Headsman' Is Ex-Con

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Capt. Herman Marks, who has risen to the post of executioner for Cuban Rebel Chief Fidel Castro, left a long criminal record behind him in the States. Warden John C. Burke of Wisconsin State Prison, where Marks served 3½ years for a morals offense, describes him as "a real stinker."

Marks, a native of Milwaukee, has made no secret of his Wisconsin connections, or, for that matter, of his police record. Files at the prison and at the Milwaukee County sheriff's office show the slim, 37-year-old firing squad boss has at least 32 arrests in the U.S. behind him.

His record includes arrests for auto theft, robbery, burglary, assault, drunken driving and disorderly conduct. The prison term of one to four years was imposed Jan. 12, 1952, on a charge of carnal knowledge and abuse of a minor girl.

Clears Votes

Wealth Told By Senator

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Stephen M. Young (D., Ohio) voluntarily reported his stock holdings Monday to the Senate. They are valued on the current market at $270,000.

Young said he took this rare step so "anyone interested may judge in the future whether there is any conflict in interest influencing my action and votes as U.S. Senator."

In a report to Felton M. Johnston, secretary of the Senate, Young also announced he will sell stock he holds in two sugar concerns.

He is doing this, he said, because the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is a member, will be considering legislation concerning sugar imports.

It'll Be Fair For Most Part

Fair and warm is Florida's weather outlook for today but there'll be a few showers over the Gold Coast, the weatherman said.

The sun should poke through much of the day — and gusty southerly winds will diminish to about 10 to 15 miles an hour, he added.

Temperatures are expected to remain about the same — in the mid-70s to low 80s — throughout the state.

Fidel Has Official Corruption Under Control

Take Him to Lunch; That's 'Bribe' for Cuban

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Foreign Affairs Writer

* * *

Low Pay a Danger

Cuba's hero premier, bearded Fidel Castro, has wiped out bribery in government officialdom, but low salaries of his ministers and top aides leave the door open for the return of corruption.

In this last of a series, The Herald's John McDermott discusses that aspect of the revolutionary government's weaknesses, plus the still-flourishing business of Havana bordellos.

* * *

HAVANA—Corruption built on prostitution is still rampant in Havana — but generally it's becoming almost impossible to bribe government officials anymore.

About the closest anyone comes in the bribe department now is taking an underpaid official — they all are underpaid — to lunch or dinner.

In fact, the pay scale is so low that it is almost asking too much of human nature for a Cuban official not to take money "under the table."

Cabinet ministers, for example, make about $400 a month and government secretaries get only $67 a month before deductions.

Yet, unquestionably the prime accomplishment of the revolutionary government under hero-Premier Fidel Castro is the abolition of graft.

Castro also has wiped out bolita, the racket-infested numbers game which drains the pennies and dollars from the low wage earner who can least afford it.

Castro also has curbed the narcotics rackets, warning that the death penalty will be decreed against violators in both the illicit numbers and dope schemes.

But while Castro has made honesty the paramount virtue in officialdom, there is a decided lack of it on the streets, in back alleys and behind many a shuttered blind here.

Prostitutes and procurers ply their trades along the Prado and other avenues from dusk until dawn.

With the island nation's growing unemployment problem, chances are prices will be cut as new members join the ranks and competition for the not-so-plentiful tourist dollar becomes more intense.

These days, they are quoting a price of $15.

As for buying an official a meal, many of these young followers of the bearded rebel Prime Minister are deeply appreciative of the invitation.

And why shouldn't they be when the take-home salary of many is less than $100 per month even though they hold responsible positions?

"If I accepted the bribes offered me every day, I could

Nehru Spurns 'Gag' Yoke Demanded by Red China

Prime Minister Voices Sympathy For Tibet Rebels

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru declared India's sympathy for Tibetan rebels Monday. He spurned Red China's attempt to smother Indian parliamentary discussion of the rebellion.

But he held to his hands-off policy toward the revolt, and turned down demands in parliament that India promise to admit all Tibetan refugees, as Austria did in the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

"There are many vast differences in this situation," Nehru said when asked about following the Austrian example. "Obviously I cannot say that if large crowds come we will automatically admit them all. I tell you we would not admit them. No country could or should say it will admit everybody that comes."

Nehru faced a barrage of questions as parliament met for the first time since the Red Chinese government announced Saturday it had suppressed a major revolt in Lhasa, capital of the isolated mountain land, thrown out the government of the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, and elevated in his place his rival, the Panchen Lama.

The event has stirred widespread feeling in India because of long nurtured trade and religious links with the Tibetans.

For the first time since 1951 Indian demonstrators marched on the Chinese Communist embassy here Monday, shouting "Chinese bandits quit Tibet."

Thousands of Buddhists in Ladakh, a province of Kashmir, adopted a resolution asking India to intervene to "save the Buddhist religion and shrines in Tibet."

In Bombay, a crowd of 200 marched on the Red Chinese consulate shouting "death to Communist dictatorship."

In Agra, the site of the famous Taj Mahal, another crowd protested the "rapine of peaceful, autonomous Tibet."

Peiping has said 4,000 rebels were captured, and Tibetan sources have reported 5,000 were killed in a bloody two days in the lofty capital behind the Himalayas.

But fighting was reported continuing in the windswept mountains and valleys. Authorities on Tibetan life expressed doubt that the Tibetans would ever accept the Panchen Lama as their leader.

Silun Lukwanga, a former member of the Dalai Lama's government who is in New Delhi, has predicted a "fight to the finish."

Nehru was cheered loudly when he declared India's sympathies "go out to the Tibetans."

He denied Red China's charge that the command center of the rebellion was in Kalimpong, an Indian town near the border.

As to a statement by the Red Chinese embassy that discussion of the rebellion by the Indian parliament would be "impolite and improper," he declared:

"It should be perfectly clear that this parliament is not going to be limited in its discussions by any source — internal or external."

'No-Loser' Lottery In Cuba

The New York Times Service

HAVANA — The first drawing of Cuba's new-type lottery in which no one can lose was held by the Institute of Savings and Housing, which was created to substitute for the traditional Cuban National Lottery.

The one large prize offered of $100,000, was won by Marcos Mesa of Santiago de Cuba. One thousand prizes of $100 each are also offered.

The issue, now called bonds instead of tickets, was 40,000 with each having 100 fractions. Each fraction sold to the public at 25 cents and the seller, who according to law must be an individual and purchase directly from the institute, earned three cents on each fraction which he purchased for 22 cents. The bonds which do not win prizes will be redeemed at the end of one year at 40 per cent of their value and during the next 10 years in a rising scale to 125.4 per cent of their value.

According to Senorita Pastorita Nunez, director of the institute, all the issue was sold, netting the government $618,400 after deducting expenses of seven per cent. This money will be used to redeem the bonds and to build houses for workers in the lower bracket incomes. The first group of the 100 million dollars worth of homes has been started on land across the bay from Havana now reached through an under-bay tunnel built by the Batista regime.

Pawns in Miami Divorce

3 Boys Guarded After Plot Fails

By C. G. BERNING
Herald Staff Writer

Three boys, pawns in a four-year-old Miami divorce suit, were placed under guard by their wealthy father in Palm Springs, Calif., Monday after police said an Easter Sunday attempt to abduct them failed.

One of the boys, David Raese, six, escaped by jumping into a swimming pool. His brothers, Richard, 10, and John, eight, were pulled screaming into a station wagon which took off with a car posse of horn-holking nieghbors in pursuit.

Blocked at an accident scene four miles down the road in the plush desert resort city, Richard Moulton, San Jose private detective, and Charles Lewis, San Jose railroad conductor, told police they had been offered $5,000 to get the boys for their mother, Mrs. Jane Raese Kelly, of Palm Beach, Fla.

They were jailed for investigation of child stealing.

The boys and their father, Richard Raese, executive vice-president of Greer Steel Co., Morgantown, W. Va., had been visiting in Palm Springs.

Police Lt. Robert White said Mrs. Kelly, who has a home in Palm Beach, is known to have been in Palm Springs Sunday, but could not be located immediately.

She sued for divorce in Miami Jan. 18, 1955, charging Raese with jealousy. His counter suit charged her with extreme cruelty and adultery, naming Horace Brenton Kelly, a dancing instructor, also known as Lee Taylor, whom she married.

He said they started taking dancing lessons together after their Aug. 3, 1943 marriage in Morgantown, but when he left town on business, she started taking two dancing lessons daily.

Circuit Judge George E. Holt's divorce decree on May 3, 1955, gave the mother custody during school terms with permission for the father to take them out of the state during Christmas, Easter and summer vacations.

Judge Holt sentenced Raese to six months and a $1,500 fine on Jan. 4, 1957, for contempt after complaints that he failed to repay her $50,000 and return the three boys to a Palm Beach private school.

She showed Judge Holt a letter in which Raese told her he could not justify surrender of his children to Kelly's influence.

Removal To Be OKd Appealed

A Pompano Beach man lost a round Monday in his lengthy fight against extratition to California, where the FBI says he's wanted as a suspect in a Beverly Hills jewel robbery.

Federal Judge Emett Choate said he will sign extradition papers Friday on which Donald Jay O'Brien, 36, can be returned.

Meanwhile, O'Brien's lawyers indicated they will appeal to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals to prevent it.

O'Brien, a Pompano Beach contractor, is an identical twin to Robert O'Brien, of Ft. Lauderdale. Robert walked into an FBI trap at West Palm Beach last December when officers accused him of trying to rob a jewelry salesman.

Twin Donald was arrested earlier on a warrant charging he was a fugitive from California.

Argentines Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (AP) — Workers in the Buenos Aires port area Monday went on strike for 48 hours for more pay. Loading and unloading operations on more than 200 ships were at a standstill.

Santa Rosa Didn't Slow For Fog

NEW YORK — (AP) — The master of the cruise liner Santa Rosa told a Coast Guard hearing Monday he did not reduce the ship's speed as fog closed in minutes before collision with the tanker Valchem.

Capt. Frank S. Siwik was the first witness as the three-man panel opened inquiry into the crash last Thursday 23 miles off Atlantic City. Four members of the Valchem crew were lost. Both ships were badly damaged.

Siwik testified visibility through the mist was cut to a mile and a quarter as his vessel continued on at 21.5 knots, its normal speed.

He said that he did notify the engine room the Santa Rosa had entered fog — a signal to alert the engine room staff.

Siwik told the board that as the fog began his second officer, Walt Welles, reported radar equipment showed the Valchem to be 4.9 miles away, and to the right. The time was 2:54 a.m.

Three minutes later the distance was three miles, the witness continued, and Welles estimated the ships would pass about three-tenths of a mile apart.

This Siwik described as "too close for me," and he ordered a 10 degree turn to the left.

After inspecting the radar himself, "I saw it was going to be a little closer than three-tenths of a mile, so I ordered a hard left turn to get away from the fellow on my starboard (right).

"I figured that with my speed I would be able to get away."

This was at 2:58 a.m.

Suddenly Siwik said he saw the other ship's lights directly ahead.

"I ran into the wheelhouse and hollered for a hard right turn," the captain continued, "I ordered hard right but before the rudder took over we collided."

Continuing his testimony, Siwik said that he first heard the Valchem's foghorn about a half minute before seeing the tanker's lights directly ahead, between a quarter and a half-mile off.

The Santa Rosa's log, he said, showed that a minute before the crash he had ordered both a right turn and full speed reversal of the engines.

The captain expressed doubt that either order had taken effect at the moment of collision.

Siwik said he believed the Valchem "must have been under way" a contradiction of a statement last week by Capt. Louis E. Murphy of the tanker that his ship had come to a full stop.

quickly become a rich man," one official commented. "Bribery was one of the wrongs in the Batista dictatorship which we fought to correct. So none of us takes bribes anymore."

Then he grinned.

"This is the only kind of a 'bribe' I will take," he declared, cutting a steak as we talked in a Havana restaurant.

The low salaries are not the fault of Castro. Salaries are decreed by the Cuban constitution or by law.

The amounts paid invite corruption. The Prime Minister himself makes only $360 per month. Last month Castro turned his over to charity.

Raul Castro, the Premier's brother who heads the rebel army, draws $125 monthly plus some military benefits. The secretary general of the Prime Ministry makes only $260 and his immediate department heads get $118 before retirement deductions.

Castro has an organization of honest, inexperienced youths running many government offices today. He needs stability and sound planning.

It is touch-and-go now as to whether he will succeed or collapse.

15 Convicts Escape in Prison Bus

NAHUNTA, Ga. — (AP) — Fifteen state prisoners overpowered their two guards, took their guns and sped off in a prison camp bus Monday. They left the guards tied to a tree.

The prisoners, assigned to a work detail from the Ware County road camp, later changed to a dump truck after proceeding a short distance in the bus, patrolmen reported.

The convicts chose a day on which the state patrol and county officers are busy issuing drivers' licenses and state automobile tags.

First reports indicated they headed southeast toward Waverly in Camden County.

The Brunswick post of the state patrol said nine patrol cars and seven to eight sheriffs cars from nearby counties set up road blocks.

The prisoners obtained shotguns and pistols after overpowering their guards.

The guards were released shortly afterward.

The 15 men fled in a bus built to carry prisoners. It resembles a school bus with a cage built in the rear.

Identity of the prisoners was not immediately available.

Judge Seizes Trial Pictures

APPLING, Ga. — (AP) — Film used by a news photographer to take pictures at a murder trial were ordered destroyed by Superior judge F. Frederick Kennedy.

Vernon Gould, on assignment for The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle and Herald, had made two time exposures without Kennedy's permission.

Kennedy observed the action, called Gould before him, and ordered a sheriff to seize the film. He then decreed that the film be destroyed.

Castro's A Symbol To Masses

By WILLIAM GAUDET
Special To The Herald

HAVANA — It's ironic but Fidel Castro possesses more power today than any dictator in Cuban history, including Fulgencio Batista, the "strong man" he booted out of office.

Whether Cuba comes out of the revolution for better or worse depends on how the bearded liberator uses this power.

Unknown is whether he intends to follow through with some of the wild schemes he has advanced in mob-appeal speeches, or whether he is merely boasting while still flushed with victory.

Thus far, Castro has made a series of blunders, political and economic, which would have been fatal to any government with less mass appeal.

His hold on the people lies in the symbol of honesty, freedom and democracy he represents.

There is more devotion to the spirit of the revolution and what it symbolizes than to Castro himself.

And under no circumstances do the Cuban people want to go back to the bribery, corruption, human indignities and totalitarianism of the Batista era.

There is an undercurrent of fear that if Castro is pushed from his perch the result would be chaos and confusion and, perhaps, a return to life as known under Batista.

Also beneath the surface is the feeling that the rantings of Castro are not to be taken at face value.

There is tremendous publicity value in standing before the Presidential Palace and telling the crowds how he is going to bring about the downfall of Caribbean despots, nationalize industry in Cuba, and increase the welfare of the workers.

But most U.S. businessmen here and intelligent Cubans do not believe these plans will get beyond the talking stage—unless provoked by unforeseen developments.

Actually, in one of his most recent speeches, Castro told Cubans they must be patient before all the past ills and injustices are to be corrected.

This is interpreted as a healthy sign, perhaps the turning point from the radical and irrational to the realistic business of running a democratic government.

Nevertheless, Cuba is riding on the back of Castro. The way he goes, Cuba goes.

Who, Why, How Much are Big Questions

Adult Education: Just Frill or Fine Thing?

This is the first in a two-part series on adult educational courses. A move has been launched to cut out funds for these classes during the coming session of the legislature. The series will attempt to present the pros and cons of the issue.

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — Is St. Lucie County's Adult Education program a "frill" — or a fine thing? This and the "summer enrichment" educational program of other counties are under fire now and are expected to be hot issues in the upcoming session of the Legislature.

A cross-section survey of the adult education phase of the question reveals that who takes the courses and why, and how much money it takes from the Mimimum Foundation school funds, are the important factors of the controversy.

During the current eight weeks semester, St. Lucie County is giving 30 adult classes. These include business (shorthand, typing, bookkeeping), general education classes (history, literature, Spanish), shop and craft courses (ceramics, woodworking, auto mechanics) and culture (music, painting).

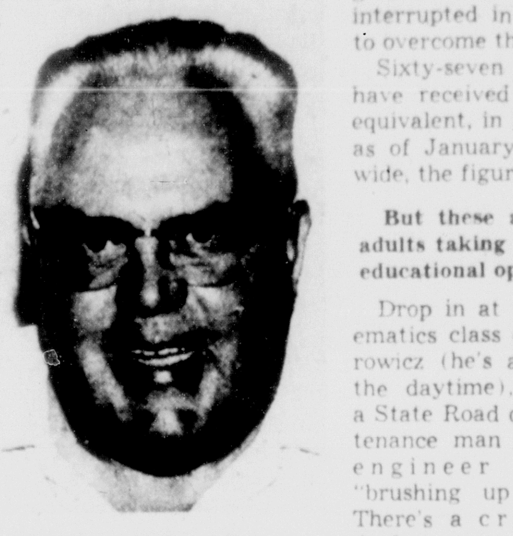
Instructors include both day-school teachers, who are limited to two night classes a week and personnel in private businesses or professions who have been certified by the State Department of Education for teaching at night.

Their rate of pay follows the regular teaching scale, depending on degree of education of the teacher. Rank 3 (A. B. degree) pays $3.40 per hour, Rank 2 (Master's degree), $3.85, and Rank 1 (Doctor's degree) $4.45. Each class is three hours, once or twice a week, depending on the subject.

The only charge to the adult students for these classes is a one dollar registration fee for the semester.

The balance of the cost comes out of the Minimum Foundation school fund. Department of Education figures show this to be .95 of one per cent state-wide ($1,014,000) last year. St. Lucie County's figures are proportionate.

The vital consideration is who takes the courses — and why.



Bernard Paulmer
. . . heads adult education program

All courses are on the high school level and credit toward a high school diploma or a State High School Equivalency Diploma is given.

The purpose, of course, is to give those whose education was interrupted in youth, a chance to overcome the handicap.

Sixty-seven such students have received diplomas or the equivalent, in St. Lucie County, as of January 31, 1959. Statewide, the figure is 32,679.

But these are not the only adults taking advantage of the educational opportunity.

Drop in at the higher mathematics class of Dr. Tully Patrowicz (he's an optometrist in the daytime), and you'll find a State Road department maintenance man next to an SRD engineer of construction "brushing up for an exam". There's a crane operator, a draftsman, a surveyer and a construction supervisor who are "brushing up".

A few doors away the lights are burning in the Spanish class of Mrs. Anita Molnar. There you'll find a sprinking of third grade teachers going to school to learn Spanish, which is to be added to the regular curriculum at that grade level.

You also find Errol Moss, clothier, who finds more and more Spanish speaking people coming into his store, and Mrs. Clyde Woolard, sales clerk in a department store, there for the same reason.

Mrs. Jose Ramirez is learning Spanish so she'll know what her husband is talking about. Mrs. Agnes Bethea wants to talk to Spanish-speaking real estate prospects in their native tongue.

The next port of call in The Herald survey was over on Fort Pierce Beach at the school system's auto mechanics shop. Instructor L. E. Bueddeman and a dozen students were probing the interiors of three cars.

A father and son who run a poultry farm are studying motors to keep their farm machines going. Retired Navy Chief Harvey Gillingham wants practical experience on engines.

R. Weise, retired, is traveling to Alaska when his course is over, prepared to meet automotive emergencies. Philip Nourse, attorney, is taking the course "So I can get the — motor on my car to work."

The great majority of the students in the courses described, and the business and general education courses, have a serious and practical purpose—either to complete an interrupted education or improve their jobs or further their business careers.

Bernard Paulmer, Director of the adult education program in St. Lucie County—himself a product of adult education, having graduated from the University of Miami at the age of 54 — describes these courses as "the greatest untapped source of technical and business manpower in our country today."

"If we are going to keep up with the Russians," says Paulmer, "we are going to have to educate more people on all age levels — young and old."

Other courses in the program which are more frankly in the recreation category — which have been called "frill" courses, will be the subject of the second part of this series.

Experiment Farm Cash Requested

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE—Five Indian River area leaders, representing four counties, will fly to Tallahassee early this morning to make a personal appeal to Governor LeRoy Collins to release $48,000 to build a much-needed laboratory for the State Agricultural Experiment Station here.

They are J. R. Graves of Vero Beach, chairman of the Florida Citrus Commission; State Senator Harry J. Kickliter, representing St. Lucie, Indian River and Martin Counties; County Agent Jimmy Oxford of Brevard County; Rudolph Mattson of Fort Pierce, chairman of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association, and Corny Van Der Lugt of Fort Pierce, president of the North St. Lucie County Drainage District.

St. Lucie County Agricultural Agent Charles D. Kime told The Herald that this is not just a local, one-county matter, but that it involves the entire tier of Indian River area counties from Brevard to Martin.

He said, "This money, this $48,000 for a new laboratory was allocated several years ago and we have been put off and put off. It's needed to help improve the breed, to enable the growers around here to produce better and better Indian River citrus fruit which for years has commanded premium prices and which is the biggest business in this part of the state.

"Incidentally this agricultural experiment station near Fort Pierce has always been a going business as well as a scientific laboratory. During the last six or seven years, through the sale of fruit in its grove, it's put $114,000 into the state's general fund. That's just another reason we feel it's entitled to more financial recognition from the state."

Ralph Galvin Dies in Vero

VERO BEACH — Ralph M. Galvin, 69, died Monday at a hospital here. Mr. Galvin moved to Vero Beach 22 years ago from New Brighton, Pa.

He was owner and manager of a guest house, a charter member of the First Presbyterian Church of Vero Beach, World War I veteran, a life member of the Masonic Lodge at New Brighton, and a member of Rotary, VFW and of the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife Wilma. Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Floyd Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Dr. Harold S. Faust officiating. Burial will follow at Crestlawn Cemetery.

Here's Background On Pay Requests

By ZOLA SWARTHOUT
Herald Correspondent

STUART—Martin County officials recently announced that they would seek to have their salaries raised through the state legislature.

Here is a report on the background of the requested pay boosts.

The Martin county commission at a special legislative session with State Rep. William R. Scott on Feb. 13 discussed a pay raise.

The subject was brought up by Commissioner Charles Leighton.

The salary now is set at $125 a month, plus $25 traveling expense, plus $10 a month for attending St. Lucie Inlet Port Authority meetings.

Leighton proposed that this be upped to $250 a month salary, plus $25 expense, in addition to the $10 a month for the Port Authority meeting, making a total of $285 salary plus expenses.

At that meeting Commission Chairman Marvin H. Rowell, and Commissioner E. J. Arnold of Hobe Sound, were not in favor of the raise. Both stated that they knew what the salary was before they took office and were not in favor of the raise.

The commission, by majority vote decided to leave the exact amount of pay raise up to Mr. Scott.

Scott told The Herald Monday that he would introduce a local bill increasing the county commissioners salaries to $200, or a $75 a month raise.

Thus the commissioners proposed "take" would be $200 a month salary, plus $25 a month expenses, plus $10 a month for the Port Authority, making a total of monthly salary, plus expenses of $235.

The Martin county fee officers met with Mr. Scott last week and requested that the annual limitation of $7,500 be raised to $9,000.

Rep. Scott said that the $7,500 limitation was enacted in 1927 by the State Legislature, and that a bill to increase the limitation would be a population act, or a general act.

At the moment Scott is considering to introduce a general act setting a raise for fee officials from $8,000 to $8,500.

County Prosecutor T. T. Oughterson, and County Judge Evans Crary were two of the six county fee officers who did not request a salary raise.

Judge Crary, however, at the fee officers legislative meeting with Rep. Scott, urged Scott to lift the salary limitation for other fee officers from $7,500 to $9,000.

Veteran Tax Collector L. C. Kickliter, who has held his office for the past 30 years, said, "The raise is not only for me, but for someone who will replace me."

Mr. Kickliter said that during the past 30 years, although the salary limitation was $7,500, that during his tenure of office he averaged only half that amount in salary.

The tax collector's pay did not reach the limitation until the last seven or eight years. In 1933, for example, the annual salary amounted to $915.

"I'm very much in favor of an increase in salary," said Kickliter, "good men must be paid accordingly."

A. C. Courson, Martin county tax collector told The Herald, "Our work has increased a great deal, in fact it is doubling, therefore the salary top should be lifted accordingly."

He added that not only was the work increasing, but that there was a great deal more responsibility.

Mrs. Dorothy Pierce, clerk of the Circuit Court, said, "I didn't ask for a salary raise, but I went along with the other fee officials."

She added that if a raise was contemplated that she wanted a referendum on the bill, but that she didn't expect that the schedule would be changed to $9,000.

Mrs. Pierce said that Rep. Scott informed her that a referendum could not be placed on the proposed salary raise, that it would be introduced as a general population act.

Sheriff Roy C. Baker, with Mrs. Pierce, also did not request a salary raise, but went along with other county officials in asking Rep. Scott to lift the present $7,500 limitation.

"Our work has tripled and more and more time is devoted to law enforcement," said Baker. "I feel that if the general public thinks we should have a pay raise, I will be satisfied with their decision," he added.

Ex-Mayor Of Stuart Dies at 60

Herald Service

HOMESTEAD—Otto Joseph Matousek, former mayor and councilman of Stuart, died Sunday night at the James Archer Smith Hospital here. He was 60.

A retired mortgage investment broker, Mr. Matousek moved to Key Largo about 18 months ago after living in Stuart for 16 years. He was a native of Chicago and a charter member of the American Federation of Musicians there.

He was also a member of the Elks and a Scottish Rite Mason.

Survivors include his wife, Helen; a son, Ralph, Homestead city attorney, and a daughter, June Matousek of Homestead; three grandchildren and two sisters.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Branam Funeral Chapel, with interment in Woodlawn Park Cemetery, Miami.

CD Course Winds Into Fifth Week

Herald Service

STUART — The fifth week course on emergency hospital training, conducted under the Civil Defense for emergency planning, will be held tonight at 7:30 to 9:30 at the Martin County High School gym.

Dr. John M. Gunsolus, who is general director of the 13-week course, said the subject of tonight's course will be emergency care and individual training in survival training.

The use of bandages and splints will be taught and demonstrated.

Last Tuesday's lesson was given by Dr. J. F. Henry, who spoke on fractures, lacerations, splints and bandages.

About 75 are enrolled in the course.

City Council Votes To Distribute Gas

Ft. Pierce Action Is Unanimous

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — The Fort Pierce city commission Monday night voted unanimously to put the city into the natural gas distributing business — when it becomes available on the Texas pipeline.

For several months a controversy has raged over whether gas distribution should be a municipal utility or whether it should be handled by private business.

All five city commissioners recently completed investigative trips to cities in Florida and other states that have municipal gas systems.

Mayor James L. Howe said Monday "In every city we visited, and we looked at all we were asked to, natural gas as a city-operated venture gas was successful.

"We also learned that this will not put the bottled gas dealers out of business. In Tallahassee, for instance, not only their city gas but the private dealers' business is also increasing.

"Most of the evidence clearly indicates it is to the best interests of the people of Fort Pierce that this city go into the gas business as a public utility."

In Florida, the city fathers visited Tallahassee, Quincy, Pensacola and Milton.

They also went to Thomasville, Ga., Fairhope, Ala., Shelby, N.C., and Greenwood, and other cities in South Carolina.

Pros, Cons On Fluoride To Be Heard

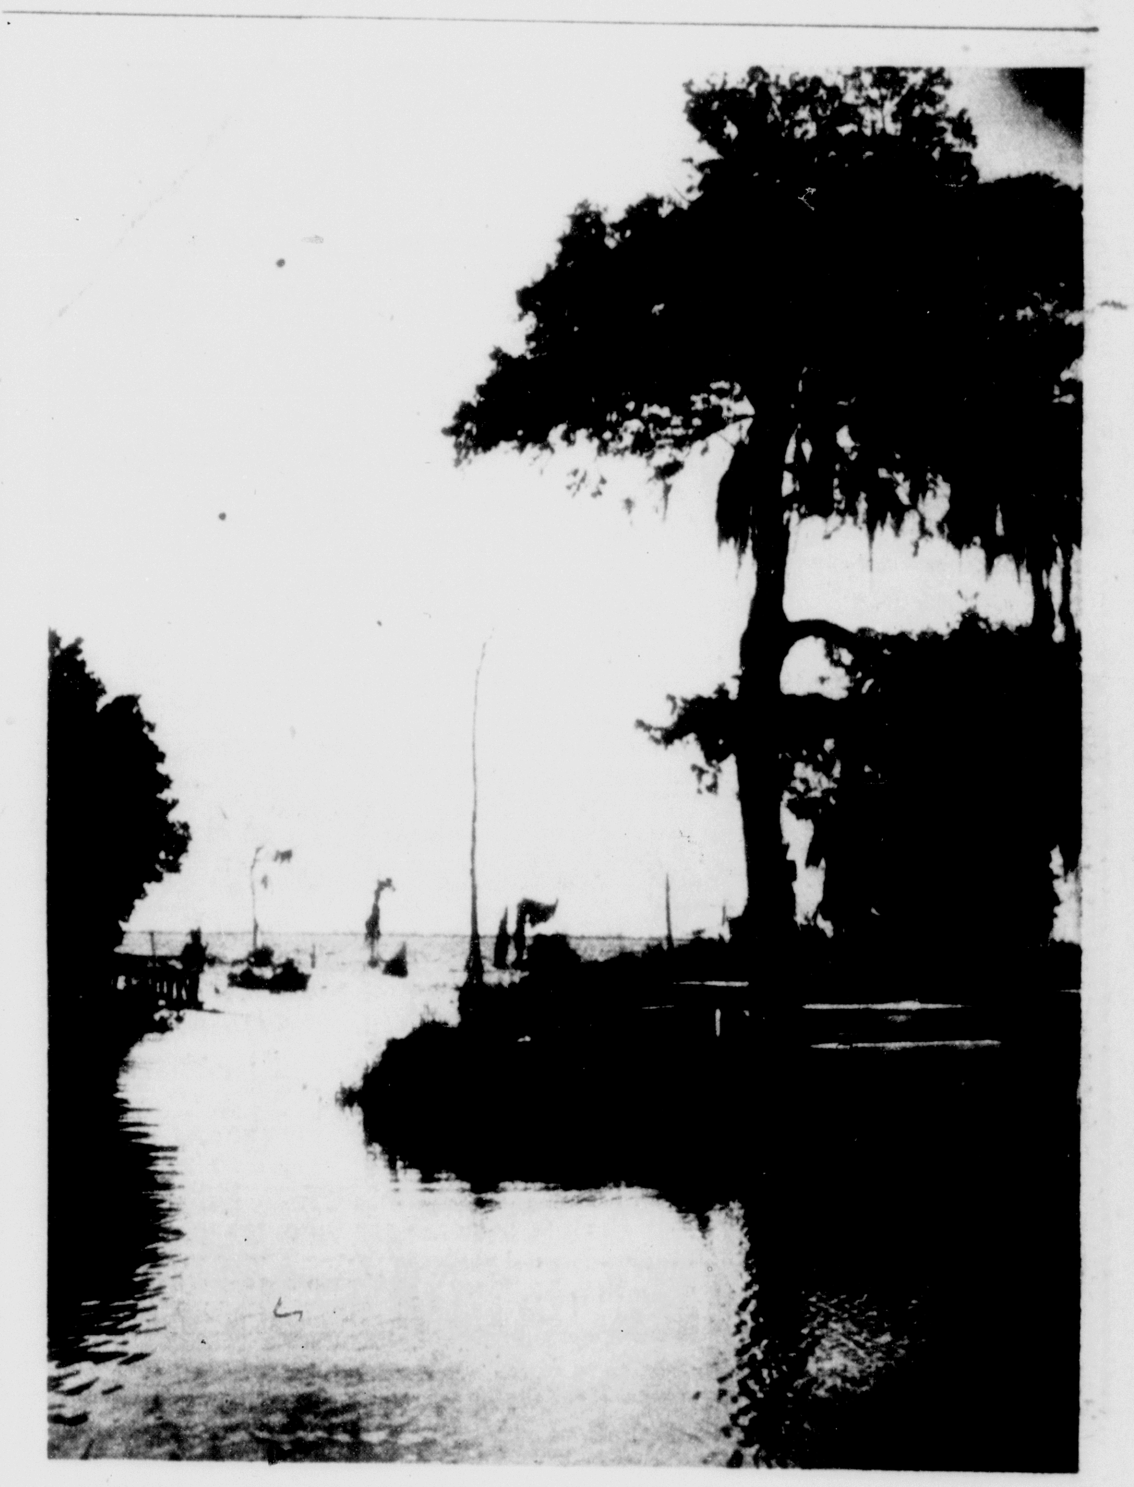
Herald Bureau

FORT PIERCE — The Fort Pierce City Commission will hold a special meeting Wednesday, to allow proponents and opponents of fluoridation of city water supply to be heard. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall.

The meeting was requested by the Fort Pierce Junior Chamber of Commerce, which has selected controlled flouridation of the water supply as a project. A special meeting was recommended, since regular meeting agendas are crowded.

Mayor James Howe said both sides of the fluoridation matter will be discussed at the meeting. Sam Lawder, president of the Fort Pierce Committee for Facts on Fluoridation, which opposes the project said his organization will be represented.

Both groups have been conducting active campaigns.



Scenic Lake

When and if a gate across the old Military Trail is removed the area around scenic Blue Cypress Lake is expected to be opened for development almost immediately. The gate, maintained by Mrs. Rosa Surrency has been ordered removed but Mrs. Surrency has appealed the court action. The lake is located about 20 miles west of Vero Beach.

Woman Finds Note in Bottle During Outing on Beach

By GENE BURNETT
Herald Correspondent

TITUSVILLE — Storybooks often tell the mariner's romantic yarn of the note in bottle washed ashore but a Titusville woman has become one of the few to find such a bottle.

Mrs. Sonny Clifton, 17 Williams Ave., stumbled over the bottle-with note-at Titusville beach last Sunday while on a family outing.

With the aid of her husband, they removed the metal cap from what was no doubt a whisky bottle and drew out the paper dated only two Sundays before—March 15.

Was it a distress note? A ship wrecked sailor's frantic message?

No. All the note had to say was: "Please write."

It was apparently thrown out by the chief mate of the S.S. Catham who gave his address as: Bernuth Co., 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y.

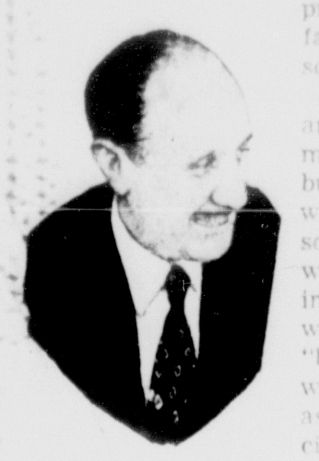
On the reverse side of the paper, a complete breakfast-dinner menu was scrawled out.

Judging from the gradual illegibility of the writing as it neared the bottom of the page, Mrs. Clifton concluded that the chief probably emptied the bottle before tossing it overboard.

As for the fancy, amber colored bottle, she said "we're saving it for a flower vase." And on the note itself, she added; "we intend to write him, just out of curiosity."

Nightlife with George Bourke

Lewis Displays Rare Knack--Skims Blue Area Without Offense



WITH THE EXCEPTIONS of Holiday on Ice at the Exhibition Hall, Donald O'Connor at the Fontainebleau, and Jean Carroll at the Diplomat there isn't much evidence on the "live" Class AA after-dark scene this week that would indicate that our impresarios anticipated a heavy family trade in this Easter Week-school recess season.

Jack Carter, Buddy Hackett and Joe E. Lewis are all fine funmakers on the supper club circuit but each of them purveys comedy which demands a high degree of sophistication or a familiarity with what used to be called smoking car humor back in the days when off-color (we call them "blue" in the cafe trade) stories were restricted to magazines such as Whizbang or to the closed precincts of the stag party.

But, judging from the reception given Joe E. at the Eden Roc Cafe Pompeii where he is coupled with Eartha Kitt, and Jack Carter at the Americana where he shares billing with Dorothy Sarnoff, the type of joke which might get a frigid look or a stony silence if told by a husband at home in the presence of his children is now acceptable as "family" fun with the same young audience in the togetherness of a tightly packed night club.

We detail all this not in a criticism of the night club show format nor in implication that the expensively decored spots are cesspools of evil but merely to deliver a well-intentioned caution that the Buddy Hackett at the Deauville is not the Hackett of the TV "Stanley" series, nor is Carter the Carter of past television experiments or of the Broadway theater.

Amusements

Confidentially, They're Saying

THAT Errol Flynn has "sold" himself to a corporation which he has organized in the Virgin Islands. It collects on his contracts and pays him a salary. In the judgement of lawyers it's a judgement-proof arrangement . . . THAT the widow of Ernie Hill, Miami Herald-Chicago News London-Moscow correspondent, is writing his biography. Mrs. Hill is living in California . . . THAT April 6 will be Moving Out Day for some folks, moving back for others, at the Sea Isle Hotel . . . THAT actress Rosalind Russell and film scripter "C. A. McKnight" are the same person . . . THAT Alaska Juneau Mining Co. has acquired an option on gold mining claims—in Mexico!

* * *

Carter Talent Tops Blue Routine

THERE IS NO caution needed for Joe E. Lewis — on two counts. Joe has made very infrequent excursions into media other than cafes in recent years and those who know the name know it not from the other-side-of-the-coin areas of television or the legit stage but from its significance as the easily definable label of the likeable pixie who is a font of ultra-sophisticated parody and a genial gentleman who is undeniably blue but who doesn't have to beat his material black and blue.

Errol Flynn . . . sold?

Rosalind Russell . . . writes?

Eartha Kitt . . . torrid

What we mean is that Carter, for instance, comes on stage at the Americana Bal Masque Room and for the first 15 minutes of his act recites a brilliant new routine which leads off with a "76 Trombones" parody, sparkling with such newies as a reference to the Belle Moskowitz Room and the acknowledgment of an unusual number of kiddies in the audience by advising them "I'll lay 'em (meaning an egg) and you color them."
The appreciative applause on these was near deafening.

Then the hard-sell Carter of old comes out. He harangues and then burlesques in belittling manner the Harry Belafontes, the Jose Grecos, whom he exposes as a name-changer, and the Lauritz Melchiors and he reports that an act which had previously played this same Americana stage used "smelly and moldy" costumes.

But he impeaches his own right to such a complaint against uncleanliness by immediately diving into a couple of pretty "sick" routines about a gynecologist and a psychiatrist and at least one scatological reference.

And do you know what happened then? The applause was near deafening! So who can blame him? Why should he knock himself out with the fine talent for mimicry and for dancing which he possesses when a reach into the "blue" yonder can come up with a handful of laugh-rewarding shockers.

* * *

Joe E. Uses Skill, Not Kill

BUT, GETTING BACK to Joe E. Lewis, at Eden Roc with his accompanist Austin Mack (which immediately gives added class and pseudo-concert status to the proceedings), Joe's voice has the endearing qualities of a family heirloom piece of sandpaper. But the manner to match has no rancor in it and is friendly not frantic as it, too, relates or sings of situations which are concerned with the devious ways of a man with a maid, also-ran maidens (equine), and sour mash and its spirit cousins.

He has a lot of new parodies, the one on "Suzie Wong" taking all the variant tangents you'd expect of it, and the inevitable one on "79 Hormones" covering every angle of ribaldry in the book.

But not once does Lewis grimace evilly or—as we said before—see the necessity for pounding his blue material until it is both black and blue. It may seem a unique simile in view of some of the things Joe E. Lewis, a man who drinks for himself, says—but HIS saving quality is that he's as cute as a little red label. He uses "skill" instead of "kill."
